MORE HYDRO QUESTIONS

Question—How is it possible to make a profit of $14,000 or $15,000 per year in Napanee with a population of about 3,000 or nearly $5.00 on each man, woman and child?

Answer—It is quite plain. The income from the sale of electricity in the town of Napanee is $50,000. The cost of power supplied by the Hydro Commission is about $28,000. The surplus is $27,000. The expenses of distribution, etc., amounts to about $13,000, leaving a profit of, in round numbers, $14,000. It is a profit of less than 1½c per day on each member of the population.

Question—Is it likely under municipal control we shall have as great a profit as under the present system?

Answer—This depends to some extent on the men we elect on the Public Utilities Commission. If we elect good men we should have better results since there will be supervision by Commissioners on the spot instead of supervision from Toronto. The profits from other municipally owned systems have been as great as under government supervision.

Question—Who are eligible to vote on the Hydro Electric By-law?

Answer—All whose names appear as "owner," in the 1929 Voters' List for the Town of Napanee have a vote in each ward in which they are assessed as "owner."

Question—What support does the canvas show that the By-law appears to be getting from the ratepayers?

Answer—The canvass of the ratepayers, now being made, indicates that the By-law will be carried by a large majority.

ODESSA

Our local post master Mr. Pooke worked very late last Saturday night, distributing two day's mail. It has been many years since the roads were so blocked with snow that the daily mails were held over for two days. NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

A thorough cleaning of walls, ceilings and windows makes a big improvement in the appearance of the stable. The cobweb-covered walls and windows are unsightly, to say the least.

The organization of the Fourth World's Poultry Congress by the British Government is well in hand and world-wide interest indicates that it will be better supported than ever. Over forty governments have already decided to participate and 24 of these have set up national committees for organizing their representation.

It is surprising how soon vermin appear on some live stock after it is established for the winter. These pests breed fast and cause much annoyance to the animals. One suggested remedy is to dust sabadilla powder into the hair. Another is to dust one part hellebore to six parts cement. Applications should be made at ten-day intervals if vermin has made its appearance.

The Laying House in Winter

Pullets, to give maximum results, must not only be well bred and well fed, but must also be well housed. The laying house should be dry, comfortable, thoroughly ventilated and bright and cheery. Leaking roofs should be avoided and the floor should be sufficiently elevated above the ground so as to allow good drainage. By all means use dropping boards under the roosts and clean them off regularly. When the pullets are brought in from range in the fall, they should be given all the fresh clean air possible

Barley on the Increase

According to the department's final report on crop estimates, there was a net decrease in the area devoted to small grains in Ontario of over 360,000 acres this year. The greater part of this slump was due to a decline of 300,000 acres in the area seeded to oats. Barley showed an exceptional increase of over 6,000 acres. A backward season favored the growing of barley over spring wheat and oats, but it would also seem that the high value of barley as a feed grain is beginning to assert itself. In addition barley appeals to many as a solution of their rotation problems because it provides in one season, as no other grain crop does, an opportunity to clean up the land, to grow a paying crop and to seed down to the best advantage with a hay crop the following year. There is always an industrial demand for all Ontario barley of good quality, that is surplus to the farm requirement. The quality for manufacturing purposes, however, can only be produced by the sowing of clean seed on land that is in good heart.

O. A. C. Short Course

Short courses in agriculture, horticulture, live stock, farm meats, dairy matters, draining, poultry, raising and beekeeping open at the Guelph Agricultural College on Jan. 1st and continue until April, 1930. In almost all of the courses there is no fees or book costs, except that the student pays railway fare and his own board and lodgings. There must be one or more departments in his chosen field of industry, in which every young farmer would like to be proficient; and in what better way can he attain that than by attending one of the courses named.

Gives Three Scholarships

Thomas E. Wilson, a London Old Boy, and now a leader in the packing industry in Chicago, has given three annual scholarships, available at O.A.C., to students of the three London Collegiate Institutes. The scholarships are worth $200 each. A preference is expressed for farm boys and particularly those whose parents are stock breeders. His generous gift comes as a direct result of a recent speech in Chicago by Dr. G. I. Christie, president of the O.A.C., which he regretted that more of the brighter students in the high schools, and especially boys from the farms, whose fathers were stock breeds, did not go to agricultural colleges and pursue their profession in a scientific manner.

Buck Lamb Not in Favor

As a live stock product, there is nothing to be said in favor of the buck lamb. The marketing of uncastrated male lambs during the late summer, fall and winter was for many years a blot on our sheep industry and a serious hindrance to the development of the consumption of lamb. The practice has been largely wiped out in Ontario by the action of lamb packers in discounting the price of all bucks coming to market during the fall and winter. Farmers have now generally adopted the practice of castrating male lambs intended for market.

A Fine Investment

There are in Ontario, according to R. W. Wade, director of the live stock branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, over 180,000 farms maintaining live stock of approximately 340 million dollars. This investment is roughly proportioned as follows: Horses, $82,000,000; cattle, $120,000,000; sheep, $7,000,000; swine, $14,000,000; poultry, $18,000,000.

Dairy cattle return yearly to Ontario farmers in the proceeds of the sale of their products, approximately $100,000,000. Stock yard sales of cattle show an annual revenue of $27,000,000 while the annual sales of cattle show an annual sales of veal cattle approximate $3,000,000.

New Orchard Pest

This year another insect of the old world, the apple and thorn skeletonizer, has been added to the already formidable list of orchard pests in Western Ontario. Prof L. Caesar, provincial entomologist, has found the new insect to be fairly common between Oshawa and Niagara. It has been discovered in the O.A.C. orchard. The caterpillars of the species are about half an inch long and of a pale greenish color with black spots on the back. Working under a slight web they gnaw away the green tissue on the upper surface of the leaf. The moths are purplish brown in color with a wing spread of about half an inch. The skeletonizer was found in the lower Hudson Valley in 1917 and has spread in several states of the U.S.A. Although very little is known as yet concerning the proper methods of extermination it is known that this pest has not been found in orchards which have received the calyx spray alone.

"No, my boy; that's a town in Holland."

"Then is it wrong to say Rotterdam?"

"No; that is another town in Holland."

"Well," said Willie, "I hope those lollies will Rotterdam teeth."

"Glad to see you getting in on time these mornings, Mr. Stowe," said the manager.

"Yes, sir. I've got a parrot now."

"A parrott! What for? I advised you to get an alarm clock."

"I did, sir, but, after a few mornings, I got used to it, and it failed to wake me. So I got a parrot, and now when I retire, I hang the alarm clock over his cage. It wakes the parrot, and what the bird says would arouse anybody."

POLICE LOSE NOTED GUARD OF ROYALTY

LONDON, ENG.—With the retirement of Superintendent James McBrien after 40 years' service, the London police force will lose a romantic figure, has taken part in many adventures and traveled much extensively with royalty than any other officer.

This tall, virile Irishman would be taken for anything but the conventional detective. His appearance more resembles that of a prosperous business man or a leisured man about town. His dress is always suitable for the occasion, whether shooting on the moors or attending the King at an important social affair.

Studied Anarchists.

For only two years after he joined the force, as an ordinary constable, in 1889, was Superintendent McBrien on patrol and the other usual duties of a uniformed policeman. His gifts soon marked him out for work where fuller use could be made of his ability. He was transferred to the Criminal Investigation Department and shortly afterwards was sent abroad to learn the way of anarchists and other persons of international disrepute.

Early in his career Superintendent McBrien was detailed to accompany the late King Edward on his visits to Marienbad and Biarritz, and for 16 years he was attached to the suite of Queen Alexandra whenever she travelled abroad.

But he was never obtrusive. If the King was shooting over the moors, there was nothing to indicate that the quiet person standing close by was a detective. On a railroad platform he was the least conspicuous onlooker of all; with his right hand thrust negligently into his pocket, and in his left an umbrella, and an air of mild, polite interest on his face.

Revolver Always Ready.

But, the right hand held a revolver, always ready for use, while the apparently careless glances took in everything with the keeness of a hawk, on the chance that some alien might be present prepared to make trouble. Fortunately, nothing of the kind ever happened.

The Prince of Wales, when young and high-spirited, often tried to give him the slip, but McBrien was not to be slipped. On one occasion, in Glasgow, the Prince stole out the back door of the hotel and went to the cinema to watch a bodyguard followed His Royal Highness like a shadow and enjoyed the film only a few seats away from the Prince.

There is only one case on record of Superintendent being beaten, and that was not his fault. The car in which he was following the King southward from a big munition factory at Gretna, broke down. But at Carlisle, in another automobile, he was once more riding behind the King.

Decorated 14 times.

Superintendent McBrien has 14 decorations presented by various nations and at his suburban home has many presents from royalty.

After the Great War, when the Sinn Fein trouble was at its worst, threats that he would be killed came by every mail. Every day McBrien went to the same resturant near Scotland Yard, btu he always faced the door and kept his revolver under his napkin, ready for use.

"Will they get you ?" he was asked. "They will be lucky if they do," he replied.

BRIDES FAVOUR TWENTY-THREE

Twenty-three is the most popular marrying age among women, according to the Register-General's review for the year 1928. In 303,288 marriages in England and Wales, 30,064 brides were of that age.

Fifty-seven girls married at the age of 15; 440 at 19, and 2,499 at 17.

A feature of the year was the large number of men who married women much older than themselves. Twenty one women of 30 married youths of 20. There were cases of 30 marrying 17, 38 wedding 19, and 41 wedding 20, and 47 women between 40 and 51 married men of 22. Other cases were 60 to 34, 57 to 24; and women of 70 and over took husbands 35, 37, 40, 44, 48, 50.

Preference for the third quarter of the year is again shown by bride and bridegroom. This has been the rule during the present century; it used to be the fourth quarter. Last year the number of weddings in the September quarter was more than double that in the march quarter.

Commenting on this report, the Daily News says:—The old convention which insisted on the disparity being on the other side is passing away; as well it might. It is one of the inevitable effects of the new fashions and healthier lives of women that is becoming difficult to differentiate between women and their grown-up daughters. They look as youthful. They can take an almost equally energetic part in dancing and games. The main difference is in their maturity, their sympathy and their poise.

NO HELP OR LEADERSHIP

More than a month ago, when the first signs of a slackening of industry appeared, President Hoover set out to mobilize the employers of labor in the United States. Ordinarily, capital, like the individual, spends more freely when business is best and retrenches as revenues contract. Mr. Hoover undertook to reverse the order, to curb expansion in good times and to proceed with every possible development work as business ebbed, in order to take up the "slack" in employment.

That his efforts proved more than moderately successful is attested by the fact that Federal, state and municipal governments, public utilities and industries, large and small, advanced their development programs to an extent which will mean the expenditure in 1930 of over $6,000,000,000 that would otherwise have delayed.

The conditions which prompted Mr. Hoover's action in the United States, according to such authorities as the president of the Bank of Montreal and the economist of the Royal Bank of Canada, also existed in Canada. It did not require a great economist to realize that fact. It was common knowledge that Canadians saw hundreds of millions in profits wiped out in the stock market panics. Not only were profits lost, savings were sacrificed. A single insurance company in Canada made 1270 loans on policies during three days of the panic. Toronto reported $50,000,000 withdrawn from savings accounts in November. A half crop of wheat on the prairies had reduced half the farmers of that area to a precarious state for the time being. Farm exports to the United States were further depressed by increases in the U. S. tariffs made by President's warrant last May. Canadian manufacturing industries were handicapped by the flooding of the Canadian market with $550,000,000 worth of manufactured goods from the United States.

Premier King, early in December, was asked what leadership he proposed to give the country what help his Government could offer in the circumstances. His answer was the cheerful but fountationless assurance that prosperity was rampant throughout Canada, United States difficulties found no home here. The other day his Minister of Labor attempted to buttress his position with a flood of blue book calculations on employment.

Simultaneously provincial municipalities, boards of trade and labor authorities from coast to coast are holding emergency meetings to devise means of dealing with the fruit's of Mr. King's prosperity.

The situation confronting us now is never met with before the first weeks of February and even then we have never been confronted as we are today, said Superintendent Joad of the Hostel for indigent men at Ottawa in the Ottawa Citizen of November 13th.

A. R. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor on December 16th said: "Report declare that the employment situation in the West is the worst in six or seven years. If such a situation is not sufficient reason for action I should like to know how serious conditions must become before something is done."

Canada Press of December 17th, said: "To-day employment officials at Winnipeg reported men listed as out of work at almost double the number at this time last year. Provincial authorities at Regina announced the Saskatchewan Government would defray two-thirds the cost of relief work. Manitoba last week agreed to pay one-quarter.

The news from Vancouver and from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is the same. In Montreal, with regular hostels doing record business in feeding the hungry, a private "soup" kitchen opened the day. Mr. Heenan deplored the suggestion of Government action. On that day it fed 1192 workless and penniless men in three hours.

From many centres comes word that war veterans, many handicapped by war disabilities are in want.

Prosperity is rampant, is Mr. King's answer to overrun soup kitchens, to hungry veterans and to harassed public bodies from coast to coast.

Many are Color Blind.

The value of light signals to regulate road traffic was discussed at the transport commission's meeting when the vice-president of the Royal Automotive Club, declared that the employment of red lights was almost useless, as 25 per cent. of men are practically color blind. The use of the red light in connection with motor cars should be abolished. It was an inheritance from the railway companies. It was preferable to signal by means of form or shape rather than by color. If the triangle was a danger sign there was no need for it to be red. The chairman, asked the speaker why he referred to rage motorists only. "Because," he replied, amid laughter, "no woman is color blind. Color blindness is a thing that women can transmit, but do not suffer from themselves."

Reconstructing a Liner.

Timber of many kinds in many countries has been used for reconstruction and redecoration during the seven weeks' overhaul of the White Star liner Majestic, which has crossed the Atlantic westbound 100 times. The varieties of wood included oak, mahogany, teak, beech, ash, satin wood, walnut, Oregon yellow and pitch pine, deal. Forty-four tons of paint was used on interior and exterior work, while 13,000 yards of electric wire was used in wiring electric bells and electric lights in cabins of touring third cabin accommodation.

Graves' Reproduced

A New York sculptor has just completed the first life-sized group representing the family life of cavemen. The cave displayed is a copy of the famous one at Lemoustier, Dordogne, France, visited by the expedition. It is a true Neanderthaler's family and the whole is a gift to the museum from Ernest R. Graham, Chicago architect. It is displayed in the Ernest R. Graham Hall of Historical Geology of the museum of natural history, with a spokelike ben; knees. The group is designed from measurements, casts and models of the Neanderthal and skeletons found in various European places. It comprises a man of fifty-five, a boy about twelve, a woman of thirty years with a baby, and an older woman.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and never he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

Stirring Stories of the Sea

by Morgan Robertson

FIFTY FATHOMS DOWN

Strange Tale of a Submarine That Sank

Copyright by Harper & Brothers.

THE United States submarine torpedo boat Diver had come to the surface to blow out, to recharge her storage battery, and to restore her supply of compressed air to its working pressure of 2,000 pounds to the square inch.

Breen, temporary commander, raised his boyish face up through the conning tower hatch, the hinged lid of which was held upright by a strong spring, and looked around at the night. The lid prevented a view astern. The engine exhaust drowned the lesser sounds of the sea.

A curious rushing sound mingled with the pulling of the exhaust, a voice high above and astern sang out, "Something under the bow, sir!" and a huge bulk of blacker darkness struck the small semisubmerged craft a glancing blow from astern, heeled it a little and bore it under. Breen was washed downward by the inrush of water, but held a grip on the conning tower ladder and found voice to call out:

"Stop the engine! Shut off the gas!"

Against that almost solid column of descending salt water he fought his way upward until, face above the hatch again, but leaning now on the blackness of the deep sea, he seized the hand hold of the hatch lid and pulled it down. It closed with a force that would have shivered anything but armor steel, and Breen, half drowned, fell to the floor of the landing room.

"Run down!" he gasped. "Anything carried away?"

"Seems not, lieutenant," answered the chief electrician—"nothing but the auxiliary motor. I've burned it out. Had my hand on the switch when the car came. But we're sinking, sir."

"We've taken in more than the reserve buoyancy surely," said Breen, looking at the depth indicator, which already marked forty feet. The hand moved as he looked to fifty, sixty—and more.

"Blow out every tank!" he ordered.

The ballasting trimming tanks were emptied, but the boat was still sinking.

"Start the motor and connect up the pumps!" said Breen.

Breen looked and became thoughtful of face. The depressed engine compartment now held the water taken in, and the lower half of the armature was immersed. A sunken submarine with main motor short circuited by water and auxiliary motor burned out, without means to pump, is more of a compress air for power is in a serious plight.

Breen Was Washed Downward by the Inrush of Water.

"My God!" exclaimed Breen, glancing at the indicator. It marked 100.

"Out with the torpedoes!" Breen said hoarsely and cheerfully. "Inspect the levers and unscrew the detonator."

Breen's last order carried a meaning to these men that was reflected back in their pale faces. "Any port in a storm," muttered one. "They're good life buoys on a pinch." They opened the torpedo tube, inserted the missile and closed the breech; then, opening the chief seat, they turned on the compressed air, and a cough, a thud and an inrush of water testified that the torpedo was out. Breen studied the depth indicator.

"One hundred and ten," he called, "and still sinking! Out with them all, quickly!"

At this moment there was a shock and a shudder through the steel hull, then a tumbling, scraping sound.

"Good!" exclaimed Breen. "We're reached the bottom, 120 feet down. Three hundred and fifty's the crushing point."

"But we're scraping along with the tide, sir," answered one of the men. "And we may go deeper."

"Then we'll find the torpedoes right above us," said Breen promptly. "Out with the other."

Out they went, one after the other, and after them the water in the tube. The boat lifted her bow to an angle of 25 degrees, but the scraping and bumping of the propeller guard on the bottom continued, and the depth indicator told them that they were now 130 feet below the surface and dragging downhill. Only Breen showed decision.

"Draw lots," he said, bringing forth a box of matches from his pocket, "as to who goes first." ▶

"You mean last, sir, don't you?" asked the engineer. "It makes no difference who goes first as the chance of swimming up over a hundred feet to find a torpedo at night, but some one must remain to fire out the last man."

"I remain," said Breen. "I am the commander. Who goes first, now?"

"I will," said one of the trimming tank men. "But, lieutenant," he added, "we can swim up in two minutes. I should think, and I've held my breath three. But how'll we know which way to swim? It's night up there. We can't see."

"If your head and stomach don't tell you let your knife hang loose by the lanyard. It'll hang down. Swim parallel. Hold on. Keep your shoes on." The man was shedding them. "Take all weights out that you can. Put your coats on, all of you. It's a cold night up above. You'll need your coats riding a torpedo."

"Ay, ay, sir. Goodby, boys, all round."

He threw open the breech of the tube and crawled in. A man stood with his hand on the compressed air valve; another stood by the bow port lever; Breen himself was at the breech.

"Take a good breath when you hear the breech closed," he called in and was answered. Then he slammed to the swinging breech door, latched it, and waved his hand to his men. They knew the drill. Water was admitted at once, the bow port was lifted, compressed air was turned on, there was the usual cough and thud and inrush of water, and a man under a pressure of four atmospheres was swimming somewhere through water black as night, guided only by his knife lanyard or the feel of his head and stomach.

Breen himself ejected the last man and stood up alone in a boat 140 feet beneath the surface of the sea, her bow lifted on an angle of 30 degrees from the horizontal, her nails motor drowned and her auxiliary motor burned. There was one chance in a million that he would be rescued. Two hours later when he looked at the depth indicator he saw a reading of 500. He was fifty fathoms below the surface.

Breen looked around, first at the air pressure indicators. All but two registered at zero. He had two tanks at 2,000 pounds pressure, and he could have blown out a few more torpedoes or men or tanks of water, but not that water washing about aft. He thought of the storage battery beneath the flooring—ninety large jars of sulphuric acid in danger from contact with that washing salt water, a bad combination, and inspected it. He found that the last jars aft lifted just a little above the water level and, knowing that they were designed for an inclination of 45 degrees, was reassured.

He looked at the burned out motor overhead in the handling room. It swirled the air compressor and one of the bilge pumps, the other being connected to the main motor, under water and equally useless. He had no more odious knowledge of electricity and motors, acquired at Annapolis, and this cold him that it would be hopeless, even for an expert mechanic, to attempt rewinding that small motor with the dried out wires of the other.

He studied the main motor, nearly buried in water. When dry it worked with seventy horsepower. It would pump one hundred tons a minute into the sea the water that kept the boat down. If clear of this water it would dry out in time. In what time? Breen had fifteen days' supply of food and water for a crew of eight, 120 days' supply for himself. His air might be less short, but suffocation is a long death.

The lower part of the armature and fully half the height of the field magnet were still immersed. He needed more weight forward or less aft, and as his eye roved about the mass of electric pipes, valves and machinery—it rested upon the useless gasoline engine, a 2,000 pound weight. Removing his coat, he first made sure that the gas feed valve was screwed tight, then, delving for wrenches, spanners and hammers in the engineer's locker, attacked the engine.

Two weeks later he dragged forward with bleeding hands the connecting rod of the after cylinder and piled up a scrap heap of similar fragments beside the torpedo tube in the bow.

The engine was stripped to the supporting column that bore the weight of the motor and the pump, and the boat was not yet on an even keel, but the last lower coil of the field magnet was lifted from the water by the shifting of the weight, and when he had cleared the storage battery wires from all contact with water he rewarded himself with a few deep inhalations from his nearly exhausted compressed air supply and sat down to wait until the insulation was dry.

He had kept the log and knew the flight of time by this and the clock, and in another week he realized with sinking heart that the motor was not drying out. A little reflection told him why. In the sealed up hull the atmosphere was saturated with moisture, and no more evaporation could take place. A drying agent for gases?

He Dragged Forward With Bleeding Hands the Connecting Rod.

What was it? Then it came to him out of the forgotten chemistry in his subconscious mind—"sulphuric acid."

He had ninety jars of it under his feet. He had lead and copper piping in his scrap heap forward. He had two electric fans used for ventilation on the surface and a blower fixed in the air pipe, but available on a pinch, all four wired and ready, with a 3,000 ampere hour battery to drive them.

In three hours he had constructed from the back of his coat a cone shaped funnel that stretched around the wire guard of a fan wheel, and this he fitted on to the end of a length of lead pipe, the other end of which was all but immersed in the acid of a battery jar in the hold. With the fan buzzing and blowing into this funnel and a stream of air ruffling the surface of the acid he yet went on contriving, and with another fan, unscrewed from its shelf and rewired to a new location, he caught this dried air as it rose and drove it aft over the motor.

The air was again very hot. His head was aching, and he needed no clear recollection of his high confidence to know that the dominant irritant was the carbonic acid gas from his lungs. This heat was not equipped with the apparatus for purifying air that he had read of in plans, and all the chemistry that would come to him was the old, familiar classroom test for carbonic acid gas or carbon dioxide. This searing reagent was lime-water, but the chemical term for it was beyond him.

Again as he slept fitfully, with fantasies of half waking thought, chemical terms, long forgotten and bearing no seeming relation to lime-water, ran jumblingly through his head—potassium chlorate, manganese dioxide, chloride of sodium, chlorhydric acid. These persisted through the jumble and remained when he wakened.

But what had they to do with lime-water? Nothing that he could remember. Chloride of sodium was common salt, he knew, and he had plenty of it, dissolved in water—more than he wanted. Chlohydric acid—hydrochloric acid—muriatic acid—an acid containing free oxygen, the one gas that he needed so badly, formed of hydrogen and chlorine—chloride, chlorine gas. Good so far. Chlorine—also a constituent of the salt in the bilge water. But what of it? It was oxygen that he wanted. Potassium chlorate—chlorate of potassium. This contained chlorine. Manganese dioxide contained oxygen. But what did it mean? Why should these elements and compounds come to his mind? He had something of blind faith in the sciency of thought, but he wanted to know only of limewater, with which he could catch the carbon dioxide in the air and free the oxygen. This last thought was an advance, but he could go no further in this direction. His mind returned to chlorhydric acid, or hydrogen, to chlorine.

How were they made? They were all there—in this sea water. His waking thought of sulphuric acid as a drying agent meant something. Sulphuric acid, one of the most powerful chemical reagents, the most powerful electrolyte — electro — electrolysis— "Heureka!"

He bounded to his feet. He had to decompose water yielded oxygen and hydrogen. But why had manganese dioxide and potassium chlorate so persisted in his mind? Limewater—what had that to do with his problem, now solved by electrolysis?

Slowly the memory of school day lessons learned by rote filtered up from the past—of the test tube manufactured of oxygen by the union of these two gases in the presence of heat. And limewater, with its affinity for carbon dioxide? There was no lime on board, hence no limewater. But there was water—too much. Where was the affinity? It was slower in doing, but it removed the old lesson learned by rote and forgotten. "Carbon dioxide is soluble in water, volume for volume." Oxygen is also slightly soluble in water—about three parts in a hundred."

"I see how it is," he said, with the infantile smile that had come to his boy's face in this trouble. "It's the subliminal self that remembers everything, and when you've guessed all around the subject it pops out and hits you when you've touched it."

He found some spare insulated wire among the stores and rigged two lengths from the poles of the battery, scraping the ends and immersing them in the salt water. A few bubbles arose, then ceased.

"Funny how things come back when you need them," he said as he pulled up the wires. "I want platinum electrodes and solder and soldering fluid—chloride of zinc—zinc cut by hydrochloric acid. Wonder if I'll have to make my acid?"

He did not. He found a soldering outfit in the locker, then rummaged his scrap heap forward for platinum sparkers and, finding very little of the precious metal, ruthlessly smashed all but three of the electric bulbs that lighted his prison, robbing them of the platinum wires that led the current into the carbons.

Chuckling, for he was but a theoretical mechanic, he soldered the ends of the platinum wires and fragments to the copper ends of his terminals, about half to each, making brushlike electrodes of the largest possible surface exposure. Then he immersed them and was gratified at the result. Bubbles arose in generous quantity.

"Now which is which?" he said as he leaned over them. "Let's think. Water—hydrogen and oxygen—H_2O—two parts of hydrogen to one of oxygen. But the bubbles seem about the same size."

He stopped and inhaled deeply of the air over one column of bursting bubbles. A little of this brought on a curious feeling of faintness, with a desire to draw a longer breath.

"Hydrogen surely," he said. "Now the other."

A brief inhalation over the other bubbles sent him back, coughing and choking, with a bitter, astringent taste in his throat.

"No," he said as he pulled up the wire; "that is not oxygen. It's some other gas. I must separate them somehow."

He racked his brains. He knew that he was using up the existing oxygen in his compartment, and he was about to form carbon dioxide, 10 per cent of which in the air might be fatal; that the hydrogen which he would make, with his oxygen, was nonpoisonous, like the nitrogen of the air, but that, there being less of it as a diluent, he might suffer from a preponderance of oxygen, and that this astringent gas that would also evolve from the salt water was a deadly poison to be got rid of. But how? Was it carbon dioxide?

He did not need to sleep on the problem. He had already slept upon and solved it. It came to him suddenly in the formulated sentences of the morning. Water would absorb carbon dioxide, volume for volume, while oxygen would only give up three parts to a hundred.

"What a fool I am!" he muttered. "I can simply blow the whole mixture back into the water again and again and get rid of everything but the oxygen and hydrogen."

He Knew That He Was Using Up the Existing Oxygen.

Breen now constructed a supplementary pneumatic feed system that was a triumph of driven genius to a mum dying of headache at the bottom of the sea.

First he reversed the polarity of the fixed blower in the air pipe overhead, so that it worked downward; then he propped up and secured a section of gas feed piping that revolved in a perforated bulkhead as they turned and deliver the mixture to this blower.

Below this fan he provided a fairly air tight funnel formed of the seat and one leg of his trousers and to the funnel secured another length of copper piping, the lower end of which he hammered flat, so that it would spread the flow of gases to a fan shaped stream, conducive to a large number of smaller bubbles.

This end he immersed in the deepest part of the flooded engine room, secured his shirt to form a hood over the bubbles and under this hood arranged his original feed and fan that drove air through the lead pipe to the subpuric acid.

He had contrived an apparatus to manufacture two volumes of hydrogen to one volume of oxygen, with an unpoisonous gas of poisonous effect, that would suck into itself the foul air of the closed hull and drive it, with the new gases, in a divided stream into the purifying water, and that would force the oxygen which arose on to the drying sulphuric acid, to be then sent back over the pump motor. Arranging his battery wires to the starter he turned on all the fans and tested the result by his sense of smell.

There was but the slightest bad odor in the room from the last fan. Breen went to sleep happy. When he awakened his fans still buzzed merrily, his headache was gone and the motor was much dryer. Yet as he felt of the dump motor and noticed the hydrogen bubbles rising and escaping into the air without going through the drying process he obeyed a strong impulse to turn them into the pipe that caught the others.

"Can't do any harm to dry the hydrogen," he mused, "and it would mix with the oxygen later, in any case, while the water won't absorb it, only the carbon dioxide." A few moments later he noticed an utter absence of the bad odor in the blast from the acid to the motor.

He knew that the seventy horsepower motor when thoroughly dry could pump out the water and bring her to the surface. He waited a full week longer, and then, uncoupling the motor from the shaft and turning on switch, he carefully moved the controller and gave it momentary contact. A thin cloud arose from the motor, and the armature moved an inch. He inspected the cloud. It seemed to be steam, not smoke, and he tried it again with longer contact. The armature moved farther, and again he shut off the current, assured himself that there was no burning and continued it on.

This time he left it on and stood watching the steaming armature slowly turn, while the commutator brushes threw out sparklings six inches long. These sparks indicated a waste of current, and he noticed that when his body interposed between the motor and the blast of dried air from the last fan in his system the sparks were reduced to minute points, hardly visible.

He busied himself in constructing a hood that would inclose the commutator and brushes, using his under-shirt for material. His hood was a success. It stopped the extravagant sparking, but did not save enough current to work the pump. The armature moved faster, but stopped short against the small resistance of the inert water in the induction pipe. Nothing to do but wait now and sleep.

Years later, as it seemed, he awakened in pitch black darkness, with an irritating, pungent odor in his nostrils, a sensation in his head as of wool and a racking pain in his head. His last light had burned out. His air pump had stopped. He had

DORLAND

The Christmas festivities passed off very pleasantly despite the prolonged rough weather.—The concert given by the pupils of S. S. No. 3, and Miss G. Roblin on Thursday evening was most successful. The Sunday School entertainment which had to be postponed from Friday to Saturday evening was also well attended.—Rev. Mr. Plant was also well attended.—Rev. Mr. Plant was unable to be present for the service on Sunday. However the roads were opened in time for the many family Christmas parties and the mails have resumed regular trips.—Messrs. G. A. Magee and J.J. Bird gathered cream for the Desmanto Creamery this week as the trucks could not get through.—The soft weather has settled the snow and has made a good deal of slush on the ice which is not considered to be very safe as yet.

A Large Field to Draw From.

LONDON-BY-THE-SEA

Gigantic Tanks They Tackle In the Biggest Port In the World.

On March 31st, 1909, the Port of London Authority was set up. To-day it is congratulating itself on having restored London to it old-time unchallengeable position as the biggest port in the world.

There was a time when the Pool of London suffered for the accommodation of all the ships that came up the Thames, says an article in Tit-Bits. Old writers speak in wonder of the "forest of masts" seen from London Bridge. Now, though the ships are twenty to one, as well as being twenty times as big, Londoners see little of them, for they are berthed in her magnificent range of docks.

Until the middle of the last century there was not a dock on Thames-side. Now the total area of the Port of London Authority's estate, consisting entirely of docks and their quays and entrances, is 3,668 acres, 1,000 acres more than in 1909.

The combined water area of King George V. Dock, opened by the King in 1921, the Royal Albert Dock, and the Royal Victoria Dock—the last named one of the first docks to be constructed on the river—forming virtually one huge dock divided into three sections, is 245 acres, and is the largest sheet of dock water in the world.

We sometimes imagine that in the good old days "before the war" we did far more business than now. The Port of London does not share this delusion. In 1909 foreign imports and exports for London were valued at £322,614,362. In 1927 they were valued at £706,264,029.

The tonnage of vessels arriving and departing with cargo or in ballast in 1909 was 38,510,989. In 1928 it was 65,449,152. And since the total foreign trade of the kingdom was valued at £2,056,375,252 in 1927, London's share is more than one-third of the whole!

The chief difference between the Port of London and most of the other great seaports of the world is not generally understood. Liverpool, for instance, deals with cotton in bulk, Cardiff with coal, Rotterdam with iron ore, coal, and grain. London is not a bulk cargo port. Instead of arriving and departing vessels being filled to capacity with one thing, almost every ship comes to or departs from London with a miscellaneous cargo.

This makes London a difficult port to run, but one of the most interesting and varied in the world, for to it come fruit, sugar, grain, tobacco, provisions, wines, spirits, carpets, silks, rubber, furs, marble, ivory, feathers, flowers, spices, and so on in endless variety. Timber and grain are practically the only commodities imported in bulk.

In 1928 the Port dealt with 536,509 tons of frozen and chilled meat, compared with only 138,022 in 1909; with 28,632 tons of tobacco, compared with 10,195 twenty years ago; 187,458 tons of fruit and vegetables as against 107,248, and so on, in proportion.

It is an old saying that the success of a dock depends upon the ease with which it may be reached. Prior to 1909 the Thames deteriorated from lack of efficient dredging. The deepest drafted vessel that had then used the port drew 27 feet. The deepest vessels now coming into dock draw 37 feet. The Majestic and Leviathan could dock at London.

Dredging operations during the last twenty years have cost two million pounds, and have involved the removal of 47,000,000 tons of material from the bed of the river!

Southampton and Liverpool are justly regarded as our great passenger ports, but London is fast making up leeway. Two hundred and fifty thousand passenger now arrive and depart in the course of twelve months.

For long London has lacked that great convenience seen on the Mersey, a vast landing stage, to obviate the necessity of landing and embarking either from a tender in midstream or by the dockside. At Tilbery there is now in course of construction a landing stage 1,140 feet long.

One peculiarity of the Port of London is the extent to which vessels load from and discharge into barges. London is a barging port, and it is a staggering fact that on the Thames are 10,000 barges, continually plying to and from the docks and the wharves, warehouses and factories which line its 170 miles of tidal [illegible]

ACORNS.

Used to Be Eaten Pretty Generally and Are Still Used in Europe.

Acorns are not alive by bread alone, it seems, but also, and quite possibly to a much greater extent, by acorns, says Science Service. The staff of human life on its long journey up through the ages, intimates Dr. J. Russell Smith of Columbia University, has probably been more eaten than wheat. Wheat has almost certainly been in use only since man began practiced agriculture, and even today it is the food of only one of the four great divisions of the human race, the European-American, while among the three other great groups there are millions on millions of men who have never seen wheat or wheat en products.

Acorns, on the other hand, were almost surely an important food during the vast unknown period of time when men gathered were they had not sown. In the sood gathering-forests of the temperate zone. Even today, according to Dr. C. Hart Merriam, in some cases as much as twenty per cent. of the food of the poorer Spanish and Italian folk consists of sweet acorns. Digger Indians of the Pacific coast who live on acorns are fat, sleek and healthy, not scrawny mash-fed porkers. The sweet acorn, says Dr. Smith, is digestible, highly nutritious (acorn bread is one of the most nutritious in the world) when properly prepared by removal of the bitter tannin, palatable, and capable of longer preservation without spoilage than any other food known. Dr. Smith suggests that some day acorn products may be as popular for human food as peanuts are to-day, while a few generations ago were likewise unthought of as fit for the table.

STRATHCONA W. M. S.

The annual meeting of the W.M.S. of Strathcona was held at the home of Mrs. G. B. Finlay, on December. The president, Mrs. Jas. Wilson, was in the chair and seven members were present. After the devotional exercises, which consisted of singing, "O little town of Bethlehem;" prayer by two members, and reading of Christmas lesson in Luke 2, the meeting was devoted to business.

Reports from the various officers were listened to with interest. Our band leader, Mrs. B. E. Finlay, reported $40.00 raised by the Band, the Circle reported $120 raised and the W.M.S. treasurer $160.00, making a total of $320.00. This exceeded our allocation by $19.00.

The supply secretary reported sending in a bale of infants clothing valued at $125.00.

All members felt very grateful and pleased at the result of last year's work. The work of Jesus must go on and it takes money to carry it on. Our motto, "Pray, study, give" is a good one. Let us keep it in mind and seek to carry it out.

The election of officers was as follows: Pres., Mrs. Jas. Wilson; Vice Pres., Mrs. E. Cook; Treas., Mrs. Luther; Sec. Mrs. Jas. Harold Hoare; Band Leader, Mrs. B. E. Finlay. The meeting closed by singing the doxology and prayer by the president.

"Now, look here," said a portly man with a gilt bound cap to the leader of the line as he threw a leg over the taffrail, "what's the meaning, may I ask, of this unreasonable conduct?"

"You may ask, of course," said the man—it was Elisha—"but we'd like to ask something too." (He was sparring for time until more should arrive.) "We'd like to ask why you drag us across the Atlantic ocean against our will."

Another man climbed aboard and said:

"Yes, we 'gree to steer you into New York. You's adrif' in de trough of de sea, an' you got no chronometer, an' you can't navigate, an' we come 'long —under command, mind you—an' give you our towline an' tell you de road to port. Wha' you mean by dis?"

"Tut, tut, my colored friend!" answered the man of gilt. "You were dismasted and helpless, and I gave you a tow. It was on the high seas, and I chose the port, as I had the right."

Another climbed on board.

"We were not helpless," rejoined Elisha. "We had a good jury rig under the bows, and we let it go to assist you. Are you the skipper here?"

"I am."

Martin's fist smote him heavily in the face, and the blow was followed by the crash of Elisha's belaying pin on his head. The captain fell and for awhile lay quiet. There were four big, strong men over the rail now and others coming. Opposing them were a second mate, an engineer, a fireman, coal passer, watchman, steward and cook—easy victims to these big limbed fishermen. The rest of the crew were on duty below decks or at the steering winch. It was a short, sharp battle. A few pistol shots exploded, but no one was hurt, and the firearms were captured and their owners well hammered with belaying pins; then, binding all victims as they overcame them, the whole party raided the steering winch and engine room, and the piracy was complete.

Amos, the ex-engineer, announced to the captives that, with all due respect for the law, national and international, they would take that distressed steamboat into New York and deliver her to the authorities, with a claim for salvage.

When the infuriated English captain, now recovered, had exhausted his stock of adjectives and epithets to informed them that there was neither food nor coal for the run to New York, to which Elisha replied that, if so, the foolish and destructive waste would be properly entered in the logbook and might form the basis of a charge of larratry by the underwriters if it turned out that any underwriters had taken a risk on a craft with such an "all fired lunatic" for a skipper as this.

The men then towed the schooner alongside and moored her. They transhipped their clothing and what was left of the provisions. They also took the logbook and charts, compass, empty outer chronometer case, which Elisha handled tenderly and officiously by its strap in full view of the captives; windlass brakes, tool chest, deck tools, axes, handspikes, heavers, boathooks, belaying pins and everything in the shape of weapon or missile by which disgruntled Englishmen could do harm to the schooner or their rescuers.

Then they passed the rescued ones down to the schooner, and Martin told them where they would find the iron kettle for boiling codfish.

You cannot take an Englishman's ship from under him, homeward-bound and close to port, and drag him to sea again on a diet of salt codfish without impinging on his sanity. When day broke the fishermen looked and saw the hawsers slipping over the schooner's rail and afterward a fountain of fish arising from the hatches to follow the hawsers overboard.

"What's de game, I wunner?" asked Martin. "Tryin' to starve depositors?"

"Dunno," answered Elisha, with a serious expression. "They're not doin' it for nothin'. They're wavin' their hats at us. Somethin' on their minds."

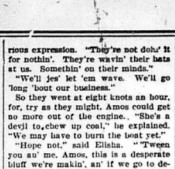
"We'll jes' bet 'em wave. We'll go 'long 'bout our business."

So they went at eight knots an hour, for, try as they might, Amos could get no more out of the engine. "She's a devil to chew up coal," he explained. "We may have to burn the boat yet."

"Hope not," said Elisha. "'Tween you an' me, Amos, this is a desperate bluff we're makin', an' if we go to destroyin' property we may get no credit for savin' it. We'd have no chance in the English courts at all, but it's likely an American judge 'ud recognize our original position—our bargain to steer her in."

"Too bad 'bout that tarred cable of ours," rejoined Amos. "Three days good fuel in that, I calculate."

"Well, it's gone with the codfish, and the fact is properly entered in the log



It Was a Short, Sharp Battle.

And, further to strengthen this possible aspect of the case, Elisha found a blank space on the leaf of the logbook which recorded the first meeting and bargain to tow and filled it with the potential sentence, "Steamer's commander acts strangely." For a well kept logbook is excellent testimony in court.

Elisha possessed a fairly practical and ingenious mind and with a flexible steel straight edge rule and a classroom globe in the skipper's room laid out his course.

The third day's sun arose to show them an empty deck on the schooner, over a dozen specks far astern and to the southward and an eastbound steamship on their port bow. The specks could be nothing but the dories, and they were evidently trying to intercept the steamship. Elisha yelled in delight.

"They've abandoned ship—just what I hoped for—in the dories! They've no rate at all now!"

"But what for, Elisha?" asked Martin. "Mus' be hungry, I t'ink."

"Mebbe, or else they think that liner, who can stop only to save life—carries the mails, you see—will turn round and put 'em in charge here. Why, nothin' but an English man-o'-war could do that now."

They saw the steamship slow down, while the black specks flocked up to her, and then go on her way. And they went on, theirs. But three days later they had reasoned out a better explanation of the Englishmen's conduct. Martin came on deck with a worried face and announced that, running short of salt meat in the harness cask, he had broken out the barrels of beef, pork and hard bread that he had contracted upon and found their contents absolutely uneatable, far gone in putrescence, alive with crawling things.

"Must ha' thought he was fitting out a Yankee hell ship when he bought this," said Elisha in disgust as he looked into the ill smelling barrels. "Overboard with it, boys!"

They resigned themselves to a gloomy outlook, gloomier when Amos reported that the coal in the bunkers would last but two days longer.

He had been mistaken, he said. He had calculated to run compound engines with Scotch boilers, not a full powered blast furnace with six inches of scale on the crown sheets.

"And they knew this," groaned Elisha. "That's why they chucked the stuff overboard—to bring us to terms and never thinkin' they'd starve first. We were dead lumy, but we're lunker."

They stopped the engines and visited the schooner in the dory. Not a scrap of food was found, and the fish kettle was scraped bright. They returned and went on. With plenty of coal there was still six days' run ahead to New York. How many with wood fuel, chopped on empty stomachs and burned in cold boilers they could not guess. But they went to work.

There were three axes, two top mauls and several handspikes and pinch bars aboard, and with these they attacked bulkheads and spare woodwork and fed the fires with the fragments, for a glare-eyed, gaunt band of scarecrows then nothing more combustible and detachable in the cargo than a few layers of railroad iron which covered and blocked the openings to the lower hold.

With the tools at hand they could not supply the rapacious fires fast enough to keep up steam, and the engines slowed to a five knot rate. As this would not maintain a sufficient tension on the dragging schooner to steer by, they were forced to sacrifice the best item in their claim for salvage. They spliced the tiller ropes and steered from the pilot house.

However, Elisha made no entry in the log of the splicing, trusting that a chance would come in port to remove the section of wire rope with which they had joined the broken ends.

Fate became still more unkind. The logbook disappeared, and, the strictest search failing to bring it to light, the conclusion was reached that it had been fed to the fires among the wreckage of the skipper's room and furniture.

Martin had raked and scraped together enough of food to give them their first meal in days; but, these eaten, starvation began. The details of their suffering need not be given.

The afternoon of the third day of fog the thumping, struggling engines halted, started, made a half revolution and came to a dead stop. Amos crawled on deck and forward to the bridge, where, with Elisha's help, he dragged on the whistle rope and dissipated the remaining steam in a wheezy, gasping howl. It was answered by a furious whistle blast from directly astern, and out of the fog, at twenty knots an hour, came a mammoth black steamer. Seeming to heave the small tramp out of the way with her bow wave, she roared by at six feet distance, and in ten seconds they were looking at her vanishing stern. But ten minutes later the stern appeared in view as the liner backed toward them. The reversed English ensign still hung at the gaff, and the starving men, some prostrate on the deck, some clinging to the rails, unable to shout, had pointed to the flag of distress and beckoned as the big ship rushed by.

* * * * *

"There's a chance," said the captain of this liner to the pilot as he rejoined him on the bridge an hour later, "of international complications over this case, and I may have to lose a trip to testify. That's the Afghan Prince and consort that I was telling you about. Strange, isn't it, that I should pick up these fellows after picking up the legitimate crew going east? I don't know which crew was the hungriest. The real crew charge this crowd with piracy. By George, it's rather funny!"

"And these men," said the pilot, with a laugh, "would have claimed salvage!"

"Yes, and had a good claim, too, for effort expended. But they've offset it by their violence. Their chance was good in the English courts if they'd only allowed the steamer to go on. And then, too, they abandoned her in a more dangerous position than where they found her. You see, they met off Nantucket with sea room, and nothing wrong with her but broken tiller ropes, and they quit her close to Sandy Hook in a fog, more than likely to hit the beach before morning. There is a fine case, she belongs to the owners or underwriters."

"Why didn't they make Boston?"

"Tried to, but overran their distance. Chronometer must have been 'way out. I talked to the one who navigated and found that he'd never thought of allowing for local attraction—didn't happen to run against the boat's deviation table and so, with all that railroad iron below hatches, he fetched clear of Nantucket, and 'way in here."

"That's tough. The salvage of that steamer would make them rich, wouldn't it? And I think they might have got it if they could have held out."

"Yes; think they might. But here's another funny thing about it: They needn't have starved. They needn't have chopped her to pieces for fuel. I just remembered now that after I told me there was good anthracite coal in her hold and Chicago canned meats, Minnesota flour and I don't know what sorts of good grub. He carried some of the rails in the 'tween deck for steadying cargo, and I suppose it prevented them looking farther. And now they'll lose their salvage and perhaps have to pay it on their own schooner if anything comes along and picks them up."

"How many years would it take you to save money to equal your share of the salvage if you had yanked that tramp and the schooner into New York?" asked the pilot.

"It would take more than one lifetime," answered the captain a little sadly. "A skipper on a tramp isn't the biggest fool that goes to sea. He can't stop to save vessels, only life."

The liner did not reach quarantine until after sundown, hence remained there through the night. As she was lifting her anchor in the morning preparatory to steaming up to her dock the crew of the Rosebud, refreshed by food and sleep, but still weak and emaciated, came on deck to witness a harrowing sight.

The Afghan Prince was coming to—the anchorage before the ferries southeast wind. Astern of her, held by the heavy iron chain, was their schooner. Moored to her, one on each side, were two garbage scows, and at the head of the parade, pretending to be tugs, puffing, rolling and smoking in the effort to keep a strain on the towline, and tooting joyously with her whistle, was a little dingy tugboat with a large gilt name on her pilot house—"J. C. Hawks."

Dramatic Milestones in Canada's Story

The Founding of Halifax

The founding of Halifax was an early Canadian experiment in town planning and assisted immigration. In 1749 the British Government decided to establish a settlement in Nova Scotia. Parliament voted forty thousand pounds to support the project, and the Lords of Trade and Plantations, the body which directed the colonies at that period, issued a proclamation inviting disbanded officers and men of the army and navy, artisans and agricultural workers to join the new settlement. Free passage and provisions for the voyage were to be given, subsistence for a year after landing would be provided, arms, ammunition and tools supplied, and the settlers were promised free grants of land and the privilege of civil government as in the other British colonies.

Besides those immigrants drawn from the mother country, a number of Germans were recruited by an agent in Europe, who was paid for each settler he procured. By these means some 2500 men, women and children were gathered, and early in the spring set sail for the land of promise.

The territory to-day forming the province of Nova Scotia was then shared by Great Britain and France. By the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713, which ended Queen Anne's war, France had surrendered Acadia, with the exception of Cape Breton, then called Isle Royale, and the present day Prince Edward Island, or Isle St. Jean. France gave up Acadia with great reluctance, for it guarded the approach by sea to Canada. But she hoped by the fortune of future war to win back this bulwark of her position in North America. With this end in view, the powerful fortress of Louisbourg was built at the south-eastern point of Cape Breton. In its sheltered harbor could be assembled a French fleet to block any British attempt on Canada by way of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Before long, notwithstanding nominal peace, Louisbourg became the nest of a swarm of privateers which threatened to ruin the fisheries upon which New England depended. Years of dispute and encroachment on each side at last came to a head in open warfare in 1744. The following spring the New England colonies mustered an army of militia which, with the aid of some ships of the British navy besieged and captured Louisbourg. It was an astonishing feat, and the downfall of the great fortress brought joy to the American colonists. But their triumph was short-lived. When peace put an end to the costly and indecisive conflict in 1748, each country agreed to give back what it had captured. Louisbourg was restored to France, to the indignation of the New Englanders who had done so much to achieve its conquest.

To offset the loss which diplomatic necessity had thus forced upon her, Britain determined to strengthen her position in Nova Scotia. Though she had been in possession of Acadia for over thirty years, there had been little immigration from the mother country or the American colonies, and the bulk of population was French by race and by sympathy. The province had to be peopled with English settlers, and a harbor for the fleet, capable of being kept day and night.

During these first months of the growing town's life, the weather was beautiful clear and serene. Under the brilliant summer sunlight and amid the glowing color of autumn foliage, Halifax must have presented a picturesque and stirring scene. Officers in scarlet and gold, sailors with their hair tied in tarry queues and wearing wide blue breeches and shirts, settlers, Acadian and Yankee traders in homespun, soldiers in red coats and stiff white pipe-clayed belts and gaiters crowded the rough stump-strewn streets, while the harbor was busy with boats coming and going between the transports and the shore; trading schooners sailing in and out, the building of wharves, the landing of settlers' families and the unloading of household goods, stores and other live stock as well as considerable furniture, and the Acadians too drove in from the country a number of cattle and some sheep.

By the middle of October, about three hundred and fifty houses had been covered in, the palisade had been carried all around the town, and two of the forts finished, the streets had all been marked out, and lamps to light them were ordered from England. The barracks for the troops, and a number of other buildings, including those of the Governor and the members of the Council, were completed. Hitherto, they had been under the Governor's house in town; the corporate life of this first meeting at the Governor's house in the harbor; but with Halifax may be said to have begun.

To offset the loss which diplomatic necessity had thus forced upon her, Britain determined to strengthen her position in Nova Scotia. Though she had been in possession of Acadia for over thirty years, there had been little immigration from the mother country or the American colonies, and the bulk of population was French by race and by sympathy. The province had to be peopled with English settlers, and a harbor for the fleet, capable of being kept day and night, fortified had to be found. Southwest of Louisbourg, on the Atlantic coast, the harbor of Chebucto stretched inland, with secure anchorage spacious enough for an Armada. Here the new settlement was to be planted to check-mate Louisbourg.

The new Governor of the colony was the Honorable Edward Cornwallis, a younger son of a noble family, thirty-seven years of age, who had served in the army reached the rank of Colonel, and had won a seat in the House of Commons. He was sensible, energetic, straight-forward and honest. He possessed a quick temper and a brusque directness of speech that was invaluable in getting things done. From all accounts, and from his personal correspondence, one gathers that he was an ideal man for the work before him.

On the 21st of June, 1749, the sloop of war, Sphinx, carrying Cornwallis and his staff, reached the harbor of Chebucto, several days ahead of the transports bearing the colonists. He went ashore at once to look over the ground. Next day he wrote to the Duke of Bedford, giving him his first impressions of the place. "All the officers," he says, "agree that the harbor is the finest they have ever seen .....The country is on continual wood, no clear spot to be heard of," echoed to the sounds of busy human life. On George's Island, tents and huts were erected, and as many of the sea-weary settlers as possible were camped on shore, while the men were set to the work of clearing the trees on the mainland. This was no easy task for the inexperienced axemen. Each man was laid out in squares, each containing sixteen lots of 40 feet frontage by 60 feet depth with streets 55 feet wide. The settlement was named Halifax, in honor of the Earl of Halifax, the President of the Board of Trade and Plantations.

Cornwallis' difficulties were numerous. Not the least of them was the character of many of the immigrants. Writing in July, he says, "the number of industrious active men proper to undertake and carry on a new settlement is very small. Of soldiers there are only a hundred, of tradesmen, sailors and others able and willing to work not above two hundred." The rest were idle and worthless persons, who embraced the opportunity to get provisions by a year without labor, or sailors who only wanted a passage to New England. Many were sick or unfit for settlers, many so poor that they were without shoes, stockings and shirts. All were ignorant of the methods of building log houses, and it was necessary to hire carpenters and woodsmen among the Acadians and in the neighboring New England colonies, with their efficient American axes, to help in putting up their dwellings. Boards, planks and shingles were imported from Massachusetts for the barracks, officers' quarters and store house. The demand for sawn lumber raised prices, and the shrewd New Englanders drove a brisk and highly profitable trade. Schooners from the colonies flocked to the harbor, sometimes as many as twenty a day, laden with timber and grain and fresh meat and great quantities of rum. It was a hard drinking age, and it is recorded that in addition to the liberal daily ration served out as a matter of course, ten thousand gallons of rum were consumed by the thirsty settlers between July and December. Desertions were frequent; many slipped away on the New England ships to escape the rough labors of a settler's life.

Danger, too, threatened the colony. The Micmac Indians, allies of the French, watched with sullen disfavor the intrusion of the English on their territory. Scalping parties prowled in the surrounding forest, and rumors reached the settlement that they were planning an attack upon the town. Though there was peace between England and France, the Indians still held some of the prisoners they had taken during the war, and these had to be ransomed. In August, some of the chiefs came in and signed a treaty which served for many years. But with so many questions unsettled, and so many interests clashing, neither French nor English regarded the peace as other than a temporary truce, and each watched the other with jealous suspicion. The letters of Cornwallis reveal the characteristic eighteenth century Englishman's distrust of his Gallic neighbors.

"The French have begun their usual game," he says. "It is not easy to know the designs of these French," these are typical phrases.

Late in July, two regiments from the English garrison at Louisbourg arrived. They were set to work at once. A line of palisades was built around the town-plot, strengthened by five square-timbered block houses, and a space of thirty feet was cleared outside the pickets, and the felled trees piled into a barricade at the edge of the forest. Sentries were posted, and watch was kept day and night.

Officers in scarlet and gold, sailors with their hair tied in tarry queues and wearing wide blue breeches and shirts, settlers, Acadian and Yankee traders in homespun, soldiers in red coats and stiff white pipe-clayed belts and gaiters crowded the rough stump-strewn streets, while the harbor was busy with boats coming and going between the transports and the shore; trading schooners sailing in and out, the building of wharves, the landing of settlers' families and the unloading of household goods, stores and other live stock as well as considerable furniture, and the Acadians too drove in from the country a number of cattle and some sheep.

Hitherto, they had been under the Governor's house in town; the corporate life of this first meeting at the Governor's house in the harbor; but with Halifax may be said to have begun.

SEATTLE-ALASKAN HIGHWAY ASSURED

A position definitely in favor of cooperation between Canada and the United States in building an automobile highway from Seattle, Wash., to Fairbanks, Alaska, has been taken by the secretary of the Interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur, according to announcement made by the Department on Interior.

Of the distance of 2000 miles, only 750 miles of new construction will be required, and of the new construction 500 miles would be in Canada and 250 miles in Alaska. The Department's letter follows in full text:

Several maps of various proposed routes have been received from the Canadian authorities and recently a splendid folio of maps showing profiles and outlining in detail the resources of the territory traversed was presented by the secretary of Interior of Canada. Secretary Wilbur has also prepared maps which will be forwarded to the various interested Canadian authorities. All parties are favorable to this proposition and the time of construction and it is expected that the development of the plans will continue.

From Seattle to Fairbanks is approximately 2000 miles. Only about 750 miles of new construction will be necessary to connect these two points. Most of this now highway, which will connect the northern empire with the United States, will be on Canadian territory. One of the most novel trips in the world will be made possible to the venturesome motorist. The region through which it will pass is one of the least developed in America, and the road is expected to give an impetus to the opening up of latent resources.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Clifford Baldwick, of Barrie, Ont., was one of the three members of Canadian junior beef stock club chosen at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, Canada at the international joint live stock judging competition in England next year.

Farm implements are certainly deserving of more attention in the fall and winter months than they usually receive. The time of an implement may be prolonged and the amount of power required to operate it very much reduced by proper care. Most farm implements rust out rather than wear out.

A Unique Honor

Dr. Robert Harcourt, Professor of Chemistry at O.A.C., in recognition of his services to agriculture, has been honored by the French Government with the Cross of the Knighthood of Agricultural merit. The distinction comes the result of the visit to the college last summer of a party of agricultural students and faculty from Grignon, France.

Winter Conditions

According to current reports of agricultural representatives, winter conditions have prevailed throughout Ontario during December. The weather has been satisfactory except that the feed supply is low. Poultry profits have proved disappointing generally, at the height of the marketing season. Many siderroads in all parts of the province have been impassable for motor traffic.

Sunshine For Poultry

Hens need sunshine in their poultry ration especially during the winter months, when the sun salines but little. Sunshine in the feed is as important as any one of the other ingredients in a poultry ration. Egg production, health, quality of shell, nutritive value of eggs and hatchability are dependent upon it. Cod liver oil or cod liver meal is the best substitute for the direct rays of the sun. Both are quite rich in the sunlight factor and available at a reasonable price. Cod liver meal also supplies liver tissue that helps to build up the blood. The better poultry raisers which you buy already mixed either have cod liver oil or cod liver meal as one of the ingredients, so you can buy them secure in the knowledge that your flock will get all the sunshine they need in their feed.

"Not many fellows can do this," said the magician as he turned his Ford into a lamp-post.

HOUSEHOLD DRUDGE IS FAST VANISHING

The emancipation of "her other" proceeds at such a pace that soon she will have to seek outside employment in order to have anything to do.

Commerce statistics show that even the humble carrot is now diced and sent her ready for warming. The potato is about the only vegetable left for her to tinker with from its natural state. Even there if she wants it in chips or in salad there are countless thousands of stores waiting to serve her.

From soups to dessert she can get a ready cooked meal off the shelves. Even the bread comes sliced.

An evidence of how mother is banished out of the kitchen is reflected in the sale of over $30,000,000 worth of prepared mayonaise dressing in the past year.

What with electrical contrivances, gas stoves and the rest, father would probably be content to wear the petticoats and let mother bring home the wherewithal.

Fording the American Boundary Twice

Longest Suspension Bridge In World Opened.

A HOVE and below, the international boundary between Canada and the United States is being spanned where the Detroit River separates Ontario and Michigan.

Already the two-mile Ambassador Bridge is linking the people and interests of the two countries. Following a dedicatory ceremony on Armistice Day, the span was thrown open for public use on November 15. For three years, it will enjoy the distinction of being the longest suspension bridge in the world. By 1933, however, its stretch of 1,850 feet between the two sky-scraping towers will be forced to take second place because of the longer span of the Hudson River bridge linking Fifteen New York and Jersey. Until the building of the Ambassador bridge, world distinction for the longest suspension span was enjoyed by the Philadelphia-Camden bridge over the Delaware River, its suspended length being 1,750 feet.

In the meantime, dredging and excavating are being rushed on the Windsor-Detroit tunnel. It is expected that, before another year has passed, this international thoroughfare also can be in use.

An example of the manner in which this work is being expedited is given by the record accomplished by Ford trucks in removing 48,000 cubic yards of wet clay from the Windsor entrance in the short period of two weeks. This record achievement required that trucks make 35 round trips daily, a distance of three miles each trip with a load of two yards of wet clay.

Below—Curve of the huge span of Ambassador Bridge, opened between Windsor and Detroit November 15, is shown by the lower level of the Ford car, which has just passed through the rear window of the Ford sedan.

WILL "REFRIGERATE" FACTORY EMPLOYEES

An era when workers will be kept at the temperature most conducive to health and production—as foodstuffs are now kept safe from fermentation and decay—is just around the corner.

Theatres and great office structures are now successfully "refrigerated" all over the continent.

A temperature of 100 degrees outside, is reduced to 70 by refrigeration inside, or to any other figure desired.

Large employers of labour are now experimenting with plans to extend the same principle to factory construction and operation, confident that the comfort and health of their employees will return dividends in better production.

Within a few years the same practice may be extended to homes. Then it will be unnecessary to search out watering places for respite from sweltering summer. The same principle of refrigeration, of course, will mean more easily heated premises in winter.

Willie: "That isn't true — and I've got a string of fish to prove it."

He had just stolen a kiss.

"Don't you know any better than that," she demanded indignantly.

"Sure!" he replied, "but they take longer."

PersianBalm—there is nothing like it for creating and preserving a lovely complexion. Cooling, caressing — it soothes and dispels all irritation or chafe caused by weather conditions. Delicately fragrant, it adds exquisite charm to the most finished appearance. Dainty women inevitably choose PersianBalm. A velvety smooth lotion, it makes the skin rose-leaf in texture. Recommended also to soften and whiten the hands. Truly a peerless toilet requisite for every woman.

An American and an Englishman were having an argument about a sausage machine.

"It's a big affair," the American explained, "and simply wonderful. You drive a pig through a gate into the machine, and five minutes later, out comes the sausage."

"But what becomes of the hide?" asked the Englishman.

"The hide? Oh that falls out of another part of the machine as purses, shoes or saddles—just a matter of setting a lever."

"Is that all?" said the Englishman. "Well, we've used a machine like that for twenty years now, and, what's more, we've improved on it. Sometimes the sausages are found to be not quite up to standard."

"Well, what happens then?"

"Why, we just put them back in the machine, reverse the engine and out walks the pig as fit as a fiddle."

Miller's Worm Powders are sweet and palatable to children, who show no hesitancy in taking them. They will certainly bring worm troubles to an end. They are a strengthening and stimulating medicine, correcting the disorders of digestion that the worms cause and imparting a healthy tone to the system most benneficial to development.

Probably until the end of time women will continue to change their minds, and men will continue to forget to post letters entrusted to them by their wives. But, once in a while the monotony of the listing is varied a little, as when a friend of mine pounced on her husband.

"Did you post that letter I gave you this morning?"

"Of course, I did," declared he. "It carried it in my hands, so I couldn't forget it, and dropped it in the first box. I remember, because—"

"That's all right," interrupted the wife. "Don't say any more. I forgot to give you the letter."

For Sprains and Bruises.—There is nothing better for sprains and contusion than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; it will reduce the swelling that follows a strain, will cool the inflamed flesh and draw the pain. It will take the bite out of a bruise by counteracting the inflammation. A trial will convince any who doubt its power.

He was a stout man, and his feet were big in proportion. He wore stout boots, too, with broad, sensibly-shaped toes. When he came into the boot shop to buy another pair, he found he had some difficulty in getting what he wanted.

A dozen pairs were brought and shown him.

"No, no! Square toes—must have square toes," he insisted.

"But everybody is wearing shoes with pointed toes. They are fashionable this season."

"I'm sorry," said the stout man, gravely, as he got up and prepared to leave the shop. "I'm very sorry to have troubled you, I'm sure. But, do you see, I'm still wearing my last season's feet!"

A pleasant medicine for children is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. It is excellent for driving worms from the system.

The portly gentleman who had been engaged to sing in the musical program following a dinner at a large restaurant, was looking very enraged. He was scanning the list of musical items, and, to his consternation, his name had been omitted!

Approaching one of the organizers he brandished the program furiously, and demanded the reason of the omission. The young fellow whom he approached glanced down the list, then laughed nervously. "Aren't you Signor Jelly, the singer?" he asked.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Well — er — your name being Jelly," said the young chap, "it appears to have been put on the menu in mistake."

A young road-hog known for his determination never to be overtaken was going at great speed one day when he heard an insistent "honking" behind him.

He turned and saw, just on his hind wheels, a baby car driven by a wild-looking individual.

Back he turned to his wheel, down went the accelerator pedal, and up rushed the speed indicator.

Seventy-eighty miles an hour were touched, but still the hooting continued.

At last, worn out, the speed maniac slowed down and drew to the side of the road.

"Come on, then, if you must pass," he cried.

"I'm sorry," said the driver of the baby car, "but I'm hooked on."

THE CLEVER GOOSE.

In Many Ways They are Quite Intelligent—Are Not Stupid.

"You goose!" was ace in favor as a gentle reprimand for some act of folly. Though that expression is seldom heard nowadays, the general opinion is still that geese are quite stupid birds.

Geese, like many other birds, are creatures of instinct; they have certain well-rooted habits and strange antipathies. A flock will always run downhill and not very grotesque carein is doing so if the hill is at all steep. If the door of their home is only partly open, nothing will induce them to enter, even though there is ample room for them to pass.

But in many other ways they are quite intellicent. Daisy, a London pet goose, for example, does duty all day long as a sort of watch-dog outside her master's shop. She cackles a welcome to customers of whom she approves, but woe betide any cat or dog that attempts to slink into the shop behind her back!

Legend has it that geese were responsible for warning the Trojans of an impending attack by the Greeks. A few years ago, however, a number of geese helped to save the sleeping inmates of an Italian house from death by fire. They wandered from room to room uttering shrill cries, and although the wooden house was quickly gutted, the residents — and the geese—were just able to escape.

Geese have a remarkable sense of time and place. They soon get to know feeding times, and turn up expectantly at the appointed hour. They are quite quick to recognize the person who feeds them. That they have a good homing instinct is shown by the following illustration: Two ducks had changed hands was taken from a New Zealand farm, placed in a sack, and driven to a farm 12 miles away. A few days later, at the usual feeding-time, the original owner noticed a white object moving townhead, and from a neighboring field. Judge of her surprise when she found it to be her old friend.

The most interesting goose story comes from Bath, England. There a bird known as Peter, of the feminine persuasion, attends her owner when ever he goes for a walk. If he should stop to chat with a wayfarer, Peter stops, too, but if the conversation is prolonged Peter shows her disapproval by tugging at her master's coat. If her master's back Peter is disconsolate, but she is an obedient bird and, once he is found—not when told to

LIVING BAROMETERS

Country folk do not have to rely on newspaper and wireless reports to tell them what kind of weather they may expect. The clouds, the birds, the sun, the pigs, and a host of other things provide their weather forecasts.

When they see the moon surrounded by a ring or halo they know that rain is not far away, and the larger the ring the nearer the storm. But in bad weather a ring round the sun is welcome, because an improvement is probable.

The stars, too, tell their story if they twinkle more than usual at night, high winds and unsettled conditions are expected.

Signs of red and gold at sunset are received well, for fine weather will follow, but any pretty silvery effects in the clouds at sunset are unfavorable signs.

Country folk, however, do not rely entirely upon the sky for their forecasts. Animals prove excellent barometers. If cows cease to yield their normal supply of milk, cold and stormy weather is ahead, and if they seem restless they know that rough winds are to be expected, and any weakness in the cow-houses are strengthened in anticipation.

Pigs, usually so quiet, become agitated when a spell of good weather is about to end. Pigs also have a curious custom of carrying mouthfuls of straw into their sleeping quarters just before a gale. Sheen in fine weather will scatter over a wide area, but if a change is appoaching they will huddle together.

Careful weather watchers have noticed that spiders work strenuously to strengthen their webs before fierce winds.

THE HECKLER SCORED

Election stories being in order just now, here's one that was told the other day concerning Dr. Macnamara.

At the time when he was Minister of Labor he was addressing a meeting, when one of the audience expressed a wish to ask a question.

Dr. Macnamara suggested that he should wait till the end of the speech but he persisted until another member of the audience shouted loudly: "Sit down, you ass!"

There was some disorder at this and a third man called out: "Sit down you're both asses!"

This was Macnamara's chance—or so he thought—and he cut in with: "There seem to be a lot of asses about to-night, but for goodness sake let us hear one at a time."

"All right!" said the first interrupter. "You go on then."

A roar of laughter greeted this sally and for once the doctor, as he does not hesitate to admit, was worsted.

ONE ENGLISHMAN CHECKS ARAB MOB

The Shaw Commission of Inquiry heard an epic story of great gallantry when the report of Raymond Caferata, Deputy-Superintendent of the Palestine Police, on the massacre of Jews at Hebron on August 24 was read by Kenelem Preedy, counsel for the Government.

Mr. Caferata, a young British explorer well known in Liverpool and Manchester (who has been awarded the King's medal, the "V. C." of the police forces for his gallantry at Hebron in saving evidence, but had not referred to his own work at Hebron, when Mr. Preedy said he thought it only right that the Commission should know about it.

Very simply the report told of the night and day's terror this young officer, the only Britain in a town of 20,000 people, went through.

He described how reports came from Jerusalem that Jews had killed Arabs there. When a crowd of infuriated Arabs attacked Jewish houses he mounted his horse and rode into their midst. Two young Jewish students were surrounded by the mob. Mr. Cafferata tried to protect them, but they were stoned to death before his eyes.

Drawing his revolver, he shot two of the attackers and then emptied the weapon into the ground. His saddle slipped and he was flung to the ground, where the Arabs began to stone him. He got to his feet and found that the Arabs were attacking all the Jewish houses. Although unarmed, he tried to stop them, while he sent his constables for rifles.

When the police lired, the mob dispersed, but reassembled later, and he saw an Arab attacking a child with an axe.

Mr. Cafferata and his little force of police kept the Arabs in check until British police arrived.

HAS MANY USES

Inventor Demonstrates That New Liquid Will Heat Houses and Freeze Rabbits.

Chief Instructor Hugo Koenig, formerly of the Zeiss Mehlis gun factory, Thuringen, Germany, and recently engaged in special research work at London, Ont., recently gave a demonstration of his invention, non-explosive liquid air.

The process of manufacture of the new fuel, which is said by its inventor to possess as great possibilities for an industrial revolution as James Watt's steam-engine, is understood to be controlled by Heinrich Koenig, the inventor's father, owner of the Zeiss Mehlis gun factory. Plans are under way for the wide introduction of the fuel on a commercial scale at an early date.

"Hitherto," said Mr. Koenig, prior to the demonstration, "liquid air has been costly, ten dollars a gallon being its retail price. My new process will produce it in improved form to retail at 50 cents a gallon at a good profit to the retailer."

In its ordinary form it is also explosive and railways will not accept it for shipment. It deteriorates and is hard to keep cool. Except for the manufacture of certain electric signs it has no commercial use. The inventor claims to have overcome all these objections hitherto urged against it. Miss Maude Lawrence, a science graduate of London, Eng., assisted Mr. Koenig during the demonstration. She is his fiancee.

By the use of the fluid an aster, which a few seconds before had been a handsome flower, was changed to a brittle semblance of itself, which crumbled to dust in the fingers. Cream was almost instantaneously hardened. Water was made into ice before the spectators could draw a breath. A slice of cooked ham was transmuted into so much pink paper. Chocolate of the consistency of putty was instantly solidified. Melted butter resumed its normal commercial appearance merely by exposure to the vapor.

Mr. Koenig apologized for not being able to demonstrate the machine gun which he has constructed at London, Ont., during the past nine months since he came to Canada. "This is now under control of the British War Office," he said. "With only a single belt and without the use of recoil it fires from its two barrels 1,250 bullets a minute. At a recent demonstration near London we cut down a tree 24 inches in diameter in 4¼ seconds. Ordinary liquid air cannot be used to propel the turbine with which the gun is operated because the exhaust would explode as the guncotton powder in the bullets flashed. The trouble served us in the new liquid air and in the four-fold vacuum in which it is stored at ordinary temperature and under absolutely no pressure."

In reply to a question from the Toronto Star, Mr. Koenig said that he had been approached by leading motor manufacturers of the United States who are anxious to obtain the use of his invention. Contractors in Toronto have approached him as to its possibilities for excavations and rock work.

"While I was working on the machine-gun at London I am convinced that I was under espionage, on several occasions, by agents of foreign powers. Attempts were made by some to betray my invention. I am more interested in its uses for peaceful purposes than its employment as an instrument of war. We have had more than enough of war."

"My demonstration has shown you that it is a marvellous agent for refrigeration. With the temperature of the vapor at 200 degrees below zero F. a freezing quartz containing the precious metals we propose to blow the vapor on to the rocks, thus freezing them. It is suitable for use whatever power is needed.

"It will be of use in reducing ores, tunnelling, oil drilling, compressing steel and copper to unknown hardness, as an airplane fuel and in the heating of houses." Mr. Koenig asserted. He produces the fluid in four colors, red, yellow, blue and water color for various purposes.

With the blue form, a light to replace that of day can be made. It also may be used as a local anaesthetic, he told Dr. Field, M.O. for Cobourg. It is said that it will enable a speed of 80 miles to the gallon. Production plants are to be established on this continent.

Talkies and Copyrights.

Authors, I hear, are deeply concerned about their legal position with regard to the new "talkies," writes Looker-on in the London Daily Chronicle. They are doubtful as to whether film rights in their work, granted during the past few years, have been construed as including talkie rights also. In this connection, says the writer, I may recall an interesting incident. Many years ago, when films were in their infancy, a well-known American author went to law with her publisher because he had sold, for himself, the film rights of a number of items of which he had bought the complete copyright. The court decided, I believe, that complete copyright could not be said to include any right which was not existent at the time the contract was made. Film rights were not thought of at that time, and so the new film rights must be the author's property. In a similar way, talkie rights did not exist when old film contracts were made; and it is, therefore, argued by authors that the talkie rights are accordingly their's. But it is a matter that remains to be decided.

A Famous Loving Cup.

In the Barber-Surgeons' Hall, Monkwell street, London, is preserved one of the most famous loving cups in the world. This is the beautifully designed and exquisitely chased silver-gilt loving-cup presented to the company by Henry VIII., in 1540. Although it weighs barely 27 ounces, its standing is a foot high. It has been valued at $250,000. Several times the barber-surgeons have been in straitened circumstances, but were compelled by poverty to sell it. But it was bought back by one Edward Lavie, who restored it to its original owners. Five men were hanged at different times for stealing it, but the cup was always recovered. Only when Charles I. "borrowed" it did the barber-surgeons think that it had really gone for "keeps."

OUR NATIONAL FLAG.

Union Jack Is Canada's Flag, Says Secretary of State.

Publication of Lieut. Andrew D. MacLean's booklet, "British Flags on Land and Sea," has raised the question once more as to what is the national flag of Canada. In order to clarify the situation, says the Sailor, a Canadian publication issued in Toronto, the Dominion secretary of the Navy League sent a letter to Ottawa which read as follows:

To the Secretary of State, Ottawa:

Sir,—During the last three weeks the Navy League of Canada has received many letters from all parts of the Dominion, requesting information as to whether or not the Union Jack is the national flag of Canada. Some have held that it is, and others seem to be of the opinion that if Canada has a national flag at the present moment it is the Red Ensign with the arms of Canada in the fly.

The Navy League would greatly appreciate if you would clarify this question, inasmuch as we have searched many authorities and cannot find any clear indication as to what flag, if any, constitutes our national flag.

Are citizens of Canada permitted to fly the Union Jack on all occasions, afloat and ashore?

We understand that all vessels registered as belonging to his Majesty's subjects in his Majesty's Dominions, colonies or dependencies will fly the Red Ensign without any badge, unless otherwise authorized by warrant from his Majesty or from the Admiralty. We understand that such warrants have been issued in the case of Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, and New Zealand. The above seems to lend some warrant to the assumption that the Red Ensign, with Canada's arms in the fly, is Canada's flag.

Awaiting your instructions, I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

(Signed) Cecil G. Williams,
Dominion Secretary.

The Sailor quotes the official reply to the above letters as follows:

The Secretary of State presents his compliments to the Secretary, Navy League of Canada:

Sir,—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the fifteenth instant, and to inform you, in answer thereto, that the Union Jack is the national flag of Canada.

The Canadian Red Ensign, which shows the Canadian arms on the fly, was intended for ships of Canadian registry and it is properly flown only on vessels. Ordinary liquid air can not be used to propel the turbine with which the gun is operated because the exhaust would explode as the guncotton powder in the bullets flashed. The trouble served us in the new liquid air and in the four-fold vacuum in which it is stored at ordinary temperature and under absolutely no pressure."

In a similar way, talkie rights did not exist when old film contracts were made; and it is, therefore, argued by authors that the talkie rights are accordingly their's. But it is a matter that remains to be decided.

A Famous Loving Cup.

In the Barber-Surgeons' Hall, Monkwell street, London, is preserved one of the most famous loving cups in the world. This is the beautifully designed and exquisitely chased silver-gilt loving-cup presented to the company by Henry VIII., in 1540. Although it weighs barely 27 ounces, its standing is a foot high. It has been valued at $250,000. Several times the barber-surgeons have been in straitened circumstances, but were compelled by poverty to sell it. But it was bought back by one Edward Lavie, who restored it to its original owners. Five men were hanged at different times for stealing it, but the cup was always recovered. Only when Charles I. "borrowed" it did the barber-surgeons think that it had really gone for "keeps."

Australian Natives.

The Commonwealth Bureau of Census and Statistics has been prepared to blow-showing that the number of full-blooded aborigines in Australia is 64,000, of half-castes 22,000, of 17,000 half-castes, many of whom are living in a nomadic state. An enthusiast on the life of the Australian aborigines, Dr. W. Ramsay Smith, remarks that it is impossible to form any accurate estimate of the number of aborigines in Australia at the time when the white man first arrived there, but he mentions that modern writers show a remarkable unanimity in their views as to the original population at the time of the first settlement as 150,000.

She touches up her face,
She touches up her eyebrows,
Her folderols and lace;

She touches up her thumbnails,
Her fingers, one two three;
She touches up her dimples—
An then she touches me!

XMAS DANCE AT PAISLEY HOUSE

On Friday evening the Paisley House dining-room was the scene of a very pretty Xmas Dance, when Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Grange entertained in honor of their daughter, Miss Helen, and son, Mr. Jack Grange. The hall was dressed in holiday reds and greens, and attractively lighted with soft, colored electric candles. Mrs. Grange received in a charming gown of black crepe with jade trimming and slippers of jade. Miss Helen Grange was lovely in green satin-backed moire, made in the new period fashion, with short bodice and trailing skirt. Walters orchestra furnished splendid music and the dancing was interrupted only at midnight when supper was served. The out of town guests were Miss Wilhemine Slater, Hamilton, and Messrs. Bill and Jim Carr and Dick Travers, of Kingston.

THE GOLF CLUB BALL

Last evening, the officers and members of the Napanee Golf and Country Club gave their annual New Year's Eve Ball in the Town Hall, the hostesses for the evening being the Lady President, Mrs. Cameron Wilson, and the Vice-President, Mrs. C. I. Maybee.

The dance was arranged by the entertainment committee, who spared no pains to make it a most enjoyable affair.

The ball-room was festive with balloons in evergreens, and the many chic gowns worn by the lady guests, added to a colorful scene.

Several special numbers, among which were a confetti dance and a prize dance, were features, the climax coming with the Midnight Frolic, which took place after supper on the stroke of twelve. The favors were pretty—hats for the ladies and horns for the gentlegen and a hundred or more horns can make a very royal welcome to a New Year.

After the Happy New Year wishes were expressed by everyone, the dancing continued. An orchestra under the able direction of Mr. Chas Walters, furnished excellent music.

WEDDING BELLS

Armstrong-Loyst

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Napanee on Saturday afternoon, December 28th, at 12.30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Loyst, when their daughter Miss Mary Helen Loyst, B.A., was united in marriage to Mr. Henry Johnston Armstrong, B.A. Com., only son of Mrs. W. D. and the late Rev. Dr. Armstrong, Ottawa.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with holly, wedding bells, ferns and flowers. The bridal party entered the drawing room where the ceremony was performed to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Muriel Shannon, Napanee. Rev. Harry Pawson, of Trinity United Church officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a French imported gown of egg-shell satin made in Princess linen with tight-fitting long sleeves, and beautifully embroidered with roses and rosebuds of satin and chenille with shoes and stockings to match. Her veil of silk net was caught with orange blossoms and made in cap effect. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses lily-of-the-valley and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid was Miss Agnes Loyst, teacher at Havelock, who wore a gown of cream satin and carried a cluster bouquet of yellow roses and maiden hair ferns. The groom was attended by Mr. Willard Taylor, B.Sc., Ottawa.

Mrs. Loyst, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black silk chiffon velvet and trimmed with silver lace and wore a bouquet of pink roses, forget-me-nots and maiden hair fern. Mrs. Armstrong, mother of the groom, wore a gown of black silk chiffon velvet hat to match, and wore a bouquet of yellow roses, forget-me-nots and maiden hair fern.

Immediately after the ceremony a short reception was held. Following the delicious wedding dinner, served at the Paisley House, to about 50 guests, Toasts were proposed. Rev Harry Pawson acting as toast-master. The King. The bride, proposed by Rev. Harry Pawson and ably responded to by the groom. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Loyst and Mrs. Armstrong, proposed by Dr. J. E. Maisee, Odessa, and responded to by Mrs. Armstrong. The groom and bridal attendants, proposed by Mr. Glynn Vandewater, Toronto, and responded to by Mr. Willard Taylor. The groom's gift to the bride was a lovely necklace, to the bridesmaid a bar pin; to the best man, a Masonic tie-pin; to the pianist, a silver monogram compact, and to the soloist a silver monogram compact.

The wedding gifts were many and very beautiful. The happy couple left by train for Montreal and Ottawa, the bride wearing a gown of brown silk chiffon velvet with egg-shell trimmings, with brown velvet hat; trimmed with French lace, and shoes and stockings to match, and Hudson seal coat. On their return they will reside in Toronto, where Mr. Armstrong teaches in Western High School of Commerce.

The out of town guests were: Mrs. W. D. Armstrong, Mrs. Geo. Whelen, Mrs. Thos. Lawson and daughter, Nancy, Miss Margaret Johnston, all of Ottawa; Mr. Wm. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Vandewater and son, Stewart, of Toronto; Miss Agnes Loyst of Havelock; James T. Loyst and son, Roy, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Loyst, of Hayburn; Dr. and Mrs. Mabee, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Loyst, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Miller and son Carson, Bath; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Vandewater, Palace Road; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Doller, Kingston, and Mrs. Wilfred Bennett, Joyceville.

Queen's juniors beat Gananoque by 20-0 and so when the lads from the East down the locals by 3-1 and 5-3, it means that they are going to have to work.

The ice was pretty heavy going here on Friday night and the boys couldn't seem to get going.

They might have won in Gananoque if they had taken a few more shots. But they were over-anxious to prove to their mentor that they weren't grandstanding and passed more than once when they should have shot.

However these were only exhibition games and they don't profuce as good hockey as when it's a schedule fixture.

* * *

Friday night at Belleville's new arena Napanee trots out its first bid for O.H.A. honors.

* * *

This will be a real test as many fans pick Belleville to win the group.

And on paper it looks as though they have the best team but you never can tell.

Last Friday night a few of the N.C.I. grads. succeeded in trimming the night school quintet by a substantial score in a friendly game of basketball.

Lars Wartman, Male Corkill and Pork Deline haven't been on a basketball floor since that memorable night when Belleville won the B. of Q. in an overtime period—judging from their wind.

* * *

But they were right in the game and in spite of their condition gave the vocationalists such a game that they had to use all their subs.

Ralph "Griffin" Cowle was in there too.

And he was easily the best shot on the floor.

He used to play defense here but this year is playing centre for Victoria College in the intercollegiate loop at Varsity.

* * *

He played water-polo for Vic too this year and only an untimely illness kept him off the rugby team.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

Ontario's 18th Legislature will assemble on Wednesday, February 5th, and its speaker will be Lt.-Col. Thomas Ashmore Kidd, the member for Kingston.

With this double announcement Premier Ferguson set the ball rolling for the recommencement of the government's legislative career following its overwhelming victory at the polls on October 30th.

In the new house the Premier will be flanked by 92 followers, whose ranks will extend all but around the horseshoe in which the benches, under a recent order, will be arranged.

When on opening day the members formally elect Col. Kidd as speaker, a new distinction will be added to a career that has been outstanding in the army and in politics. For Col. Kidd will be the youngest speaker ever chosen for the Ontario house. At 49 he will attain an honor not gained by most of the previous incumbents until they were past the half-century mark.

Col. Kidd was born at Burret's Rapids, Ont., on May 1st, 1880. He went overseas with the second Canadian battalion and was seriously wounded at Ypres. He was appointed A.D.C. to Major-General T. D. R. Bellming, in 1916, and was afterward promoted to A.A. and Q.M.G., and held this position from 1918 till 1920. He was awarded the colonial officer's decoration.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

THOSE ELECTED IN NAPANEE WERE:—MAYOR, J. M. SIMPSON; REEVE, GEO. J. TUSTIN; COUNCILLORS, CHAS. N. LOUCKS, GEO. W. PAUL, JOHN G. DALY, A. S. KIMMERLY, J. H. FITZPATRICK, C. A. WISEMAN.—BOTH BY-LAWS CARRIED BY LARGE MAJORITIES.

Once again history has been made in Napanee when, at the elections on Monday, the electors turned out and polled the largest number of votes ever cast in the town at a municipal contest. The weather was very favorable and automobiles were out in large numbers conveying voters for the various candidates.

The mayoralty scat was keenly contested, and Mr. Simpson was returned victorious by a very comfortable majority.

Geo. J. Tustin, who has so capably represented Napanee as Reeve, was again returned by acclamation, an honor that has befallen very few candidates in municipal life here.

In the race for a seat on the Council Board Mr. Loucks again headed the poll with an increased vote over a year ago; Mr. Paul came under the wire second, with Mr. Daly a very close third, followed by Messrs. Kimmerly, Fitzpatrick and Wiseman, in the order named, Mr. Ungar being low man, and losing his seat at the Board.

Both by-laws carried by large majorities, and the Town of Napanee has thereby taken a step forward along with other municipalities in acquiring a public utility that should be a wonderful asset to the ratepayers.

Following are the returns:

In the absence of the Returning Officer, Mr. W. A. Grange, the Town Treasurer, Mr. M. P. Graham, who is an expert on figures, assisted in the compilation of the returns and after that ditty had been completed the electors present appointed him chairman of the meeting, and, after a few opening remarks, he called upon Mayor-elect Simpson.

Mr. Simpson was more pleased than he could tell the electors on being elected to the high office of Mayor of Napanee. He heartily thanked all for their support, and promised to worthily represent the ratepayers.

Ex-Mayor Howitt thanked his supporters for their assistance during the campaign and said there were no better friends in town than Mayor-elect Simpson and himself. He hoped the Council of 1930 would prevail upon the County Council to take over the Centre Street bridge.

Mr. Loucks was surprised last year at the large vote given him, but more surprised this year and he heartily thanked the citizens for the confidence reposed in him.

Geo. W. Paul said it was a great pleasure to him to come in second on the list and he deeply appreciated the honor conferred upon him. He assured the ratepayers that he would do his very best for the good of the town.

Mr. Daly thanked all for the vote given him, and promised to do all in his power to further the interests of the town and its citizens.

A. S. Kimmerly appreciated very much a continuance of the confidence shown in him by again electing him to a seat at the Council Board and thanked the electors for their support.

J. H. Fitzpatrick appreciated the honor conferred upon him and promised to do all in his power to further the best interests of the ratepayers. He thanked the electors for the handsome vote given him.

C. A. Wiseman was very pleased with the vote received and told the electors that he thought the rate for 1930 would be a little lower than last year. He thanked them for the support given him and wished them the compliments of the season.

E. O. Ungar didn't know why the electors singled him out to be left at home, unless it was because he is a good loser. Perhaps the reason he was defeated was because he had run his committee during the year at a saving.

Reeve-elect Tustin said it was impossible for him to find words suitable to express his appreciation of the high honor conferred upon him in re-electing him as Reeve for a second time by acclamation, and assured the electors that he would continue to serve them to the very best of his ability.

In closing the meeting, the chairman, Mr. Graham, referred to the good work the people of Napanee had done for themselves in passing both by-laws.

SEEK EMPLOYMENT FOR OLDER WORKERS

Worry over what is to become of able-bodied men and women who have to seek new employment after they have reached the age of 45 is not confined to Canada.

Uruguay is the first country attack the problem directly. Under the general provisions of its old age pension law the government has just issued a decree which requires that all government and public utility pay rolls must carry enough people more than 45 years old to equal 10 per cent. of the total number of persons on such pay rolls.

While it may be questioned that this decree will really accomplish anything, it is significant as a recognition by the government of Uruguay that an old age question is coming which cannot be entirely met by a pension law to meet the requirements of that law as it stands.

The doubt as to the practical efficacy of the law is based upon statistics available for Canada rather than those of Uruguay; but, assuming that the age distribution among occupied people over 15 years of age is substantially the same in both countries, it becomes apparent that the government decree referred to does not go far enough.

Of the persons 15 years of age who are gainfully occupied in Canada 28.3 per cent. are over 45 years of age. In fact 4.1 per cent are 65 years and over. The decree, therefore, that not less than 10 percent of the employees of the government and public utility corporations must be 45 years and over will not absorb those over that age.

The real significance of the decree of the republic is not in any practical effect that it may have, but in the fact that there should be any governmental action in this direction at all.

TO THE MILK PRODUCERS, NAPANEE DISTRICT

Gentlemen:

You have doubtless been looking for some report from your Association after the meeting of December 6th. The facts are we have not adequate words to express our disappointment in results attained and then too we have been very busy in the woods. New wood chopping added to a string of chores is not conducive to writing however keenly one may feel about a subject. Then came a week of storms and we were busy shovelling our way in and out of the various buildings and doctoring hens which being depressed by the weather had added colds and threatened roupe.

The meeting called for Selby on December 18th was crippled with impassable roads and speakers though they made a determined effort to attend were forced to turn back.

It is said that having reverses and meeting them determinedly builds sturdy character so the Milk Producers of this district when once they have weathered the plots of men and mice and bred the elements should emerge with brawn and metal to face the task which is before it.

We confess candidly and with regret that the meeting of December 6th, though planned with great care, advertised with considerable expense, and called at Napanee so as to represent the whole district, failed to accomplish the purpose expected.

It was the decision of the officers of the Association that the time was ripe to call a county meeting to present the needs and arguments for organization squarely; to discuss the vital matter of price, to appeal for a membership sufficient to give us the needed strength and adopt a plan to put our desires into action. We are still of the opinion that all these things might have been accomplished. But a wrench got into the machinery and the addresses we had hoped would give us leadership, decision and determination to band together and protect ourselves and our own business, proved to possess no such an appeal.

We leave it for Mr. Griffin to clean his own slate. Mr. Griffin is a man of wide organizing experience, coupled with many years as an active producing dairyman and he very well knows that the primary object behind all producers' organizations is the stabilization and promotion of price. Mr. Griffin has been over this district addressing meetings, he has met many producers and well he should know the handicap in the matter of price that the producers of this section are under. We are organizing to correct and attain price re-adjustment in line with prices for similar quality within the province. Let no producer say your own officers are dodging the issue. We have made and are making sacrifices and monetary losses which, if every producer would assume as willingly, would result in our success as an organization starving only to band producers together to attain a living wage.

We were not personally acquainted with Prof. Hart, but believed his experience would have given him his cue, and his education the power, to approach matters from more vital angles. Mr. Warburton was out of luck. He had the goods and would have made a speaker acceptable to the audience gathered had they chosen to have remained to give him a hearing.

And now, how will the organization reach you and get your support. We really feel that you, now must reach the organization. We have carried it through all the various stages of discussing formation—formation and appointing officers. These officers have held various meetings to present the idea to the producer, have arranged several canvassers for membership and have attained a membership nearing the 200 mark. We need 400. The fact that a Milk Producers' Organization now exists in this County must now be generally know. It is still like an engine without gas, it lacks power and that power is membership. Do not grumble about the price, about the test, about the standard, for you have never made a collective request for anything different.

The law of markets is that so long as goods come forward in sufficient volume the price is sufficient. Remember, markets do not consider the property of the producer, he is expected to look out for himself and he today has got to choose between elimination or organization.

We are leaving application forms at the Agricultural Office and Mr. Runions will accept your application and give you membership. This is the way you can come to this organization. It is now within your reach. We cannot, with the small membership fee charged, conduct canvassers over so large a field. We will be glad to supply membership application forms to anyone who is willing to canvas his neighborhood. And now let us make a New Year's Resolution.

"That whatever ills farming may possess, they will only be corrected in so far as we, ourselves, apply the remedy and so shall it be. 'United we stand or Divided we fall.'"

JAS. McCORMICK, Pres.
J. HUME, Vice-Pres.

CANADIAN BACON STANDS SUPREME

Hog grading in Canada, which was primarily entered upon with the definite purpose of increasing the export trade, has had the actual effect of curtailing it. It is not that Canadian bacon is not better than it was before hog grading began, or that it is less suitable for the British market, or even that hog production as decreased in recent years. Eight years ago Canada's export of bacon amounted to more than one hundred million pounds. During this time the marketings of hogs have gone up fully a million head. The effect of grading has in reality so improved the quality of Canadian bacon that more and more of it is consumed at home. As stated recently by Mr. M. S. Carroll, the Live Stock Commissioner of the Deparement of Agriculture at Ottawa, the reputation of Canadian bacon stands supreme on the American continent and is equal to any bacon offered on the British market. As pointed out recently by W. A. Riddell, Agricultural Produce Marketing Agent in Great Britain, the most pressing need in relation to the Canadian bacon industry is larger production and continuous supply.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Water For Horses

An egg contains a large amount of water and the hen's body is likewise composed for a great part of water. The hen should drink approximately twice as much water by weight, as she eats feed. One hundred hens that are laying should consume about four gallons of water per day. In view of these facts it is apparent that the water supply is particularly important, more so during the winter months. Failure to supply water properly hinders digestion and will cause constipation, with a resultant curtailment of egg production.

Banquet Own Exhibitors

A unique banquet was recently tendered by the Brant County including all those stock breeders and grain growers of Brant who by exhibiting at the big fall and winter exhibitions in Toronto, Guelph and Ottawa, had broadcast the name of Brant County over a wide area. The guests of honor and the chief speakers of the occasion were Dr. Christie, president of O.A.C., and J. M. McCallum, in charge of the live stock marketing, Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa. It is hoped that this gathering may be the percursor of many such events in other counties of the province.

Canada's Victories

Canada's victories at the International Live Stock Exposition and Grain Show in Chicago have been the subject of many eulogistic remarks. Among the coveted honors won by the Dominion were the championship for wheat, grand champion Shorthorn male and female, grand champion Clydesdale stallion and mare, champion carlot of market lambs, numerous championships in sheep classes, and many prizes in grain and seeds secured by exhibitors from Ontario west to Alberta. Probably the outstanding individual victory was the capture of first prize for the best sample of wheat by a hitherto unknown farmer from the foothills of Alberta. This impressive showing again demonstrates that Canada's soil and climate are the most favorable in the world for producing the highest quality farm products.

Current Crop Report

Poultrymen in Durham reported a substantial increase in egg production from poultry and in some cases a 50 per cent. production is declared. The snow and ice have played havoc with the sugar beets remaining in the ground in Essex but interest is maintained in auction sales at which good prices are reported. The cheese factory patrons in Glengarry have been greatly disappointed and the revenue from that source is half a million dollars less than last year. In Huron the prices for cream have been the lowest in three years. A water shortage is expected in Lanark as a result of the snow and ice blockage of the water courses. In Lincoln, the bright spot of the heavy snowfall seems to be the excellent covering provided for the fall wheat. Middlesex and Perth report pessimistically regarding the condition of the roads and the falling off of milk sales. Welland suffered heavy damage to fruit trees with over 250 telephone and electric poles down.

A tale which has been going the rounds tell how an old bachelor found attached to a pair of socks a note from a factory girl, pining for a soul-mate. He responded, and after waiting with hope for some days, received this note:

"Dear Mr. Bach: your note addressed to my mamma, pleases me very much. I am now 18 years old. It's odd you should have been all this time getting her note, but I suppose the postman must have, you bought the socks did not advertise."

A well-known London clergyman who enjoyed my story of Everett Badger ("Is it nice?") writes to say that it reminds him of a man who, meeting with the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, passed a shop bearing the notice, "Smith's Shirt Store."

Spurgeon glanced up "Oh, poor chap," he exclaimed, "he must have caught it on a hall!"

It took the other man an hour to discover what he meant.

Diplomacy is the art of disagreing what one man wants so successfully that the man who has it is glad to give it away.

Relief for Colds

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

SINGLE DOSE BENEFITS IT

Acts like a Flash

Panting, and breathing heavily, a little boy was pushing a handcart, obviously much too heavy for him, up a heavy hill. A kindly passer-by put his shoulder to the wheel and helped him. When they got to the top of the hill he turned to the boy.

"I call it an outrage to give a child like you a job like this. Why didn't you tell your employer it was too heavy for you?"

"I did," was the reply.

"And what did he say?"

"He said: 'Go ahead—you're sure to find some fool to give you a lift on the way!'"

A wealthy man declares there are many better things in the world than money. But it takes money to buy them.

HOW TO RELIEVE CHILDREN'S COLDS

Avoid Serious Results by Using Baby's Own Tablets

When a child shows the first symptoms of a cold, such as sneezing, redness of the eyes, clogged or running nose, prompt measures for relief may avert serious results. Mothers should always have on hand some simple safe and effective remedy for immediate use.

Baby's Own Tablets act quickly, contain no opiates or narcotics, are tasteless and harmless. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Cadieux, Hillsdale, Mass., says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children and find them a very satisfactory medicine. When my little boy had a cold I gave him the tablets at night and he was well the next day. I gave them to the children for constipation and they are always benefited. I think Baby's Own Tablets are much easier to give a child than liquid medicine. I strongly recommend all mothers who have young children to keep a box of the Tablets in the house."

COST OF PORK PRODUCTION

Many farmers give a good deal of thought endeavouring to make their farming operations more profitable. One of the best means of accomplishing this is by making a detailed study of the actual cost of producing the various farm products, that the profit may be considered, as that which is left after the cost of production has been deducted from the market value. Consequently as one branch of the farming operation, practically every farmer should be interested in the actual cost of pork production.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ontario, some interesting figures have been obtained on this subject. These figures cover a period of four years and include 338 pigs.

It was found that each pig consumed 567 pounds of meal and 97 pounds of milk from weaning time until finished, at which time they weighed an average of 172 pounds each.

The average cost of raising these pigs to time of weaning was $5.04 each. This plus the value of the meal consumed at the average market price and the skim-milk at 50 cents per 100 pounds makes the total cost of each pig to finishine time $18.05 or $10.51 per 100 pounds live weight. No charge has been made for labor or buildings.

MOST of the prosperous farmers of to-day began by working for some one else.

Spurred on by the desire to own their own farm, they put their money in the bank month by month, and season by season, until they could pay for land of their own.

If you, too, are working for another man and want a farm of your own, your course is clear—put your money in the bank.

Stirring Stories of the Sea
by Morgan Robertson

From the Darkness and the Depths

A Sea Tale Worthy of Edgar Allan Poe

From the New Story Magazine, New York.

I HAD known him for a painter of renown—a master of his art, whose pictures, which sold for high prices, adorned museums, the parlors of the rich, and when on exhibition were hung low and conspicuous. Also, I knew him for an expert photographer—an "art photographer," as they say, one who dealt with this branch of industry as a fad, an amusement, and who produced pictures that in composition, lights and shades rivaled his productions with the brush.

Yet it never occurred to me that the wonderful and technically correct marines hanging on his walls were due to anything but the artist's conscientious study of his subject and only his casual mispronunciation of the word "leeward," which laudmen pronounce as spelled, but which rolls off the tongue of a sailor as "looward," and his giving the long sounds to the vowels of the words "patent" and "tackle" induced me to ask if he had ever been to sea.

"Why, yes," he answered. "Until I was thirty I had no higher ambition than to become a skipper, but I never achieved it. The best I ever did was to sign first mate for one voyage. It was on that voyage that I learned something of the mysterious properties of light, and it made me a photographer, then an artist. You are wrong when you say that a searchlight cannot penetrate fog."

"But it has been tried."

"With ordinary light. Yes, of course, subject to refraction, reflection and absorption by the millions of minute globules of water it encounters."

"But what other kind of light can be used?" I asked.

"Invisible light," he answered. "I do not mean the Roentgen ray nor the emanation from radium, both of which are invisible, but neither of which is light, in that neither can be reflected nor refracted. Both will penetrate many different kinds of matter, but it needs reflection or refraction to make visible an object on which it impinges. Understand?"

"Hardly," I answered dubiously. "What kind of visible light is there if not radium or the Roentgen ray? You can photograph with either, can't you?"

"Yes, but to see what you have photographed you must develop the film. And there is no time for that aboard a fast steamer, like the ill fated Titanic, running through the ice and the fog. No, it is mere theory, but I have an idea that the ultra violet light—the actinic rays beyond the violet end of the spectrum, you know—will penetrate fog to a great distance, and in spite of its higher refrangible power, which would distort and magnify an object, it is better than nothing."

"But what makes you think that it will penetrate fog?" I queried. "And if it is invisible itself how will it illuminate an object?"

"As to your first question," he answered, with a smile, "it is well known to surgeons that ultra violet light will penetrate the human body to the depth of an inch, while the visible rays are reflected at the surface. And it has been known to photographers for fifty years that this light will act on a sensitized plate in an utterly dark room."

"Yes, but how can you see by this light?"

"There you have me," he answered. "It will need a quicker development than any now known to photography—a traveling film, for instance, that will show the picture of an iceberg or a ship before it is too late to avoid it—a traveling film sensitized by a quicker acting chemical than any now used."

"Why, my dear sir," I exclaimed, "I am too old," he answered dreamily. "My life work is about done. But other and younger men will take it up. We have made great strides in optics. We shall ultimately use this light to see through opaque objects. We shall see colors never imagined by the human mind. We may possibly see creatures in the air above never seen before.

"We shall certainly see creatures from the depths of the sea, where visible light cannot reach—creatures whose substance is of such a nature that it will not respond to the light it has never been exposed to—a substance which is absolutely transparent because it will not absorb and appear black; will not reflect and show a color of some kind and will not refract and distort objects seen through it."

"What!" I exclaimed. "Do you think there are invisible creatures?"

He looked gravely at me, then said: "I know"—he spoke with vehemence—"that there are creatures in the deep sea of color invisible to the human eye, for I have not only felt such a creature, but seen its photograph taken by the ultraviolet light."

"Tell me," I asked breathlessly. "Creatures solid, but invisible?"

"Creatures solid and invisible because absolutely transparent. It is long since I have told the yarn. It was so horrible an experience that I have tried to forget it. However, if you care for it and are willing to lose your sleep tonight I'll give it to you."

He began to smoke, and some of the pollish of the artist and clubman left him. He was an old sailor spinning a yarn.

"It was," he began, "twenty-nine years the coming August, at the time of the great Java earthquake. You've heard how it killed 70,000 people, 30,000 of whom were drowned by the tidal wave.

"It was a curious phenomenon. Krakatoa island, a huge conical mountain rising from the bottom of Sunda strait, went out of existence, while in Java a whole mountain chain was levied. I was 200 miles to the nor'west, first mate of one of those old fashioned, soft pine, centerboard barkentines, with the mainmast stepped on the port side of the keel to make room for the centerboard, a craft that would neither scud nor heave to, like a decent ship.

"But she had several advantages—she was new and well painted; hence she was not water soaked. She was fastened with 'trunnels,' not spikes and bolts, and hemp rigged.

"Perhaps there was not a hundredweight of iron aboard of her, while her hemp rigging, though heavier than water, was lighter than wire rope, and so when we were hit by the back wash of that tidal wave we did not sink.

"Submarine earthquakes sent fountains of water and mud from sea bottom into the air. The air was hot, sultry and stifling, and I had difficulty in keeping the men at work. The conditions would try anybody's temper, and I had my own troubles. There was a passenger on board, a big, fat, highly educated German scientist and explorer—whom we had taken aboard at some little town on the Western Australian coast and who was to leave us at Batavia.

"He had a whole laboratory with him, with scientific instruments, maps he had made, stuffed beasts and birds he had killed and a few live ones, which he kept in cages and attended to himself in the empty hold, for we were flying light, bound to Batavia for a cargo.

"It was after a few eruptions from the bottom of the sea that he got to be a nuisance. He was keenly interested in the strange dead fish and nondescript creatures that had been thrown up. He declared them new, unknown to science, and wore out my patience with entreaties to haul them aboard for examination and classification.

"Tidal wave, you know, is a name we give to any big wave, and it has no necessary connection with the tides. We got it just after a tremendous spouting of water and mud and a thick cloud of steam on the northern horizon.

"We were terrified by the concave on its edge and the terrific speed of its approach. There was no wind, and we bended about west, showing one broadside. Yet I got the men at the downhauls, clewlines and stripping lines of the lighter kites. Then the moving mountain hit us and buried us on our beam ends as I sang out, 'Look yourselves, every man!'

"I passed a turn of the mizzen gaff topsail downhaul about me, belaying to a pin as the cataclysm hit us. I did not speak nor breathe nor think, unless my instinctive grip on the turns of the downhaul on the pin may have been an index of thought. I was under water.

"Then there came a lessening of the turmoil, and I roused up to find the craft floating on her side, but apt to turn bottom up at any moment from the weight of the water soaked gear and canvas.

"I was hanging in my bight of rope from a belaying pin, my feet clear of the perpendicular deck and my ears tortured by the sound of men overboard crying for help—men who had not lashed themselves.

"Nothing could be done for them. They were adrift on the back wall of a moving mountain that towered thirty degrees above the horizon to port. And another moving mountain, as big as the first, was coming on from starboard, caused by the tumble into the sea of the uplifted water. I finally got a grip on the belaying pin and rested. Then with an effort I got my right foot up to the pin rail and rested again. Then, perhaps more by mental strength than physical, for I loved life, I hooked my right foot over the rail, reached higher on the rope and finally bore myself up to the mizzen rigging.

"Forward I saw men who had lashed themselves to the starboard rail, and they were struggling, as I had struggled, to get up to the horizontal side of the vessel. They succeeded.

"The soaked hemp rigging and canvas might be enough to drag the craft down, and with this fear in my mind I acted quickly. Singing out to the men to hang on, I made my way aft to where we had an ax. With this I attacked the mizzen lanyards, cutting everything clear, then climbed forward to the main.

"Hard as I worked I had barely cut the last lanyard when a second wave crashed down on us. I just had time to slip into the bight of a rope and save myself. But I had to give up the ax, and it slid down to the port scuppers.

"That second wave righted the craft. We were buried, choked and half drowned. But when the wave had passed on the main and mizzen masts, unsupported by the rigging that I had cut away, snapped cleanly about three feet above the deck, and the broad, flat bottomed craft straightened up and lay on an even keel, with foresail, staysail and jib set, the fore gaff topsail, flying jib and jib topsail clewed down and the wreck of the masts bumping against the port side.

"Six men were clearing themselves from their lashings at the fore rigging, and three more, who had gone overboard with the first sea and had caught the upper gear to be lifted as the craft righted, were coming down.

"While I searched for the ax and the professor searched into the depths under the main hatch for signs of his menagerie the remnant of the crew lowered the foresail and jibs.

"I found the ax as the professor approached.

"'You'd better go below and clean up your instruments,' I suggested, 'or you'll find them ruined by salt water.'

"He started to wade aft, but he halted at the forward companion and turned, for a scream of agony rang out from the forecastle deck, where the men were coming in from the jibs, and I saw one of them writhing on his back, apparently in a fit. The screaming man slid along the break and pounced into the water on the main deck.

"I scrambled forward, still carrying the ax, the men after me. We could see him under water, feebly moving, but not swimming, and yet he shot this way and that faster than a man ever swam, slid once as he passed near me I noticed a gaping wound in his neck, from which the blood was flowing in stream and which did not mix with the water to discolor it.

"I waded toward him, but he shot swiftly away, and something cold, slimy and firm touched my hand—something which I could not see.

"I foundered back, still holding the ax, and sang out to the men to keep away from the dead man, for he was surely dead by now. He lay close to the break of the topgallant forecastle on the starboard side, and as the men scattered around me I gave one my ax, told the rest to secure others and to chop away the useless wreck of spars pounding our port side.

"I secured a long pike pole from its sockets and, joined by the professor, cautiously approached the body, prading ahead of me. Suddenly the pike pole was torn from my grasp. One end sank to the deck, while the other raised above the water. Then it slid upward, fell and floated. I seized it and turned to the professor.

"'What do you make of this?' I asked. 'There is something down there that we cannot see—something that killed that man!'

"He peered closely at the dead man, who looked curiously shrunken. The blood, no longer a thin stream issuing

Ontario Lady Found relief In Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. Wm. Brown Suffered With Kidney and Bladder Trouble

Hamilton, Ont., January 7th, (Special) "I was troubled with Kidney and Bladder trouble," states Mrs. Wm. Brown, 145 Strathcona Ave, Hamilton, Ont. "I had tried a lot of medicines but without avail. I finally tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, and to my great joy my Kidneys got in real good shape. I feel so much better now. I keep a box in the house all the time. I would not be without them. I recommend them to all my friends."

There are many symptoms which point directly to kidney disease and warn you of serious danger ahead. Backache, deposits in urine, headaches and aching limbs, harsh dry and itching skin and loss of flesh and weight.

To their direct action on the kidneys is due the wonderful success of Dodd's Kidney Pills as a relief for diseases of the kidneys.

Just give them a trial to be convinced. (o-2)

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Protects Fruit Trees

Two methods are adopted at the Central Experimental Farm to protect fruit trees from injury through being girdled by mice and rabbits. The first one is to wrap the trunks of the trees with building paper, and the other is to encircle the trunk with a wire protector with a small enough mesh to prevent a mouse from going through it. In either case the paper or protectors must be put close to the ground, or better still, set in a shovelful of cinders. These forms of protection should be put on now, particularly on trees up to six inches in diameter.

FASCNATING LINKS IN CANADA'S HISTORY

Instituted with the plan of preserving all government records which pertain to the history of Canada, which pertain to the history of Canada, and which are of practical use, the Public Archives of Canada, situated in Ottawa, contain many collections of articles of intense interest.

It is necessary to delve into the history of the formation of Canada to realize the manuscripts and documents which are of importance at the Archives. Originally what are now the provinces of Ontario and Quebec formed the French colony of Canada, or New France, and those of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, the French colony of Acadia. What are now the western provinces, so far as they had any administration, were under the control of the Hudson Bay Company. In 1791 the provinces were divided into Upper and Lower Canada and in 1840 it was officially declared to be the province of Canada.

Many papers of state were lost in this period and others were taken back to France. The original papers of the regime of 1763 are in Paris. Local records of judicial, seigneurial and minor administrative character are in Quebec.

In 1871 a petition signed by scholars and writers was presented parliament asking acces to the historical records of the country. The office of the Dominion Archives were then erected under the Minister of Agriculture.

Lord Minto, governor-general of Canada, in 1903 showed interest in the compiling of records and it was due to his zeal that the present building was built. Through his influence a very important collection of early papers in his secretary's office were deposited in the Archives. The original state papers are now housed there and records of historical importance in the possession of the Dominion Government of earlier date than 1867. The British Government contributed the great bulk of headquarter papers of the British Army in North America from the end of the American Revolution war to the withdrawal of the British forces from Canada in 1870.

Not least important among such historical sources available is the collection of pictures, paintings, drawings and prints, which was really commenced in 1906. There are some 15000 framed pictures, 6,000 unframed separate pictures, and in all they number some 30,000.

Manuscripts of the French and English period, maps and charts, handdrawn, either original copies or prints, are among the material assembled which proves invaluable to writers and historians.

War posters collected by Dr. Doughty form a very interesting collection.

The library has some 40,000 volumes as well as 6,000 pamphlets, newspapers and periodicals, many of them rare and original editions. Letters from men who are known even to the youngest child student of history, such as Brock, Montcalm, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir John A. Macdonald form an interesting section.

Dr. A. G. Doughty is the Dominion Archivist and Dr. J. F. Kenney is director of historical research and publicity.

MORVEN

On Thursday evening last, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Fisher, Morven, opened their home to the scholars of St. Thomas Church Sunday School, to have their holiday Frolic. About 29 pupils were present as well as parents and visitors. The younger folks were kept busy with games and contests under the able management of Mr. Albert Hill, while the older members were engaged in an informal game of progressive euchre. During this part of the evening the teachers treated everyone to a generous helping of candy and apples. Later a very dainty lunch of sandwiches, cookies, popcorn and coffee were served to all. After which all joined hands in a merry little dance for an hour. Before breaking up all thanked Mr. and Mrs. Fisher for the use of their home and those who had helped make the evening such a success. Then after singing God Save the King, they all went home. Much regret was expressed at the absence of those who, on account of the roads and weather, were not able to be present. It is interesting to note how this little band has grown. A few years ago they started with a mere handful and now have an enrolment of over thirty.—The friends and schoolmates of Miss Leona Lemmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lemmon, Morven, and Miss Gertrude Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Miller, Morven, are congratulating them on winning the prizes offered by their teacher Mrs. Denyes. One for good conduct and punctuality, which was won by Leona. The other for proficiency in spelling, which was won by Gertrude. At the close of the program at the Christmas concert these little girls were each presented with a very fine fountain pen. Much credit is due Mrs. Denyes for the trend of general satisfaction, which prevails through the section.

Christmas passed off very pleasantly for all th this neighborhood for even with the heavy fall of snow which fell during the week previous the roads were well broken through and the weather being so mild that day many took advantage of it and it seemed a real old fashion Christmas to hear the sleigh bells.—This week, New Years, there was a decided change; the recent rains have taken the snow away and scarcely enough left now for sleighing, only that it remains icy.—Messrs. FROM THE DARKNESS AND THE DEPTHS from his neck, was gathered into a misshapen mass about two feet from his neck.

"Someone," he answered. 'Something alive which we cannot see is contrary to all laws of physics. Mine host! What ho?"

"He suddenly went under water himself, and, dropping the pike pole, I grabbed him by the collar. Something was pulling him away.

"'Help! Something has my right foot!'

"I had a hand here!' I yelled to the men, and a few joined me, grabbing him by his clothing. We wrested him free. Then I distinctly saw the mass of red move slowly forward and disappear under the forecastle deck.

"'You were right!' cried the professor. 'There is something invisible in the water—something dangerous, something which violates all laws of physics and optics. Oh, mine foot! How it hurts!'

"I grabbed the pike pole again, cautiously headed the boats into the dead man's clothing and, assisted by the men, pulled him aft to the poop, where the professor had preceded and was examining him.

"'Frank, the dead man, had been strong, robust and full blooded. But he bore no resemblance to his living self. He lay there, shrunken, shortened and changed, a look of agony on his emaciated face.

"'He was sucked dry, like a lemon,' said Herr Smidt. 'Perhaps in his whole body there is not an ounce of blood nor fluid of any kind.'

"I secured an iron belaying pin, tucked it inside his shirt, and we bore him overboard at once, for, in the presence of this horror, we were not in the mood for a burial service. There we were, eleven men on a waterlogged hulk, adrift on a heaving, greasy sea, and an invisible thing forward that might seize any of us at any moment it chose, in the water or out. For Frank had been caught and dragged down.

"Still, I ordered the men to remain on the poop and to expect no hot meals, as we could subsist for a time on the canned food in the storeroom and lazaret. While the professor went down into his flooded room to doctor his ankle, I warned every man of us with a sheath knife and belt, while the sky grew muddier and the sea darker. It was the June earthquake, but we did not know it for a long time.

"Soon the professor appeared and announced that his instruments were in good condition.

"'I must reassemble my flute, however,' he said. 'Our salt water has spoiled them, but the rest of my things are dry.'

"'Well,' I answered, 'that's all right. But what are they in the flute of our emergency? Are you thinking of photographing anything now?'

"'Perhaps. I half been thinking.'

"'Have you thought out what that creature is forward, there?'

"'Partly. It is some creature thrown up from der bottom of der sea and washed on board by der wave. Light, like wave motion, ends at a certain depth, and we have over 12,000 feet beneath us. At that depth dere is absolute darkness, but we know that creatures live dere.'

"'But why can't we see that thing?'

"'Because it has never been exposed to light. I mean visible light, der light that contains der seven colors of der spectrum; hence it may not respond to der three properties of visible light—reflection, which would give it a color of some kind; absorption, which would make it appear black, or refraction, which, in der absence of der other two, would distort things seen through it, for it would be transparent, you know.'

"'But what can be done?'

"'Nothing, except that der next man attacked must use his knife. If he cannot see der creature he can feel it. And perhaps we may see it—its photograph. You know,' he said, 'that effects too small to be seen by the microscope, because smaller than der amplitude of der shortest wave of visible light, can be seen when exposed to der ultraviolet light—der dark light beyond der spectrum. Und you know that this light is what sets der most in photography, that it exposes on a sensitized plate new stars in der heavens invisible to der eye through the strongest telescope.'

"'Don't know anything about it,' I answered.

"'I must think,' he said dreamily. 'I haf a rock crystal lens which is permeable to this light und which I can place in mine camera. I must have a concave mirror, not of glass, which is opaque to this light, but of metal, thus to throw der ultraviolet light on der least. I can generate it with mine static machine.'

"'How will one of our lantern reflectors do? They are of polished tin, I think.'

"'Good! I can republish one.'

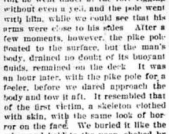
"This I presume I did, for lazaret,' and he pronounced it available. Night came down, and safely I lighted three masthead lights to inform any passing craft that we were not under command.

"The steward brought up all the blankets there were in the cabin, but there were not enough to go around, and one man volunteered, against my advice, to go forward and bring aft bedding from the forecastle. He did not come back. We heard his yell, that finished with a gurgle, but in that darkness not one of us dared to venture to his rescue.

"We did not find the dead man when the faint daylight came. His body must have washed over the rail with a sea, and we hoped the invisible killer had gone too. With courage born of this hope a man went forward to lower the masthead lights.

"We waited. I bin ready, pike pole in one hand, his knife in the other. But he went under at the fore rigging without even a yell, and the pole went very little, while we could see that his arms were close to his sides. After a few moments, however, the pike pole floated to the surface, but the man's body, drained no doubt of its buoyant fluids, remained on the deck. It was an hour later, with the pike pole for a leader, before we dared approach the body and tow it aft. It resembled that of the first victim, a skeleton clothed with skin, with the same look of horror on the face. We buried it like the other and held to the poop, choked by ashes from the sky.

"Before the afternoon was half gone it was as dark as night, and down below, up to his waist in water, the German professor was working away. He came up at supper time, humming cheerfully, and announced that he had replaced his camera lens with the rock crystal, that the lantern, with its reflector and a blue spark in the focus, made an admirable instrument for throwing the invisible rays on the beast and that he was all ready, except that his plates, which he had resensitized, must have time to dry. And then he needed some light to work by when the time came, he explained.



Up to His Waist In Water, the Professor Was Working Away.

"'Also another victim,' I suggested bitterly, for he had not been on deck when the last two men had died. 'Better devise some means of killing him,' I answered.

"'Der only way I can think of,' he responded, 'is for de next man—you hear me all, you men—to stick your knife at the end of de blood, where it collects in a lump. Dere is der creature's stomach, and a vital spot.'

"A shriek suddenly sounded. A man lashed with a turn of rope around his waist to the stump of the mizzenmast was writhing and heaving on his back, while he struck madly with his knife. With my own knife in my hand, I sprang toward him and felt for what had seized him. It was something cold and hard and leathery, close to his waist. I lunged with the knife. The next moment I received a blow in the face that sent me aft six feet.

"When I recovered my senses the remnant of the crew were around me, but the man was gone, and from the end of the bight of the rope that had held him against the force of breaking seas and down to the flooded main deck, to die like the others.

"I went on deck at 6 in the morning. The lantern still burned at the stump of the mizzenmast, but the lookout was gone. He had not lived long enough to be relieved. We were but six now.'

"'Did this thing kill any more men?' I asked.

"All but the professor and myself, and it almost killed me. Look here.'

He removed his cravat and collar, pulled down his shirt and exposed two livid scars about an inch in diameter and two apart.

"'I lost all the blood I could spare through those two holes, but saved enough to keep alive.'

"Go on with the yarn," I asked.

"Some things should be forgotten," he added, 'but as I have told you this much I may as well finish and be done with it.

"It was pretty dee to a sailor's love for tobacco, partly to me cold, drenched condition. A sailor will starve quietly, but go crazy if deprived of his smoke.

"Our ship chest was under water and the tobacco utterly useless, but the boy's had an upper bunk in the forward house, in which was a couple of pounds of navy plug, and he and the sailor talked this over until their craving for a smoke overcame their fear of death.

"By this time all discipline was ended, and all my commands were for nothing. They sharpened their knives, and, agreeing to go forward, one on the starboard rail, the other on the port, and each to come to the other's aid if called, they went up into the darkness. I opened my room window, climbed forward the main deck, but could see nothing.

"Yet I could hear. I heard two screams for help, one from the starboard side, the other from the port, and knew that they were caught. What manner of thing it was that could grab two men so far apart nearly at the same time was beyond all imagining.

"'This thing,' I said to the professor, 'must be able to see in the dark.'

"'Why not?' he answered as he puttered with his wires. 'Cats und owls can see in de dark, und the accepted explanation is that by their power of enlarging der pupils they admit more light to de retina. But that explanation never satisfied me. You haf noticed, haf you not, that a cat's eyes shine in der dark, but only when de rat is looking at you—that is, when it looks elsewhere you do not see der shiny eyes.'

"'Ter,' I answered.

"'A cat's eyes are searchlights, but they send forth a visible light, such as is generated by fireflies und some fish. Und dere are fish in der upper tributaries of der Amazon which haf four eyes, der two upper of which are searchlights, der two lower of which are organs of perciplence, or vision. But visible light is not de only light. It is possible that the creature out on deck generates the invisible light and can see by it. Der creature may live in an atmosphere of ultraviolet light, which I can generate myself. When mine plates dry I may get a picture of it. Then we may find means of killing it.'

"'God grant that you succeed.'

"'But, as I said, the thing killed all but the professor and myself. If there is anything an oriental loves above his ancestors it is his stomach, and the cold, canned food was palling upon us all. We had the turpentine torch for heating water and some dry coffee in the steward's storeroom, but not a utensil of any kind. So these two poor heathen, against my protest, went out on the deck and waded forward, waist deep in the water.

"'I could see them as they entered the galley to get the coffeepot. I did not see them come out, nor did I hear even a squeal. The thing must have been in the galley. Night came on, and we slept as best we could.

"I roused the professor when I saw the masthead and two side lights of a steamer approaching from the starboard, still about a mile away. I had not dared to go up and rig that lantern at the mizzen stump, but now I nerved myself to go up with a torch, the professor following with his instruments. He had a Wimshurst machine—to generate a blue spark, you know—and this he had attached to the big deck light, from which he had removed the opaque glass. Then he had his camera, with its rock crystal lens.

"He trained both forward from the cabin top and waited, while I waved the torch, standing near the stump with a turn of rope around me for safety's sake in case the thing seized me. No answer was there an answering blast of a steam whistle, indicating that the steamer had seen the torch, than something cold, wet, leathery and slimy slipped around my neck. I dropped the torch and drew my knife, while I heard the whir of the static machine as the professor turned it.

"'Use your knife,' he called 'und reach for any blood you see.'

"I struck as I could, but could make no impression and soon felt another creature around my legs.

"Still another belt encircled me, and, though I was clad in woolen shirts and monkey jacket, I felt these garments being torn from me. Now I was nearly bent double.

"And all the time that German was whirring his machine and shouting to strike for any blood I saw. But I saw none. Two spots on my chest began to smart, then burn as though hot iron were piercing me. Frantically I struck right and left, sometimes at the cold encircling me, again in the air. Then all became dark.

"Use your knife," he called, "und reach for blood!"

* * * * * * *

"I awakened in a stateroom berth, too weak to lift my hands, the professor standing over me.

"'Ach, it is well,' he said. 'You will recover. You haf merely lost blood, but you did de right thing, you struck with your knife at de blood, and you killed the creature. I was right. Heart, brain und all vital parts were in der stomach.'

"'Where are we?' I asked.

"'On board der steamer. When you staggered aft I knew you had killed him. Then you fainted away. We were taken off. Und I haf two or three beautiful negatives, when I am printing.' Next day he showed me the photographs he had printed.

"'In heaven's name, what was it?' I asked excitedly.

"'Nothing but a giant squid, or octopus. Did you ever read Victor Hugo's tale story of Gilliat's fight with a squid?'

"I had and nodded.

"Hugo's imagination could not give him a creature, no matter how formidable, larger than one of four feet reach. This one had three tentacles around me, two others gripped the port and starboard, pinrails, and three were gripping the stump of the mainmast. It had a reach of forty feet.

"But there was one part of each picture still defined and missing. My knife and right hand were not shown. They were buried in a dark lump, which could be nothing but the blood from my veins. Unconscious, but still struggling, I had stuck into the soft body of the monster and struck true."

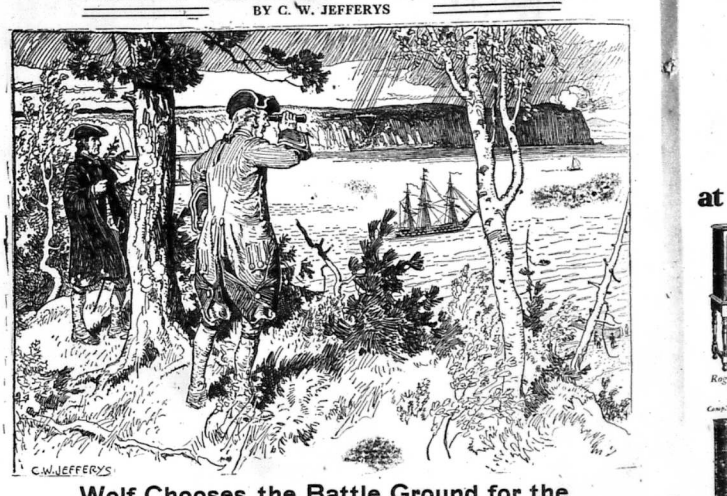
Dramatic Milestones in Canada's Story

BY C. W. JEFFERYS



Wolf Chooses the Battle Ground for the Winning of New France

The city of Quebec has been besieged five times; by the British, by New England colonists, by the French and by the American revolutionists. In each of these sieges the strongest defence of the city has been its natural situations.

Every besieger had to overcome Quebec's geography, of them all, none won a greater victory over those physical obstacles than Wolfe in 1759.

The British fleet for the capture of Quebec consisted of 141 vessels, men of war, provision ships and transports, manned by 14000 sailors and marines, and about 7000 merchant seamen, and carrying an army of 9000 soldiers. It made its way through the dangerous channels of the St. Lawrence without accident, and reached the western end of the Island of Orleans on June 26th. From here Wolfe could see the difficult nature of the task before him.

Up the stream for miles loomed the huge bulk of the rock of Quebec, and the cliffs of Levis on the opposite shore. All along the north shore below Quebec for six miles, from the low meadows where the St. Charles creeps into the St. Lawrence, to the heights over which the Montmorency plunges in a foaming water-fall, ran lines of entrenchments, where the bulk of the St. Charles was protected by a boom of logs and by floating batteries; in front of the French entrenchments lay open fields sloping to the chasm of Beauport, which at low tide became mud flats and rocky reefs; the Montmorency was a swift-running river, with a narrow ford above the falls in the midst of thick woods, which Indians and Canadians could easily defend against superior numbers.

Up the river above Quebec, but hidden from Wolfe's view, rocky cliffs stretched for miles, inaccessible for the most part, and so steep and rugged that no army could make its landing if opposed by any force. In these days of steam-driven steel-clad war-ships, of aeroplanes, of long-range artillery, many of these natural defences could easily be overcome; but in Wolfe's time the wooden men of war were sailing vessels, at the mercy of wind and tide and their muzzle-loading cannon were of short range, small calibre, and capable of but slight elevation.

It was Montcalm's task to stay behind his defences; to keep his long-extended lines—your against bombardment, assault and Canadian militia among the woods; but the capture of Quebec or the French army was no nearer. Some of the fleet passed the batteries of Quebec safely and reached the river above the town; but Montcalm was alert to the danger threatened him in this new quarter, and sent part of his forces to defend the heights. Wolfe resolved on a desperate attempt to capture the French entrenchments near the Montmorency.

On the 31st of July, after moving his men of war and transports to and fro to puzzle Montcalm as to his intentions, he made his attack under fire of the fleet and the batteries on shore. Some of the vessels stranded on the flats that ran far out into the river, and the soldiers who landed first, instead of waiting to form up with three physical obstacles than Wolfe in 1759.

The "old fox," as Wolfe called him, could not be tempted out. Wolfe erected batteries at Levis and bombarded the town until most of it was laid in ruins; but the stone fortifications and the natural defences of the position were unbroken. He attempted to cross the Montmorency; but was driven back in a bush fight where the Canadians and Indians had all the advantages.

July passed in continual artillery combats between the war-ships and the shore batteries, in skirmishes between rangers, Indians, and Canadian militia and energetic commanders, though Townshend was of an envious and arrogant disposition and took pleasure in trying to imitate the high-strung and sensitive Wolfe. After careful consideration they rejected Wolfe's plans, and proposed that the army should be taken several miles up the river beyond Quebec where a landing could be made on the north shore, which would cut off Montcalm's supplies from Montreal, and force him to either fight or surrender. Wolfe accepted their plan as a desperate chance, though he doubted its success. He had a long consultation with Admiral Saunders, who had cooperated most loyally with him throughout the campaign. Saunders warned him that the lateness of the season made it dangerous for the fleet to remain much longer. If a last attempt were to be made, it would have to be within the next few days. It was now the end of August, and the fleet must leave before the end of September.

Wolfe's illness abated somewhat. He begged his doctor to patch him up sufficiently for him to be able to lead the army in person. "I know perfectly well that you cannot cure me," he said, "but make me up so that I may be without pain for a few days, and able to do duty." To the joy of the army, by the beginning of September, he was up and about again, and once more his eager haggard face and lanky figure were seen on board the ship and in the camps. He was dying on his feet; indomitable courage and will power alone sustained his feeble body. It is characteristic of him that hearing of the illness of one of his officers, who was said to be of a puny, delicate constitution, Wolfe interrupted, "Don't tell me of constitution, he has good spirits, and good spirits will carry a man through everything."

More and more British vessels passed into the upper river, where a squadron of the fleet was now stationed. Two brigades of the army were composed on board of these up-river ships. The movements of the British were purposely perplexing; but Montcalm was on the alert, and he knew that an attack would be made in the few days that still remained before the fleet would have to leave. He reinforced Bougainville, who commanded the force above the town. The threatened neighborhood seemed to be the area between Cap Rouge, 9 miles above Quebec, and Pointe aux Trembles 13 miles further up. Along this stretch the British vessels manoeuvred for several days drifting up and down with the tide, and apparently menacing various points, while Bougainville's 3000 men on shore followed every move. Weary work it was for them, toiling along the muddy roads, day and night, in autumn wind and rain, on the watch for the expected attack.

Meanwhile Wolfe and his brigadiers examined every accessible spot; but none seemed possible for the number of men that it was necessary to throw on shore at one landing. On a dreary, wet Sunday, the 9th of September, Wolfe wrote his last official despatch. Its concluding words reflect his utmost hopeless state of mind: "I am so far recovered as to be able to do business, but my constitution is entirely shattered, without the consolation of having done any considerable service to the state, and without any prospect of it."

One chance remained. If it were possible to find a place near Quebec where Wolfe could throw enough men on shore and gain the crest of the precipice, he might be able to defeat Montcalm before Bougainville, lured far up the river by the fleet, could arrive to support him. The British would run the risk of being caught between the two forces; but the risk must be taken. Was there a weak spot anywhere between Cap Rouge and the city, where a landing could be made?

In the Journal of Captain Knox, an officer in the British army, which gives most graphic and valuable details of the campaign, we read, under date of September 10th, "General Wolfe sent for an officer and 20 men of the 43rd Regiment, to escort him on a reconnoitre with Brigadier Townshend, the chief engineer, Col. Carleton, etc. For this purpose six of our grenadiers' coats were also sent by his Excellency's orders. . . . The General with his reconnoitring party, returned late in the evening from Garchaux's Point, where they had been, with their glasses examining the cove to the eastward of Sillery, and the eminences above it." From that point, on the south shore, they looked directly across the river toward a sheltered cove, called Anse au Foulon.

These six grenadiers' coats were worn by Wolfe and his officers, to deceive any possible observer among the French on the north shore into the belief that the party was only a group of private soldiers, or a passing patrol. Thus disguised, no glint of sunlight or forget or sword hilt, no gleam of gold lace would reveal the presence of officers interested in this portion of the French lines. As he gazed through his field glass, Wolfe could see a winding narrow path climbing the steep cliffs to the open plains above, where lay an ideal 18th century battle ground. At the top were a few white tents that indicated the presence of a small guard, for so important a position. Here, apparently, was an opportunity. If only this weak spot, this possible opening, to the menacing fleet farther up the river, a sufficient British force might be landed here, and placed in battle formation on the open ground only a short distance west of the city walls.

Wolfe began his preparations immediately. The plan as a whole be kept secret. Each subordinate officer was instructed in minute detail as to his own part, but the general scheme was known only to Wolfe himself. The exact landing place was not disclosed until the last moment, except to the Admiral and to the naval officer who had charge of the boats to carry the troops. No information must leak out to the enemy. As it happened, as we learn from the same valuable source, Knox's Journal, a soldier of the Royal Americans, Moncton's Regiment, did desert on the 12th, the day before the attack was made. But he could convey no precise information, thanks to the secrecy maintained. For three anxious days the British fleet and army both kept the French in continual fear of an imminent attempt at the ends of their long line, the 12 miles above Cap Rouge, and the entrenchments down the river near Montmorency, while there was no indication that any danger threatened the place that Wolfe had in mind.

Montcalm was not entirely deceived. Earlier in the month, as he observed the increasing British movement up stream, he had posted a battalion on the plains, and strengthened the guard at the head of the path up the cliff from Foulon. But Vaudreuil, always fussy and interfering with Montcalm's plans, sent the battalion away. Again Montcalm ordered them to encamp at the Foulon; but once more, on the 12th, Vaudreuil countermanded the order, saying, "We'll see about that to-morrow."

To-morrow was too late. That night, (Knox says, "weather fair, [illegible] night"), the British troops dropped into the boats from the ships of Cap Rouge, and silently floated down on the ebb-tide to the landing place. By daybreak of that fatal to-morrow Wolfe and his army stood on the plains Montcalm's line of natural defences had been pierced, and the short but momentous battle followed that brought death to both commanders, and settled the fate of Quebec.

F. S. ROCKWELL SUCCUMBS TO HEART FAILURE

Frederick S. Rockwell, choral director of Jackson died early Thursday morning at the home of his son, Gordon W. Rockwell, 623 Field avenue, Detroit.

The deceased was a son of the late W. A. Rockwell of Napanee, and lived here for some years during his youth.

Mr. Rockwell has apparently not ill Wednesday and drove with his son from Jackson to Detroit late Wednesday night. When the family arose on Thursday morning, however, they found that the Jackson musician had died in his sleep. Death was ascribed to heart trouble.

Although he had been carrying on his work as choral instructor in Jackson High School without interruption, Mr. Rockwell had not been in good health for the past year. He was 55 years old.

To Honor Memory

A meeting of the Jackson High School Boys' Chorus, of which Mr. Rockwell was director, was called for 10.00 a.m. Friday, at St. Paul's parish hall for the purpose of discussing honors to be paid the former leader's memory.

Mr. Rockwell came to Jackson about seven years ago from Poplac. He was connected with Grinnell Brothers during his first year here as the head of the musical department of the well equipped Live Stock Farm. For the last two years the Stock and Field Crops Short Course has been extended from two weeks to a month's duration, which is so divided that considerable time is alloted to the judging of the principal classes of live stock and discussing the important problems of feeding and management common to each class. The 1930 calendar offers an additional privilege to the Short Course students in the form of a six-day course in farm meats.

The plan as a whole he kept united in minute detail as to his work in Berlin are to be prosecuted. After they come out of hospital, probably!

Surviving Mr. Rockwell are his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Fay MacGregor, of Ann Arbor, and Mrs. Dorothy E. McWood, of Detroit; two sons, Ferdinand A. (Fod), of Rushton, La., where he is athletic director for the Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, and Gordon W., of Detroit; and two brothers, W. D. Rockwell, of Detroit, and A. R. Rockwell, of Des Moines, Ia.

Relatives of the deceased in Napanee are Mr. Rockwell and Miss Laura Rockwell and Mrs. F. S. Boyes.

Live Stock at O.A.C.

The live stock at O. A. C. has gone into winter quarters in satisfactory condition despite the shortage of fall pasture. This year the college brood mare had an extra fine lot of foals of the good draughty type needed to improve the horse industry. They are in good growing condition and for the present fill an important place in live stock teaching work. Quite a number of cows and heifers in the beef barn are nursing very promising calves and the situation for instruction work in beef cattle is favorable. In the dairy barn, students are able to work on ring after ring of dairy cattle that are typical representatives of their respective breeds. The sheep population on the farm has been increased and sheep breeding and feeding projects can be carried on more extensively than in recent years. The swine herd is up to strength. This herd provides material for class-room and slaughter-house instruction, as well as bags for experimental purposes. The breeding stock have a number of fall litters that are quite promising. It will be seen from this review that the Department of Animal Husbandry is doing its part in building up the live stock industry of the province.

AERIAL CARGOES

Great Banking Firms Now Send Bullion by Air—Strange Freight.

Fifty tons of milk is being carried every week by airplane between London and the Continent, says a Tit-Bits writer.

Recently a consignment of seahorses for the Zoo arrived by airplane at Croydon. Great care was lavished on these fantastic creatures, half horse and half dragon, which were caught in the Bay of Biscay, and throughout the flight air was pumped into their tanks at ten-minute intervals.

Delicate goldfish are often transported in this manner, but the most valuable fish cargo by air was a number of very rare, rainbow-hued specimens from the East Indies, some of which were valued at $180 per inch.

A barred cage was recently built inside the fuselage of an airplane which left Croydon for Le Bourget, where it picked up a fully-grown lion, complete with trainer, and brought them back at over 100 miles an hour.

Another special compartment was fitted in an airplane to accommodate a performing circus horse from Paris to London; while an air-freighter arrived recently from Amsterdam with a bear, a monkey and a consignment of parrots.

Twenty years ago it would have been impossible to build a road to the site of the new observatory on Mount Blanc. The airplane has made it possible to convey the stones and materials to a height of over 12,000 feet on the mountain side; but when the road is completed it will be one of the most expensive in the world.

It seems strange that milk, easily obtainable in all great cities, should be carried by air, but mysterious zinc-lined boxes were once regularly carried from Croydon to Paris, and these contained two gallons of milk in glass bottles, packed in ice.

The American visitors to whom the boxes were addressed had been so impressed with the purity of English milk that they cheerfully paid 50c. a pint to have it delivered to them in Paris!

Even crooks are finding the airplane useful. An amazing case of gambling machines, for use at Deauville, being smuggled by airplane into France recently came to light. The machines were made in England, and it is alleged that they were taken to France by an English airman, who smuggled them through the customs at Le Bourget and sent them to Deauville by motor-car.

Perhaps the most striking of all tributes to the business value and dependability of the airplane is to be found in the fact that great banking firms now send cargoes of bullion by air almost every day. The "bullion" carried by airplanes with its precious cargo in charge of an armed guard, is an established feature of air traffic.

A man has been sent as cargo in a goods airplane. Missing the last passenger machine, he noticed a cargo plane ready for flight. The goods were labelled with the name of the town to which he wished to go, so he had himself packed up and labelled and put in with the rest of the goods. The airplane reached its destination, and the man was paid the freight charges on himself, was duly delivered.

Make Sure of Sleep.

If you are one of those people who find it difficult to sleep when the air is warm, it is quite possible that you are overdoing it in the way of bedclothes. On a hot night a single sheet is all that is necessary, says an Old Country doctor.

Another frequent cause of sleeplessness is taking a meal—or a "snack"—just before bed-time. Don't eat anything later than about eight o'clock, and don't drink tea, coffee, or alcohol at night.

Even when you observe these and other rules, however, you may still woo sleep in vain. The mental state is also important. A boy or girl, for instance, should never go straight to bed after an evening's study—there should be at least half an hour before bed-time as relaxation, either by usual talk or reading a story of some kind.

The same applies to any adult who does any sort of mental work at home. Always stop half an hour before bed-time and have a hammock, putting the work in hand by a little light reading—the lighter the better. Otherwise, though you go to bed, you may be awake for hours—your brain will be too active for sleep.

SELF-HELP IN SPORT.

Highland Games are Based on Scottish Thrift.

"Wi' a hunder' pipers, an' a' an' a'," the great Irishman Highland Gathering is held every year. It is a gathering of mighty men, and the strength and skill they exhibit in throwing the hammer, putting the stone, and tossing the caber make visitors gasp.

But quite a good many of these same visitors have gone to Braemar prepared to wonder, and will wonder at what they see, they probably would not believe the most wonderful and characteristic thing about these Highland games even if someone told it them.

For there's a secret behind the Highland Gatherings. The secret of Scottish character and, in some quarters, of Scottish unpopularity—and it is: For the Highland gatherings were first organised as a sort of friendly society "beanfeast."

Behind the Braemar Gathering, for instance, lies a story in Answers, there was a sort of mutual aid society, which gave help to members in times of illness, or when old age came along.

Such societies have been a big feature in Scottish life; it is probable, indeed, that they may have been the means of starting the friendly society movement south of the Border. Certain Scots settling in England, and finding there no equivalent to the mutual aid organizations they were familiar with at home, may have set themselves to remedy the deficiency.

Pompous Person (having collided with small man)—I wish you'd look where I'm going, sir.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The evening service was being conducted for the women of the parish. The parson being a little deaf had asked the clerk to give out the notices, adding that he was to recommend certain new hymn books which had just been published. The clerk began by announcing the hours when babies could be baptised. Then the parson, thinking that the clerk had spoken about the hymn books, stood up in the pulpit and said: "I would like to add for the benefit of those who have none that they may be had any evening between 4 and 5 o'clock at the vestry. The ordinary littles ones at 1s. each, and the little ones with red backs at 1s. 6d.

Persian Balm promotes daintiness, charm and beauty. It is unrivalled in its magical effect on the skin. Swiftly absorbed by the tissues, it leaves never a vestage of stickiness. Delightfully cool to the skin. Stimulating and invigorating. Softens and makes the hands flawlessly white. Subtly fragrant. Imparts youth and loveliness to the complexion. Persian Balm is the inevitable choice of the woman who cares.

He was one of those young men who never seem to know when to go. She had yawned several times, when a clock in the hall struck midnight.

"Is that an eight-day clock?" asked the young man.

"Well," said the girl, stifling another yawn, "why don't you stay a little longer and find out?"

Complete in itself, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator does not require the assistance of any other medicine to make it effective. It does not fail to do its work.

Angry Employer (to Irishman who insisted on leaving his service)—Well, good-bye, Pat, and bad luck to you."

Pat—"Good luck to you, sir, and may neither of us be right."

Paring a corn is both risky and ineffective. It is much better to use Holloway's Corn Remover and eradicate them entirely.

The negro was being tried and asked for time to obtain legal assistance.

"Legal assistance?" snapped the judge. "You were caught in the jeweller's shop, two policemen saw you. You had the goods on you, and you have been convicted 42 times. Now, what could a lawyer say for you?"

"Well, Sah, Judge," said the negro, "that's just what I'll sure be interested tuh know."

Apply generously and cover in front of her house and gaze at her shadow on the curtain—almost afraid to go in. And it's just the same way now when I get home late."

Miller's Worm Powders seldom fail. They immediately attack the worms and expel them from the system. They are complete in themselves, not only as a worm destroyer, but as a highly beneficial medicine for children, correcting weak digestion and restoring the debilitated system to healthful-ness, without which the growth of the child will be retarded and its constitution weakened.

Old Mose Parker was pretty sick, and the darky doctor promptly put him to bed and laid down all sorts of rules and regulations as to sleep and diet. After he had gone, Mose turned to his wife and complained:

"Mandy, how does dat dere fool doctor reckon ah's gwine to eat breast of chicken when ah ain't got but one mah ebenin's free?"

Doctor (after hard day's work): "What's the matter with you, my man?"

Patient (holding right leg): "A pain, doctor."

Patient: "Right 'ere, doctor?"

Doctor: "Right your left ear! Then why are you holding your leg?"

A steward at the gangway of a ship kept shouting for the benefit of arriving passengers: "First class to the right! Second class to the left!"

A young woman stepped abroad with a baby in her arms. As she neared before the steward he said: "First or second?"

"Oh!" said the girl, her face as red as a rose. "Oh, it's—it's not mine at all! I'm just helping a girl friend get aboard."

EXTINCTION THREATENS ESKIMOS

Six thousand Eskimos, living cheerfully in Arctic and sub-Arctic Canada, are threatened with ultimate extinction by the spread of civilization towards the Arctic circle, authorities on the far north predict.

Disease and death, brought slowly but surely as the white man advances northward, are creating a menace to the Eskimo which will prove one of the dilemmas of northern development, they say.

Totally exhibunt immunity to white man's diseases, the Eskimo succumbs to ailments which are considered minor misfortunes in the life of almost every white child. He suffers from malnutrition when fed white man's food, and yet he gorges himself with it whenever possible. He contracts tuberculosis from wearing store clothing under unsuitable conditions, and yet he likes them. Measles, whooping cough, chicken-pox, grippe and other ailments he gets from the white man himself, and yet he is most happy in his company.

He turns the advantage of trade with the white man into an agency for his destruction. Despite his kindly nature and good heartedness he is a great killer. With his new-bought rifle he spends all the game he can find and ultimately may transform a naturally bountiful country into a land of hunger.

Six thousand persons spread over a land as long as the northern coast of Canada are an asset, officials declare. They point out that the Eskimo is, and will be still there, the agent of the white man in icy lands where the latter cannot live alone.

Those who have been associated with the Eskimo longest say civilization, untempered, will do one of three things to him—absorb him, kill him, or drive him northward.

They are confident, however, that something can be done to help the Eskimo save himself. Education, they believe, will develop within his happy-go-lucky mind a sense of providence which will enable him to look after his future food supply and to treat his personal property less recklessly.

Medical service, they think, also, will save him from the disease he seems bound to contract in settled districts, while his own predisposition to health will save him when he is far away from the white man.

Given help in combatting the two major threats of his own wastefulness and sickness, they declare, his own native intelligence will probably enable him to exist indefinitely as Eskimo without absorption.

There is only one menace they can think of from which the Eskimo is absolutely free trial for 10 days to any one absolutely free, and that is interesting, and a person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of those remarkable aids to your hearing for a thorough and convincing test. AZTEC GOLD.

Minor C. Keith Treasure Left to th Museum of Natural History.

The Aztec gold treasures of Minor C. Keith, of Boston and New York are to go to the American Museum of Natural History by the terms of Mr Keith's will. This collection of ancient gold is said to be the finest of its kind in the world and was made by the railroad builder and founder of the United Fruit Company, and by his agents during the many years of his extensive operations south of the United States.

Back of it is the romantic history of the Spanish conquest in America, and the atmosphere of the days of Columbus, Diego Velasquez, Cortes, Pizarro and that long line of Conquistadores of Charles V. of Spain permeates it. It is that same dull yellow metal for which the adventuring Spaniards braved the unknown seas and the wilderness of Hispaniola which caused Velasquez to send Cordova and Juan de Grijalva southward, which flew Cortes to break with Velasquez and beach his ship on the white sands at Vera Cruz, so that by making return impossible either a great empire would be added to Spain's possession or they would perish in the attempt.

It is an account of the glamor of a rich American civilization of a thousand years ago, written in 10,000 grams of pure gold made up into 7,000 precious trinkets. The collection had its beginning when Mr. Keith was driving his railroad through the jungles of Costa Rica more than half a century ago. One night the camp was swept by a tropical storm and the next morning the roots of one of the trees torn from the ground had a glitter about it that encouraged examination. Thirty-pieces of antique gold handiwork were discovered at the tomb of a forgotten chieftain.

Later, in his search for swamps that could be converted into fertile fruit plantations, Mr. Keith uncovered the remains of a prehistoric city whose ingenious civilization is proved by hundreds of years the landing of Columbus in the New World.

Established by the centuries, these specimens of the craft of ancient goldsmiths attest to a subtle skill which puzzles natural scientists at the museum, supposing these to have been artisans working without tools. Tiny animals carved with the utmost fidelity as to form—monkeys, crocodiles, tapirs—are in the collection as ornaments and as earrings pendant from tiny gold rings. Gorgets of this beaten gold, great golden butterflies, and eagles, jade and golden beads, golden bells of the hawk's bell type—all testify to the life of a forgotten time. One of the most delicate specimens of handicraft is a golden frog with egg ball attached.

The portion of Mr. Keith's will which directs that "any discovery of ancient gold" also allots 20 per cent. of the revenue of his estate of seventy-five millions to the Smithsonian Costa Rica of "an educational, charitable or benevolent institution."

Car Salesman: "And is there anything else I can show you about this new model?"

Young Lady: "Yes; please show me how to turn on the radiator if the car gets cold."

Visitor: "I suppose this rain will do the crops a lot of good?"

Farmer: "Yer're right, sir. An hour of it will do more good in five minutes than a month of it would in a week or so."

Dr. Williams' PINK PILLS

"A REMEMBERED NAME IS NO COINCIDENCE"

A very small and important boy, carrying a parcel, knocked loudly at the door of a suburban villa. When the lady of the house appeared, he exclaimed: "I'm Morgan's. "Oh, are you?" said the lady, looking down at the diminutive figure, "then who's minding the shop?"

"How did you like the party, Jackie?"

"Awful! You said I could eat as much as I liked and I couldn't."

Bridgroom: "Would you mind if I went into a smoking compartment, darling?"

Bride: "To smoke?"

"Oh, dear, no! I want to experience the agony of being away from you, so that I can fully appreciate the joy of returning to you."

OBITUARY

T. A. Dunwoody
The village of Newburgh lost one of its most prominent and respected citizens on Monday in the person of Mr. T. A. Dunwoody at the age of 78 years and 4 months.
For some time the deceased had been in failing health; for some weeks had been confined to his home.
The deceased was well known in the village and community for a long period. For several years he conducted an undertaking business in the village but, owing to advanced age, he disposed of the business.
He was a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church and after the union was a most faithful member of the United Church, having occupied positions on the official board. He was clerk of the session as well as of the Sunday School, having been a teacher of the men's Adult Bible Class until health failed.
He was a staunch Conservative and intimate friend of Sir Charles A. McDonald. His passing will be felt with sincere regret by a host of friends, not only in the village, but in the entire district where he was well known.
The funeral was held on New Year's day at his late residence, service being by Rev. T. H. F. Anderson and was largely attended. His remains were laid to rest in the cemetery. The Orangemen had a service at the grave, as he had been a devoted member of that order.
He leaves his widow to mourn the loss of a devoted husband, also an adopted daughter, Margaret Mitchell, teacher at Stella.

Well, to my way of thinking, Napanee are just as likely to cop the group honors as either Trenton or Belleville.

Which is very unlikey, considering the brand of hockey played in Belleville Friday night.

But for goodness sake don't think that the lop-sided score was any indication of the play.

* * *

The boys certainly had a lion's share of the play in the first two periods and if they could have kept it up in the last frame, they would have come out on top.

* * *

You have to remember, too, that the locals hadn't been on ice for about ten days while Belleville's artificial ice enables them to work out regularly regardless of soft weather.

They sure do take their hockey seriously.

How about the Town Basketball League?

* * *

A lot of the boys have had some good workouts in more or less friendly games with the "old boys" during the holidays and they are all set to go.

HOCKEY NEWS

Belleville 7, Napanee 1.

The opening game of the Junior O. H. A. hockey series was played on the ice of Belleville's beautiful new arena on Friday evening last, when the home team defeated the Napanee sextet by score of 7-1, and it was a splendid game from the spectators' point of view up to the end of the second period, when the Napanee boys went to pieces, due to lack of condition and practice, the latter being enforced upon them by the mild weather, there being no ice at the rink for them to work out on. However, the score does not by any means indicate the play.

The first period was a whirlwind from start to finish, and our boys not only looked good, but they were good, and a pass from Derey to Bentley accounted for the only score of the first period.

The second period was under way about eleven minutes when Simpson scored for Belleville, our defence man, Green, being in the penalty box at the time, and four minutes later McDonald scored for Belleville.

The second period ended Belleville 2, Napanee 1.

The least said about the third period the better. Our boys were willing, but could not stand the pace.

VanLuven in goal played a most wonderful game, and if Friday was a fair sample of his ability he will surely have a steady job.

Dorey and Green on the defence were very effective, but both lack the ability to spell the forward line on the attack, but will improve as the season advances.

Of the forwards, Wilson was outstanding, although all the boys did better than their followers anticipated. Combination play was very noticeable by its absence and this certainly badly handicapped by artificial ice and the much larger surface they had to cover.

Lovers of hockey should not miss the game at the arena here on Friday night, when Trenton will be the visiting team. The Napanee team are very deserving of your support and you will get the worth of your money. Let us fill the rink to the doors—night with a capacity house and let the youngsters know that we are behind them.

Following was the line-up:

Belleville—Goal, McKinnon; defence, Ethelr and Young; centre, McDonald; wings, Morgan and Day, substitutes, Salisbury, Simpson and Hull.

Napanee—Goal, VanLuven; defence, Dorey and Green; centre, Vandusen; wings, Wilson and Robinson; substitutes, Bentley, Moore Hayes and Brant.

Referee—C. G. Pound, Oshawa.

MOTHER GOOSE

"Mother Goose," which will be presented at The Grand Theatre, Kingston, commencing Saturday, January 11th, matinee and night, is perhaps the finest English pantomime ever to go on tour. Certainly nothing so gorgeous and complete has ever been brought to Canada owing to the heavy expense. An exceptionally large company, consisting of half a dozen principals and any number of well-trained dancers and singers, as well as four carloads of scenery, costumes, etc., call up a lot of money in covering a country the size of Canada, but the instantaneous and great success it has met with has more than made up for the expense to date. "Mother Goose" would be a treat in any theatrical season, and this year is exceptionally welcome.

The story is unrolled to the accompaniment of brilliantly humorous situations, fine singing and dancing, and the combination of scenic effects and costumes that could hardly be matched for sheer beauty and originality. Some of the stage pictures are veritable gems in what can be accomplished in novelty of setting and costuming, and the whole is a triumph of stage craft. Of course, behind "Mother Goose" are behind a hundred years of pantomime production at the Birmingham Theatre Royal, the home theatre of the Phillip Rodway players. In that long history of successful entertainment of the English public there have been several versions of "Mother Goose," in one of which the harlequin was played here some days ago by the leader of the present version, up-to-date and smart in every way, is undoubtedly far in advance of the old pantomime, and is probably the finest pantomime ever staged. The appearances of the comedians are the best ever seen here this season to see genuine English pantomime, and those who enjoy the higher forms of musical comedy should be well advised not to miss "Mother Goose." Theatre now booking.

Gentlemen of the Council,—

In taking the seat of the Mayor for the year 1930, it seems that some remarks by way of preface are necessary, and usual. It is with a great deal of pleasure that I do so.

May I refer briefly to my own personal gratification upon being elected as your presiding officer for this year. I consider it one of the greatest honors of life to be elected Mayor of one's own home town, and particularly of a thriving, progressive town such as our own. I consider it a mark in the favor of our town that our elections are so keenly contested.

Few towns can boast the general prosperity such as we know in Napanee. There are few great fortunes here, but practically every one in the town is living comfortably, keeping bright, and at least outwardly, prosperous homes.

It is our duty to do as well as we know how, as well as our several abilities will go, in the service of these offices, and to carry out to the very best of our skill the trust reposed in us by them. We have been elected by the people because they believe that we have certain talents, which talents they wish to employ, and which it is our duty to give. Therefore, let us unite to use the best of our talents for the benefit and for our own credit.

The task of the world is of no avail unless it is properly marshalled and directed. Let us see that ours is.

We are singularly blessed also in having at our permanent town officials men of the very highest character and ability. The difficulties which ordinarily confront a municipal council in front Councils in this town, as the town is so well equipped with permanent officials.

During this year, I trust that I may have the earnest co-operation of every member of this council, and of every official of the town, and I promise each of you, each of them, that I shall give to you and to them, the very best that I have.

Let each committee do its work seriously, and well. I have tried in forming a draft of the Committees, which I shall presently ask the Clerk to distribute to each of you, to give to each Committee a work for which he is best fitted, and to support him with men on his committee, who are experienced and well skilled in that particular department of municipal work. I trust that the suggestion which I shall make to you as the basis for the standing committees for the year shall meet with your favorable approval. The suggestion which I have made is being made after a great deal of very serious thought and after consultation with the town officials.

May I suggest to the Chairman of the various committees that they acquaint those who are employed in their territory, and the fact that there is certain responsibility that attaches to the employee, rather than to the Chairman of the Committee, as it would appear it is by some considered. It is not meet that the Chairman of a committee should have to do all the running that a town's work more onerous and taking away time which he could otherwise devote to the formulation of policies.

This would apply also to the Chairman of every committee, but perhaps more particularly to the Chairman of the Social Welfare Committee. This has long been considered a very undesirable Committee on account of the fact that the Chairman is besieged in his office at all times by those making requests for assistance, which in a great many instances it embarrasses the chairman to refuse, and in addition the embarrassment of the one asking the aid, and sometimes is not needed in any dire way. I suggest to the chairman of that committee, that he refer all applications for assistance to the Chief of Police and that it be made a policy of that committee that the chairman will not under any circumstances, unless it is in the absence or disability of the Chief of Police.

Give responsibility to the employee and then refuse to interfere with that man's responsibility, and I am sure that that man will be a pleasant task for the Councillors, and will re-

"Ah, away now," said the small boy. "That's not jam. Them's bombs." And they were.

OBITUARY

John Armstrong

On Wednesday evening there passed away one of Richmond Township's oldest residents in the person of Mr. John Armstrong, at the age of 93 years and 4 months. The funeral service was held on Friday afternoon at the home of his son, Howard, on the Newburgh Road, with his minister, Rev. W. P. Woodger, in charge.

The late Mr. Armstrong was born in the County of Tyrone, Ireland, in 1837. When but three years old he came with his parents to Canada setting in the Township of Sheffield. He was the eldest son of Francis Armstrong and Mary McCoy. In the year 1862, he was married to Lucinda Cox, who predeceased him three years ago. Two children were born to them, Herbert, who died twelve years ago, and Howard with whom he had resided for the last seventeen years.

The deceased was a lifelong member of the Methodist church, and during his long life bore ready and constant testimony to the faith which had sustained him. His friends will always remember him as a kindly, gracious, upright Christian gentleman. He had learned the art of growing old gracefully, and in a singular way retained his mental faculties until a few days before his death. When asked once his prescription for a long life, he said, "Temperance in all things, and a faith in the Saviour of mankind." This, his best acquaintances all agree, he practiced to an eminent degree throughout his life.

Interment was made at Riverside vault. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Mark Hawley, Sanford Long, Fred Henderson, Ed. O'Shaughnessy, Stewart Shetler, James VanKoughnet. He is survived by his son, Howard, and three sisters Mrs. Nathaniel Wiser, Switzerville, Mrs. Chas. Young, Marlbank; Mrs. John Huffman, Grand Forke, B.C.

Several verses of hymn, "Take my life and let it be," were sung. The minutes of last meeting were read by the Secretary Miss H. Magee and were approved and the treasurer, Miss A. Magee gave her report of work done and monies raised last year, the results of which were very gratifying to the members. The secretary then distributed the new programs which were very satisfactory.

An appeal was made to the members of the society by Miss L. Carr and M. Magee for Christmas greeting cards, and bright post cards to be collected by them and to be sent to Foreign Missionaries.

It was moved by Mrs. A. C. Davis, and seconded by Miss M. Magee, that the executive should select a Missionary in the home field for the society to adopt for special prayer and correspondence.

Miss L. Carr, Supt. of Christian Stewardship distributed the mite boxes. Mrs. Blake Humphrey then confributed a solo to the program. The study book, entitled "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," was in charge of Miss M. Magee. The roll call, "The 'I wills' of Christ," was responded to by the members.

Constipated Children

Constipation is one of the most common ailments of childhood and the child suffering from it positively cannot thrive. To keep the little one well the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach sweet. To do this nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative; are pleasant to take and can be given to the newborn babe with perfect safety. Thousands of mothers use no other medicine for their little ones but Baby's Own Tablets. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

NO INCREASE IN YIELD

Clay and sandy loam soils at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, which were ploughed to a depth of 4 inches have given just as good yields of corn after sod and oats after corn as when they were ploughed 7 inches deep. The yield of corn and oats on little same soils which were ploughed with furrows 16 inches wide were practically as high as where the sod and corn stubble had been ploughed with furrows 8 inches wide. These are the results of six years of experimental work on the clay, and seven years on the sandy loam soil. In all of these trials, of course, the ploughing was well done and good seed-beds were prepared before sowing.

While perhaps in some rare cases they may be safe to wholly the results of these ploughing experiments may not apply, on most farms of Eastern Canada very deep ploughing and the use of ploughs which turn narrow furrows will not give any more crop per acre than more shallow ploughing and the use of ploughs which turn wide furrows.

As ploughing is the most expensive of all cultural operations required in preparing land for the sowing of crops, lower costs per bushel and per ton will be accomplished by paying attention to every possible means of reducing the time spent on this farm operation. It takes less time and energy to plough land shallow than it does to plough it deep. It takes considerably less time to plough a field with wide furrows than it does to plough it with narrow ones.

Except in two cases, there was not a bushel of oats or a ton of corn difference in the yields obtained from the different methods of ploughing employed in—these experiments on the two types of soil mentioned. Moreover, the two exceptions did not give sufficient differences in yields to change the general conclusions mentioned above which were drawn from the results of these ploughing trials conducted to determine the influence on crop yields of different depths and different widths of the furrow slice.

Only the uninformed endure the agony of corns. The knowing ones apply Holloway's Corn Remover and get relief.

"Now, my man, I hope you are not afraid of work," said the kind old lady to the tramp who has asked for alms.

"Not a bit, lady. I never takes any notice of it."

Miller's Worm Powders are a pleasant medicine for worm-infested children, and they take it without objection. When directions are followed it will not injure the most delicate child, as there is nothing of an injurious nature in its composition. They will speedily rid a child of worms and restore the health of the little sufferers whose vitality has become impaired by attacks of these internal pests.

Dear Old Soul: "Well, I will give you something in spite of my convictions."

Tramp: "Don't let that worry you, mum; I've had lots of 'em myself."

Asthma Can Be Cured. Its sufferings is as needless as it is terrible to endure. After its many years of relief of the most stubborn cases no suffer can doubt the perfect effectiveness of Dr. J. D. For Burns and Scalds.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will take the fire out of a burn or scald. It should be at hand in every kitchen so that it may be available at any time. There is no preparation required. Just apply the oil to the burn or scald and the pain will abate and in a short time cease altogether.

Little Jimmy visited his father's office, and after examining the typewriting machine, asked his mother: "What do they take those to the theatre for?"

"My boy," replied his mother, "they do not take them to the theatre."

"Well, it's mighty funny then. Pa was telling a gentleman that he took his typewriter to the thea—"

"James," said his father sternly, "I will see you privately after we get home."

Persian Balm—Invaluable to the whole family. To the mother, a flawless aid to loveliness. To the child a soothing, healing balm. And to the father, a splendid hair theatve and cooling shaving lotion. "No," replied the boy, "I don't think so; but I saw the Royal Academy, where they hang the artists."

"Have you head my latest joke?" asked Jones as he saw Jinks on the street.

"If certainly hope so," said Jones as he kept on going.

Knagg: "Yes, and so is her contradiction."

WINTER CARE OF PIGS

The successful rearing of pigs during the winter months requires much the same attention as any other time of the year. The main factors necessary are:

1. Early litters. Pigs intended for winter feeding should be farrowed not later than the month of September, as this gives them time for a good start before cold winter.

2. Clean year. A good clover field or clean yard with clover sod is ideal for them to run in. Avoid all old yards and wallows.

3. Clean and dry sleeping quarters. These should be entirely free from draughts, but provided with ventilation. This can often be secured by boxing in one corner of the barn and covering the top with narrow boards several inches apart, and covering with straw, with plenty of straw this makes a good sleeping place.

4. Suitable rations. From weaning until four months of age, the following ration will be satisfactory: 200 pounds of finely ground oats, 200 pounds of middlings, 50 pounds of wheat bran, 50 pounds of barley or corn, 15 pounds each of, linseed oil meal and tankage, 5 pounds of bone char and 3 pounds of salt. This should always be fed as a wet slop mixed with skim-milk or buttermilk. As the pigs get older increase the proportion of barley or corn. Be very careful not to over-feed; every meal should be all cleaned up quickly, and more looked for. A supply of Alfalfa or clover hay should be on hand at all times, and a few mangels or apples are relished. Keep salt pens clean and supply drinking water each day.

RADIO SOLVES FARM PROBLEMS

National Radio Broadcasting has been recommended in Canada and if the Dominion should adopt it, one of the courses it will likely give freely will be that of agricultural and home economics. Canada is a farming country and it is essential that the farmers and homemakers receive a program. It is probable this program would be prepared by the Department of Agriculture and would be correlated so as to give farmers in each district technical and economic information which is locally adapted to their particular needs.

Long Distance Calls

now in effect

New reduced rates for long distance telephone service in Ontario and Quebec have been in effect since January 1.

The new lower rates affect chiefly calls to points from 75 to 800 miles distant, the reductions being from $.05 to $.20 per call. These mean an annual saving of $200,000 for telephone users.

Long distance telephone service is constantly improving in speed, reliability and scope. Every Bell telephone is a long distance station from which one may talk with greater satisfaction — and at lower rates—than ever before.

CAMDEN VIII. W.M.S.

The January meeting of Camden VIII. W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. B. Closs on the afternoon of January 2nd. In spite of threatening rain eighteen were in attendance.

The meeting was opened with devotion period conducted by the president, Rev. Mr. Beckstead, leading in prayer.

The program as suggested in the Missionary Monthly for January meeting was followed throughout; the thought being centred around Pentecost. Mrs. Hyland read the devotional leaflet entitled, "Pentecost a fulfilment."

Mrs. Close gave a reading, "The ideal W.M.S. member." In closing, the ideal missionary woman is pictured, her character blended with spirituality, sympathy, devotion, intelligence, efficiency and a sincere generosity, sweetened by the pain of self-denial.

The study period was in charge of Mrs. Thos. Wilson, and introduced the new study book, "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," which will help missionary women to share in the celebration, this year of the nineteen hundredth anniversary of Pentecost.

One gratifying aspect of the meeting was that two thirds of the membership fees for the new year were paid at this first meeting.

Delegates were appointed to attend the Presbyterial meeting in Napanee on January 22nd and 23rd.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Wilson, February 6th, at 2 p.m., and it is hoped that all will be on time as a full program will be furnished as well as a report of the Presbyterial meeting.

The meeting was closed with singing and the Mizpah Benediction, after which Mrs. Close served a very bountiful lunch.

NO HONKS ALOUD

The Royal Automobile Club, of Oslo, Norway, maintains that no driver need use his horn within the boundaries of the city, that speed should always be so moderate that collisions can be avoided, and that cars turning corners at night give sufficient warning by their headlights. The club also proposes that the use of horns be made a punishable offense.

Finland is reported to have been experimenting with silent driving-satisfactory results and the police of Madrid have made a ruling under which automobile horn tooters are being fined for making excessive noise. Fines are from $2.50 to $4.00 for each offense.

CANDY BILL ENORMOUS

The annual candy bill of the Dominion of Canada as issued by the Department of Commerce represents a large outlay of money for confectionery sugar products. The candy, confectionery and chewing gum the Dominion spent in the last year amounted to $33,128,000 and this amount is nearly the average of the past eight years. Candy and confectionery include biscuits, chocolate cacao, ice cream, pop corn, and sugar products.

There were 12,486 employees of these manufactures and the amount spent in the wages was seven and a half million dollars. The capital invested is $50,000.

WHY MEN SWEAR

The proprietor of a St. Catherine street store stood in the editorial office of the local newspaper, purple with indignation.

"Look at my advertisement in your wretched paper!" he bellowed to the editor.

"Please be calm, and tell me what is wrong," said the editor soothingly.

"What's wrong?" cried the draper. "Why I sent in an advertisement reading 'We make men swear'—and here you put 'We make men swear!'"

WHEN SIX IS NINE

A little boy was balancing himself on his head, when an old lady, who knew him, came by.

"Aren't you too young to do that, my lad; you are only six?" she said.

"It's orlright; missis," replied the boy, without losing his balance. I'm nine while I'm upside down."

The bus pulled in to the curb, and the old lady boarded it with a request to the conductor that it should not start until she had climbed the stairs.

"Are you all right, madam?" he inquired, when she had reached the top.

"Yes," she replied, "just a minute. I'm coming down again."

Impatiently the conductor waited. Inside the passengers were beginning to get restless. The old lady descended and stepped off.

"Thank you so much," she said. "I'm not travelling today, but I thought I might go for a ride tomorrow, and I wanted to make sure that I could manage those stairs."

FIRST AND LAST WORD

After the locomotive had smashed a fiver at the crossing a flapper rose from the wreckage, uninjured, and powdered her nose. The engineer and others gathered around.

The flapper was indignant.

"I sounded my horn before you blew your whistle," she said defiantly.

The Submarine

One of Morgan Robertson's Best Yarns About the Subconscious Finnegan

Copyright by Harper & Brothers.

By wireless telegraphy, international code signal and dispatch boat gossip her existence was known to the allied fleets, but the world at large had learned of her, while yet in process of construction, through indiscreet official babbling at St. Petersburg and immediate publication of the news in the London Times.

Later on Japanese spies heard of her as far inland as Lake Baikal, coming along on a flat car of the Siberian railroad, and so reported, but at Harbin all trace of her was lost—it was not known whether she would proceed farther east to Vladivostok or whether she would turn south and take to the sea from Newchwang, Shanhaikwan or Port Arthur. But, though her whereabouts was doubtful, her plans and specifications were known to every officer on every ship from Vladivostok to Shanghai, and to all lookouts, searchlight men and boat parties instructions were given to watch for an object resembling small, thin telegraph poles sticking out of the water.

This would be her periscope—all that would show when she had risen to the surface for a peep around. For the rest, according to specifications, she was sixty-three feet long, cigar shaped, with five torpedoes and a tube in her nose, a gasoline engine for surface running and a reversible motor dynamo, drawing power from a storage battery charged by itself for submarine work. With ballast tanks empty she floated high and could easily be seen. With these filled with water she sank to the awash condition, from which she could dive out of sight in a few seconds by the aid of her motion and horizontal rudders.

But, with every tank full and her engine stopped, she still possessed a reserve buoyancy which would bring her slowly to the surface. She could travel awash 400 miles; submerged, fifty. In this radius of action she could expend her five Whitehead torpedoes and return to port again and again for more.

Her torpedoes were miniature models of herself, with thirty knot speed, automatic controlling gear to replace the human intelligence within the motor boat and a 220 pounds charge of gun-cotton in their heads that exploded on impact.

Her mission was secret and unseen; her blow sudden and deadly; and even though she struck no blow her presence in eastern seas was of more in-tory to the morale of the crews than was the gunfire of action, for she was conducive to neurasthenia; officers were an earless, worried look, fearful for his nerves to stop so suddenly, and, as it was given him to be the first one to see that inverted wedge while out at the end of the boat boom, he promptly sang out the news to the bridge and then fell overboard.

The ship was anchored in a deep and narrow strait, with a swift but smooth tide running past. Mr. Felton was officer of the deck; he saw Finnegan fall, saw the circular steel object coming up on the port quarter and immediately ordered a boat cleared away for the one and the secondary battery for the other, while all hands rushed on deck and the captain and other officers joined him on the bridge.

But Finnegan needed no boat; he slid up sprawling on the turtle back of the oncoming submarine. And the latter needed no immediate attention from the battery, for a circular hatch flew up from the top of the conning tower, and a keen eyed, shrewd faced man popped his head out, yelled incomprehensible things in a strange tongue at Finnegan, finished with a profane request in good English to come amidships and trim the boat, which Finnegan obeyed, and steered the curious craft up under the boat boom, where he slowed down, by which time the cutter lowered, for Finnegan was in the water.

"On board the submarine!" shouted Mr. Felton through a megaphone. "What's your name and nationality?"

"Thunder and blazes!" answered the man in the conning tower. "Are you English? I thought you were Russian. Well, darn my fool soul!"

"Keep your hands up in sight," called the lieutenant. "Don't move a lever or we'll sink you. This is his majesty's ship Argyll. Come aboard and give an account of yourself. Step into that cutter."

"Wait," interrupted the Argyll's captain. "Before you leave empty your ballast tanks. You are too low in the water—too submerged."

"Empty now, captain," answered the skipper of the lesser craft. "We've got the equivalent down aft in the bilges. The tailshaft was badly packed and the engine room's nearly full of water. We've stopped the leak. Oh, I'm a fool. Suppose I make fast to your boat boom first. There'll be no strain on it. I'm getting water with the diving rudder hard down to trim her against that weight of water and must keep her turning over or she'll sit on her tail."

"Do so," answered Mr. Felton. "Finnegan, take that man's place at the wheel and steer after the boat boom."

"Steer small," said the captain to Finnegan as he climbed out of the hatch and stood knee deep on the submerged deck. "It's an air engine steering gear. Don't touch anything but the wheel."

The old man, shaky with age and nerves, floundered into the conning tower and took the wheel—the upper spokes of which were visible to those on the high bridge of the battleship—while the boat's commander waded forward on the round and unstable platform to where a rig bolt showed through the water.

"Strikes me," he said, with a quizzical glance at Finnegan and at those above, "that there's no real necessity of a second man getting wet feet when the first is drenched through. But I'm not boasting this."

He was doomed to a worse wetting. He had fastened the end of a line thrown him from the boom to the rig bolt and was reaching for a handing jacob's ladder to climb to the boom when those above saw him sink out of sight; then they saw the open conning tower rush forward, settling as it came. Some saw Finnegan's face, with its look of painted amazement; others only heard his yell: "Leggo me legs—leggo! Lemme out!"

Then Finnegan and the conning tower went under, the rope snapped, and the water was smooth but for the ripples caused by the swimming captain and a line of large, irregular bubbles that stretched ahead for a hundred feet and stopped.

It happened so suddenly that not a shot was fired, though every gun in the port battery was trained and ready. Not a gunner on board would shoot at Finnegan unless ordered, and Mr. Felton had not given the word. But he ordered the boat after it had picked up the swimmer to pull ahead ready for Finnegan or any others who might have climbed out of that open hatch against the inrush of water, and in ten minutes, none appearing at the surface, he called it back. Drenched and dripping, the submarine boat's commander was brought into the presence of the captain and officers of the battleship.

"Well, sir," asked the big captain sternly of the officer, "what explanation have you to offer of this trick?"

"No trick at all, sir," answered the pale and crestfallen man. "I suppose that my engineer and my quartermaster, who attends to the diving gear, took a chance that I would not. If they die I am merely a prisoner. If they live I am disgraced."

"Disgraced? You, an Englishman, serving Russia, talk of disgrace?"

"An American, captain, who never saw England," answered the man, with dignity; "an officer of twenty years' service in the imperial navy; Lieutenant Bronsonsky, in command of the Russian torpedo boat Veliza—plain Jim Bronson back in Indiana."

"What happened to your boat?"

"None of my men understands English. Some one gave full speed to the motor under which we were running. The diving rudder was inclined. It balanced her at half speed, but at full speed made her dive. If they succeeded in closing that hatch in time they may save their lives, but not the boat."

"Is the hatch easily closed?"

"A strong spring keeps it up and also down when pulled past a dead center. A man must reach up for it against the downpour of water. I doubt that it could be done."

"How about air? Is there enough?"

"Plenty of compressed air and a reserve store of oxygen. If they escape drowning they will starve before they will suffocate."

"But why," asked the captain, "did you approach us so unwisely?"

"Now, captain," answered Bronson, with some hesitation, "you are stretching the hide of the bear. I do not know. Russian diplomacy, I suppose. I can tell this much, however. My orders were to conceal myself until I reported to the admiral of the outer squadron, except that in this strait I was to deliver verbal information to a battleship, which, alone of the Russian fleet, was ignorant of the news that I carried."

"And the news?"

"It is known to the world and to you—the presence in eastern seas of five English submarines."

The captain smiled and bowed. "Yes; known to the world, for we have been at pains to advertise it. It is demoralizing to an enemy to have him feel that at any moment a submarine may creep up unseen and torpedo him. We are now, thanks to your mistake, freed from this strain upon our nerves. How did you make such a mistake?"

"Why," said Bronson, coloring, "I simply took you for the Russian ship."

"Inferior in armor, armament, and marksmanship," said the captain dryly. "She went to Weihaiwei yesterday as an English ally."

"But, captain," interposed Mr. Clarkson in sudden alarm, "are we free from this strain upon the nerves? What is to prevent that boat from coming back and torpedoing us? They have Finnegan. They must know we are English."

"You need not fear," answered Bronson serenely. "She is helpless, and when the tide has drifted her to 300 feet depth she will be crushed in by the pressure."

"Did you inform your men that you were captured?"

"No," said Bronson, knitting his brows. "They couldn't have known. I only told your man in English to steer small and to touch nothing but the wheel."

"Were you running under the motor?" asked the executive.

"Yes," answered Bronson. "It was the only precaution that I took."

"Was there a starting switch in the conning tower?"

"Yes." Bronson's face lighted. "And your man"—

"Finnegan's luck perhaps, captain," interrupted Mr. Clarkson. "You know your theory."

"You think he started the motor?" asked the captain. "But why? Was he intoxicated?"

"There's the rub," answered the officer doubtfully. "He was sober as the chaplain. Now, if he were drunk I would swear that trouble was coming and that Finnegan would be in it—an instrument of Providence, as you call him. But he was sober—beastly sober."

"Yes, I know," said the captain. "But what trouble threatens us more than did that submarine, now on the bottom? We have command of these seas."

"I don't know. And Finnegan was lead sober. Had you any whisky, vodka or other intoxicant in that boat, lieutenant?"

"Not a drop," answered Bronson. "Nor any alcohol, nor varnish."

"Well," said Mr. Clarkson, "if he was drunk, I could get drunk, I'd be ready for trouble. But he was sober, and of course, being sober, he didn't start the motor. He's done for, captain."

"I believe so," answered the captain. "In fact, I see no hope for any one who went down in that boat."

The captain noticed a strange expression on Bronson's face. "You see, Lieutenant Bronson," he said to the puzzled prisoner of war, "your man Finnegan occupies a peculiar position with regard to service regulations. Several times by being drunk and under control of his betters he has been the means of saving this ship and our lives. So, trusting that no harm will come to her that is not already come, we permit him to drink all he pleases.

"If he were drunk and had started your boat to the bottom we might believe that he did so for some purpose known only to God and his own subliminal self, but he was sober, so our Mother is useless. Make yourself at home among my officers. You are on parole."

So Lieutenant Bronson of the Russian navy became for the time a supernumerary officer of his Britannic majesty's battleship Argyll and, clad in an undress uniform loaned by one of the English officers, mounted to the forward upper fighting top, where, with the exception of Finnegan on board—borrowed from the captain—he was

MY VISIT TO THE ROYAL WINTER FAIR

Submitted by
Wilkie Seeley, H.M.D. No. 2, Bath

A free trip to the Royal Winter Fair! Few boys have the opportunity of knowing the advantages of such a statement, let alone the ever changing wonder of the trip itself.

As I had travelled little, the trip was a revelation in itself, but many things held my attention far more, and the novelty soon wore off.

To my mind the most interesting part of my whole experience were the Royal Winter Fair itself and the Farmers' Co-Operative Plant.

To know the Fair well, one should spend all his time at it, but since my interest centered around the live stock and vegetables, I will explain why this interested me most. The cattle and horses held my divided attention and they were certainly wonderful. Cattle of every breed gave me a splendid idea of the bettering of farm stock. Such clean, well proportioned animals, depicted clearly what better breeding means, and also what wonderful results can be had from good sanitary conditions. Beef and milch cows suitable to every type of farm condition and for the betterment of the farmer's income, attracted me to a great extent.

The Maritime display of live stock, including the much famed breed of cows—the Guernseys—also interested me. Here we have a group of neighboring provinces, under practically the same conditions, yet being nearer the sea, which can produce the Guernseys.

The horses, especially the draft types, drew my attention again, for since the advent of cars and tractors, work horses are becoming more and more of paramount importance, and the excellent breeding and types shown still show their use on the farm.

Vegetables, grains and apples from our own province and others in the Dominion also interested me, and the use of good seed and proper attention was easily and clearly demonstrated.

Along with all these things, the excellent displays of the finest of products made my observations pleasant, interesting and very instructive.

The Farmers' Co-Operative Plant was my next source of pleasure and instruction. Outside of many minor things, the first thing that fascinated me was the making of butter. Here we saw cream divided into two grades, weighed and tested in practically one operation. The grading of the cream proving to our eyes that first grade was of more benefit and value as well as of more sanitary condition helped later to stress the value of clean, wholesome looking cows.

Milk fed chickens next were shown us and the quality of flesh when compared with that of the ordinary fed chickens was a surprise. This gave an excellent use of skimmed milk, besides giving it to boys. Milk fed chickens would naturally bring a much higher price from buyer and consumer and therefore would increase the profits greatly.

Along with chickens, came the killing and dressing. A labor and time saving method of killing and picking chickens was presented and a skilful hand picking a chicken in forty seconds reduced time to a minimum. This, on days before poultry day, would indeed prove a boon to farmer.

Eggs were also graded and proved a very profitable instruction.

The buildings of the Massey-Harris Co. drew much enthusiasm and many were pleased to see the machines which were used every day of the year turned out before our watching eyes. Discs were cut out at amazing speed, and bolts made and threaded in as short a time. Steel wheels, for our cultivators and ploughs were turned out much to our satisfaction. Here we had a chance of seeing how our implements were made, as well as the quality of the material and the work that was put on them. Tractors were also brought under our observation and were shown from the chassis to the completed part. These tractors were for our own use as well as that of other lands.

In the showroom we had the privilege of viewing machinery assembled which was to be used in some future time. New harrows, disc harrows, ploughs, as well as combine threshers were demonstrated. Many of the new machines were of the latest invention and many labor and time saving devices were shown.

Our visit to the Union Stock Yards was also very interesting. Here we saw the cattle herded and penned under sanitary conditions and kept well under cover. This showed us our stock after it had left our hands and was shipped to the buyer, and made a very favorable impression.

In connection with the killing and dressing of cows and pigs, we were taken to an extensive sight seeing trip in Swift's Meat Packing plant. Here we were allowed to view beef being cut in regulation style and handled under the most sanitary conditions. We were also impressed by the huge display of dressed beef and pork, in the colling department which is continually in motion. Various kinds of meats, such as bacon and sausages, were shown in the process of curing and even the wrapper with the Swift's brand was placed on the completed product, before our vision.

On the more commercial side of our trip we were shown the Mail Order Department of the T. Eaton Co. Here we had a chance of viewing the way our goods were put up and shipped to us by mail in all parts of the province from this huge establishment. This proved of real interest since so many families in rural comunities use the mail order system.

Through the courtesy of our government, we were allowed the great privelege of visiting our Provincial Parliament Buildings. Here, where men of the greatest ability serve us, we were allowed to sit and view the room through which so many powerful leaders have passed and held sway.

Lastly, I would like to bring to mind, the hospitality, banquets and good will brought to us through the courtesy of the above mentioned companies and others. We're not for these kind and considerate people who devoted so much of their time to our welfare, our trip would have at least not been as great a pleasure. However, in every way, we enjoyed one of the most profitable and instructive trips that could possibly be given to young farmers.

sult in more satisfaction to those who are in need of the services of the Council, and I have no doubt, will result in a saving of a great many dollars of the ratepayers' money. It will also save embarrassment and loss of time to people who have, heretofore, made their applications to Councillors in that man's office or place of business.

I mention this matter in the hope that it will be adopted by the Councillors during the year as the policy of the committees. Many good men are kept out of municipal governments who would be valuable to their municipality, simply because they refuse to use the amount of time which is required to be used should they follow the practice which some have followed in the past.

I must also congratulate each member of the Council upon his election to office. The citizens have apparently made a wise selection, and the body of men which is now assembled as the 1930 Council is apparently composed of men who are well fitted and are capable of carrying on the work of the town for this year.

May I congratulate the Reeve, Mr. Tustin, upon his election by acclamation. Mr. Tustin is the only one of us upon whom the people conferred this honor. I trust that he will continue to occupy the chair as our representative in the County Council as he had done in the past, and where he has a large number of firm friends. The congratulations of all of us are his due.

May I conclude these remarks by expressing the hope that every Councillor who is in charge of a Committee will discharge his duties with an earnestness and thoroughness which will at all times do him credit. May I particularly advise each man that in the event of any friction creeping up, as I trust it shall not, but as it so often does in the administration of public business, that the quickest means possible be taken of ironing out the difficulty. The best work can only be done when there are no quarrels or bickerings, and where complete harmony reigns.

I trust that we may proceed with the work of the year with quiet, cool determination, that the result may prove us all worthy of the confidence reposed in us, that we may at the end of the year offer our account to the electors without embarrassment and without fear of criticism.

Economy is practised by all Councils. It is not necessary to refer to that. Each man may be depended on, I feel sure, to exert every influence in that direction.

The Council for the past year has left a good record and we should try to equal it, even if we may not excel.

In conclusion, may I appeal to you as a body, and may I appeal to each individual member of this Council to give me his whole-hearted support during this year. If there are any personal animosities, or any likes or dislikes, let us discard all these, and work together for the common interest of the municipality which we serve, without fear, favor or affection.

J. M. SIMPSON.

Moved by Reeve Tustin, seconded by Councillor Fitzpatrick, that the Mayor's address be received and adopted, and laid on the table until this evening, and that the press be asked to print the same. Carried.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Thomas Doyle

The death occurred at her home near Marlbank, on Saturday, January 4th, 1930, of Margaret Garrett, beloved wife of Thomas Doyle, after a lingering illness of over a year, at the age of seventy years.

Although at times her sufferings were intense, her great patience and cheerful resignation were marvellous. Her room was always the sunshine of the home, the family gathering there to receive her words of cheer and encouragement. At all times she had a smile and a grateful word, for those who nursed her.

She was conscious until the last, and fortified by the rites of the Holy Church, was resigned to the will of God, although she loved her family and expressed the desire to spend a little longer with them.

In her death, the community suffers the loss of a kind neighbor, ever ready to sacrifice her time to the care and needs of others.

Besides her sorrowing husband, she is survived by a family of seven children, John, James and William at home; Mrs. J. P. Dewey, Moscow, Bridget, of Erinsville; Margaret, at home, and Mrs. Stanley McGrath, Erinsville.

The funeral which was held to the Church of the Assumption, Bringhurst, on Monday, January 6th, was largely attended by relatives and friends, the Rev. Father O'Hanlon officiating. Thence her remains were placed in the vault to wait interment in the spring. May she rest in peace.

Mrs. Raymond Fretts gave a synopsis of the first chapter in the Handy Guide to the laws of Ontario. Music. A paper on "Laws regarding the making of wills," was read by Mrs. Arthur Galt, followed by "Current Events," by Mrs. Bert Fretts. Mrs. J. W. Cummings very ably demonstrated how to wheel a set of men's Xmas socks. Mrs. Neil Hill donated 50c to the Xmas fund, making the total amount $17.85, of which we are justly proud. Collection amounted to $1.30, with an attendance of 14. The meeting was closed by singing the National Anthem, after which a social half hour was spent over the teacups. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered our hostess also lunch committee manifested in the usual way.

BAY CIRCUIT WEST W. M. S.

The W. M. S. of Bay Circuit West held its first meeting of the New Year at the home of Mrs. F. Parks on Wednesday January 8th, with an attendance of eighteen and three visitors. The president opened the meeting with hymn, "He Leadeth Me," followed with prayer by Mrs. C. B. Parks. The president read the scripture lesson and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. This was followed by the Treasurer's report which was very encouraging. A number paid their fees, after which came the roll call. Mrs. C. B. Parks gave an interesting talk on the missionary work being done in China. All joined in singing of the hymn, "God Will Take Care of You." After its conclusion Mrs. F. Parks gave an interesting paper on New Year's resolutions, which was enjoyed by all. The collection was then taken and Rev. Beckel explained a chapter in the Study Book, from "Jerusalem to Jerusalem." The meeting was closed with prayer. Mrs. Parks then served a very dainty lunch and a vote of thanks was moved to the hostess for her hospitality. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Karl Sexsmith.

The Submarine

able to report unofficially, but decisively, on the character of a long, low, destroyer type of craft that crept around the headland downstream, hovered a few minutes and then hurried seaward at thirty knots, followed by about half a ton of steel from the Argyll's six inch and secondary guns.

"Russian scout boat," he remarked to the deck, then turned his glasses elsewhere on the smooth waters of the strait, where might appear some traces of his lost boat or his men. Late in the afternoon, when the tide had turned and gained its maximum strength, he called attention to something that glistened in the sun far over toward the other shore, and soon after he pointed out another such object just behind it, then another, farther out in the stream, then a fourth, far to the rear of them all.

"Torpedoes?" he called to the bridge beneath. "They've shot them out to lighten her."

He turned his glass around for a moment, then hailed again. "Man overboard!" and pointed dead ahead. Bronson came down to the bridge.

The man could be seen, with the naked eye—a swarthy, bearded fellow, who swam remarkably high out of water. But Bronson, after another inspection, stopped the comment on this by the quiet remark: "He's not swimming at all. He's riding a torpedo. Look out for it, gentlemen, for you'll find the safety gear unscrewed from the detonator. That's my engineer."

Whitehead torpedoes, being standardized, are valuable to any craft carrying tubes, and boats were sent to bring them in, one of which brought also the bearded Russian engineer. Mr. Bronson translated his story.

"It was the quartermaster," he said, "who reached up and moved the starting switch in the conning tower. He easily surmised by my talking in a language strange to Finnegan that we were captured."

"But did anybody drown?" asked Mr. Clarkson eagerly. "Where's Finnegan? How did that man get out?"

"Some must have drowned," went on Bronson gravely. "The quartermaster got Finnegan out of the way and closed the hatch, and then she was bumping along the bottom, unable to rise even by her own motion against the diving rudder—hard up. They shot out the torpedoes, but still she would not rise. Then they drew lots and ejected themselves one by one.

"The quartermaster swam to a torpedo and was rescued by that scout boat, but the rest must have drowned, for the engineer did not see them."

"But who remained behind?" asked Mr. Clarkson. "Who drew the fatal number?"

"Finnegan."

"Poor old Finnegan!" groaned the executive officer. "Done for at last! He has saved thousands of lives when drunk and now must die, sober and instructed, to save a half dozen enemies."

The groan echoed mentally through out the ship, and men went to their sleep that night praying for the soul of the gentle and ridiculous old man they had loved.

But at daylight there were other things to think of. Sharp firing was heard, and there staggered around the headland below a large merchant built steamer with huge derricks fitted to each mast, a few small, quick fire guns mounted in high places and barking as she came, the white naval ensign of Britain flying from each mast and gaff and a volume of smoke belching upward from amidships.

She was afire, and she was perceptibly down by the head, proving that at least one compartment was filled.

"The mother ship, lieutenant," explained the captain as Bronson appeared on the bridge. "She carries our five submarines and a holdful of Whiteheads. Your friends are after her."

"And after you, too, captain," answered Bronson. "Look there." He pointed to the upper end of the strait, where, far out over the gray sea, were five grayer spots from each of which, even as they looked, came a twinkle of flame. "That scout boat has reported you."

"And you, too, lieutenant," answered the captain grimly. "She rescued one of your men. What will happen to you for losing that boat?"

"The salt mines of Siberia for me," answered Bronson. "I am pondering on the ethics of desertion."

The captain glanced inquiringly at him, then said, "I will release you from parole if you wish."

"Thank you, sir. I accept the release officially, but will always maintain it personally between you and myself. But I am still pondering. I cannot desert yet. Please put me in irons."

The captain smiled. "No," he said. "You cannot escape."

Being a prisoner no longer under parole, Bronson left the bridge, and by this time two fountains of water had arisen on the smooth waters of the strait perilously near to the Argyll, proving that the men behind those twinkles of flame had the range.

Then two booming shots came over the sea, but the Argyll remained at anchor and waited.

The scout boat behind the headland below had not ceased, and soon appeared, three miles out, however—the scout boat of the day before. She passed slowly across the opening, firing at the mother ship, but maintaining a safe distance. Then a three funneled, high sided, armored cruiser appeared in view, then a short, bulky battleship and another smaller cruiser. All directed their fire at the reeling mother ship, coming on in her smoke, her crew working at the heavy forward crane.

"Only three submarines on her deck," remarked the captain as he viewed her through his glass. "She has left two of them somewhere. I wonder if they're near by."

She was now the two ships coming on from above, battleships evidently, changed their fire from the Argyll to the other, and their range finders were good, and their aim was good, and the shell that they sent were heavy, and when one lifted a shower of water over the whole slanting deck of the mother ship the Argyll acted.

She was caught in a trap, but that unarmored, unprotected mother with her five small ducklings needed her care, and, lifting her anchor, she steamed out to meet her, the secondary battery silent the while, but the after turret guns belching at the two ships at sea, the forward ones at the battleship, the two cruisers and the scout.

And her range was good and her range finding excellent, and the shells she sent so much heavier than those sent at her that with a little more time she might have saved that distracted mother, for the two cruisers and the scout withdrew from range as fast as their horsepower would admit.

But the battleship remained broadside to the target, flame, smoke and pointed steel coming from her turrets, and every fountain of water raised by these pointed steel shells closer to the fleeing mother ship than the last, until finally one struck her in the stern and raked through her length. She separated into fragments.

It was not an instantaneous explosion. Beginning at the stern, she seemed to split in two, while a line of rising flame and smoke traveled forward. Then the two sides disintegrated and sank. The masts leaned—one forward, the other aft—and fell. A cigar shaped submarine boat swung high at the forward derrick went higher in air and fell into the turmoil beneath, while two others, lifted sidewise from the shattered halves of the hull, whirled end over end and fell into the sea.

Up and out from this riot of destructive forces came a huge expanding cloud of black and yellow smoke, while over the sea, echoing and reverberating against the wooded shores of the strait, went a crashing continuity of sound as of a repeated drum call of artillery.

Every Whitehead in the hold had exploded separately, and when the cloud had thinned there was nothing left of the mother ship but a few floating fragments of wood and, showing for one instant before it sank, the round coming tower of a single submarine.

And now the Argyll received the gunfire of the three ships, one and a mile below her, the other two, breast to breast, coming down the strait. The cruisers and the scout boat were still going. They seemed to be agitated, smoking hard from their funnels and flying numerous small flags in different combinations. The battleship they had deserted, though weaker than the Argyll, steamed boldly into the strait, and, as she was already close enough, the latter stopped her engines and drifted with the tide. Then the two ships above slowed down, and, the Argyll in the center, there ensued one of the hammer and tongs, give and take conflicts from which the big English battleship had ever

"CAPTAIN COOK AT NOOTKA"

The first Atlantic voyages were made with the object of reaching Asia. The discovery of a new continent was purely accidental. Only gradually did the vast extent of America become known. Everywhere explorers looked for an opening in the barrier. The sailor sought for a North-West Passage as eagerly and persistently as the inland voyageurs looked for the river that flowed into the Western Sea.

Sir Francis Drake in 1579 had made his way round the southern trip of the continent into the Pacific, and sailed up the Western coast as far north as the present day California; but he found no channel that would lead him home to England by the Atlantic, and he was forced to circle the globe to return. In the 18th Century the Russians sailed from the eastern shores of Asia and reached what is now Alaska and British Columbia. The Spaniards sent expeditions from Mexico and California. But no break in the land was found. Legends of a great strait leading eastward grew up, to match the stories told in Canada of a westward flowing river and a great salt lake.

England entered on the search in 1776. In that year, while discontent in the colonies on the Atlantic Coast was breaking out into rebellion and a declaration of independence, the British Government fitted out two ships for a voyage of discovery in the Pacific, with orders to return along the Northern Coast of America, if a possible route in that direction could be found. The command was given to Captain James Cook.

Cook was the son of a Yorkshire farm laborer. He was born with a taste for the sea, and became a sailor in the merchant service, in which he spent several years. When war broke out in 1755 he joined the Royal Navy at the age of twenty-seven, and soon attracted the attention of his superiors officers by his ability and his strict attention to his duties. He served in the fleet which carried Wolfe's army to Quebec, and during the siege Cook was employed in taking soundings and making charts of the St. Lawrence. While engaged in this work he came under the notice of Captain Simcoe, the father of the future first Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada, who commanded one of the ships besieging Quebec. Captain Simcoe took a warm interest in the clever and conscientious young sailing-master and gave him instruction in navigation and mathematics. In 1760 Cook received a commission and for some years thereafter was employed on the coasts of the Gulf and the North Atlantic. Here he won the esteem of Admiral Graves, who also was connected with Sir Simcoe family. Always eager to learn, and endowed with mental powers of a high order, he gained the reputation of being one of the most capable navigators in the service. In 1766 Cook was appointed commander of a scientific expedition to the South Sea. So successful was this voyage that he was given charge of a second expedition which from 1772 to 1775 explored the Southern Hemisphere.

When the Government projected a further voyage of discovery in the Pacific and in search of a North-West Passage, Captain Cook was regarded as the officer qualified to conduct the expedition, and to him accordingly was given the command. He sailed from the English Channel with his two ships, the Resolution and the Discovery, in July 1776. After visiting New Zealand and many of the islands of the Pacific, he proceeded toward the north-west coast of America.

Early in March, 1778, he came in sight of the land. Boisterous gales drove the ships off the coast for several days, but sailing northward he reached Nootka Sound on Vancouver Island. Here Cook remained for almost all the month of April, repairing his vessels, the masts and rigging of which were badly damaged, and laying in supplies of wood and water. Having put his ships into good condition, he resumed his voyage, still sailing northward along the coast of Alaska, which he examined carefully in the hope of finding a passage that might lead to the east. He passed through Bering Strait until he found his progress barred by solid ice. It was now nearing the end of August; too late in the season to attempt to return by a northern passage, if one existed. Cook, therefore, decided to turn back to the Sandwich Islands (now known as Hawaii), and spend the winter exploring the Pacific in that neighborhood until the next summer, when he would make another attempt to find a passage, though from his observations, he had little hope of success.

He did not live to try the search again. Disputes arose with the Hawaiian natives, and in an encounter with them, Cook was killed. After his death, Captain Clerke, who succeeded to the command, made a final effort to reach the north-eastward, but ice again stopped progress. Clerk died, and the two ships, under the command of Captain Gore, returned to England by way of Asia and the Cape of Good Hope in October 1780.

Expeditions of scientific discovery such as this usually included in their parts a draftsman, who made pictorial records of the places and peoples visited. On Cook's last voyage he was accompanied by a young artist named John Weber, born in London of Swiss parentage. Weber made numerous sketches during the voyage, he was present at Cook's death, of which he later made a drawing, and on his return to England was engaged for some years in preparing the finished drawings and supervising the engravings from them which were published in the account of the expedition. He was elected a member of the Royal Academy, and won a considerable reputation as a landscape painter. Both he and Cook were keen and accurate observers. Webber's drawings give valuable details of the physical character of the natives, their costumes, implements and dwellings, and of the scenery of the countries explored. On these drawings and on Cook's admirably graphic written descriptions, the accompanying illustration is based.

Cook tells us that the Indians of Nootka were in general below the average height, with plump fingers, round broad faces, high cheek-bones, flat nose and wide nostrils, thick lips, abundant coarse black hair and sometimes this straggling beards. They were clothed in garments made of tree-bark, beaten into fibres which were knotted and plaited together to form a rough fabric, and edged with a narrow strip of fur. Sometimes a fur skin was worn over the bark garments. Their ears and noses were decorated with shells, bones, rings or pieces of brass and copper. Some, especially the women, were conical hats made of woven straw, and these, as well as their bark clothing were ornamented with painted designs. Several of the men wore wooden masks carved to represent the heads of birds or animals.

Their weapons were bows and arrows, slings, clubs of bone, stone tomahawks, and spears, tipped with bone or flint, or, in a few cases, copper or iron.

They travelled in canoes, many of them forty feet or more in length, dug out of tree trunks, with large projecting prows, carved and painted to represent animal figures.

Their houses were about seven or eight feet high, built of planks roughly hewn, with holes cut out for windows, and the roof planks laid loosely so that they could be moved to give light and air. Mats of coarse bark fibre or straw, and well made wooden boxes for seats and storage purposes, were their furnishings. Inside and outside, thin poles were set up, on which fish were suspended to dry in the sun or in the smoke of their fires.

At the end of the single-roomed houses farthest from the door, were placed large tree trunks, five or six feet high, carved into the shapes of men, beasts or birds and painted in strong vivid colors. These images, commonly known to-day as totem poles, apparently in Cook's time were to be found only inside the houses. None of Webber's drawings show any totem poles outside in front of the houses. He gives a view of an interior with two large carved images, as Cook describes them.

It must have been a difficult task to carve these figures and to hew their heavy planks and their canoes with the crude implements of stone or bone which were their only tools before the white man brought them metals. Cook found that some of them had pieces of iron, brass and copper, sometimes fixed to handles like chisels, which doubtless they had procured in trade with other Indians in contact with white men, or from Spanish and British ships. He says that the natives were eager to get metal of any kind, for which they traded the most valuable furs; and a brisk and profitable trade sprang up between them and the sailors who loaded themselves with skins of the seal and sea-otters which they afterward sold for high prices in China on their way home. By the time the ships left Nootka, hardly a bit of metal was left aboard except what belonged to their instruments. Bureau handles, copper kettles, tin canisters, candlesticks, all were gladly taken, while whole suits were stripped off their brass buttons and the sailors had to tie their garments together with bits of string. What the natives could not get by barter they tried to get by theft, and a cleverly executed watch had to be kept to prevent spikes, nails, chains, knives and all kinds of steel tools from being stolen by the Indians.

Cook speaks of the excellence of their decorative designs, and of their skill in handicraft, of which their thievish abilities were perhaps a perversion. With metal tools in their capable hands, they were able to produce more rapidly and in a greater degree of finish. Most of the large totem poles in our museums no doubt date from this time, and the arts and crafts of the West while traders flocked to the North Pacific in search of furs. To-day, the art of the Indians of British Columbia is recognized as being among the highest expressions of the aesthetic capacity of the natives of North America.

CHATWORTH SAGE'S PREDICTION OF WEATHER

A little over two months ago thousands of folks in Toronto read a story in the papers, silently supressed a contemptuous chuckle, and mentally remarked, "Bologna."

But the last laugh is on the skeptics, and it's a mighty frigid snicker, for the story was of Chatsworth Sage's prediction that Winter would begin in real earnest about Nov. 27. His prediction appeared in the papers here on Sept. 27. In all this zero-blasted city, there is no one today who will deny that James B. Bowes was right.

He said it, and he meant it. He claimed that he was right 85 per cent. of the time, as far as Toronto is concerned he is right 100 per cent. of the time.

ALSO TOLD OF GALES

Nov. 27 was Wednesday, and it wasn't so hot. Yesterday and to-day are about Nov. 27, and a shivering city knows all about the weather. It doesn't have to be told—now. The Chatsworth sage also remarked two months ago that the arrival of winter would be accompanied by heavy gales.

In the light of that success, maybe the folks will listen now to what Mr. Bowes has to say. He said that this Christmas will be a real one, with one of the heaviest snowfalls in years. December he said, would be pretty bad, but it won't be all that. There will be a truce, with the cold from the third to the fifteenth of the month.

How does he do it? The planets, says the sage, hold the secrets which are frequently fairly well concealed, even for the very near future, from the delicate instruments and searching calculations of the Government bureau scientists who are collectively known as the Weatherman, a personage of considerable repute.

USES NAUTICAL ALMANAC

James B. Bowes' father went to university in Scotland. After coming to Canada, the father made a hobby of applying his astronomical lore to the future. The mother was nearly perfect, the son claims, and the knowledge was passed on to him. His "Bible," and the book from which he reads these signs and wonders are the British Nautical Almanac.

The Sage will as willingly foretell the meteorological events of 1930 as 1929. He says it is going to be a very bad year for the farmers.

"It looks like an awfully bad spring for fall wheat," he declares. "The snow will go off too soon and there'll be some pretty late frosts, especially one about the 15 of June."

FIRST NINE MONTHS

January—Mild and moderate, with one storm near the end of the month.

February—A heavy storm in the first half, when Venus passes the earth, with the last half unseasonably mild.

March—Milder and drier than usual, with spring coming early in the month.

April—Dry weather and average temperatures throughout the month.

May—A storm is due about the first of May with cold, frost and north winds. This will be followed by mild weather the rest of the month, with probably one wet spell.

June—Dry the first week or so, but with a long wet stretch starting the tenth and lasting right through the month. Strong, cool winds will accompany the heavy rains.

July—The June wet siege will extend into the first ten days of July, with the latter end of the month unusually warm. Conditions will be favorable for thunderstorms during the latter part.

August—The first part of the month will be decidedly warm. A rain storm will come around the 15th, to be followed by quite warm, dry weather.

September—A poor crop month, with parching dry weather throughout.

The whole of next fall, Bowes added, will be dry and mild with virtually no winter even in December.

WORTH MONEY, TOO

"All this," the speculatively inclined might remark, "should be worth money."

It is, if one wants money. The Sage, himself, is not much interested in it, even though he's Scotch. But they tell a story up Owen Sound way about a man who backed Bowes' predictions in the wheat market early in March with $2.00, and sold his holdings in September for $900. The Sage himself has never speculated in the market.

WHY THE TRAFFIC JAMS

"I hate those impromptu complexions, don't you?"

"What do you mean?"

Treasure Trove on the Spanish Main

It is no wonder the buccaneers loved to trove the Spanish Main. Something more than pieces of eight must have intrigued them; surely they were men of taste in spite of their bad habits! Today pirate- and privateers spend their boys with Davy Jones and there is no more violence worrying the tales of the West Indies. But the true treasure is still there, for the loved to enjoy it. The Canadian National Steamships are making preparations to lay the beauties of the West Indies open to treasure-hunters and, for the benefit of travellers, have already made arrangements to go to Bermuda or Jamaica or all the way down to Demerara. The photographs show one of the beautiful Canadian National steamers, the Lady Somers, at Jamaica, and two typical scenes which are enough to make anyone's mouth water, the cocoanut carrier, and the bananas going aboard the Lady Rodney at Kingston.

WEEK OF PRAYER IN NAPANEE

The three United Churches in Napanee observed the "week of prayer," during the past week. Services were held every evening and in spite of the unusually bad weather the services were well attended. The addresses centred around the general theme, "The devotional life." In addition to the local ministers each of whom had charge of one service, Rev. Robert Hall, of John St., Belleville, and Rev. George A. Brown, of Chalmers, Kingston, gave inspirational addresses.

KNIGHT MacGREGOR WON EXHIBITION PRIZE

Knight MacGregor, who is playing the Franz Schubert role of the popular operetta, "Blossom Time," coming to Toronto for its farewell appearance next week, first gained prominence when he won the Stutsbury Cup, emblematic of the Canadian National singing prize in 1913. This started him on a concert career from which he made a brief excursion into operetta when he played the lead in one of the original "Blossom Times" several years ago. Mr. MacGregor is said to be the best Schubert who ever played in "Blossom Time."

TRINITY CHURCH W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity Church was held on Tuesday afternoon, January 7th, at 3 o'clock. Owing to the very inclement weather attendance was smaller than usual, but nevertheless the meeting proved very interesting to those who had braved the downpour. Reports for the year were given by the Band, Circle and Auxiliary, the net total sent to the Presbyterial showing a decided increase over last year. Warm congratulations were extended to the Circle by the Secretary of Christian Stewardship for the substantial raise in their givings. Altogether the reports were most encouraging and the Society is looking forward to a still better year in 1930. After all reports were in the arrangements were made for our share of the entertainment of the Belleville Presbyterial, which is to meet in Grace Church on the 22nd and 23rd of January. The delegate from Trinity W. M.S. are Mrs. H. Pawson and Mrs. Ed. Kayler.

The business part of the meeting was followed by a solo from Mrs. Pawson, "Come Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove," after which Mrs. D. B. Wilson gave a comprehensive and interesting review of the first chapter of the study book, "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," by Helen Barrett Montgomery, which the Auxiliary is taking up this year.

The quarterly envelopes to be used in systematic giving were then distributed to the various members and the meeting closed with the benediction.

HOCKEY

Trenton 4, Napanee 2.

The first O.H.A. game to be played in Napanee took place at the arena on Friday evening, when Trenton Juniors defeated Napanee Juniors by a score of 4-2 in a well played game.

The game was late in starting, but the patience of the fair sized crowd was amply rewarded by the splendid exhibition of Canada's winter sport given by the contesting teams.

The first period was a whirlwind from start to finish, Napanee netting the first goal, Trenton the second and Napanee again forging ahead by scoring the third goal, the period ending 2-1 in favor of the local sextette.

The second period was scoreless, and it was quite evident that the team that was in the better condition would stand the best chance of winning.

The third period proved disastrous for the local boys, as Trenton netted three goals in a row; all of them being scored by the visitors' shifty little centre player, Bohan, and that boy is good.

While Trenton had the best of the play in the third period, our boys were trying hard and only good work on the part of Chambers, the visitors' goalie, kept the locals from scoring.

The general public do not realize the splendid brand of hockey these junior boys are playing, otherwise they would fill the arena to its capacity.

The next game to be played in Napanee will be on Friday, January 24th, when the Belleville boys will be here. Fans should not miss the opportunity of seeing these teams battle for supremacy.

Following is the line-up:

Referee—K. J. Colling, Belleville.

"FERDIE" ROCKWELL PIONEER OF HOCKEY

Played on Original Kingston Athletics Back in 1888

The passing of "Ferdie" Rockwell, who died in Detroit last week, brings to mind the fact that he was one of the first players who functioned in the first organized league in Canada, away back in 1888, as a member of the team of which James T. Sutherland was a defence player. "Ferdie" was the "kidd" member of the Kingston Athletics, who were defeated in the finals for the championship by Queen's University by the score of 3 to 0.

In speaking of the passing of the late Mr. Rockwell, Mr. Sutherland said that as a member of the staff of the old Master and Mines Wholesale dry goods emporium, "Perdie" was known to Kingston as a very fine upstanding type of citizen. Associated with him on the original Athletic hockey team were Jack Elliott in goal, Frank Raney and James T. Sutherland at the defence, with "Wicky" Wilson, Jack Renton, Hugh McRae and Tommy Parkin on the forward line.

"It is a very unique experience," says Mr. Sutherland, "for one to write an obituary, with reference to one who was known and beloved by all some 42 years ago—but one would be amiss in one's duty to an old clubmate—particularly as said clubmate was one of the pioneers of 'organized' hockey in Canada—if the occasion was allowed to pass without some fitting reference to a lad, who was a typical type of the clean high-grade sportsman, that Canada is ever proud to claim as her own. "Ferdie" has passed on to that wonderful land that is the final objective of all who have lived a clean and blameless life and many who recall his splendid manly demeanor, will, I am sure feel a throb of sympathy for those whom he has left behind, and will join in the certainty of his many friends in the knowledge that "all is well!" with one of Canada's pioneer exponents of our truly national game.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of The Beaver:

Dear Sir,—Please allow me a small space in your valuable paper to express my opinion with other ratepayers of our municipality (Richmond), in regard to the proceedings which took place at our nomination meeting held on the 30th of December, 1929. After the nomination closed a motion was introduced and carried by a small number of ratepayers that outside of the old council all others nominated shall be limited to fifteen minutes to address the ratepayers No one can surely explain the expenditure of four hundred thousand dollars or more, by the County and Township and the many ways and plans in which it is carried out and financed. As has been said anyone could take exception as to their method of financing and only the larger items can be explained in so short a time. The smaller items can be dealt with and it has been said that little foxes spoil the vines. We have always had free speech and that is why we have had large gatherings at our nominations." The ratepayers would like to know where their taxes go and the condition of affairs in our County and Township, and if this year's proceeding is a precedent, then I think the ratepayers will loose interest and will not attend the Nominations. It must have been a design to suppress the information that the ratepayers wished to hear. We have plenty of time for a full discussion of all matters pertaining to our County and Township in the afternoon.—A RATEPAYER.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

At last some headway has been made toward a local cage league.

* * *

Our brand-new and popular mayor has very generously donated a cup to be held by the basketball champs of the town for one year.

All we need now is some teams to compete for it.

* * *

At present only three have definitely decided to enter, Gibbard's and two from night school. But a loop with only these three teams would be very short and uninteresting.

* * *

The day-school has two teams, both of which could enter and the schedule could be so arranged that it would not interfere with either their work nor their Bay of Quinte engagements.

* * *

Then if "Pa Co." would gather up some other fellows like Les Merritt, Wally Vick and Pun Graham, who would still be floating around loose, to form a sixth team, everything would be lovely.

* * *

Some good sport should result if these teams can only be persuaded to enter.

The blue, yellow, blue travel to Albert College on Friday night for their first game of the year.

I pick Albert to win the senior group this year. They have a fast-travelling outfit and so with the superb coaching of Jimmy Grimmon, it looks as though they're the team to beat.

* * *

The Trenton team played nice hockey for the last two periods on Friday night.

But they had to, to beat the locals.

* * *

It was a real game and it is only a shame that there weren't more fans there.

* * *

The winners worked hard and deserved their victory.

They were all good skaters too. This department seems to be one in which the locals are weakest. With the exception of one or two, they seemed to have difficulty in going exactly where they wanted to—and then stopping when they got there.

* * *

However practice is what should remedy that.

THE BEAVER SANTA CLAUS FUND REPORT FOR 1929

The Beaver has collected and administered the Santa Claus Fund for another year. If the people of Napanee could realize what the fund has meant to a lot of little children we are sure it would receive much more popular support than at the present time. And if those who have contributed to it could have seen the pleasure and happiness their gifts made possible they would be amply repaid for their thoughtfulness. The amount of good that is done by this fund is limited to the amount of money available through popular subscription. Had it not been for this fund 170 children would have gone without a visit from Santa Claus and 60 families would have been without a Christmas dinner.

The Beaver wishes to thank all who had a part in this work. Miss Leamey and the ladies who, with her, week after week, met and prepared clothing, packed the stockings, and bought the gifts; the merchants who contributed articles, those who helped in the distribution on Christmas eve, and all who, by their givings, had a share in this work.

The following constitutes the gifts which were placed in the stockings of 170 children who were benefited by the fund:

190 pairs Stockings.
8 Windbreakers.
48 Sweaters
20 pairs Mittens.
6 Toques.
36 suits Fleece-Lined Underwear.
24 Dresses.
6 Pullovers.
20 pairs Overshoes.
6 pairs Boots.
14 dozen Oranges.
78 lbs. Candy.
20 lbs. Nuts.
170 Toys, Hockey Sticks, Dolls, etc.

A gift for each child.

In addition to the above, The Beaver Fund provided Christmas dinners for 60 families. For these the following provisions were bought:

220 lbs. Meat.
190 lbs. Flour.
150 lbs. Beans.
60 lbs. Mincemeat.
30 lbs. Tea.
60 tins Pears.
60 tins Tomatoes.
60 pecks Potatoes.
60 heads Cabbage.

SMALL POX NOTICE

Ontario Department of Health
Parliament Buildings,
Toronto

Dr. J. W. Willoughby,
Medical Officer of Health,
Napanee, Ontario.

Dear Doctor:—

From six different localities in Eastern Ontario have come reports recently of the presence of small pox; in some instances of individual cases, but in one of as many as forty cases. It is quite evident that we are to have a severe outbreak of the disease during the ensuing season in this end of the province.

One of the very best preventatives, and also as a means for controlling the disease when it actually exists in the Municipality, is the vaccination of all school children, and, as far as possible, of all other children in the municipality; I strongly advise that you take steps with your local Board of Health, as laid down in Section 12 of the Health Act, the issuing of an order for the compulsory vaccination of all school children. I also advise that when vaccination is being done in the schools, invitations be tendered to the parents to bring their pre-school children, and any other children not attending school to the clinic. An invitation also to any clergy in the Municipality who desire vaccination should also be included.

A poster reciting your authority under the above mentioned Section, and embodying the various invitations as above, has always proved of valuable assistance. This is a public Health measure on the part of the Health Officer, although he is allowed the statutory payment of 25c each, for the vaccination in addition to his usual salary.

Again bearing in mind that as a Public Health measure the Board of Health should offer this vaccination free to everyone in the Municipality. Anyone not wishing to take advantage of the free vaccination can have the same performed by his own physician.

Again I would strongly urge that you take active measures now so as to forestall a possible outbreak in your Municipality in the near future. Should you be so fortunate as to escape an outbreak, you still would have the knowledge that your people are protected practically for all their future lives. Of seventy four and five thousand cases of which I have personal knowledge, I have only seen six cases in persons who had at any time previously been vaccinated.

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) F. J. Maloney,
4a District Officer of Health.

TENDERS WANTED

Sealed tenders will be received by the Centreville Dairy Co. Ltd., for the drawing of milk, during the ensuing season also for drawing of cheese, either Lens or Enterprise. Tenders to state price per cwt. of milk, and price per box for cheese. Tenders to close Saturday, February 1st, 1930.

JACOB DOUPE, Pres.
4b GEO. A. McGILL, Sec'y.

NOTICE

The annual meeting of the Selby Cheese Factory will be held at the Town Hall, Selby, on Friday, January 24th, 1930, at 2 p.m., to receive reports and appoint officers for the coming year.

BAY CIRCUIT

Week-end storms are affecting seriously Sunday services. Roads were ploughed out on Monday and cars are running again.—On Tuesday, January 14th, fifty years ago, Miss Elina Hambly was united in marriage to Mr. E. G. McCabe. The ceremony took place at her father's home on the River Road, conducted by the Rev. Nathan E. Howard. Last Tuesday, January 14th, 1930, relatives and friends gathered together to extend their congratulations to this couple, who were spared to see fifty years of married life. Addresses, music and general good fellowship occupied the evening hours. At the close a presentation of gold coins were made to the happy couple, with the hope that many years might be added to their seventies. Most of their life was spent on the farm at Sand Hill, though for eleven years they lived in Deseronto, where Mr. McCabe worked in one of the mills. They were always active in good cause. They had four of a family, two of them are dead, two are still living; Blake of Watertown, and Mrs. Perry Brown, Sand Hill. They are both enjoying fair health and your correspondent joins in wishing them many more years of happiness together. —On Wednesday last the Old Fashioned Tea Meeting held at Bethany Church was a real success. There was food in abundance and those in attendance did justice to the tasty baking. The entertainment was unusually good. Mrs. Valkman and Mr. Jack Caldwell sang solos and duets, accompanied by Miss Bond. Mr. John Thompson gave several humorous readings. Rev. R. M. Seymour and wife gave several selections, among them are five tea meeting addresses by Mr. Seymour. The proceeds were $62.00.—Miss Chambers, daughter of Mrs. George Chambers, who has been nursing in New York City for some years, is at present visiting her mother and brother at Anderson.—The Young Peoples' Union, of Anderson, held their semi-monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fitchett, on Tuesday evening. The program was under the direction of Miss Hetherington and was of a special New York character. At the close of the program Mrs. Allan Baldwin's Sunday School class of girls presented her with a tea and pepper shaker set as a token of appreciation of her services to them in S. School and Mission Circle.—Mrs. Walter Huffman, of Sand Hill, underwent a very critical operation in Kingston Hospital last Tuesday. At time of writing she is doing as well as could be expected. — Mr. Huffman and daughters were in Kingston on several days.—The Hay Bay Ladies' Aid held their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Gould Thursday afternoon. The officers for the year are: Pres., Mrs. Leonard Parks; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. Cameron Sexsmith; Sec., Mrs. James Robertson; Treas., Mrs. J. Gould; organist, Mrs. Earl Sexsmith. The usual program was given and at its close Mrs. Gould served lunch.—Mr. Ward Sherman's car ran over the bank on the Field's Hill one day last week. Also many others had difficulty here and there because of the icy condition of the roads.—The Women's Missionary Society of Bay East met at the home of Mrs. Barnhartt on Friday afternoon with a good attendance. Mrs. A. Dean had charge of the program. The treasurer reported the results of the society for the year to be $15, exceeding their allocation. Mrs. Barnhartt acted as hostess in her usual good style.—Remember the Hay Bay Ladies' Aid Social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Huyck Friday evening, January 24th, at 8.00 o'clock. Splendid program of music, readings, etc. Lunch will be served. Everybody invited.—A number of the ladies in this circuit are planning to attend the W. M. S. Presbyterial in Grace Church, Napanee, Wednesday and Thursday, January 22nd and 23rd. On the evening of January 22nd. Rev. A. J. Wilson presents his illustrated lecture on China and Japan. Purdy, Windsor, who attended the funeral of the late Mr. A. MacClain, Kingston, visited at Geo. Fralick's on Saturday.—Mr. and Mrs. L. Chadwick entertained about sixty of their friends at their home on Wednesday evening. — Mrs. Robert Jackson has returned to her home after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Claude Knight, Napanee.

SILLSVILLE

The recent snow storms are making the roads very bad, but good shovelling and ploughing goes on whenever necessary and the cars are again on the go.—On Tuesday, Mr. Wilson, sometimes goes as far as he can by car and employs a driver to get the rest of the way with horses.—Mrs. Mary Mellow, Queen's University, came to Napanee on Thursday last to Commencement to receive her gold medal, donated by Mr. Fox and the Memorial Scholarship donated by the N.C.I. and her diploma. WORLD'S WHEAT CHAMPIONSHIP REGAINED BY CANADA

At the International Live Stock Exhibition and Hay and Grain Show at Chicago in December, 1929, Canada again carried off the wheat championship of the world. This honor went to Mr. Joseph H. B. Smith, of Wolf Creek, 140 miles west of Edmonton, Alberta. Thirteen other championships and reserve championships in live stock, hay and grain were won by Canadians this year. During the nineteen years that this exhibition has been held, Canadian farmers have won the wheat championship fifteen times. Ten times the award has gone to Saskatchewan, four times to Alberta, and once to Manitoba.

It is to be noted also that this wheat prize carried with it another honor to Canada. The winning sample was Reward wheat, a variety developed at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and first placed on the market in 1925. It is a cross between Marquis and Prelude, and it ripens in 100 days as compared with 114 required for Marquis.

On the four occasions in the past nineteen years when Canada has not won the wheat championship it has gone to the northern border state of Montana, U.S.A. This circumstance again calls attention to the conclusion of scientists and of practical farms that in the northern hemisphere the southern portions must ever look to the north and the still further north for their seed and their foundation live stock, in order to maintain the stamina and yielding qualities of their plants and animals.

WHERE BANDITRY IS SCIENCE

The country to the south of Canada is confronted at the present time with difficulties with which Canada knows very little about. Towers, gates, and sentries with machine guns, are asked by an Indiana Governor as a means of coping with bank robberies and banditry in his state.

Bullet-proof and lever-operated gates at the State line on all principal highways, with sentries armed with machine guns are embodied in his request. "Every new state-paved road is a tool or weapon in the hand of the bandit," the Governor declares. "Statistics show that the city that is accessible most easily by paved roads has the most crime. It is because the roads offer an easy avenue of escape."

DOWRY OF BRIDE IS 6 MILLIONS

Rome, January 10th—Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium, brought as her dowry it was said in diplomatic circles today, more than fifty million Belgian francs, or about six and a half million dollars. This together with the appanage of the Crown Prince, his own private properties, including Raconnigi Castle, which by itself is one of the largest estates in the world, forms such a substantial patrimony as to give the newly weds an independent status equal to, if not surpassing, that of most European royalties.

HEART DISEASE AFFLICTS CHILDREN

Adequate school health supervision and regular medical examinations are important in the control of heart disease among children according to statements issued by the Public Health Service.

Examinations of school children have shown much higher percentages of heart diseases among undernourished children than among the children of sufficient nutrition, the statement says.

Removal of infection centres, such as decayed teeth, adenoids, and diseased tonsils, are included in the statement which follows in text:

Many persons with chronic heart disease maintain a fair condition of health for years under favorable conditions. A diseased heart, however, performs its work under a special handicap requiring increased exertion. The exercise of a muscle within healthful limits is followed by increased size and power. However, there is a limit to the ability of muscle to accommodate itself to too much overwork; it becomes weaker, thinner and less able to function.

In the case of the heart muscle the increase in size and strength in response to the greater demand on the energy in diseased conditions is called "compensation," which is characterized by breathlessness, pallor and rapid pulse on slight exertion. The treatment of heart disease depends largely on the presence or absence of symptoms or decompensation.

The actual treatment depends upon the classification, and comprises: 1, limiting physical activities. 2, avoiding emotional excitement. 3, rest in bed for a prescribed number of hours each day. 4, avoiding the use of drugs except under the supervision of a physician. 5, improving nutrition by attention to diet. Regulation of exercise is a distinct benefit in the treatment of properly selected cardiac cases.

U. S. CONSIDERING OLD AGE PENSIONS

A measure to provide pensions for persons who have reached their sixty-third year and whose income does not exceed $12 per week has been introduced and the funds for the payment of the pensions would come from the federal treasury.

The bill would make elegible for receiving pensions every person 63 years old who has been a citizen of the United States for 16 consecutive years; has not been convicted of a felony; if a husband has not failed to provide adequate maintenance for his wife and children under 16.

If the average weekly income of the applicant does not exceed $8.00, the bill provided a pension of that amount per week; if the overage exceeds $8.00 but not $10.00 a week, the applicant would be entitled to $6.00 a week, and if the average exceeds $10.00 but not $12.00 weekly, a pension of $4.00 a week is provided. The Act would be administered by the Department of the Interior.

Provision is made for increasing or decreasing the pensions when the income of the pensioner fluctuates. Payment would be made in 13 instalments, each year in advance.

Another section provides that the act shall be "liberally administered to effect its purpose, which is to provide, out of public purse, sufficient income for the old to enable them to enjoy the last remaining years of their lives in such freedom from fear of want as they have earned by a long service for society as citizens of the Republic."

HONEY—WHAT IS IT?

Honey is an energy producing food and in addition is considered to be the best of all sweets. It comes direct from nature unchanged and untreated by hyman agency. Honey is the nectar of flowers gathered and modified by honey bees and stored in their hives as food. It contains approximately 75 per cent. sugar; 18 to 20 per cent. water, small quantities of mineral salts and other substances which impart flavor and aroma. Honey ranges from water, white to almost black in color, and has as many flavors as there are flowers. Usually the lighter its color the more delicate its flavor. Practically all Canadian honey graduates more or later, this phenopenon being governed by its sugar content and its degree of ripeness. Granulation does not impair the quality or flavor of honey nor is it, as many suppose, an indication of adulteration, rather it is a sign of purity. Granulated honey can readily be returned to its liquid form by standing the container in hot water. It should not, however, be heated to more than 140 degrees Fahrenheit or its flavor and aroma will be destroyed and the color darkened. If extracted honey is stored for any length of time it should be kept in a cool dry room, but comb honey should be kept warm and dry. Honey is valuable as a food because practically all its sugar is in inverted form which is readily assimilated by the body and places no tax on the digestive systems as do most other elements that are essential to the human body. As a sweet it is unsurpassed. It is the only sweet that comes unchanged from nature, and was at one time, the world's only sweet.

2 MILLION MAY STARVE IN CHINA

Despatch from Peiping, China, says: Grover Clark, former editor of the Peiping newspaper, Leader, returning from a six weeks' inspection trip for China international famine relief in Shansi famine area reported today that two million persons in Shensi were doomed to certain death from starvation and exposure within a few months. He estimated that two million out of a population of six million in the area had died during the past eight months. Thousands were frozen during the recent cold wave, when the thermometer reached 32 below zero, the coldest weather ever recorded in Shansi province. He reports that entire villages have been wiped out by cold and starvation.

To test their knowledge of English the native students in a Chinese Christian College were asked to give in their own language the meaning of certain phrases, including, "Out of sight, out of mind." One of them summed up the situation in two words: "Invisible, insane."

The new tenants were visited by a lady who had lived in the street for years. The new folks' small daughter, aged seven, walked up to the visitor, and, gazing intently at her from first one side and then the other, said:

"Oh, dear, but aren't you a funny-looking lady?"

Her mother was horrified, and sought to undo the mischief as well as she could. "Why, Joan," she said, "what do you mean?"

Frightened, Joan stammered: "I only meant it for a joke."

"Well," said her parent sternly: "It would have been a much better joke if you had said, 'How pretty you are!'"

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station

Tell Her The Number

—it saves money and time

Very often, in making a long distance call, you may not need to speak to a specific person. In such cases, just give the operator the NUMBER you want and tell her that "anyone there" will serve your purpose.

By doing this you save money because an "anyone" call entitles you to the lower "station-to-station" rate instead of the "person-to-person" rate.

Even when you ask for a specific person it will pay you always to give the NUMBER, because calling by NUMBER * gets you the quickest possible connection — often while you hold the line.

DURANT FIFTH CONVENTION

Members of the Durant Dealer Organization, numbering approximately a thousand, met in Toronto on January 16th and 17th to attend the fifth annual Durant Dealer Convention.

After registering at the Royal York Hotel the visitors, escorted by The Toronto Regiment Band, were taken to the Durant plant at Leaside in busses and the procession through the city created a great impression as it wended its way to the northeast city limits. On arrival at the Plant, which has been enlarged considerably during the past year, official photographs were taken and this was followed by a trip through the plant for the purpose of examining the new machinery in operation and the methods by which the new Durant cars are now being built.

After several hours in the Plant and a thorough examination of the various models on the "6-14"—an entirely new line—the large party again embarked in busses for the Royal York Hotel to attend the annual Banquet and entertainment provided in their honor by the Durant company. There were many new and novel features to claim the attention of the visitors.

Phil. J. Duggan, Sales Manager, presided and was accompanied at the head table by many notables in the automobile industry, as well as civic and provincial officials. Roy D. Kerby, President and General Manager, gave a short address, while other speakers included R. W. Judson, President Continental Motors Corporation.

Friday, the second day of the Convention, was devoted to business sessions at the Durant plant.

WINTER NIGHT

It's hard to think of Spring
At such a time as this:
Of buds blossoming
And
On such a night, only
The faithful would recall
Spring at all.
The faithful . . . or the lonely . . .

Elizabeth Clarke in the New York Herald-Tribune.

The morning sun filtered in through the iron bars across the window of a small cell-like apartment, and fell across the haggard features of a man, sleeping on a low pallet bed. A sound of voices was heard outside the door. "Is he awake yet?" said a stern voice. "No," was the reply, "Let him sleep a while longer, poor devil it's his last chance. " "I cannot," said the other ruthlessly, "duty is duty." Entering the room he vigorously shook the sleeper's shoulder. "Come," he said, "there is only an hour left. Better brace up a bit, lad." After eating breakfast, the victim left the room with his guard. A few minutes later he entered a low stone building. With shoulders squared he walked fearlessly down between the rows of morbid spectators to meet his doom like a man. The marriage ceremony followed immediately after.

"Eddie," said the Housemother, "don't you understand? Mr. Tunney is going to look at the rooms—don't you want to show him yours?"

Eddie looked a little wistful, but turned resolutely back to his ice cream and cake. "No, thank you," he said politely. "You see, I'm for Dempsey."

SOURCES OF GOOD SEED GRAIN

Good seed is the first requirement of good crops, and because of this, no effort should be spared in procuring the best.

Due largely to the efforts of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, good reliable seed is perhaps more readily available at the present time than has been the case at any time in the past. This association, made up entirely of growers has had as its objective, for a period of 25 years, the building up of reliable seed stocks of standard varieties, and the production of this seed in quantities sufficient to meet the popular demand.

Seed that comes up to the requirements of Canadian Seed Growers' Association, and bearing a Government seal is known as Registered seed. Such seed is pure as to variety to the extent of 99.9 per cent., and furthermore is practically free from weed seeds and seeds of other kinds of grain.

Registered seed is offered for sale by the growers themselves, and reliable seedsmen of Canada. The Canadian Seed Growers' Association issues a catalogue each year, giving the names and addresses of growers of registered seed in Canada, and the approximate quantity for sale. This catalogue can be obtained through the office of the Association in the Jackson Building, Ottawa. It is therefore possible to obtain the names of Registered seed growers in any particular district in the country. This is a valuable service because of the importance of using seed grown locally, and adapted to local conditions.

The establishment of both large and small seed cleaning centres in some sections of the country, centralizes the cleaning and marketing of large quantities of Registered seed, and supplies another medium through which high quality seed can be obtained.

When the purchaser is not prepared to pay the comparatively small difference in price between Registered seed and ordinary seed, it is sometimes possible to locate seed that traces back to Registered seed. When this is done, however, there is entirely no guarantee regarding the purity and quality in general of this stock, but it is often the case that this seed may be better than ordinary seed.

By purchasing Registered seed in Canada, one need have no fear as to its reliability, both as regards trueness to variety and quality in general. It is never safe to invest money in seed upon which a crop is dependent, without a certain guarantee that the variety is recognized as being adapted to the locality and that the seeds are viable and comparatively free from impurities.

High quality seed of the Registered grades can therefore be purchased either from the growers or from reliable seedsmen in Canada, who usually carry large stocks of this seed representing the standard varieties recognized by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

William Lyon Phelps told this:—

Some Americans were discussing English humor. In order to prove an assertion that it was totally different to American, one of the party, observing an Englishman in the room, challenged a friend to go and tell him the funniest American story he knew and watch the result.

The friend took up the challenge and spun the Englishman an extra funny one. Nothing happened. Somewhat nettled, the American said:—

"Maybe you'll laugh at it this time next year?"

"No," said the Englishman, "I laughed at it this time last year."

ONE GOOD RECIPE MAKES A COOK FAMOUS

It is the season of oysters. They have been in season for a few months but this fish seems to be used more often in January and February than other times. Perhaps it is because so many luscious serve oyster patties when entertaining. It is a popular dish and always one that is enjoyed.

Oysters served in cocktails, fried or in stews are perhaps the most popular for home use. Another repipe which has been tried and found extremely appetizing is scalloped oysters. The recipe follows:—

Place in a baking dish a layer of oysters, (which have been washed) and over this spread a layer of bread crumbs on top, well covered with bits of butter, alternating the layers until the dish is full and having the crumbs on top well covered with bits of butter. Pour over the whole enough oyster juice or cream to moisten it. Bake in a hot oven 15 or 20 minutes until brown.

YOUNG PEOPLES' SOCIETY BANQUET

On Wednesday evening, January 8th, the Young Peoples' Society of the Enterprise United Church concluded a very successful contest extending over the past three months, with a sumptuous banquet in the Sunday School room.

At the outset of the contest, the members of the Y.P.S. were equally divided into two sides, each under the leadership of two captains—Miss Delta Bell and Mr. Allen Burgess, opposing Miss Beryl Milligan and Mr. Miles Jackson.

Points were awarded for visitors, new members, regularity of attendance and for the quality of program provided. At the conclusion of the contest, a banquet was to be furnished by all the members of the society, with the losing side providing the program. After a keen contest, with friendly rivalry, only thirty-five points separated the two sides, the winners being led by Miss B. Milligan and Mr. M. Jackson.

The evening of the banquet will long be remembered. As the members and guests entered the Sunday School room, they were pleasantly suprised to see four tables arranged in the form of a square, beautifully decorated with a color scheme of pink and green, baskets of ferns being on each table. A small table in the centre of the square was a mass of flowers and ferns and pink streamers. On the blackboard, overlooking the room there had been drawn a large diagram of the crest of the crest of the Young Peoples' Society with its inspiring motto: "Look up, lift up."

The names were then read out from the place-cards, and all were soon seated. After grace had been sung, everyone seemed to know what to do next, as the tables were laden with all manner of good things to eat.

Immediately following the banquet, the president, Mr. Maitland Jackson, who had been asked to act as Toastmaster, proposed the toast to "The King," to which Miss Eva Cronk invited us to respond by all singing the National Anthem.

The toast to "Our Country," was proposed by Miss Sara Wilson and responded to by Mrs. R. C. Covert, after which a verse of "The Maple Leaf" was sung. A toast to "The Church" was proposed by Rev. D. M. Stinson, and Miss Leafa Hudson responded by asking us to sing the first verse of the hymn, "The Church's One Foundation."

Miss Beryl Milligan was called upon to propose the toast to "The Young Peoples' Society," which was ably responded to by Mr. Allen Burgess, who briefly outlined the work of the four departments. The toast to "The Winning Side" was magnanimously proposed by Miss Delta Bell and gallantly responded to by Mr. Miles Jackson. Interspersed between the toasts community singing, led by Mr. E. R. Bell, was much enjoyed.

A very delightful feature of the evening was the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mosier, a youthful bride and groom, of Gananoque, who were spending part of their honeymoon in our midst. Somewhat to their surprise and embarrassment, Rev. Stinson asked them to stand and face the assembly while he proposed a toast to their long life and happiness, in which all eagerly joined. It is not often that the Y.P.S. has the opportunity of such a good "close-up" of a bride and groom in captivity, and it is hoped that the effect will be contagious.

Miss Freda Wagar then favored us with a delightful vocal solo, "The End of the Road."

Mr. Maitland Jackson, the retiring president, thanked the members for their attendance and loyalty and the spirit of good sportsmanship that had existed during the time of the contest. He hoped that a similar contest might be conducted in the near future. He then called on Rev. Stinson to conduct the business session and the election of officers which resulted as follows: Pres., Mr. Allen Burgess; Christian Fellowship, Vice Pres., Miss Leafa Hudson; Missionary Vice Pres., Mrs. H. W. Holland; Christian Citizenship Vice Pres., Mr. Roy Hartman; Literary and Social Pres., Miss Beryl Milligan, Miss Sara Wilson, Miss Laura Stinson; Sec.-Treas., Miss Eva Cronk; Pianists, Miss Madeline Wagar and Miss Muriel Lourks.

The secretary reported fifty-five present at the banquet, a membership of forty-eight, including twenty-nine new members added during the contest.

Miss Leafa Hudson and Mr. Maitland Jackson were appointed delegates to the Winter School to be held at Cobourg the following week.

The evening was brought to a close by all repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF A FOND MOTHER

Her child is a never-ending source of joy and a never-failing responsibility to the fond mother. It not infrequently happens that minor ailments of the child distress and puzzle her; she does not know just what to do, yet feels them not serious enough to call a doctor. At just such times as these it is that Baby's Own Tablets are found to be mother's greatest help and friend.

Most childhood ailments arise from a derangement of the stomach or bowels. Baby's Own Tablets will immediately banish them by cleansing the bowels and sweetening the stomach. Thus they relieve colic, correct the digestion, banish constipation and make teething pains disappear.

Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs such as opiates and narcotics and may be given to the newborn babe with perfect safety and beneficial results. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PASSING OF HUGH BLAIN ENDS NOTABLE CAREER

Hugh Blain, Toronto's grand old man of commerce, doyen of its board of trade, public spirited citizen, and president of the well-known wholesale grocery house of Eby-Blain Ltd., now merged in National Grocers Ltd., is dead. He passed away yesterday morning after several months of illness, in his 86th year.

A direct descendant of the Blains of Blainfield, Scotland, he was born in York County, June 20th, 1844, a son of the late John Blain, J.P., of Stratford. He was educated in the public schools and the Ontario Normal school. In 1865 he entered the firm of Nerlick & Co., Toronto, and at the end of ten years was a partner in that concern, withdrawing therefrom in 1880. That year he joined the late Joseph F. Eby and founded the business with which he was actively connected at the time of his death. When the business was incorporated in 1908 he became vice-president and on death of Mr. Eby in 1914 he assumed the presidency, retaining that position until the firm was merged in National Grocers Ltd., of which he was a director.

Board of Trade Member

For over half a century Mr. Blain was an active member of the board of trade, having joined in 1875. He was president in 1894 and for 35 years was a member of the executive council. His most outstanding achievements were the fights made by the board for the improvement of Toronto's harbor and waterfront and the abolition of the unsightly and dangerous level railway crossings. He was one of the deputation of citizens that went to Ottawa during the regime of Mayor W. W. Hiltz, to urge upon the federal government the necessity of having the viaduct project carried out at the earliest possible moment.

The government was obdurate at the time but subsequently relented and the dominion railway board issued an order for the work to go ahead.

He joined the Queen's Own Rifles in 1884 and was paymaster, with rank of captain, of the regiment during the North-West rebellion. He retired from the regiment in 1889.

Opposed Reciprocity

Although a Liberal and a close friend of the late Sir Wilfred Laurier, he opposed the latter's reciprocity policy in 1911 and was one of the famous 18 Liberals who signed the manifesto urging the electors of the dominion to reject the Taft-Fielding reciprocity pact at the general election of that year. He was also one of the chief speakers at the board of trade meeting in the old association hall in opposition to reciprocity.

During the war period he was a supporter of Union government, took active interest in patriotic enterprises, served on the food board and on the organizations for the raising of the Patriotic fund and the Victory loan campaigns. In 1905 he was an unsuccessful candidate in North Toronto for a seat in the Ontario legislature in the Liberal interest. Among his other activities, he was honorary president of the Board of Trade, president of the Dominion Grocers Guild, in 1910 and lectured on Beet sugar in various parts of the country; president of the Commercial Travellers association in 1885-86; a director of numerous companies, including the National Life Assurance, Hand-in-Hand insurance, Queen City insurance, Peterson Lake mining, West Dome Consolidated mining, Globe Publishing and others. A past master of St. John's lodge, A.F. & A.M.; one of the charter members of the National Club of which he was president in 1877-89, a member of the Ontario, Caledonia Mountain Trout and Salmonenac clubs, of the I.O.O.F., St. Andrew's and Caledonia societies, the Royal Canadian institute, Empire and Canadian clubs. He was a Presbyterian in religion.

Twice married, his first wife was Miss H. Lee Jones of Baltimore, who died in 1892. His second, Olive Stanley Miller, widow of W. H. McClure, of Hamilton, Ont., whom he married in 1905, survives, also his only son, David. His daughter, Miss Mary Blain, died about two years ago. Both were children of the first wife. Mrs. J. S. Ham, of Napanee, is a sister-in-law of Mr. Blain.

ST. ANDREW'S UNITED CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING AND BANQUET

On Friday the annual meeting of St. Andrew's congregation was held in the Sunday School room. This year the managers' banquet was combined with the annual meeting. The innovation proved to be very successful, as it brought out a much larger number than usual of members and adherents. The supper lasted until about 7.30. Then there was a short period of conversation and singing, after which the annual meeting was called to order. Reports were then read from all the organizations, from the Session to the Mission Band. The reports showed progress all along the line. In spite of the discrimination due to the minister's absence for three months, the attendance showed an average increase at the Sunday services.

The financial statement was particularly gratifying. The current account showed all obligations met and a good balance with which to begin the new year. The church paid to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund a thousand dollars. The secretary of this fund pointed out that the givings to missions had increased from $480.00 in 1925 to $1000.00 in 1929. In addition the W. M. S. and Mission Band had met their allocations.

After the reports were given they were discussed and analysed. The work of the coming year was considered and planned for. Mr. Ralph MacPherson and Mr. J. Caldwell were re-elected to the board of managers. Mr. G. H. Rankin was appointed to fill the vacancy on the trustee board caused by the death of the late Wm. Morris.

The congregation expressed appreciation of the kindness of Mrs. W. A. Daly in supplying flowers for the pulpit week after week.

After prayer by the pastor the meeting adjourned.

Dramatic Milestones in Canada's Story

BY C. W. JEFFERYS

"The Brothers La Verendrye in Sight of the Western Mountains"

Throughout the earlier history of Canada a Sea of the West lured the explorers to discovery. Always it seemed to be only a little farther beyond; always it receded before them. To seek it many men spent their lives in toils and privations; they ruined themselves, and some, like Marquette and La Salle, perished in the search. They all failed; but out of their failures came the knowledge of the vast interior of the Continent. Among these magnificent failures none was greater than that of La Verendrye and his sons, which made known the prairie country and the Rocky Mountains.

Pierre Gaultier de La Verendrye was born at Three Rivers in 1685. He was one of a family of five children of the Governor of the district, and in that age of almost continual warfare, the sons of the seigneurs had to take their share of the fighting at a very early age. Pierre was only twelve years old when he joined the colonial troops, and before he was twenty had fought against the settlers of Massachusetts and the English fishermen of Newfoundland. In 1707 he sailed from Canada to join the French army fighting in Flanders against the great Duke of Marlborough. In the bloody battle of Malplaquet he received nine wounds and was taken prisoner. In time he was exchanged; but he had no private fortune and no influential friends at court, and without these, promotion in the army was impossible. He returned to Canada and soon retired from military life.

Shortly after his return from the wars, he married. Four sons were born to him, and his growing family made it necessary to open a trading post on the St. Maurice River near his native town, which was then an important centre of the fur trade. Here he spent several years, gaining valuable experience, if not much wealth. In 1726, he was given the command of the frontier post of Lake Nipigon, north of Lake Superior, on the verge of the distant unknown wilderness of the West.

La Verendrye, like so many others, dreamed of finding a way overland to that Western Sea which no one had seen and of which everyone spoke. At Nipigon, while busy with his duties as an Indian Trader, he was ever on the alert for information about the regions beyond. The Indians told him, as they told others, stories of a Westward flowing river, of a salt lake, on which sailed great ships, of men in armour who rode upon horses. One of the Indians drew a rough map of the route which he declared that he had followed to the waters ebbed and flowed. Though La Verendrye did not believe all that he was told, he was convinced that much of it was probable. He resolved to try to find Western Sea himself, and, taking with his Ochagah's map, he travelled down to Montreal in 1729 to persuade the Governor to help him to carry out his project.

The Governor, Beauharnois, was interested, but the King would give neither men, nor money, nor supplies. All that La Verendrye was able to get was the monopoly of the western fur trade, on condition that at the same time he carried on the search for the way to the sea. He was allowed to build forts and to trade with the Indians, and out of his profits he was expected to pay all the costs of his expeditions. It can easily be seen that if he had to attend to the business of fur trading he would not have much time for exploration. He had little money of his own: he needed men and provisions, canoes and trading goods, and, since the King would not assist him, he was compelled to ask help from the merchants of Montreal. They were not interested in his plans for exploration, but by promising them a large share of the profits of his trade, he persuaded them to advance the money and goods he needed.

Early in June, 1731, all was ready. La Verendrye set out from Montreal, taking with him his nephew, La Jemeraye, and three of his sons, boys of eighteen, seventeen and sixteen years, who had grown up in their trading post home at Three Rivers. It was a family of explorers, and all shared the enthusiasm and the ambition of the elder man. Doubtless, to the boys, the expedition had all the attraction of a great adventure, and, as their later history shows, they must have been sturdy, brave and self-reliant.

The little fleet of birch-bark canoes made its way by the usual route to the West, up the Ottawa and along the south shore of the upper lakes. Late in August, they reached the western end of Lake Superior. Here the party divided, La. Jemeraye pushing on with half the men to build a fort at Rainy Lake, while La Verendrye stayed for the winter at Kaministiquia, where Fort William now stands. Next spring he went on to the new fort. Gradually during the next few years a chain of trading posts was established from Lake Superior to Lake Winnipeg and beyond as far as the Assiniboine River. Here, at the spot where to-day stands Portage la Prairie, Fort La Reine was built.

A large trade was opened up, for the Indians were glad to bring their furs to the near-by French forts instead of having to take them to the posts of the Hudson's Bay Company far to the north. Heavy troubles fell upon La Verendrye in 1736. His most experienced and reliable lieutenant, his nephew, La Jemeraye, died, and in June, a party of his men, with his eldest son and a Jesuit priest, were massacred by a band of Sioux Indians on an island in the Lake of the Woods. The bulk of the profits of the trade went to the Montreal merchants, and to carry on his explorations La Verendrye found himself deeply in debt. The King complained that he was not doing enough exploration. His partners clamored for more profits, and rival merchants spread stories about him to influence the government to take away his monopoly. La Verendrye had to go to Montreal and Quebec to protect his interests, and it was only with great difficulty that he was able to get the merchants and the government to continue their support. Again, undaunted by misfortune, he set out for the West. His youngest son, who had been taught to make maps and plans, now joined his father in the family enterprise.

From time to time, La Verendrye had heard accounts of a tribe of Indians called the Mandans, who were said to live on the banks of a great river that flowed into the ocean. In the summer of 1738, while his sons, the journey-men of the party, went to their country. He found them living along the banks of the Missouri River, in villages of houses built of logs and earth. They received him cordially and gave him some information, but he found that their river flowed South and not West. He left two of his men with them to learn their language and gain further information, and returned to Fort La Reine, suffering severely from a violent illness, caused probably by his years of hard work, privation and anxiety.

Next year, his men returned with news that early in the summer a number of strange Indians had arrived to trade in the Mandan villages. They had come, he learned, from the west, where they said there were bearded white men living in stone houses on the shores of a lake whose waters rose and fell. These white men must have been Spaniards of Mexico and California: it was the old story that the Indians told all explorers, and was based on truth, but none of them gave any idea of the great distance that had to be travelled to reach the Pacific Ocean. Meanwhile, La Verendrye sought other routes. One of his sons was sent to explore the country at the northern end of Lake Winnipeg. He went up the Saskatchewan as far as the forks, and built a post at the place now known as The Pas, on the line of the present Hudson Bay Railway, but lack of means prevented further progress in the direction.

In April, 1742, two of La Verendrye's sons, with two other Frenchmen, set forth again to try to reach the sea by way of the Mandan country. Their father stayed behind, for he was too ill to travel, and the business of fur trading must still go on. The sons reached the Mandan villages and waited there for the expected visit of the Horse Indians.

As they did not come, the brothers started near the end of July, with two Mandans to guide them to the Horse Indian country. They crossed the Missouri and travelled for twenty days through what were later known as the Bad Lands. Here the earth was streaked with brilliant colors, yellow, red, green, crimson and blue, and carved by wind and water into fantastic shapes. They found a camp of a tribe which were called The Good Looking Indians, and from them got new guides to the Horse Indians. When, at last, they reached these Indians, they admitted that they had never been to the Western Sea, and said that the only there led through the country of the fierce Snake Indians, the terror of the western plains. They told them of a neighboring tribe, the Bow Indians, who might be able to take them to the sea, and who were the only tribe able to fight the Snakes. To the Bow Indians, therefore, the brothers travelled, and at length on November 21st, they found them in a huge camp, preparing to start out to attack the Snakes. Over two thousand warriors with their families were gathered, and the prairie was covered with hundreds of teepees, and La Verendrye's account tells us that the Indians had with them great numbers of horses, asses and mules.

This information is of great interest, since it shows us how far north the use of the horse had reached at this date. The Spaniards had brought the first horses to this continent, and from their settlements in Mexico and California, from time to time, horses tinent, and from their settlements in Mexico and California, from time to time, horses escaped, or were purchased or stolen by the Indians. They passed from tribe to tribe by capture or trade until in 1742, as we have seen, horses were used by the Indians almost as far as the Missouri. The possession of these animals made an entire change in the life of the Indians, and gave the tribes who used them an enormous advantage in hunting, in travel and in warfare. Hitherto, the buffalo, on which they depended for their food, in clothing and shelter, had to be hunted by slow and careful tracking, or by luring or driving them over high banks. Now they could be surrounded, or ridden down by hunters on horseback. Formerly all journeys were made on foot; the dog was their only beast of burden, and these could carry only small loads. Now they could travel rapidly, and heavy loads could be transported easily by means of the travois. This was an ingenious arrangement of two long poles, which were tied together in a V shape at the horse's shoulder, which supported the tips, while the ends dragged on the ground on either side several feet behind the horse. Cross-bars between the poles bore the pole of baggage, the tent covers, provisions, old men and women, the sick and the children. The Indians never developed the cart, and knew nothing of the use of wheels until they saw the white man.

With these mounted Bow Indians, the brothers journeyed in December on the westward war path against the Snakes. Though it was winter, it was comparatively cold in that region, and the snow was light on the prairie uplands over which they travelled.

On New Year's Day, 1743, the snowclad tops of distant mountains came in sight to the West. From these mountains, the Bow Chief told them, could be seen the Sea. Though this was not true, and hundreds of miles still lay between them and the Western coast, the explorers knew it not and were eager to press forward. For eight days the war party journeyed towards the mountains. Then, as they were nearing the enemy's country, an encampment was made, where the women and children were left, with a small guard, while the warriors pushed on. One of the brothers went with them, while the elder remained to guard the baggage. Four days later they reached the foot of the mountains, and here the scouts found an abandoned camp of the Snakes. Their enemies had fled hastily on their approach, but the Pows feared that the Snakes had circled round behind them in order to attack the encampment of their women and children. A panic seized them and they retreated in haste and disorder. The shame-faced warriors found the camp secure; but the expedition against the Snakes was given up, and the Bows began their homeward march.

Reluctantly the Frenchmen had to turn back. Once more the attempt to find the Western Sea had failed; but the young La Verendrye had gone farther in his search than any other man. They parted from the Bows and started across the prairie on their return to Fort La Reine. They reached the Missouri again, and La Verendrye buried on the high bank overlooking the river a tablet of lead with the arms of France, and the names of the King, the Governor and himself. For one hundred and seventy years it lay buried, till in March, 1913, a school girl found it in the river bank opposite the west end of Pierre, South Dakota. Travelling by the route of the Mandan villages, at length they reached Fort La Reine, where their father anxiously awaited them, in July, 1743, after an absence of almost fifteen months.

La Verendrye and his sons had not found the Western Sea, but they had opened up to French trade a vast new territory. The merchants of Montreal who had backed the enterprise had taken whatever profits were declared; but La Verendrye was poorer than ever. Burdened with debts and harassed by unjust and untrue reports, he asked to be relieved of his undertaking. He returned to Montreal, and another officer was put in charge of the trading posts. The new man made a fortune in a few years, and two years later the Governor turned again to La Verendrye and restored him to his command. Some recompense was given him for his years of effort; two of his sons were made ensigns in the colonial troops, he himself was promoted to the rank of Captain, and in 1749 he was awarded the Cross of St. Louis, the coveted military distinction of his day. He lived only a few months to enjoy the honor, and died in the year of death took him in the midst of preparations to start in the spring on a new search for the way of the Saskatchewan.

His sons expected to be allowed to carry on his work, in which they had shared for so many years. But rival claimants got the ear of the Governor, the old false stories were circulated again, and though they pleaded their cause strongly, others were given the western trade which they had established. Poor and neglected, they continued to serve as junior officers in the colony troops until the end of the French rule in Canada. When, and where the eldest, Pierre, died we know not. Louis Joseph, on his way to France, was drowned in the wreck of the ship L'Auguste off the coast of Cape Breton in 1761. Francois apparently remained in Canada after the British conquest. Though descendants of the elder La Verendrye's brothers and sisters are living to-day in Quebec, of his own family none are known to exist. He and his sons live only in the story of a great purpose followed with steadfast courage and devotion.

DISARMED

Two golfers playing an important tie were annoyed by a slow couple in front of them, obviously new to the game.

At one hole there was a particularly long wait. One of the offending couple dawdled on the fairway while his companion searched in the rough. At length the waiting couple on the tee could contain their impatience no longer.

"Why don't you help your friend find his ball?" one shouted indignantly.

The idle golfer in front turned with a cheerful smile, "Oh, he has got his ball," he replied blandly, "He is looking for his clubs."—Tit-Bits.

"What Makes Canadians CANADIAN?"

(Vancouver Sun)

Every time an American comes to Canada to live, his secret determination seems to be to try and make this country Yankee. Every time an Englishman come to Canada to live, he wants to make this country English.

The resisting of these two opposing impulses is a good thing for this country, because it is what makes Canada Canadian. Canadian personality is welded out of the clash between English influences and American influences.

Canadians are able to realize that the American is going too fast. His rational scientific action, his business philosophy of mass or break and his whole business ambition tend to make a business machine which has created an astounding prosperity in United States.

But have these things made American life? Are the American standards of success based on true and lasting premises?

The Englishman, on the other hand, is going too slow. His industrial philosophy is archaic. Maintaining a vast army of middlemen, he lets the workman do what the machine should be doing. He devotes his time to political action. He is the source of big word talk and big political talk.

But the Englishman has a cultural setting and an aesthetic background that the American, as a class, lacks.

Canada cannot afford to adopt either English or American methods in their entirety. She must pick the best of each and apply them to her own peculiar problems.

And the sooner Americans and Englishmen in Canada realize that this is CANADA, the sooner will they become good Canadians and make the going easier for themselves.

Meantime, the pressure from both sides is forming and building up a distinctive Canadian personality.

And that personality is an engaging and a hopeful one. Johnny Canuck is sitting here with 3,729,665 square miles, including some of the most productive soil in the world, teeming here with resources, with minerals, including 85 per cent. of the pre-Cambrian shield, containing the great ore deposits of the world; sitting here with a variety of climate unequalled in any other country on earth.

His vigorous Nordic temperament gives him the energy to develop his possibilities. His historic background gives him cultural appreciations.

His achievements and his blood give him a pride and a determination, as he sits here on his fortune, not to be led by the nose this way or that, but to make a distinct and powerful personality for himself and for his country, CANADA.

Use the free trial packet on one pig — the sickest on your farm. Them tell everyone about the results. You will be doing your neighbours a good turn — and us too.

What is Provendeine ?

Provendeine is a special vitaminised Condiment for rearing and rapidly fattening hogs, and is an INDISPENSABLE adjunct to their food from the moment they are weaned. We say INDISPENSABLE because it is but very rarely that pigs' feed is in itself a complete diet. Scientific tests made on hogs have shown that corn and oats are deficient in proteins which are essential to their growth and that to feed pigs on cereals only is disastrous. But by adding the these foods at least three times a week the deficiency is overcome and the animal receives a highly nutritive order. Provendeine contains these ingredients.

What does Provendeine do ?

Provendeine establishes equilibrium in nourishment, promotes appetite and aids digestion. Ailing hogs get well and a more rapid growth is imparted to all. Pigs that were given up for lost acquire fresh vigour as soon as Provendeine is added to their feed and fatten rapidly. Hogs kept for fattening when given Provendeine put on more weight and are ready for market a great deal sooner. Young pigs (sucking or just weaned) develop and grow faster and their flesh becomes a more rosy tint. One of the most priceless advantages which accentuates every user of Provendeine is that WITHIN A FEW DAYS it makes rickets or foot trouble disappear.

ECONOMISE 2 MONTHS FEED BY USING PROVENDEINE

Two months feed! plus the assurance that young hogs will develop normally without detriment to their health! That is what the wise breeder who used Provendeine regularly gets out of it. No more stunted growth therefore no more monetary losses for the breeder, but an assured success in the fattening of his animals.

Give your pigs Provendeine :

1. To promote their appetite,
2. To make them rapidly fatten,
3. To prevent their suffering from foot trouble.

The use of Provendeine makes pig rearing easy and certain.

Thousands of unsolicited testimonials received from breeders in various countries prove the astounding rapidity in the development of pigs fed with Provendeine.

What PEOPLE SAY :

He thought his pig was dying

R. P. S St. Mary's, Ont. January 11th, 1929.
I purchased a packet of your Provendeine a while ago and it helped my pig wonderful well. The pig was nearly dead and it is as lively as a Jack Rabbit now. I would recommend it to anyone.
(Signed) Allan G. SOMERS.

Obtained wonderful results

Paris Junction Ont. March, 4th. 1929.
I have had wonderful results from feeding Provendeine. I had two pigs I purchased off their feed and thought I would have to attend at all. I went to your local store of Mr. E. Taylor and got a packet of Provendeine and I did not feed them but once the first day I got the package so they would be a little keener for their feed. I fed them three times a day and inside of one week they were on their feet and bobbing around. After the use of the second box I could not seem to give enough to eat and they are in good shape on their legs and run around with any pigs. They are about 165 or 170 lbs. each.
I can recommend Provendeine to anyone feeding. I have raising hogs as one preventative of leg weakness and other diseases that hogs are subjected to. If this testimonial is of any benefit to you or to anyone raising hogs you are at liberty to use it any time or anywhere.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.)

British Apple Market

A recent cable from the Overseas representative of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association states that the apple market in Great Britain is still dull with a possibility of fairly good prospects later in January. A rumor that Virginia still has quantities of unclassified Yorks which will soon have to be disposed of, points to a depression in price until the early part of February. Ontario apples of good quality, however, will command a good market. These apples should bring from six to seven dollars per barrel.

Food For Brood Sows

Alfalfa or clover hay fed from racks forms an excellent roughage for brood sows. Roots are also good but may not always be available. The meal ration may vary considerably but should not be too strong. Bran, shorts, ground oats from two to six pounds daily, depending on the size and condition of the sow as well as the period of pregnancy, has been found to give good results. Mineral feeds are usually essential and may be supplied either by sods or a suitable mineral mixture containing charcoal, ashes, bone meal, etc.

The Labor Situation

Under the heading of "Labor and Wages," the annual bulletin issued by the Department for the year 1929 remarks:

"Farm labor could not be secured at any lower, or, in some cases, as low rate of wages as during the past three years. The farmer can only afford to pay for his help out of the money his products bring in. British immigration does not flow by choice to the farms and more relief might come from immigration if other races experienced on the land were encouraged. Not much change in conditions generally was reported in 1929 although more labor appeared to have been released from the cities to the farms. A cut in the tobacco acreage made the situation easier in that direction. Tobacco growing in the western counties helps to set the local wage level during the busy season. The outlook is for wage levels to remain as they are or to fall a little perhaps. Domestic servants are not known on Ontario farms, according to all reports received from correspondents west, east and north."

The Dual Purpose Cow

Although some have questioned the existence of such an animal as the dual cow, the fact remains that many Shorthorns of beef conformation produce sufficient milk to maintain a profit to their owners aside from the value of their calves, which make good feeders. The Shorthorn herd at the Dominion Experimental Farm in Scott, Sask., was started in 1921 with no outstanding producers. During the eight succeeding years two cows have made records approximating 9,000 pounds; six cows have over 6000 pounds to their credit, and 11 have made records of over 5000 pounds. Recently the question has questioned the suitability of these animals for beef and waiting lists are continually on file for breeding stock.

Killing Poultry Lice

Eggs are worth big money these days and the busy hen is the one that pays. Hens that are continually irritated by external parasites cannot give their full energy to egg production. Poultry lice will continually irritate the birds and interfere with their egg-production value. To combat this, a good plan is to dust every bird with equal parts of sodium fluoride and corn starch mixed together. The dust can be placed among the feathers next to the skin by means of employing the thumb and finger. One pinch on the head, one on the neck, two on the back, one on the breast, one just below the vent, one on the tail, one on each thigh and one scattered on the underside of each wing should be sufficient. This work could also be done with a salt shaker. Another and newer method is to put the required amount of Black Leaf 40 in an ordinary machine oil can with a fairly large spout and run a continuous line of liquid and run a line of the liquid along each roost. This should be applied about half an hour before the birds go to roost. A second application is necessary in ten days.

Many Meetings in February

J. Jockie Wilson, Secretary of the Agricultural and Horticultural Societies Branch, furnishes the following list of annual conventions at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, during February:

Ontario Field Crop and Seed Growers' Association, February 4th.

Ontario Plowmen's Association, February 5th.

Ontario Association of Fairs and Exhibitions, February 6th and 7th.

Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, February 12th. (Preceded by annual meeting on Feb. 11th at Parliament Buildings).

Ontario Horticultural Association, February 13th and 14th.

Farmers and others interested should clip these dates for reference.

Farm Improvements

In a recent bulletin issued by the department in which was summarized all the outstanding events of the agricultural life of the province during the year 1929, the following remarks came under the head of Farm improvements:

"In the western counties drainage goes on apace. In Essex, close upon 100 acres were underdrilled. The wet spring helped the underdrainage movement and the season witnessed increased activity. In Kent also, there was a lot of underdrainage of tile. In Elgin there was concentration upon drainage of the new tobacco land. Through all the western counties replacement and renovating of barns, building of poultry houses and fencing have made all round advance. The Niagara Peninsula reported but a limited amount of improvement to farm buildings and fences. Through the province as a whole more building would be undertaken if the cost did not often forbid it. Galvanized roofing is being resorted to very generally and many farmers are putting water systems in their barns.

Nellie Ever Polite But Firm Discriminates in Newspapers

(By Jessie E. MacTaggart)
Mail and Empire Staff Writer.

Nellie is a lady; she has very discriminating taste.

In other words she knows her literature. And when she doesn't get what she wants she puts up a very unladylike fuss. Nellie is a German shepherd dog.

She is very intelligent. In fact it is thought by some that she is even more intelligent than many human beings. For she refuses when she goes for her morning newspaper any but The Mail and Empire.

Each morning she makes an expedition to the corner of Bathurst and Bloor for her master's favorite paper. And she insists upon receiving The Mail and Empire.

On several occasions unknowing citizens have seen the big brown dog barking around the newsstand and have handed her the Globe. Nellie would accept politely like the lady she is, but she would carry it just a few yards, drop it and return for the paper she wanted. And then, when her wish was granted, she would dash home to her master, J. C. Hollings, 620 Bathurst St.

Policemen, newsboys and pedestrians who board the cars at the corner in the morning are well acquainted with Nellie, and they verify Nellie's discrimination.

Something Wrong

Pinky Stransen, well-known newsvendor who has charge of several corners downtown as well as the corner of Bathurst and Bloor in the morning, says that he had not heard about Nellie the first morning he went on this beat.

So when the dog drew to a full stop beside the stand and began by loud barks to manifest a desire for a newspaper, he handed her a Globe. Nellie barked thanks and started up the street. She had gone but a few yards, however, when she hesitated, turned and returned with the paper on the run. She dropped it at the mystified newsboy's feet and began fussing all over again.

A policeman who had been watching the performance with a smile, came to her aid and explained that Nellie always took The Mail and Empire. And so, Stransen says, he gave her the newspaper she desired and Nellie, with a grateful wag of her tail disappeared up the street and into her own front door.

Whether Nellie recognizes the difference in the heading of the papers, the milling of the paper itself, or the paste, gastronomic or other wise, of the printed word, her owner is not prepared to state.

"Perhaps it is intuition?" a suggestion was made.

"No, I hardly think so," Mr. Hollings commented as though such a possibility were not to be discarded altogether. "It is possible that she recognizes the pile from which the paper is taken."

But this theory does not account for Nellie's recognition of a paper that is merely handed to her, he admitted.

Nellie is a handsome dog. Her head is long and noble, and her glowing amber eyes are alive with expression. She is healthy and restless, never still a moment. As her master commented, "She's only happy when she's working."

When Nellie was visited recently she shook hands with her guest. Then, as her mistress had just returned from shopping, she carried all the parcels, one at a time, into the kitchen. A little shyly, because she knew she was being made the subject of the conversation, she retired to a corner and watched.

Billie, a cat whom she has known all her life and who is not without accomplishments of his own, came in and sat beside her.

Nellie carries all kinds of parcels without ever mutilating them, it was performed. At night she brings his slippers to him, and in the morning his shoes.

He called upon her to demonstrate her education.

"Count one," he asked. Nellie barked once.

"Count three." Nellie barked three times.

Mr. Hollings patted her on the head and Nellie wagged her plumed tail fervently.

"She's a good dog," he said. "I've never had to punish her since she was a puppy."

"Gus," said Bill, as he caught up with him on the way back to camp, "are all the rest of the boys out of the woods yet?"

"Yes," said Gus.
"All six of them?"
"Yes, all six of them."
"And they're all safe?"
"Yep," answered Gus. "They're all safe."
"Then," said Bill, his chest swelling; "I've shot a deer."

HINTS FOR SUCCESSFUL ALFALFA PRODUCTION

Select land having a clean, fertile surface, preferably of a calcareous texture, and overlying either a naturally or an artificially well-drained sub-soil.

Use large, plump seed of strong germinating power of a hand-produced variety and inoculate the seed with the proper kind of bacteria.

Sow the seed at the rate of fifteen to twenty pounds per acre and preferably in front rather than behind the tubes of the grain drill.

A results of experiments it has been found that alfalfa seed may be sown to advantage as follows:—

1. Alone on winter wheat or winter rye, very early in the spring when the land has a fresh, light covering of snow.

2. With a nurse crop such as barley, spring wheat or rye, or even with oats if the latter is sown thinly.

3. As the only crop on a good fallow in the month of July, preferably about the middle.

When pasturing alfalfa never permit it to be eaten off closely, and never cut or pasture late in the autumn, and thus ensure a good protective growth for the winter.

If the suggestions here given are carefully followed, alfalfa may be expected to produce large and valuable crops for a number of years without re-seeding.

Alfalfa For Poultry

Alfalfa is used extensively in the mashes for poultry. In many of the egg-laying mashes, offered for sale, there is from five to ten per cent. of alfalfa hay, or what is commonly sold as alfalfa meal.

We have fed the second crop of good quality to our laying hens during the winter months. With us, the hay is put through a cutting box, cutting as short as the machine will allow. This cut hay is then fed in racks and the hens allowed to pick what they wish. Roughly, four hundred hens will eat about one thousand pounds a month. They do not eat all the stems, the leaves, of course, are the best feed. This hay is green, is high in mineral content, and is relished. Some steep the leaves, then mix the leaves and the liquor along with the ground grains and feed as a moist mash.

We find an alfalfa field is one of the best ranges in which to grow young stock. The chickens relish the alfalfa and grow well. For small chickens, the field should be cut, or some loss will occur from the long, wet alfalfa.

BEAVER SANTA CLAUS FUND

One very important donation to the Santa Claus Fund was unacknowledged in our report before Xmas, as the check arrived after the report was printed. This was the generous gift of the Napanee Rotary Club of $100.00, which, although a mighty fine contribution, was nothing to the gift of their services on the day before Xmas. Miss Leamy says they not only help in distributing the parcels, no matter what the weather may be or how poor the driving facilities, but are constantly assisting in every helpful, kindly way. The Santa Claus Executive Committee and the ladies of the Social Service gratefully acknowledge this assistance.

Free Shots on Local Sport

It sure beats everything the way these Collegiate girl basketeers go around the country handing out defeats right and left.

Their latest accomplishment is downing Queen's seniors.

Imagine that—a college team!

Now I ask you, just what are we to expect next.

* * *

Followers of the cage game are going to get their fill this week. On Monday night, two teams are coming up from Kingston Y, to take on Night School and Gibbard's. Wednesday night the N.C.I. Jr. and Sr. Girls' play-off with Kingston Collegiate for district honors. And then on Friday night the two outdoor boys' teams from Trenton come down here to try their luck. Six games in all, besides the various practises. The school Gym. is going to be worked harder this week than ever before.

* * *

All these games should be very closely contested and there will likely be large crowds on hand to encourage their favorites.

Now here's a real hot tip, genuine inside dope.

I got it first-handed from Frank Rikley.

If you want to see some real hockey, clean (?), fast (?), lots of scoring (!!) and at a first-class bargain price, come up to the rink on Saturday night from 6 to 7.30 and see the Gibbard interdepartment games.

* * *

The basketball team started things when they challenged the rest of the factory and in spite of the fact that three of the team were not hockey players, they beat them severely.

* * *

So the Slaughterhouse League of two teams is again underway. This time under a new name, the Bush-whackers Battle.

* * *

Everybody is allowed to cut their own clubs.

* * *

When the basketball team is playing hockey it will be known as the Battle-axe Kings. They will play off with the winners of the inter-department loop for the championship of the factory. The original six players who beat the rest of the plant have been barred from the league and guarantee to use no substitutes.

MANY INSTRUMENTS FOR MAKING PEACE

Education, international trade, inventions, conferences and a new series of diplomatic instruments like the World Court are hastening the possibilities of war and removing old prejudices in the way of war. This fact was stressed recently in an address by Ramsay MacDonald, premier of Great Britian, who toured Canada and the United States and also by the Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch of Russia, at a Canadian Club luncheon in Ottawa.

The same sentiment was recently broadcast in a speech by the secretary of the Interior at Washington, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur through the Columbia broadcasting system. He said: "the spread of trade throughout every corner of the world has made it the most potential agent against war. Speaking of the Pacific conference and the sixth Pan American conference, Dr. Wilbur said that without difficulty 85 per cent. of the problems could be settled amicably, and of the others, it is the mutual develop ment and understanding of the other man's point of view even though agreement with him was not attained.

Attention was called to the facilities like the steam engine, post office, telegraph, the cable, radio and the press, which have made the world smaller and smaller each year so that "the unity of humankind is becoming possible through modern invention and through the discovery of certain universal laws applicable everywhere when brought under control.

During the first four months in the year 1929 there were registered one loads of the new medicine "Sargon" to supply the demand. Hooper's Drug Store, sole agents for Napanee.

TAXATION INCREASED BY $90,000,000 A YEAR

Despite misleading propaganda to the effect that the Liberal administration has reduced taxation for the Canadian tax-payer, there is their own indisputable evidence that although tax rates have been reduced in minor items, the load the Canadian has to bear has averaged more than $90,000,000 more for each of the last five years than during the last five years of Conservative government to 1921.

Returns have just been issued for the calendar year ending in 1929, and these return show an enormous increase in taxation, which has brought the aggregate up to a sum largely in excess of the greatest previous taxation returns in the history of Canada—1920, when it was necessary to provide $110,000,000 for railway consolidation and the merchant marine, and when, of course, inflation was at its height, and dollar figures did not have the significance they have today, when a $100 dollar means a great deal to Canadian citizens, many faced with unemployment, a depressed gold market and an unfavorable balance of trade.

The comparison of taxation between the last five years of the Conservative administration, when war problems faced the country, and the last five years of the Liberal administration, when war could largely be considered a thing of the past, shows a very interesting parallel, which disposes of the Liberal contention of reduced taxation:

	Conservatives Total taxation	Liberals Total taxation
1918	196,720,976	1926 327,575,013
1919	233,688,720	1927 346,649,272
1920	293,574,797	1928 364,705,903
1921	303,770,498	1929 394,674,747
Total	1,207,513,339	Total 1,727,819,353

Excess of Liberal taxation for five years period indicated, $460,006,014.

These figures are taken from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics publication, the Canada Year Book and figures from the Department of Finance.

ONTARIO FARMERS FIND RABBITS A NUISANCE

Farmers in some sections of Ontario west of Toronto, have complained that in their localities rabbits have become excessively numerous and very destructive. Ploughed fields, for example, the farmers say that the timid and seemingly harmless rodents are very destructive to the young plants in orchards by gnawing bark from fruit trees and, in many cases, girdling the trees. In several rural districts the people have already organized large hunting parties for the purpose of reducing the number of the rabbits there and, in Peel county, the farmers will follow suit and will wage war, under the supervision of deputy game wardens, against the animals.

Rabbits, as most people know, are very prolific, but in the wilderness the most certain check in their increase is effected by their enemies, the larger hawks and owls, foxes, minks, weasels and other carnivorous animals. Perhaps, the increase that has taken place in the number of rabbits in some parts of Ontario has been a consequence of the decrease in the number of natural enemies of the rabbits there as the agricultural development of those districts has proceeded. The accounts of a superabundance of rabbits in some sections of this province recalls the experience of Australia and New Zealand. Tame rabbits were taken to those countries by settlers. A number were released from captivity in the western district of Australia at about the middle of the last century. Seven were released from captivity near Invercargill in New Zealand in about 1860. In both countries, the rabbits found soil and climatic conditions suitable for their existence and encountered very few natural enemies. The rabbits bred rapidly and spread over both countries. Large numbers of the animals have been killed for their flesh and their pelts and large numbers have been exported from Australia to other countries for use as food. Nevertheless, the rabbits multiplied in Australia and New Zealand to such an extent that they became a serious pest and inflicted heavy losses on farmers and stock raisers.

The farmers of Ontario probably will not find the rabbits to be a great nuisance as did the farmers and stock-raisers of Australia and New Zealand. While that is so, the multiplication of the rabbits in the Australian dominions, the increase of the English sparrow in Canada and the introduction of certain pests, such as the Japanese beetle and the European corn borer, in countries into which they have been imported, teach lessons that are worth notice. They indicate that animals, birds and insects that are not excessively numerous in one territory may multiply prodigiously in another where they are not kept in check by natural conditions or enemies, and may do much damage there.

PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO VALUED RESIDENT

At a service of great dignity and beauty, which in attendance taxed the capacity of St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, on Tuesday afternoon, La Jolla friends paid the last tribute of respect to a dear friend and neighbor, a lovely and estimable character, Henrietta Louise Bedford-Jones, wife of Rev. Wm. Bedford-Jones, rector of St. James-by-the-Sea, who passed away on Sunday. Floral tributes were few, but magnificently beautiful, and the music from choirs at either side of the altar carried its melodious message through the service. The stately and beautiful rites of the Church were in the hands of the Right Rev. W. Bertrand Stevens, the Bishop of Los Angeles, assisted by Rev. Charles Barnes, Rector of St. Paul's, in San Diego, and his assistant, Rev. Bate, of Bostonia, and Rev. Spaulding, of Coronado. Mrs. Wm. Bedford-Jones, a native of Canada, was 69 years of age at the time of her death. BASKETBALL

Boys' Basketball

On Friday evening last the Napanee Collegiate boys basketball teams played their first home games in the N. C. I. gym against Trenton. The Napanee Seniors were successful in defeating T. C. I., but the Juniors lost. The Senior game was fast and well contested. An overtime period was necessary in order to gain a decision. At the end of the forty minutes the score was tied at 18 all, so a ten minute overtime period was tacked on, in which our boys were successful in scoring 5 baskets, while Trenton could only get one. N. C. I. came through to win 28-26.

The Junior game was closely played in the first half, but Trenton cut loose and outplayed us in the second period. The final score was 25-8.

Napanee plays next game in Belleville on Friday, January 31st, against Belleville Collegiate. We hope they win.

The N. C. I. teams were as follows: Seniors—Defence, Webster and Kinkley; Forwards, Deane and Thompson; Centre, R. Howitt; Sub., Robinson.

Juniors—Defence, Shier and Frink; Forwards, Vick and Alkenbrack; Centre, G. Howitt.

Girls' Basketball

The N. C. I. girls' Senior Basketball team drove another spike on their quest of the Eastern Ontario championship when they easily defeated Kingston Collegiate girls here last Wednesday evening by the one-sided score of 46-10. At the same time the Napanee Juniors found no trouble in defeating K. C. I. Juniors to the score of 26-6.

The Senior game, which everyone expected would be closely contested, was a walk away for N. C. I. Kingston got the first basket, but after that our girls piled up the points so fast that during the last half K. C. I. were fighting against a thirty point margin. But K. C. I. could only obtain 2 baskets in the second half, while our girls obtained 10.

Again a sterling combination and accurate shooting won the game for N. C. I. "Nookie" Daly led the scoring with 9 baskets, while Dorothy Wilson scored 7, and Grace Joyce 4. Doris Anderson played a great game at centre, getting nearly every tip-off. Every Kingston play was easily blocked by N. C. I.'s stalwart defence of Embury and Jean Milligan. With the winning of this game Napanee Collegiate got into the Eastern Ontario finals. They have progressed without a loss for eight straight games. This is a record that has never been equalled before, and N. C. I. hold an enviable position at the top of the basketball ladder. It has not yet been decided where the girls go to play the semi-final game, but this will be announced later.

N. C. I. girls previously had journeyed to Kingston, where they defeated Queen's University ladies in an exhibition game to the score of 44-40. A return game may be played here at a later date.

The teams:

N. C. I.—Defence, M. Embury, Jean Milligan; Forwards, Dorothy Wilson, Grace Joyce; Centre, Doris Anderson; Side, Nookie Daly.

K. C. I.—Defence, Jean Wright, Marguerite Lemmon; Forwards, Marjorie Gordon, Claire Drysdale; Centre, Betty Thomson; Side, Shirley Lemmon; Subs., Helen Pappas, Jean McBratney.

CHANGING WINTER WEATHER

The north wind moans about the eaves;
And for the summer sobs and grieves;
The earth is wrapped in ice and snow,
While all the trees look cold and low;
The bright home-fires are burning red,
The cattle are shivering in the shed;
And all day long the keen winds blow
While thick and fast comes down the snow.

But lo! a change, serene, sublime,
From the old-fashioned winter time—
The air grows warm, the winds are still,
The fleecy snowcraft melts on the hill;
And all day long the shining rain
Patters upon the window pane.
No more the snow piles white and deep
Where rosis take their winter sleep.

This ever-changing winter clime,
Gives travellers an easier time;
First sleighs are out and jingle bells,
Then wheels the merry chaise tells;
Then all Canada's Adaisian 20c and 50c. Good program.—

CAPACITY TO LEAD MAKES ITS DEMAND UPON INDIVIDUALS

Leadership in education as well as in other fields makes serious demands upon those who would attain it, among the most important of which is a willingness to undergo hard work.

Those who have had much contact with human beings are impressed with the general attitude of "get by."

A careful inquiry will disclose the fact that they are willing to do just enough to pass; the "get by" attitude is the first characteristic of the average man, it is never the characteristic of the leader.

Leadership requires a physical capacity to stand hard work. Those who are born with weakened bodies are handicapped in the beginning. Theodore Roosevelt possessed other qualities, but was without this one. He went from college to a western cattle ranch and built himself up.

Napoleon had four hours day sleep, Edison in his laboratory 24 hours at a time without food or rest, Ford building without fault or rest, the first automobile after a ten hour day of his regular employment represent samples of the demands which leadership makes on the human frame.

Then there must be a clear cut purpose or aim. Although this aspect is been evidenced by careers of such military leaders as Alexander, Cæsar and Napoleon, it nevertheless applies in greater or lesser degree to leadership in all fields. Many never achieve leadership in any field because they do not realize what they want to do, they are unable to make up their minds.

Then the ability has to be developed to make use of obstacles as steps to success. Another outstanding characteristic of the average man is what the boys on the football team term "alibi." It is so easy to blame the other fellow that few are willing to assume the responsibility for their own difficulties. The leader recognizes he is master of his own conduct, that he cannot control the conduct of others, and his mistakes he learns. George Washington who was rated as one of the great generals in history, was frequently defeated but by each defeat he learned.

The fifth qualification is the ability to get along with people. The sixth characteristic of the leader is the outstanding capacity to identify the self with the cause. Great principles recognized as spiritual truths seem to make little impression upon a material world. Once a great principle, however, is embodied in the human form and actually lived in a material world, it has immense influence.

YARKER-COLEBROOK WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The January meeting of the Yarker-Colebrook W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. A. D. Leonard on Wednesday, January 15th. The president presided and opened the meeting in the usual way. The Secretary and Treasurer's reports were read and approved. The treasurer's report being particularly satisfactory.

Several items of business were attended to and it was decided to make application for a summer speaker. Those appointed to the visiting committee for this month: Mrs. V. Atkeson, Mrs. W. J. Warner, Mrs. C. Amey and Miss A. Porter. We feel sure these committees are doing a very real work when they discover those who need material assistance and render it. Mrs. Atcheson gave a synopsis of Mr. Putnam's article in the report of the Sixth Biennial Convention of the Federated Women's Institute on "The Women's Institutes as Co-Operators." A vote of thanks was tendered our president, Mrs. N. Boyce, for so thoughtfully remembering each one at the Christmas season. Fifty-one members responded to the roll call by telling the Christmas gift they enjoyed most. Five visitors were present and five new members added to the list, making a membership of 72. Mrs. C. Amey gave a splendid paper on "Current Events."

The program consisted of a paper, which contained a great deal of humor, by Mrs. Ashley Parrott. We feel sure Mrs. Ashley has a couple of solos. A very pleasing Piano Solo, "Silver Sleigh Bells," by Miss B. Leonard, which was rendered in well rendered and a monologue entitled "Mary Louise entertaining company," by Mrs. P. Galbraith, which was very amusing. The meeting was closed by the singing of the National Anthem and refreshments of tea and coffee by the hostess and lunch committee.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. T. Bevers, Colebrook on February 19th, at 2 p.m., when the roll call will be answered by "Aunt Bet's new hat." Will those who are unable to attend kindly send their answers to the Secretary, President or Treasurer.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

(For last week)

The first game of the B. of Q. Basketball League schedule was played on Friday evening, January 17th, when the N.C.I. Senior team went to Albert College where they were defeated 32-15, by a fast and well balanced aggregation representing that school.

Albert opened up the game, setting a fast pace and had 10 points before our boys got under way. Deane got through for N.C.I.'s first basket, making the score 10-3. Albert kept up the same pace and showed better accuracy in shooting than our boys who had many chances to score but could not seem to make baskets. But under the handicap of playing on a different type of floor from our own N.C.I. made a good showing. Albert also had a sterling combination in Faulkner, Yuill and Purchase. These three boys were responsible for nearly every Albert basket. The green, gold and black continued their winning ways and at the end of the first half the score was 21-7.

Going into the second half N.C.I. fought hard and led the play throughout. But baskets seemed hard to get and the shooting was erratic. N.C.I. added seven points to their total in the second half while Albert added eleven.

Albert has a senior team which will go a long way toward the championship unless Belleville or Trenton pulls something unexpected. A Junior game was scheduled but a Y.M.C.A. team from the city replaced Napanee Juniors in that fixture.

Although beaten, the Napnaee team were not as badly outclassed as the score indicated. They forced the play on a good share of the time. The points were well distributed among the boys, Kinkley leading with four points, Deane, Robinson, Thompson and Vick with two each, while Webster and Howitt secured one each.

The teams:

Albert College: Defence, Yuill, Pulleen; centre, Purchase; forwards, Faulkener, Thompson; subs., Atchison, Moffat, and Muir.

Napnee Collegiate: Defence, Webster, Kinkley; centre, Howitt; forwards, Thompson, Deane; subs., Robinson, Vick. Referee—Armstrong.

During the giving of the reports the male quartet composed of Messrs. C. A. Wiseman, Bert. Seymour B. M. Black, Reg. Wiseman, rendered two numbers, and Mr. Reg. Wiseman sang a couple of solos. A very pleasing finish to the evening took place when Rev. W. P. Woodger and Mr. R. B. Allen presented Mrs. B. M. This was responded to, in a feeling manner by Mrs. Black.

Dramatic Milestones in Canada's Story

BY C. W. JEFFERYS

"Mackenzie at the Arctic Sea"

In 1779, a 15-year-old boy began work as a clerk in the counting-house of Gregory, McLeod and Company, merchants, of Montreal. He was named Alexander Mackenzie and was born in Stornoway, in the Island of Lewis in Scotland. His mother had died when he was a child, and his father, Kenneth, went with his son to New York in 1774. When the American Revolution broke out, the father joined the British forces, and the young Alexander was sent to Montreal, where he attended school. In the year after he began to work, his father died on service, and the boy was left alone to make his way in the world.

We know little of his early years, but we can judge that he was a hard-working, reliable and persevering youth. During the five years that he worked for his employers he so won their confidence in his ability, judgment and honesty that they sent him on a trading venture for them to the distant post of Detroit, and when only twenty years of age took him into partnership.

The fur trade was the backbone of Canadian business at this period. Montreal merchants sent their employees with canoe-loads of goods far into the north and west. Up the Ottawa, along the shores of Lake Huron and Superior into the Rainy River country, and beyond Lake Winnipeg to the head waters of the rivers falling into Hudson Bay, the voyageurs journeyed, and the returning canoes brought out thousands of skins of beaver, fox, marten, otter and other wild animals, which swarmed in the northern wilderness.

The company to which Mackenzie belonged pushed their trade into this vast territory, and the young partner was sent to the Churchill River. In 1887, his firm, united with their powerful rivals, the North West Company, who had established numerous posts throughout the country, Mackenzie was given charge of the far north-western district of Athabasca. It was a difficult and responsible position for a young man of twenty-four years. Fights between the competing traders had demoralized the Indians and almost ruined the trade; but Mackenzie proved capable and enterprising, and soon put the business on a sound footing. He built a new post, which he named Fort Chipewyan, on the south side of the Lake of the Hills, to-day called Lake Athabasca. It was the meeting place of several great waterways a good strategic position for trade and travel, and Mackenzie made it his headquarters.

Successful trader and business man though he was, Mackenzie had the spirit of adventure, and was not content with the routine of barter and the details of Indian traffic. He felt a keen desire to explore the unknown country, which lay all around him. In the pretence to the account of his voyages, which he afterwards wrote, he gives a good description of himself. "Being endowed by Nature with an inquisitive mind and an enterprising spirit; possessing also a constitution and frame of body equal to the most arduous undertakings, and being familiar with toilsome exertions, I not only contemplated the practicability of penetrating across the continent, but was confident in the qualifications to undertake the perilous enterprise." It is apparent that he had a good conceit of himself; but it was amply justified by his achievements.

Traders and Indians told him stories of a great river that would lead to that Western Sea, which so many explorers had sought. Out of the Western corner of Lake Athabasca ran the Slave River to the Great Slave Lake, from which flowed another and a greater river. This much was known; but whither did it flow? Might it not empty into the Pacific and prove to be the long-sought route to the Western Coast? Mackenzie determined to find out by following it himself.

On the 3rd of June, 1789, he set out from Fort Chipewyan on his voyage of discovery. He took with him five French Canadians, two of them accompanied by their wives, a German, and several Indians. They travelled in three birch-bark canoes, laden with a small store of provisions, some goods for presents to the Indians they might meet, blankets, nets for fishing, and an ample supply of ammunition, since they relied principally upon the game of the country for their subsistence. With this meagre equipment, and a stout heart and a clear head, Mackenzie embarked upon his great adventure. They knew neither the length nor the direction of their journey, but Mackenzie and his men were experienced voyageurs, accustomed to the boyhood in the canoe, trained to carry heavy loads over rough portages, hardy, vigorous and resourceful.

Their course lay down Slave River to Great Slave Lake. Here they were delayed several days, for the lake was still covered with ice. They spent their time hunting and fishing; wild ducks, geese and swans were flying north, beaver deer and caribou were plentiful, and lakes and rivers were full of fish. On the 21st, the ice was melted sufficiently to allow them to make some progress. With the thaw came swarms of mosquitoes, and thereafter they were tormented continually by these pests. Some days were spent in searching for the outlet to the unknown river. At last, on the 29th, they found the current grow stronger, and entered upon the westward flowing stream, known to-day as the Mackenzie River. At that season in those northern latitudes, there was almost continuous day-light; they started early and camped late, and Mackenzie urged on his men to their utmost speed. To the westward, after some days, they saw the distant Rocky Mountains, and before long the course of the river began to trend northward.

At several places, they saw Indians, who generally fled in alarm at their approach. Mackenzie went ashore whenever possible, and made friends with them, giving them presents of knives, beads, and hatchets. They told him fearful tales of the dangers ahead of him down the river, of stupendous water-falls, fierce and blood-thirsty natives, huge and horrible monsters. Mackenzie was not influenced by these stories, but his own Indians were alarmed at the prospect, and wished to turn back, and it required all his tact and firmness to keep them to their work, and to induce some of the natives he met to act as guides.

On the 10th, he took an observation, and found that he was further north and east than he had expected, and concluded that the waters instead of flowing into the Western Sea, led to the Arctic Ocean. But, he says in his journal, "though it was probable that from want of provisions we could not return to Athabasca in the course of the season, nevertheless, I determined to proceed to the discharge of them." Longer grew the days, and on the 11th, Mackenzie sat un all night and saw the midnight sun. Next day the banks became lower, and the river divided into several channels. He had reached the Delta, and was near the end of the voyage.

As they proceeded, the water grew shallower; ice and snow were seen in the valleys. There were no trees except a few stunted willows, but short grass and wild flowers were growing in profusion. On the 12th, they reached a high island, to the west of which lay a large expanse of water, bounded by solid ice. Mackenzie landed, and climbed to the highest point of the island. The ice-barrier extended from the south-west far to the eastward, and then further progress was impossible. They camped on the island, and that night the tide rose and they had to remove their baggage beyond its reach. Undoubtedly they were on the sea-shore; but it was the Arctic and not the Pacific which they had reached.

For three days they remained, seeking for a possible outlet through the ice, fishing to help out their provisions, which were running low, and hoping to meet some Eskimos, from whom they might learn something about the country. On the 14th of July, Mackenzie erected a post on the island, and engraved on it a record of his visit. The island he named Wash Island from the Beluga or white whales which he saw swimming in the waters of the shore.

Convinced that speedy return was necessary, Mackenzie, two days later, made for the river and began his homeward journey. It was harder work against the strong current; many places the canoes had to be hauled by the men walking in the water up to their waists, or scrambling along the rocky shore, which tore their moccasins to pieces. The Indians gave them some trouble, game sometimes was scarce, and their canoes required frequent repairs; but on the 12th of September all arrived safely at Fort Chipewyan. The journey had covered 2090 miles and had occupied 102 days. It was a wonderful exploit; but it was plain that the way to the Western Sea must be sought elsewhere than by the great river.

The picture shows Mackenzie looking at the Ocean from the summit of Whale Island. The long shadows as the ground indicate the low unsetting sun, and the fluttering garments of the men suggest the strong north-west gale which Mackenzie says blew during their stay.

VIOLET-SWITZERVILLE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of the Violet-Switzerville W. I. was held on Thursday afternoon, January 16th at the charming home of Mrs. Jas. A. McCormick, Switzerville, with an attendance of sixteen ladies in spite of the very cold weather.

The President, Mrs. E. A. Wright was in her accustomed place and the roll call was answered by sayings of "Aunt Het" and the "oldest relic I possess," many of the members showing relics of other days, including hand woven and embroidered linen, coins, china and glass with a history of 150 years in a family.

Miss Ruth McCormick gave a very interesting paper on "Hot Supper Dishes" and very graciously tendered the recipes of different dishes mentioned.

Mrs. J. Wilson favored with a very lovely vocal solo and was warmly applauded. "The uses of china," was a carefully thought out and very original paper, by Miss Mildred Hannah, our clever little secretary, and was very much appreciated.

Miss Stella Craig furnished a delightful piano solo. "The Farm Kitchen Workshop," a very clever and bright paper was given by Mrs. N. Wilson and was certainly worthy of special mention as it was a splendid paper.

At this point a little diversion took place in the program, the President took charge of the piano and rendered a few lines of many old favorite songs and as quickly as possible the members had to guess the names and the prize, a dainty pair of candle sticks had to be divided, as Mrs. J. Wilson and Miss S. Craig each had thirteen correct answers.

New members were added to our roll showing that we are certainly progressing favorably. The social half hour brought to a close a delightful afternoon, after which our very genial hostess and her committee served a delicious hot supper. A hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. McCormick and her daughter was moved and carried unanimously, bringing to a close another happy afternoon. The next meeting will be held at the home of the President on the evening of March 6th. A debate will be given, resolved that "woman's equipment on the farm has not advanced as the men's have." Messrs. Orville McCormick, Clarence Spafford and William Smith have the affirmative side, the negative side being taken by Mesdames Arnold Empey, Rae Browne and Miss E. McMillan. This promises to be a very interesting meeting with other special features.

CAMDEN EAST W. M. S.

The first meeting of the New Year, of Camden East Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. E. Sherlock, on January 16th, at 2 p.m. Meeting was opened with president presiding. A hymn was sung, then all repeated the Apostle's Creed in unison.

Minutes of last meeting were read and adopted, also roll call, with eight members responding. Meeting was then opened for business. Several members paid dues for the new year. A few other items of business were discussed. Mrs. C. Histed took charge of the program part of the meeting. Topic of program being "Pentecost," the "Birthday of Missions," four different members read leaflets dealing with that topic. Mrs. Sherlock also gave us a few minutes talk on "Pentecost" and its meaning. A familiar hymn was sung, followed by prayer from three different members for the success of the missionary work in the future. All sang very affectively "Send showers of Blessing."

Meeting was closed by prayer, led by Mrs. Dickson. The hostess served refreshments and a social half hour was spent.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED IN CHINA

In Honan Province, China, battle-ground of northern and southern forces up to the latest stages of the chinese civil war, conditions have vastly improved in recent months, missionary advices state, and every station of the Honan Mission of United Church of Canada has been partially reoccupied. This is confirmed in a cable to foreign mission offices from the Mission, announcing that a new working arrangement with the Synod of Honan, Church of Christ in China, has been reached and that joint advance into unevangelized areas can now begin. It is stated that, with political and ecclesiastical problems more settled, the missionaries begin 1930 with high hope.

THE ONLY SHEPHERD

"We must look after our English-speaking people on the frontiers of Northern Canada," writes a veteran superintendent of missions for The United Church. He tells of a missionary in that work who had a fourteen-day trip, during which he travelled 811 miles, 739 by rail and 72 on snow-shoes. He visited 102 families and had Bible reading and prayer in 65 homes. He also held 12 services, one of them in an abandoned Hudson's Bay Post, where there were 35 present. This was the first Protestant service held in this community since the Hudson's Bay left over fifty years ago. During the trip he walked 20 miles to see a dying woman and then 12 miles through the bush to a funeral service.

"R.B." LITTLE WEAKNESS

His Home Town Has Appreciation of the Value of the Individual

Ontarians swear by "R.B." writes Arthur P. Woollacott, F.R.G.S., in Toronto Saturday Night. They have known R. B. Bennett for thirty years and whatever side of the political fence they may be on they have no hesitation in paying homage to him as a man. What they like most about him is that he has never lost his appreciation of the value of the individual. Success has not turned his head. Humanity is not a brute fact with him, because it is made up of his friends and neighbors whom he knows intimately, and others like them, real people with their ups and downs, aspirations, struggles, misfortunes and occasional successes.

A few westerners know the story of the penniless aspirant for legal honors, of the opposite political faith he it said, who conceived the idea of writing to Bennett for financial assistance.

Bennett arrived in a western town and was met at the station by a line-up of all the big guns of his party, all of whom had tales to tell, but he frankly told them that he hadn't the time to say anything to any of them and could only greet them en masse.

The student-at-law pushed his way from the back of the crowd and introduced himself to Bennett.

"You're So-and-So," said R. B. "Yes, I recall your letter. I can give you just five minutes."

R. B. steered the young man into a convenient office, took out his cheque book and asking a few questions which were really comments that indicated his thorough grasp of the situation, wrote out a cheque large enough to see the young man safely launched as a full-fledged lawyer.

"Pay this back when you can, and in the meantime don't worry about it," were R.B.'s parting words as he cordially shook hands with the young man. That young man is now a successful western lawyer.

A few old timers know another story about R. B. Bennett which they like to tell as a characteristic instance of his humanity.

A very old, old lady with a very large farm found herself in the predicament in which people without business ability are likely to get. All her men folks were gone, the last of them, her sons, killed in the Great War. She had no living relatives.

The large acreage that was still hers, in name only, was encumbered in various ways by taxes, mortgages, debts, backward rentals and a falling off in productivity. The old lady was in a quandary, but happened to consult a Calgary business man who new Bennett. He could do nothing himself, but suggested that R. B. might be able to find a way out for her.

"I'll notify you when he is in town. Then go to see him. Don't take no from any of his office staff. His very efficient bodyguard of secretaries will naturally try to sidetrack you, but just brush them aside and march right in to "R. B.s" sanctum."

The old lady followed instructions to the letter. R. B. listened with sympathy as she unfolded her tale of bankruptcy. As she afterwards said, she realized more than ever how hopeless her case was while she was telling him the details.

At the conclusion of her recital R. B. got up and put his hands on her shoulders. "Leave all your papers with me and come back in six weeks. You'll find everything then in ship-shape order."

"But how can you do it?" she exclaimed with a glimmering suspicion that no human agency could restore her affairs in any satisfactory way.

"Leave that to me," he said, "If men like me can't look after mothers like you this world would be a poor place to live in."

Six weeks later the bewildered old lady got all her papers back and found that all her affairs were in order, that is to say, her broad acres were free from incumbrance and were again bringing in an income, but to the day of her death the dear old lady could never figure out just exactly how it was done.

ALL BRITISH TIMBER.

Empire Marketing Board's Pavilion Built of British Timbers.

One of the most interesting features of the recent Northeast Coast Exhibition, held at Newcastle, was one that probably most visitors missed—the fact that all the constructional timbers used in the Empire Marketing Board's pavilion were actually grown in Great Britain. Scots pine, Norway spruce and black Italian poplar were the trees that supplied the timbers. They were all grown in Cumberland plantations, and proved extremely satisfactory in every way.

The success, says a writer in Answers, of this experiment should lead to a wider use of home-grown timber of this kind. The attractive Tasmanian oak and Australian karri and jarrah, which have been used to overlay the home-grown wood in the floors, are also a good advertisement for Empire timber. It has been estimated, by the way, that if home-grown wood had been used in the constructional work of the exhibition as a whole, it would have meant about £14,000 in wages to British workmen.

SEA AS A POSTMAN.

Letters Placed In Bags and Fastened to Buoys.

A penny, two farthings, and a letter which had been drifting about the North Atlantic for two months and twenty days were delivered in London recently.

The letter came from St. Kilda, but two others, sent about the same time, are missing.

St. Kilda, one of the Outer Hebrides, off the west coast of Scotland, is the loneliest of the British Isles, and the whole Atlantic is its pillar-box.

There is no post office there, so stamps cannot be bought. Letters are put in tin cans with the necessary postage and cast upon the waters.

The cans are fastened to sheepskin buoys with wooden floats marked "St. Kilda Mail. Please open."

The set of the Atlantic currents washes up most of the St. Kilda mail in the Shetlands, but a good many letters have to be written off as lost in transit.

"I tell you, gentlemen," said the fire engineer to the crowd in the hotel smoking-room, who were listening breathlessly, "you can't imagine what things are like out in the Arctic regions."

"Oh, I don't know," said one. "Even if we haven't seen it, we can imagine what it feels like."

"I doubt it. Its impossible until you've seen it; until you've stood there, a small, insignificant atom, surrounded by vast stretches of white—"

"Say," yes, I know. I've been like that."

"Really? Where was it may I ask?"

"First time I appeared in public in a dress shirt."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of Fred C. Brenton, of Trenton, who entered into rest four years ago, January 28th.

We'll meet again the loved and lost.
Where partings rend the heart no more
When we death's mystic stream have crossed,
And moored our barque to yonder shore
Oh, yes! we'll meet them on that shore
We'll meet where partings are no more
All sorrow past, all grief and pain;
On that blest shore we'll meet again.

Lovingly remembered by Wife and Son. 5ap

The following story, apropos d'Amerique, is one of the few which brought a smile to the faces of stockholders during the black week of the New York slump:

A broker arrived at his office one afternoon looking extremely depressed.

"What's the matter?" asked an older friend.

"I have just been to see my doctor," he replied, "and he tells me I have got diabetes. Just think of it—diabetes at 45."

"That's nothing," replied the other. "I have got nickels at 60."

HOCKEY

Trenton 14, Napanee 1.

Hopelessly outclassing their opponents, Trenton Junior hockey team walked away with their third consecutive victory at the local arena on Tuesday night when they defeated Napanee. From the face-off until the last bell the result was never in doubt and to make the affair safe the locals piled up five goals in the first period and shut out the visitors.

The game was clean and well handled by Referee Harry Balstone of Kingston.

The Napanee executive and team took their defeat like gentlemen and gathered in the centre of the ice at the conclusion and gave three hasty cheers for Trenton. The visitors were weakened as compared with the team Trenton played in Napanee. Dorey, their big defence man, has moved to Kingston, and sickness kept another good player at home.

The locals were going great guns with every man on his toes. Lambert started the scoring with a nice rush, he shot, missed, recovered the rebound and went around the net and fooled VanLuven with a backhand shot. Pillon was next to find the twine. His was a beautiful exhibition of stick-handling and skating, and after passing every barrier, took a long shot which was too hot to be handled. In a moment or two Mattis broke into the score column and with a well-earned goal. Then Bohan took a bang, a pass-out and scored. Cottrell rushed and cleared the defence, then passed to Lambert, whose shot tallied. Score 5-0 for Trenton.

Francis Bohan started the fun in the second period and was quickly followed by Lambert. "Slim" Mattis again showed his worth and Bohan started a pretty combination which ended with a pass to Lambert, who scored. Parnell on left wing, made it 10-0 at the fifteen-minute mark.

Coach Allore used his substitute forward line, Mattis, Begin and Miller considerably for the rest of the game, and these boys gained a lot of useful experience.

Bohan again opened the barrage in the third and just to show it could be done, walked in and made it twelve zero. Geo. Filion, who had been having things easy at his end of the rink, not being superstitious, took it into his noodle to go through and that was all there was to it. The score became 13-0. Napanee was determined to get at least one, and Fraser, who was their best man, got through and a long shot fooled Chambers. Kenneth Chambers, by the way, is playing "hockey" with a capital "H." Lambert doesn't like the jinx numbers, and so from centre ice he rushed and made it 14.

As has been said before, every player on the Trenton team was in the game for all he was worth Begin, Miller and Cattrell did not get into the score line, but each was in on the combinations which at various times resulted in goals. The subs. were particularly good in this regard.

Penalties were scarce. Begin, Parnell and Lambert each had unasked for rest periods and Moore of Napanee was the only other offended.

The line-up:

Napanee — Goal, VanLuven and Hayes; defence, Green and Brant; centre, Davy; wings, Wilson and Fraser; subs., Huffman, Bentley, Moore.

Trenton—Goal, Kenneth Chambers; defence, George Pillon, Stanley Cottrell; centre, Francis Bohan; wings, Harry Lambert and Earl Parnell; subs., Kenneth Begin, "Bill" Miller and Arthur Mattis.—Quinte Sun, Trenton.

—The Napanee Junior hockey team go to Trenton on Friday night. The next home game is on Wednesday night, February 5th, with Belleville. The team will be much stronger for the next game and promise to give Belleville some real opposition.

CHURCHES ON SKIDS NEED MISSIONARIES

Two churches and manses on skids, for easy removal if the townsites move, are planned for the Peace River country by the United Church's Board of Home Missions—the one at Pouce Coupe, B.C., being already under way, and the second, at Notikewin, Alberta, in prospect.

The United Church already has fourteen ordained missionaries in the Peace River country and will send in a number of college students in the spring.

"We now need more men and the best will be none too good for this country north of the Peace," writes Rev. John H. Selkirk of Peace River, Alberta, home missions convener of the Presbytery, outlining to home mission offices, Toronto, the Notikewin building project.

The town is far ahead of steel, on the old Fort Vermilion trail. If the railway passes to either side of the present settlement, the church and manse could be dragged along to the new site.

An experienced missionary is wanted by the convener, who lately motored 154 miles one day in the Notikewin-Battle River area, and sees much rural development there. A site has been secured and the Board of Home Missions has authorized outlay for building, if the missionary and his maintenance can be found.

IF THERE IS A BABY IN YOUR HOME

There Also Should Be a Box of Baby's Own Tablets

To keep her little ones well is the constant aim of every mother and to help her in this task she should always keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the home. These tablets have saved many little lives when illness came on suddenly.

The majority of troubles which affect little ones are those which arise from a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels. It is in quickly correcting these disorders that Baby's Own Tablets show their value. They banish constipation and indigestion; correct colds and diarrhoea, break up colds and simple fevers and allay teething pains. Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. E. Roberts, Cap aux Os, Que., writes:—"I always keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house as I know of nothing to equal them for little ones."

The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DATE PALM IN ALGERIA.

Seven Million Trees Give to Desert Shade and Food.

Cultivation of the date palm in Algeria is constantly increasing with the result that larger tracts of the desert are lying under the shade of their leaves and exports abroad of the fruit are mounting. Facts published by La Journee Industrielle make interesting reading.

For hundreds of years the Arabs have been nourished in part by the fruit of these trees, and the French occupation has led to the development of this natural industry. Attempts to introduce the palm to the civilization of the coast failed signally in one respect. Though the trees retained their artistic form they yielded no fruit. They required the constant refreshing of subterranean waters, an habitual heat, and complete dryness of atmosphere, and these the desert supplied. At Figuig, on the Algerian-Moroccan frontier, is an oasis with 300,000 date palms, and at similar places it is possible to utilize the shade for the planting of market gardens and fruit groves.

The sweet "Degel-Nour" date is the variety which is almost solely exported. The name means, poetically, "finger of light," after its amber color and succulence. Of the 110,000 quintals of dates sent each year from Algeria, slightly more than 100,000 are Degel-Nours, and of these the largest and finest come from Souf. The date called "Ghars," or "robusta," is produced to the extent of 500,000 quintals, as compared with the total of 250,000 of the Degel-Nours, but the Ghars is consumed almost entirely in the oases of the Algerian Sahara. It is an abundant fruit of a bay color and teeming with a fluid from which is made the "date honey" of the desert. The pulp left after this is extracted is sold to the caravans under the name of "date bread."

The "Deglia-beida," or "white finger," is a date that goes to the north and central parts of Algeria and is bought by either city dweller and nomad. The quantity grown almost equals that of the Ghars. In Algeria, altogether, there are some 7,000,000 date palms clustered into olive-tinted masses here and there over the yellow sands, almost sure signs of water and human habitation. France absorbs to-day more than 90 per cent. of all the dates exported, and efforts are being made to educate the natives to improve their methods of sorting and packing the fruit. Spain and Morocco take a fair amount of what is left, also Tunis, and relatively small shipments find their way chiefly to England, Germany, and the Balkans.

The date palm not only yields its fruit for commercial purposes. The leaves are used in making the native ceilings of their dwellings, and are woven for cradles and baskets; with the thorns the wool is carded; from the stalks wood for carpentry is furnished, and even the twigs are burnt for have their other uses. The date palm is the best tree-friend of the Arabs, and the French are taking pains to improve the progressive augmentations of its cultivation. In a quarter of a century exports have quintupled.

Onions as Weather Prophets.

Almost every animal, bird, insect, tree, and plant is regarded as a weather portent of some sort in different parts of the world.

In the autumn moles prepare a kind of clay basis in which they store their winter's supply of worms. When the winter will be mild, there are few of these basins, but many if severe weather is at hand. It is also said that moles leave the valleys before floods come, and that their presence in meadows promises fair weather.

A hard winter is said to be coming when leaves are late in falling, when sparrows get busy with their nests late in the year, and when berries are plentiful.

When an onion skin is very thin it is said we will have a mild winter; when thick and tough the winter will be cold and rough.

Radio Shrimps.

A peculiar and previously undiscovered species of deep sea shrimp which casts off a luminous green glow when brought to the surface has been discovered by members of the Danish Oceanographic Expedition, which made port at Manilla on an Oriental scientific tour. Scientists there are much interested in the specimen which is believed to represent an entirely new species. It was caught in 1,500 fathoms.

Commenting on the find, Prof. Johannes Schmidt, head of the expedition, says that the specimen distributed emitted a greenish phosphorescent light: "Further," he says, "when we took the specimen from the net they ejected from their bodies drops of liquid which showed a phosphorescent light. This species of shrimp is still unknown to science."

Dates In United States.

Now the basis of a promising fruit industry, the date palm was ten years ago little more than a botanical curiosity in the United States. Approximately 2,500 acres have been planted to dates in America while 719 acres are now in commercial bearing.

Warships vs. Education.

Capper's Weekly has figured out that the $5,000 to $6,000 a day required to operate one U. S. battleship would in a year send 2,000 boys and girls to college, giving each $1,000.

Uniforms for Classes.

A regulation of the Hungarian Ministry of Culture prescribes that all school girls must wear school blouses as part of their classroom attire.

The number of new books published in the United Kingdom last year was 14,390, or on the average of 46 books a day.

THE TURKEY

Has Never Quite Settled Down to Domesticity Like Other Fowl.

From time immemorial the words "turkey" and "Christmas" have been inseparably associated in our minds. There are thousands of people who firmly believe that Christmas without a turkey would be rendered null and void. No doubt the day will dawn when Christmas will be celebrated without the fleshy sacrificial rites attendant upon it at present; but the turkey is a very beautiful and interesting bird, because it has never quite settled down to domesticity like the other fowl, but still has wild ways that require a good deal of understanding, says a writer in the Humane Pleader.

Many people have worn out several flocks of small turkeys endeavoring to treat them like chickens. They have tried to make their hen turkeys rear their flocks after the most approved poultry yard methods, with the result that the young ones "up and died on them," as the Irish say, in bunches. They will not thrive in confinement, and they cannot stand getting wet, when small, so the ambitious turkey-raiser finds himself between Scylla and Charybdis. Until they get the idea, the owners of "temperamental turkeys" are driven to the verge of suicide by their behaviour.

We remember a friend, some years ago, who was presented with three handsome birds, a gobbler and two hens. They were supposed to form the nucleus of a profitable flock. Having been warned that turkeys were not domesticated in their tastes, but were given to roaming the country miles from home sitting on the porch and doing embroidery, she gave them their liberty and her blessing. They disappeared one morning and were not heard of or from for three days. Then someone phoned to say that three strange turkeys had taken up their abode in a pine tree on her farm, and refused either to come down or pay rent. The Turkey Trotter, as she subsequently came to be called, drove furiously to the scene, and claimed her darlings; that is, she knew-ledged them. To all her blandishments they turned a cold eye of suspicion and—remained in the tree. Finally, it was decided to have tea, then try again. When they went out after tea, the birds had flown literally. Next day a neighbor three miles away reported that they were in the barnyard, feeding "all" with the other fowls. Another frenzied dash. This time they were caught and taken home by next day they were gone again. They came home at night, however, but insisted upon roosting in a tall tree. Before daylight they were gone. They finally learned in the end to "call" back, like many people, they only stayed there when tired of travelling.

They continued to lay in any selected place, having original ideas of their own about a nest, one of them having built a place under a stump on the edge of the woods was an ideal location, view and all. Then one of them raised her brood, and from thence they were brought peeping merrily, on the morning of a garden party. Three of them celebrated the occasion by dying, and the others dispelled the early party as a source of work and worry. They finally consented to live, but they could have their own way, but they didn't. They peeped along mournfully till six weeks old; then one was murdered by a weasel, another was picked up by a hawk, and the other three died by what, presumably. In the meantime their idiotic parents were stretching their idiotic necks, and "quirk, quirk, quirking" all over the country. Two weeks before Thanksgiving the two hens disappeared—forever. As their owner put it, waving her arms dramatically, "having no brains, and no morals, and no gratitude, they were just naturally bound to go wrong." Glad that they should prefer to be eaten by strangers, instead of the hand that fed them—no, that isn't quite right, but you know what we mean.

The gobbler was promptly shut up in a pen, and graced the home board on Thanksgiving. So ended the first lesson in turkey-raising.

Carbon Dioxide versus Fire.

Fire brigades are experimenting with a new kind of fire extinguisher in the form of high-pressure cylinders containing carbon dioxide. When the carbon dioxide is released it pours out a cloud of white flakes like snow which smothers the flames, while the air as it melts and absorbs the oxygen from the air, thus smothering the fire. It is expected that this method of fire-fighting will be very valuable in combating oil, paint, and chemical fires where water is of little use.

To Issue Own Stamps.

The tiny Republic of Andorra, nestling in the heart of the Pyrenees, is to issue its own stamps for the first time. The Madrid mint will print them. The designs are six in number. One shows the Andorran coat of arms, presided over by the Bishop of Urgel, who is also a prince of Andorra. Other designs are views of Andorra mountains and an "urgent post" stamp depicting a large cavalier flying over mountain tops.

To Eat Cat-Meat.

Cats are to form part of the staple diet of Turkey, by order of the President. Turkish authorities state that cat meat is tender and agreeable to the palate.

WINDOWLESS HOUSES.

Engineer Predicts Than by 1950 We Will Live In Electric Homes.

What was characterized as an electric house, in which windows will have only an artistic value, will be common by 1950, it was forecast by Dr. E. E. Free, consulting engineer, in an address delivered recently before the Electrical Association of New York. Sunlight lamps, artificial weather and soundproof rooms will then be the vogue, Dr. Free declared.

Moreover, such houses, with the electric ventilation and their glareless illumination, in which rays are given off in controlled proportion to sunlight, could be provided at prices well within the reach of persons of moderate means, said Dr. Free.

"Such houses are no dream of Utopia," he added, "but something on which construction could begin tomorrow if the industry decided to do it."

By far the great majority of present-day American homes, he continued, are either too hot or too cold, too moist or too dry, too drafty or too stuffy, and the correction of these faults, along with those of improper lighting, will be had, he declared.

Jules Verne Outdone!

A one-man submarine which can search for wrecks on the bed of the ocean has been built at Milan. It is a torpedo-shaped boat, 23 feet long and 10 feet wide, with twin propellers operated by electric motors capable of developing 400 horsepower.

The underwater detective sits in a steel chamber like a conning tower, and a similar chamber behind him contains enough oxygen to allow six hours under the water.

The vessel is equipped with a movable searchlight, a mechanically-operated camera for taking photographs, and a telephone to give the course and distance steered. Dial recorders give the depth, and there is a log to record the mileage.

Longest Non-Stop Railway Journey.

What is claimed to be the longest non-stop railway journey ever made has been accomplished in South America, where a Beardmore-Diesel electric engine hauled a special train from Buenos Aires to Ogolletti, a distance of 775 miles, in 20 hours 37 minutes.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Damp weather and a leaky roof is bad for the healthiest of flocks. Breeding ewes require exercise and will live in the open even in zero weather, but they need a dry, well-ventilated pen free from draughts for shelter in bad weather.

Should Produce More Cheese

In an address before the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, Prof. H. H. Dean, of O.A.C., urged the adoption of slogans based on research to help production in the various lines of dairying, such as "Chew cheese and save your teeth" or "Eat cheese for supper and sleep well." He also pointed out that if the Canadian family could be induced to eat one pound of cheese per week, it would mean a market for 100 million pounds of this product right here in Canada, instead of the present 30 or 35 millions. He urged the smaller cheese factories either to merge with their fellows to lower the cost of manufacture or else turn to specialties such as small cheese or some different kinds. Producers were urged to keep better cows and adopt better methods of feeding and general care.

The Work of Scientists

Gradually we are coming to appreciate the valuable contributions made to agriculture and allied industry by the scientific experts who have made it their lifework to seek out methods of improving crops and of carrying on war against pests. Recently another of these distinguished men, W. T. Macoun, Dominion Horticulturist, was honored by the American Pomological Society in the award of the Wilder silver medal for his work in developing a new variety of apples and for his contribution to horticulture generally. Canadians should not forget the contribution made by Dr. Saunders, who evolved a hard wheat which has done much to make Western Canada the greatest grain-growing country in the world. The work of these scientists has become an absolutely indispensable counterpart of agricultural activity.

Scholarship Awarded

Announcement has been made of the winners of 15 scholarships of $100 each offered by the T. Eaton Co., to members of the 1929 "Royal Party." The awards were made following examinations held in each county based on the trip and general agriculture. The scholarships are to be applied on a course at O.A.C. In addition, the Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, is recommending to the Government that all tuition fees be remitted for the first two years of the winners' respective courses. The fortunate young men and counties they represent are as follows:

Herbert Markle, Waterloo; Douglas Reid, Wellington; Frederick Stock, Oxford; W. J. Turbull, Huron; Alvin S. Wideman, York; Jack Steel, Peel; Arthur R. Harvey, Haldimand; W. McGague, Northumberland; Gordon B. Henry, Carleton; Maxwell Thom, Dundas; Donald J. McPhail, Glengarry; Carl P. Reid, Prince Edward; Lewis Tuckett, Algoma; Everett Pink, Parry Sound; James Maley, Thunder Bay.

New Wheat King

The story of the career of Joseph H. B. Smith, of Wolf Creek, Alberta, who was recently crowned, "Wheat King of the World" at the International Hay and Grain Show in Chicago, is one that is typical of Canada.

Smith left Leicester, England, immediately after graduating from college twenty-two years ago, and came direct to the Canadian West. Picking a location remote even from the fringe of settlements, he took up a quarter section of land, and commenced the production of registered seed grain. For the past twelve years he has been taking prizes for oats and wheat at various provincials affairs and in 1924 won second prize at Chicago in the International competition. Today he farms a square mile of land in the centre of a very prosperous agricultural district.

Their Excellencies in the West Indies

Little girls, they say, are made of sugar and spice and all that's nice. It can truly be said of the little picaninny in this photograph, because she belongs to the West Indies, where spices and sugar grow. Her Excellency, Lady Willingdon, with whom she was photographed on the deck of the Canadian National Steamship Lady Somers at Jamaica, took quite a fancy to the little girl.

The group shows the Governor-General and Lady Willingdon on board the Lady Somers, with Baron Olivier, P.C., K.C.M.G., and Capt. W. T. Forrester, O.B.E.

Baron Olivier, Chairman of the West Indian Sugar Commission, which was holding sittings when Their Excellencies made their cruise of the islands, was formerly Governor of Jamaica.

On meeting Canada's Governor-General, Baron Olivier expressed the opinion that the Canada-West Indies trade agreement was likely to be of great value to the islands and added, "The ships that the Canadian National have put on are very fine indeed and their service is much appreciated all along their route."

Lord Willingdon, on his return to Canada, described the West Indies as "The sun room of the British Empire" and said "If Canadians knew more about them they would give up going to Florida and California in the winter."

In the opinion of the Governor-General, who visited the Dominion and the islands even closer together, Canada is making an exceedingly valuable contribution to the Empire by developing contact with the West Indies.

Joins O.A.C. Staff

Announcement has recently been made of the appointment to the O.A.C. staff of Harry G. Bell, B.S.A., who will assume a position with the Department of Chemistry in connection with the extensive work on soils and fertilizers. Mr. Bell is a native of Dufferin County and graduated from O.A.C. in 1905. Until 1907 he was assistant experimentalist with Dr. Zavitz, but from 1907 to 1910 was a member of the Iowa State College of Agriculture, leaving there to become Professor of Agronomy at the University of Maine. From 1911 to 1918 he was agronomist for the National Fertilizer Association. During that time, in addition to his duties as commercial firm. Mr. Bell, by virtue of his wide training and experience, should render valuable service at "The College."

New Union Officers

D. Z. Gibson, of Caledonia, was elected president of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union at its annual meeting recently. J. Gale, of Guelph, vice-president; W. J. Squirrel, secretary, and A. W. Mason, of O.A.C., the treasurer. The meeting was featured by addresses by Prof J. E. Howitt, of O.A.C., J. Tucker, potato inspector for Canada, and J. J. Carroll, of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

Essay Contest Winners

An essay contest open to the members of the 1929 "Royal Party" was conducted in every county and district of province by the Agricultural Representative Branch as a follow-up to the Royal Winter Fair trip last November. Each of the writers of the ten best essays in the province receives free transportation, board and lodging for two consecutive weeks while attending one of the short courses at O.A.C. or Kemptville Agricultural School. The essays submitted were of a high calibre and demonstrate that the young men had their "eyes open" for the educational lessons both at the fair and at the commercial plants visited. The winners and the counties they represent are as follows: Joseph Barnard, Durham; Leonard Harmon, York; Archie Reid, Wellington; George Buie, North Simcoe; Gordon Berry, Wentworth; Raymond Pollard, Essex; Bob McDonald, Grey; Eddie Howe, Stormont; Harold Poole, Leeds; Willie Seeley, Lennox and Addington.

New T.B. Area

Negotiations have been in progress for some time towards the cleaning up of the herds in the easterly counties of Ontario from bovine tuberculosis. The abonsent of the farmers has now been obtained and the work of testing is underway. The area comprises the Counties of Russell, Prescott, Glengarry, Stormont, Dundas, Grenville, and parts of the Counties of Carleton, Leeds and Prontenac. It includes Kingston in the southwest angle and Ottawa at the most northerly point reaching eastwards to the Quebec boundary at the south-east angle. It also includes the islands of the St. Lawrence belonging to Canada and the Ottawa River belonging to Ontario.

W. M. S. ANNUAL MEETING

WAS HELD IN NAPANEE ON WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY OF LAST WEEK, WITH A LARGE NUMBER OF DELEGATES IN ATTENDANCE

Reported by Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

The Fourth Annual Meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada was held in Grace United Church, Napanee, on Wednesday and Thursday, January 22nd and 23rd. Delegates to the number of one hundred and fifteen were in attendance from all parts of the Presbytery, which includes the Counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington.

On arrival of the trains at the noon hour the ladies were welcomed at the station and thence they proceeded to Grace Church, where a further welcome waited. After registration the delegates were served a delicious lunch served by the church parlours, the ladies of Grace United Church acting as hostesses. The tables were beautifully decorated in mauve and yellow and they, along with the tasty viands, were very pleasing both to the eye and palate.

OPENING SESSION

At 2.15 p.m. the meeting opened with the Doxology and the Lord's Prayer in unison, with the president, Mrs. S. C. Gay, presiding. The devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. Green and Mrs. Graham. The lesson was based on Luke 11th Chapter, the first four verses, and the speaker outlined very clearly that the attitude of our Heavenly Father toward us is like that of the father of the prodigal son, whom he loved and that father longed, waited and suffered keenly for his lost boy to come home. God's love is universal for us all, and everyone is precious in his sight. As a member of God's large family we must try to remember all people of different creeds and nationalities as sisters and brothers and above all we must get in touch with God himself. Mrs. Graham then offered prayer for the guidance of the convention.

The following committees were then appointed: Courtesy—Mrs. (Rev.) Merrick, Canniffon; Mrs. Y. W. Harris, Madoc; Mrs. Harold Ketcheson, Stirling. Resolutions—Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson, Newburgh; Mrs. Henry Bunt, Springbrook; Mrs. James Wilson, Strathcona.

One resolution was read by the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. George Switzer, dealing with the placing of the ten cent Presbyterial tax.

Mrs. F. E. Hooper cordially welcomed the delegates in the name of the town organization, as well as of the officials and members of the three United Churches. She outlined the many months of hard work, sacrifice and prayers that has gone into the work since we met last year at Trenton. If we even have one minute's pause during the year with the other church activities will suffer. The speaker also told of the wonderful spirit of unity which we see in these churches who are alternately hostess for the meeting.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. L. Smythe, of Pembroke, sent a letter of kindliest greetings and encouragement from the Valley of Quinte Conference Branch, and was surely a gem, conveying to the delegates the wonderful personality of the Branch President.

Mrs. Lemon brought greetings from the Ameliasburgh Auxiliary.

Rev. Y. W. Rivers, of Madoc, President of the Presbytery, extended greetings and said he thought it a great honor and privilege to be present, and felt sure his splendid message of welcome and inspiration for the furtherance of the work. He paid tribute to the large number of ladies who were so endowed with interest for the work that they would gather in the throes of winter for this convention. Let your motto be "Pray, Study and Give."

Mrs. Wm. Haggerty, of Cherry Valley, very appreciatively replied to the greetings and voiced the sentiment and thanks of every delegate present for the fine spirit of greetings and warm welcomes extended and for the hospitality of the ladies of Napanee. She said we all appreciate the kind words of commendation that spoke of the deep feeling of missionary spirits in hearts already aflame and of our unlimited service for the Master. She also extended to those who had sent in a good report to her but asked Cor.-Sec. to fill in space for remarks. Adolphustown gave a pageant, with fifty taking part. Some auxiliaries report better meetings and attendance, when held in the home. Envelope and group systems of God's affairs. The Literature department is prayer, for the effectual prayer of a righteous man meaneth much. Our eyes must be wide open to the nation's needs as well as to our neighbor's distress. Do you have a system in raising your allocation? We must remember that God has a system in sending rainfall, and rain. We heed the vision in order to be soldiers of the cross. The Stewardship Secretary should be given a place on every program in order that she may encourage systematic giving. The allocation is only an ideal to strive for, do not regard it as a tax or a levy.

During the afternoon session the idea was presented, that once a year, the duties of each auxiliary office be read.

If you do not remember, remember to write to your stewardship secretary for it. If mistakes occur we should remember that we are not infallible and we must learn to hear and forbear.

After the report of the nominating committee and the election of officers the offering was dedicated by Mrs. (Rev.) Goodger.

The quiet half hour was taken by Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson, Newburgh, and she said over nineteen hundred years ago a great power descended upon us and we hope that this year the spirit of Jesus Christ will fill our souls with glowing enthusiasm and zeal for the missionary work. She reminded us that many times we feel that it is only something just talked on. Let us be dependable Christians and take full advantage of the wonderful spirit of prayer and let us ask God to make us willing to be what he wants us to be. She closed with a beautiful story of four girls discussing their life work.

This quiet time together was a benediction for the soul and it surely was a feast after the routine business.

Mrs. Ingelish sang a very appropriate solo, "Have Thine Own Way Lord."

The ladies of Trinity Church served a lovely dinner at the hotel hour.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON

At 1.30 p.m. an In Memoriam service was conducted by Mrs. E. B. Cook, of Tweed and Mrs. George Harris, of Madoc. Mrs. Cook spoke of the loss we have sustained in our W.M.S. and in our homes by the passing on to a heavenly home of so many this year and the heartfelt sympathy of the Presbyterial was tendered to all of those who are most deeply touched.

Report of Work

Mrs. W. S. Gordon, of Tweed, said it gave her great pleasure in keeping associated with young people and she was always interested in the work and tried to help them all she could. 40 Auxiliaries report young people's work and secretaries. We must give the young instruction and knowledge so that they may be fitted to take the place of the missionaries who have labored in foreign fields and are now too old to go back. Twenty Circles are in a healthy condition but few monthlies are taken and she urged auxiliaries to look into this matter. She hoped that the girls, mothers and officers will all work together and that a very much better report will be submitted next year.

Mrs. Wm. Monagher read the report of Mrs. W. Pearce, Secretary of the C.G.I.T. There are ten groups—four new and six re-affiliated. Average membership 13. Seven missionary meetings. Givings $63.50. The group study books send Xmas cheer to missions and seek to develop sympathetic knowledge of other races. The outstanding feature of the year's work was the world friendship Rally held in Belleville, October 19th. There were 150 girls present and Dr. Gordon (Ralph Connor) and a girl from India gave addresses. It is hoped that this may be a yearly feature. Affiliation cards are available now and W.M.S. presidents should issue an invitation to the C.G.I.T. to affiliate with the senior organization.

The literature report was given by Miss Alma Thompson in the absence of Mrs. A. C. Davis. Missionary education is the essential part of the work. Reading is the open door to the life beyond. Can you secure for Sec a year's report, a wealth of information than in the Missionary Monthly. Do not be a casual subscriber, but an interested reader. She emphasized the duties of the literature secretary and that we be much in prayer for our auxiliary and for the particular department which we represent.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen reported the activities of the press. This year the work has been very encouraging and over 800 items of news have been published in this district. She told of an instance where one woman has joined a W.M.S. through reading the missionary reports in the papers. She felt that the official Blue Book was not being as widely read as it should and that press secretaries should read page 772, clause 18. Be sure to send names of newly appointed direct to the editor of the "Monthly." This is a wonderful department and there is great scope for individuality. Every missionary news in an interesting manner for the reading public. She urged Presbyterial delegates to carry the message back home and urge that in order that the wheels of an organization be kept out of the ruts that each auxiliary do their share. When writing, be sure to give name, address and name of auxiliary.

She was very dissapointed in not hearing from the other 25 auxiliaries. She tendered her sincerest thanks to Mr. A. E. Dobbie, Stirling, for printing questionaires free of charge, to the press secretaries who answered so promptly, to Vice Presidents of Presbyterial and to Presidents of Auxiliaries, to the Rec.-Sec., Mrs. Switzer, to all of the publishers, who at all times have been most courteous; to her assistant, Mrs. Harry Ketcheson, to Bridgeport and all others who have assisted in any way.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of Mrs. Wagar, the Question Drawer was conducted by the president and many points of the work were thoroughly discussed. Correspondence with Cor.-Sec. read a letter from Mrs. Lawlor. Miss Kathleen Hicks, of Picton, rendered a pleasing solo, "I Have a Friend Who is Always the Same."

The Rec.-Sec. made a motion in which she paid tribute to the fine officers of the executive who are retiring, namely: Mrs. J. D. Mills, Mrs. P. D. Bennett, Miss Alma Thompson and Mrs. A. C. Davis. A duet entitled, "The Plea" was nicely rendered by Mrs. Pitt and her daughter, Mrs. Eppiett.

The President in her address spoke of the wonderful year of work and expressed her gratitude to God for his many blessings to her. True some have been taken home but the rest of us are expected to serve on. She paid tribute to the officers of the Auxiliaries and also to the Department Secretaries of the Presbyterial for their hearty co-operation. The women are finding the work more and more encouraging. Surely it is true that we receive our reward as we go along. She told of the wonderful influence of the missionaries on the delegates who met at the Presbyterial Board. The missionaries expressed such a divine confidence in their Lord that they did not worry about what was ahead. They trusted in the words, "Be still and know that I am God." Could we not spend more time in quiet prayer and meditation and may God's richest blessing be upon each auxiliary member that she may give her best to the work.

Rev. Harry Pawson installed the new officers in a very solemn service and offered helpful guidance may he grant them for the carrying on of their tasks.

The offering was dedicated by the president after the resolutions and courtesy reports were read, the congregation sang, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," the Benediction was pronounced and the ladies wended homewards filled with a new zeal for higher missionary endeavor.

Courtesy Committee Report

The following report of the Courtesy Committee was given by Mrs. Harold Mastin:

"Madame President, Officers, fellow-delegates and friends of the Belleville Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society here assembled: Your Courtesy Committee desires to express our gratitude to the ladies of Grace, St. Andrew's and Trinity United Churches for their thoughtfulness in looking after our comfort, to our hostesses for the gracious heart-warming hospitality extended to us in their homes and to all others who contributed in any way toward making our stay among you such a delightful occasion.

To the President and Executive of the Belleville Presbyterial who so freely and faithfully have given of their time and talents during the past year to this work.

To the Official Board of Grace Church for the use of their beautiful church for the Fourth Annual Meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial.

To the organist, Mrs. Black and the choir who rendered the beautiful anthems; to the soloists, Miss Hicks, Mrs. Pitt, Mrs. Eppiett, Mrs. Pawson and Mrs. H. Dennison for their beautifully appropriate feast of song.

To the Revs. Woodger, Pawson and Wilson, for Holy Communion. To the Rev. A. J. Wilson for his marvelous mental tour of "Missions in the Orient," and to all others who by gifts of service and time contributed to the success and inspiration of this Fourth Annual Meeting.

V.O.N. ANNUAL REPORT

The Annual meeting of the V.O.N. was held Tuesday, January 14th in the Board Room of the Public Library.

The following reports were submitted.

Report of Secretary

During the year nine regular meetings were held and one special one, with an average attendance of nine.

In April a tea was held from which the returns were very satisfactory.

In June a bridge was held at the Club House. The usual "Tag Day" was the second day of the Annual Fair.

Our nurse, Miss Lawder, acting as school nurse as well as doing bed-side nursing, has taken charge of twenty more medical cases than in 1928, made 37 more pre-natal visits and 24 more obstetrical visits.

Through the efforts of the nurse, drinking fountains were placed in the schools, also liquid soap and sanitary towels. Thus the number of cases of communicable diseases have been decreased.

The Rotary Club has done wonderful work in taking care of those cases that so badly needed the attention of a specialist.

During the year the local branch of the I.O.D.E. undertook to pay for dental work in the schools which was to be under the supervision of the Victorian Order and school nurse. This work is greatly helping those whose teeth had been neglected.

The latter part of May we were pleased to receive a visit from Miss Cryderman, the new field supervisor. A number of local problems were discussed and in her report several recommendations were made.

Miss M. Leamy, as our representative attended the Board of Governors in Ottawa in June.

The Relief Committee has lessened the suffering throughout the town. Sewing meetings are held each week in the Town Hall.

The thanks of the Committee are extended to the Town Council and Board of Education for the annual grants; to the local press for help and co-operation and to all organizations and individuals who have helped us by their interest and support.

ILA CREIGHTON, Sec'y.

NETTIE F. MAYBEE,

Report of Men's Finance Committee

As chairman of the Finance Committee for the past year, I beg leave to report to you as follows:

An examination of the Treasurer's statement will show that expenditures amounting to $1,764.90 were necessary, and our total receipts were only $1,648.51 This means that $115.39 had to be borrowed from the cash on hand.

Our fixed income of which we can be certain amounts to only $800., being $500. from the Town Council, and $300. from the Board of Education. The remaining items of receipts may be depended upon to some extent to remain more or less the same, but it is quite apparent that there must be an increase in revenue from some source or other.

The men of this Committee made an attempt during the past year to organize money making schemes, but on account of unforeseen difficulties, only one of these matured, in which case, owing to exceedingly warm weather, that effort, which was in the form of a Tea Party, proved a financial failure.

May I venture to suggest that the men's and ladies' Finance Committees try to co-operate in this matter, and to devise means for the raising of money whereby a substantial increase may be made in the income. The ladies' efforts have met with success, but I am sure that the men are quite as anxious to see good results as are the ladies, and are anxious to take part in making results. However, it is almost out of the question for the men to assist in the tea bridges. I believe that by close co-operation between them, that many money making schemes may be carried to a successful conclusion.

The receipts for the past year are enumerated as follows:

Metropolitan Life	$ 210.14
Nurses receipts	353.45
Teas and bridges	112.60
Tag Day	150.43
Bank Interest	18.14
Miscellaneous Receipts	3.75
Grant, Town Council	500.00
Grant, Board of Education	300.00
Total	$1648.51

The disbursements as follows:

Nurse's salary and supply	$1600.00
Nurse's expenses	43.55
Social service	75.06
Delegate to Convention, 1928	13.90
Delegate to Convention, 1929	15.44
Total	$1764.90

The balance at the beginning of the year was $876.99, and the balance at the end of the year, $760.60. The loss for the year, therefore, is $115.39 for the year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Yours faithfully,
J. M. SIMPSON.

Mineral Salts Give Her Tired Hubby New Pep

"My husband took 3 bottles of Vinol. Now he has good appetite and more strength, pep and vigor than he ever had."—Mrs. Ralph Starkey.

Doctors have long known the value of mineral elements, iron calcium with cod liver peptonate, as contained in Vinol. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how Vinol gives new strength, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Gives you more PEP to enjoy life! Vinol tastes delicious. At Wallace's Drug Store. (g-4)

MIRACLES REPORTED AT YOUNG PRIEST'S GRAVE

Malden, a suburb of Boston, has visions of some time attaining the celebrity of Ste. Anne de Beaupre or Lourdes Rself, for there, it is said, miracles are being performed along the orthodox lines associated with the names of these two famous shrines. The centre of the miracles reported is the grave of a Catholic priest, Father Patrick J. Power, who died in 1888. Very little is known about the priest so that it would seem reasonable to believe that he did not produce an unusual number of miracles in his life time. He seems to have been an ordinary parish priest, held in particular regard by the children for it was largely from very small contributions that his tomb was raised. He seems also to have been unusually studious and there remain a couple of learned books of which he not only wrote but bound himself, are preserved shamrocks and maple leaves places there by the priest's hands. The maple leaves are probably in remembrance of the time he spent as a student at Laval University, Quebec, while the shamrocks, no doubt, came from his native land.

An Obscure Young Priest

The date of Father Power's birth is uncertain, but it is known that he was born in Bantry, Ireland, and taken to the United States when a child. Springfield was his first and only parish. He worked there for two years and then died. In his life time no evidence was presented that he might at some time found a shrine and perhaps eventually be canonized, but dead, it was a good many years after his death that rumors of strange happenings and cures at his grave began to spread. But they spread so slowly that it was only within the past fortnight that Boston newspapers heard of them. Then they came with a rush. People have been pouring into the graveyard at the rate of 10,000 a day. One day there were not fewer than 40,000 of them milling around, kneeling in the wet grass and mud, praying, kissing the stone over the body of the priest, making the sign of the cross, and some of them tossing away the crutches and bandages which they were when they set out on their pious pilgrimage.

Grave is Disappearing

The town's police force and street car system have been taxed by the people who have come from distant points. We learn that a great many have gone from Canada despite the fact that the shrine of Ste. Anne has never firmly established a claim to miracles. Once a throng threatened to turn into a mob, so the intensity of the numerous cripples in the places. Eventually the police formed rules for the direction of traffic and now the worshippers file past the tomb two abreast, make the sign of the cross, drop on their knees, take a handful of soil from the grave and move on. How long the soil of the grave will hold out in the circumstances is a question that has given rise to grave apprehensions. It is not likely that it will be at the risk of the spell which the original mould contains, and yet it is believed by some that with the disappearance of this earth may depart the power of the dead man in the world of spirits.

Miracles or Hysteria?

Now about these miracles, it can only be said that those who have gained new limbs will have gained new arguments to convince others while the others will remain as unimpressed as ever in conviction. Already the graveyard is amassing a collection of crutches, braces, straps and other devices which patched up or broken down humanity uses to keep going. But they are not piling up any more rapidly than the statements of physicians and psychiatrists to the effect that these cures are not supernatural at all but belong to the category of cures by suggestion associated most recently with the name of Coue. They declare that many illnesses, even disabling illnesses whose ordinary prognosis would be death, are the result of hysteria. Being caused by hysteria, they can be cured by hysteria. Medical science can point to thousands of cures brought about by mental suggestion or hypnotism, and the scientific skeptics declare that the wonders in the Malden cemetery belong to this category.

The Most Famous Case

But who is to say? The doctors themselves differ. They flatly contradict each other in the case of Laura G. Moody, an 18-year-old school girl who, it is said, was cured of paralysis after visiting the Holy Cross cemetery. Her grave troubles began more than a year ago when she was prostrated on the tonsilitis. Following this she suffered from blood poisoning, which concluded in a form of paralysis. For the past 11 months she has had a plaster cast attached to her back. The family physician reports that she was discharged from the hospital as an incurable case. Septicaemia from her tonsils had affected her bones. Her hip and knee joints were affected and the general impression was that she would be a helpless cripple for life. This medical testimony seems definite enough when coupled with Dr. Edward Leonard's statement that it was impossible that there could be a "hysteria cure" in this case. On the other hand examination where Miss Moody was treated resulted in X-ray photographs which showed her spine negative, that is to say normal, and with the fact that the disease which the family doctor asserts existed to such an extent that there was but a single "open spot" in her whole back. The hospital people also asserted that she was hysterical and on this evidence attempted to make her walk was abandoned though the performance should have been physically possible. So the medical testimony seems to cancel itself and we are back where we started, and where that was depends wholly on one's belief in the supernatural.

RADIO STATION FOR HOLY SEE

Rome—A radio station is to be erected by the Holy See in a part of the Vatican territory, presently intended as a Vatican airport. Apparently the Vatican State has also abandoned the idea of barring its own landing field, but at present it is considered more important to set up a wireless station for the prompt transmission and reception of official communications.

The thousands of testimonials sent us prove the astonishing rapidity with which pigs fed on « Provendeine » develop.

Read what ONE PACKET Provendeine did.

Hyattsown, Md.

I consider Provendeine the most remarkable hog food I have ever used or heard of.

Some time ago my father and I divided a litter of six pigs. I took the runts. To-day the runts are for a head of the normal pigs, and are now twelve weeks old. This morning one of the « runts » weighed 14 lbs., which is from 15 to 20 lbs more than the normal pig of that age in this neighborhood. This I attribute to one package of Provendeine which I have used. No other food out of the ordinary pig food was used by me. The wonderful food has given my pigs such an appetite that they never seem to get enough to eat.

I have told many farmers in this country of the wonder of Provendeine, and they are eagerly waiting for the opportunity to get some.

Thanking you for this wonderful product

« Please forward me two more packets of your Provendeine. Our pigs have done spendidly since using it-their coats are beautifully glossy now, and lots of people ask us what we give them, so we are recommending it to all our friends.

I had 6 dozen of 25 pigs; I split them in two lots, and the pen that was fed with Provendeine are about 40 shillings pr. head better, I have sold them (e.g. to the factory on Monday, but the other pen will not be fit to go for another three weeks if you are coming this way I should be pleased for you to have a look at them. »

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS RE-ESTABLISHED

Re-establishment of diplomatic relations between Britain and the Soviet government has been featured by an announcement from Moscow that the Soviet will leave it to Canada to take the first step in the resumption of relations with this country.

While the subject will be broached during the approaching session of Parliament it is by no means certain that any considerable portion of the members will be found to advocate return to the status of three years ago.

At the same time Russia enjoyed quasi diplomatic status here. A consulate and a trade agency were opened in Montreal by the Soviet. The consulate enjoyed the privilege of maintaining its state cipher, of transmitting messages in code and of sending and receiving its mail in sealed pouches. The importance of this privilege may be realized when it is known that the Montreal office at once became the core of the Communist organization for North America.

Barred from the United States the Soviet headquarters became Montreal. From the old mansion on Drummond St., which was leased, reached out the tenacles of the propaganda system. There came and went a steady flow of agents reporting by word of mouth the messages which were coded and sealed for Moscow and from there went the agents with their fresh instructions.

There were, it was reported, representatives from the United States against the use of Canadian soil as the base of unfriendly activities despite the good will and good feeling signed against the peace and good government of that country. While the British Secret Service was getting ready for its raid on Arcos House in London, Canadian officers were exercising a careful watch over the Drummond St. house. The interior of it represented a strange conflict between Victorian austerity and unrestrained display of some "Little Scorpions' Club." Mosaic floors held a motley assortment of chairs, chairs and furnishings that might have emerged from the storeroom of a junk dealer and been broadcast about the building with the aid of a minor cyclone.

Tastefully panelled walls were cluttered up with scythes and hammers worked out in painfully-colored cardboard, while fantastic streamers were draped from the walls and ceilings.

The chief agent, one Ouras, was an extremely suave individual who studiously resisted any suggestion of improper activities who moved about and spoke with the reserve one attaches to a conversation in a morgue. It all seemed inconsistent, even spooky. There was one mountainous fellow, immaculately dressed, who—while he was quite inactive—always seemed to be sidling up, ready to dispel life with his naked hands. It was a positive pleasure to get outside and take a breath of fresh air after half an hour with Mr. Garus.

While the Soviet has cancelled the quasi diplomatic status the secret codes and the sealed codes and the sealed mail (that is sealed in sturdy leather pouches) went and Mr. Garus closed his trade office and went home.

The government has never disclosed the result of its watch over the Drummond Street house, but the Prime Minister has indicated that quite apart from the British ejection of the Soviet representation there was sufficient cause for Canada's action.

Withdrawal of diplomatic privileges by Canada in no way prevents trade between Russia and this country but Russia is more interested in re-establishing its diplomatic base than in promoting trade.

"You're looking seedy, old man," said Wilson to Walker. "Why on your uppers?"

"It's impossible," sighed Walker.

"But," urged Wilson, surely no first could do without you for a fortnight?"

"Quite easily," replied Walker. "That's the trouble. I don't want them to find it out."

New Year's resolutions come easily and unfortunately are often unbroken without leaving a trace.

Children say "great"

You can eat Shredded Wheat Biscuit right out of the package with milk or cream—but it tastes better if you crisp the biscuits in the oven and pour hot milk over them. The flavory shreds of baked wheat are so crisp and delicious—children always ask for more and it is so good for them. Contains everything their growing bodies need. Delicious with fruits.

CENTREVILLE-DESMOND W. M. S.

The Centreville-Desmond Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada met at the home of the President, Miss Janet Lochhead, on January 17th, with an attendance of ten ladies. After singing a hymn, Miss Lochhead, Mrs. K. Weese and Mrs. J. W. Wagar led in prayer. It was decided to use the monthly envelopes this year, and Miss Rorke was chosen as the missionary for whom we shall especially pray. A finance committee was appointed to canvas for new members, and get all fees paid at the February meeting. A committee was appointed to arrange for a play to be given soon. Mrs. Jas. Doupe was appointed secretary of literature. The reports of the following secretaries were given: Rec.-Sec., Cor.-Sec., Christian Stewardship Sec., Strangers' Sec., Treasurer, M.M. Sec., and Press Reporter. We are encouraged by the good work that has been done. We have sent $25 to the Presbytrial Treasurer, not quite reaching our allocation. The retiring President, Mrs. E. W. Lochhead, read "The Ideal W.M.S. Member."

The new Study Book was introduced in a few words. Several hymns regarding the work of the Holy Spirit were sung, during the meeting. Mrs. Henry Eves read Acts 2: 1-21, and Mrs. E. W. Lochhead led us in prayer for the outpouring of the spirit.

CAMDEN W. I.

The January meeting of Camden East Branch of the Women's Institute, held on 3rd Inst., at the home of Mrs. W. Stewart was attended by twenty members and three visitors. A good beginning for 1930. Let us try to continue as well throughout the year.

The meeting opened; roll call was answered by "Easy desserts" and the minutes and correspondence was read.

Only a small amount of business was brought before the meeting, namely: voting the usual fee of one dollar to the District Secretary's Department as our share of Convention expenses, and the making of application for a speaker for "The Summer Series of Lectures."

Following the business meeting a program of interesting and well-prepared papers was given as follows: "Our Motto," by Mrs. G. I. Perry. This was an excellent paper full of beautifully worded thoughts, which should be a helpful inspiration to all wishing to be useful workers in the community. "Current Events," by Mrs. D. B. Amey. It was a thorough and interesting review of current world events. "Our Ode," by Mrs. Magee Donald. This was a splendid paper by the Ode, setting forth very clearly its ideals, which if given expression in the life of each member would alone tend to make a better community.

A darning contest was conducted, following which the National Anthem was sung and lunch served, bringing to a close a very successful and interesting meeting.

In a recent report an interesting contest, "A flour sack and ten cents," was omitted. A large exhibit of articles made from flour sacks was shown. It is surprising what a fine array of useful articles can be made from the humble flour sack. Some of the entries were: cushion tops, clothes-pin bag and pot holder, child's dress and bloomers, aprons of several designs, luncheon cloths, dresser and stand cover, pillow cases of various styles and a laundry bag, (which won the prize).

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Blacke on the first Friday in February, when it is expected that Newburgh W. I. will visit us and provide the program. Roll call, "exhibit a home-made valentine."

"Your modern girls," said grandma "Grow more and more like men; In my youth girls were feminine And more 'becoming then.' Her unrepentant grand-daughter, Who was by no means dumb, Replied: "They were becoming, But see what they've become."

TAMWORTH W.M.S.

The opening meeting for the New Year of the W.M.S. of the United Church, was held at the home of Mrs. S. S. White. The meeting was ably presided over by Mrs. (Rev.) I. N. Beckstead. There were seventeen members present. After a season of short prayers, and the usual song service, the minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. The February meeting will be at the home of Mrs. S. Haggarty.

The program given in the Study Book, "Jerusalem to Jerusalem," was carried out with great success, almost every member taking part in some small way. Mrs. S. Haggarty gave an interesting reading from the Missionary Monthly, on how one native woman helped to spread the Gospel.

Mrs. W. W. Redden sang very sweetly, "O Zion Haste,"—Hymn 297.

At the close of the devotional exercises an address was read nad presentation made to Mrs. D. B. Floyd, one of our members, who is leaving us to reside in Kingston. The address was read by Miss B. Carscallen and the presentation made by Mrs. Jas. Donovan. The services of Mrs. Floyd during past years, to the W.M.S. have been constant and faithful and have been deeply appreciated by the members of the Society. Mrs. Floyd having been Vice President, then President for seven years and later Secretary for a number of years, each office filled in an able, capable way. She will be very much missed by the Auxiliary of the Tamworth United Church.

On receiving a gift of a beautiful Life Membership pin, Mrs. Floyd thanked the ladies, and expressed her pleasure in the work of the past, her hope for a bright future for the Auxiliary and her parting words—that we trust Him day by day as we work for the spreading of the message. "Blest be the tie that binds," closed a very interesting and successful meeting.

LOSING ITS ROMANCE

Some of Gray's Elegy Is Now a Town of Timber and Building Operations

It is a good thing for English literature and for smoothing, spiritual meditation that the Poet Gray lived when he did, in the middle of the eighteenth century. He would have found it difficult to write his immortal elegy now, says a writer in the London Daily Express from Stoke Pogis.

The speculative builder is closing in on Stoke Pogis and the churchyard. Like a beleaguering army, whole battalions of red-roofed villas, bungalows and bungaloids are encompassing this rural jewel of imagery and solitary meditation.

I came to the "country churchyard" to-day. The "rugged elms," the thousand-year-old yew tree, beneath whose shade still "heaves the turf in many a mouldring heap" are still there. The "ivy-mantled tower," denuded of its ivy, however, nowadays, still struggles valiantly to top the tall trees. Across "the lea" (preserved by private generosity) in glorious autumn sunshine "the lowing herds" were even to-day "winding slowly."

The tomb of Gray, where he is buried with his mother, whose loss he used to mourn distressingly at her shrine, stands where it did. The Penn's pew and the old window in a wing of the church—the window with the figure of a man on a bicycle (date 1642)—is still shown to visitors. The rude forefathers slept on beneath tumultuous waves of earth mounds.

Somehow I felt, too, that had I come at night "a mopping owl," the last of the Stoke Pogis tribes would "to the maan complain

"Of such as wand'ring near her sacred bow'r, Molest her ancient solitary reign."

There were worshippers wandering across the footpaths of the fields. The vicar, the Rev. Mervyn Clear, came through the lych-gate. He talked with his parishioners, now one, now another, as he came. Little girls were bringing flowers.

It was an idyllic Sunday morning scene. Tyne, the old churchyard has spread its borders. Neat new tomb stones and standard roses made a modern bodyguard at the approach. It seemed to me like decorating Flaxix Abbey with reproductions. Americans with cameras stood watching these modern embellishments.

"Isn't it pretty," said one. "I must have a snap."

Then they went further and found the soul of England amid the "mouldring heaps."

Thus far, despite its decorative extension and the further fact that the lower branches of the famous yew have been stripped of leaves by souvenir hunters, Stoke Poges churchyard still breathes the spirit of the immortal Elegy and its poet.

Get someone to blindfold you and lead you through the outer burial ground, and open your eyes only when you have reached the old churchyard itself. Sit beneath the yew tree's shade in silence; let the poem and its searching thought permeate your consciousness, and the beauty, the wonder, the story of Gray's thought will still permeate the spiritual consciousness more searchingly than any sermon or music or art.

Generations have come to Stoke Poges and worshipped thus. It is yet not too late to company with the spirits of the "mute inglorious Milton," the dauntless "village Hampden," the "ruthless Cromwell," the "heart once pregnant with celestial fire."

But soon!

I spoke to the vicar.

"Half a mile along the road," he said, "they are proposing to build 2,000 houses. Over there"—he pointed beyond the "rugged elm"—"is 'Timber Town.' We are doing what we can, yet with hope, to buy that patch of ground there. But every where they are closing in on us. Go and see."

I drove along the lanes right round Stoke Poges church. Here, there and everywhere boards proclaiming land for building purposes placarded the hedge-rows. Away across the meadows is mass formation a garden city—a mass of burning red brick and tile—had reared its flaring bulk against the landscape. A vast area of meadowland had been pegged out in plots.

Early-comers had fastened on the seclusion of Stoke Poges and built artistic home amid the greenwood, but many of them, fearful of the advancing hosts, were showing boards of sale. The speculators on every hand were enveloping the sacred resting-place of the Inglorious dead.

Soon Stoke Poges and the rude forefathers will no longer be "by from the maddling crowd's ignoble strife." Their ruder descendants are seeing to that.

An Old College Custom.

At Queen's College, Oxford, England, an ancient New Year's custom is perpetuated. The college was founded by Robert de Eglesfield, chaplain to Phillipa, Queen to Edward III., who became patron of the college. Robert had not much money, but was keen on thrift, and through that his memory is well preserved. On New Year's Day those who dine in Hall receive from the bursar a needle threaded with silk ("aiguille et fil"—Eglesfield), and with the admonition: "Take this and be thrifty."

Uses for Volcano Ashes.

Ashes and pumice spouted by Lassen Peak in California have been used successfully in making inks, paints, inks, and dyes after being soaked with natural chemicals. As a result, an industry based on this discovery has sprung up, and quantities of powder, which forms the material of the three products, are being sent to San Francisco to be made into paint used primarily for automobiles.

Work is a blessing if you can get the other fellow to do it.

The final test of greatness is success.

Only a few things fall without breaking. When night falls only bats are broken.

BABY LIONS.

Lions in London Zoo Become Parents of Three Cubs.

The very young pair of lions from Abyssinia, presented to the London Zoo in April, 1928, by the king, have produced a litter of three cubs, all of which, so far as can be ascertained, are healthy. On account of space the animals have been housed for some time in the internal corridor at the east end of the lion house, with access to a small outdoor cage facing the waders' aviary. The quarters are roomy, but dark, the only advantage being that the animals cannot be disturbed by the public, and that even the keepers are at some distance from the sleeping-box. The cubs have been put by their mother in a dark corner on the floor outside the sleeping-box, where she has made a bed for them.

Both the king's lions are fairly tame and readily come to the grating when a keeper approaches. On Friday, when one of the officials went to inspect the arrangements, both lion and lioness at once came forward to greet him, but almost at once the lion, evidently thinking that the cubs should not be deserted, went back and stood over them, licking them. Presently, however, one of the cubs gave a little squeal and the mother at once got up, ran back to the cubs, pushed the father away, and lay down beside them. The lion took his lesson quite meekly, and stood just in front of the lioness as if he were on guard.

Although there appears to be every prospect of success in rearing the cubs visitors will not be allowed access to the enclosure for some time.

MAHARAJAH STUDIED STARS.

Seventeenth Century Ruler Keenly Interested In Astronomy.

There lived in India, in the seventeenth century, a ruler known as Maharajah Jai Singh II., and being keenly interested in astronomy he evolved a series of structures which, though not now used for practical purposes, constitute the most unique astronomical instruments in existence. He appears to have collected all kinds of astronomical books, and sent some workers to foreign countries to gather information.

Having determined the kind of instruments required on which to make the necessary recording of the movements of the heavenly bodies, he selected five places in India as the centres in which the observations should be taken. The first he built at Delhi, and then others in Jaipur, Ujain, Benares, and Mathura. The observatories in Delhi and Jaipur have been carefully restored. In addition to a number of metal instruments, some of them as high as 90 feet.

Very careful records were made of the observations of his staff of workers, and modern astronomers have expressed surprise at the valuable information thus collected. The ruler responsible for these interesting instruments died in 1743 and his wives, concubines and science expired with him on his funeral pyre.

In a Quandary.

Before her marriage a Miss Lloyd George, Lady Carey Evans, recently told an amusing story of how her father in his lawyer days, when driving home in his dogcart on one occasion, came across a little Welsh girl trudging along so wearily that he offers her a lift.

She accepted silently. All the way along Mr. Lloyd George tried hard to engage her in conversation, but could not get her to say a word.

Some days afterwards the little girl's mother happened to meet him.

"Do you remember that my little girl drove home with you the other day?" she said smiling. "Well, when she got indoors she said: 'Mother, I drove from school with Mr. Lloyd George, the lawyer, and he kept talking to me and I didn't know what to do, for you said that Mr. Lloyd George charges you whenever you talk with him, and I hadn't any money!'"

Centuries Old Custom.

The annual banquet of the ancient Cutlers' Company is always attended by the Lord Mayor of London. This custom has been maintained practically continuously for 500 years.

Before the dinner an oration known as the Boar's Head oration is delivered; then a boar's head is carried in on a monster salver, preceded by the beadle of the company carrying the sword of office. Behind walks an official bearing a great ivory-handled knife and fork of the finest British steel. The members stand while the choir from Christ Church, Greyfriars, sings the old carol:

"The Boar's Head, as I understand,
Is the finest dish in all the land."

The origins of the customs are said to date from Viking days.

Tom (to Bill, who is fishing): "Caught anything?"

Bill: "Well, I hooked a salmon tin, but I think the salmon got away."

OBITUARY

Rev. Henry Fletcher Osborne

Rev. Henry Fletcher Osborne, one of the oldest ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church entered the risen life on November 28th, at the age of 87 years at Akron City Hospital, following an operation. Rev. Osborne was for a number of years the bearer of the distinction of "carrying the Genesee Conference cane," a distinction reserved for the minister of longest unbroken continuance in the membership of the Conference, being in that Conference 61 years.

Funeral services were held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Geo. Lemson, with whom he resided since his retirement.

The late Mr. Osborne was born in Picton, Ont., where the body was interred in the beautiful family plot in Picton Cemetery. Among the many friends present at the burial were his two nieces, Mrs. C. F. Allison, of Adolphustown, and Mrs. W. O. Fretts, of Napanee. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lemson accompanied the remains to Picton for burial.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

Looks as though the local cage loop is all shot.

The Night School quintet have entered the E.O.A.B.A.

However it may be just as well. There are so many things going on in town now that everybody is nearly crazy trying to decide which to go first.

* * *

Well, we wish the boys the best of luck. From the showing they made against Kingston, the other teams will have to step or they are going to get caught napping.

* * *

Out of seven basketball games played in town last week, local teams won five, which isn't such a bad record.

* * *

There is one thing bothering me now though.

* * *

How are these girls' teams going to finance trips to other cities to play off for district honors.

And they sure deserve it.

* * *

Here's hoping that some kind and generous sport lovers will help them out.

* * *

They have gone farther than any local team for many a day.

One of the wing-men on the local hickory squad was telling me all about his girl the other day.

* * *

"Yes," says he, "she reminds me of an Almond Bar—sweet but nutty."

"BUD GRATTAN" SOLD TO PAYETTE

Dr. Benson, who formerly trained a string of horses in Belleville and Napanee recently disposed of his good pacer, "Bud Grattan" to P. T. Payette, of Penetanguishine for a reported price of $3,000., part of the purchase price being the wiggin Grattan Loyal. Dr. Benson, it is understood, will receive an extra $1,000. for his colt providing he paces a mile better than 2.10 on a half mile track. The trainer raised Bud Grattan, his sire being Lecco Grattan and his dam, Bella Watts, and most of the early training was done in Belleville and Napanee. He started the colt last fall and then raced him at Dufferin Park in Toronto during the winter season. When the deal was made Dr. Benson took Grattan Loyal to Napanee and this week sold him to a party in New Zealand, who will take the horse to that country for stock purposes. It is understood the sale price was $750. A start will be made this winter on a three-year-old sister to Bud Grattan and most likely another colt of extreme speed will make its appearance at the fall meets this year.

NAPANEE LOSES—FIRST IN YEARS

For the first time in many years Belleville won a curling match in Napanee, Friday night four rinks journeyed to Napanee to play the same number from that club and won by 20 points, the score being, Belleville, 63; Napanee, 43. This was the first game of a two-game series in the Central Ontario Curling League, and if the local wielders can hold the margin when Napanee plays in Belleville a week from Monday night the Central Ontario trophy will come back to the rockers of the Belleville club. Belleville out-curled the Napanee rinks in all the matches but one, but their lost margin was not enough to reduce the winning percentage. Some excellent matches were witnessed and a large gallery followed the play. T. E. Ketcheson was pitted against C. I. Mayberry, probably two of the best curlers in Eastern Ontario, and, the score was never more than two points difference in the game until the tenth end, when Ketcheson scored a three to put him five up. Maybee reduced the margin to two when the game finished.

Davey Davidson had an easy time disposing of Fred Vanalstine, winning by 18 to 6. At one time Davison was further ahead, but Vanalstine's rink struck their strides and with a couple of breaks materially reduced the score. Bob Wray was never better than last night, some of his shots being uncanny. At one end Mark Graham was lying three and Bob, with a perfect wick shot took out all three of Graham's rocks and was lying four when the smoke cleared. Burrel Huffman won from Stock 17 to 12, Harry Stock counting a four on the last end to bring his total up. The ice was in perfect condition excepting it was tricky on one and four sheets.

After the match was played all retired to the banquet room where steaming hot baked beans, cheese, biscuits and coffee was awaiting the players. The Napanee Curlers were always noted for their hospitality and Friday night was no exception. Going home the Belleville rinks were compelled bound a couple of times but made the journey after a little hard work. The rinks and scores were:

BAY CIRCUIT

Remember the River Road Ladies' Aid this week, Bethany, Wednesday afternoon at the home of the Pres., Mrs. Wm. Goodman, Jr., and Ameliasburg Ladies' Aid, Charles Mellow on Thursday afternoon. — Mrs. Walter Huffman arrived home from Kingston Hospital last week and is slowly regaining her health and strength.—Mrs. Curtis Amey has spent several months in the Hospital at Kingston, is home again.—The Band Hill Ladies' Aid held a very helpful meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mouck on last Wednesday evening. A splendid program was given, followed by the usual refreshments. The next meeting will be held the last Wednesday evening in February.—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Bay parsonage on Saturday afternoon, February 1st, when Marjorie Lloyd, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lloyd, South Napanee, became the bride of Mr. Cecil McTaggart, of Napanee. They are to make their home in Napanee. Mr. McTaggart being an employee of the Gibbard Furniture Co.—Not for ten years or more has the snow lied up the traffic in our Bay district, falling to the depth of 30 inches during the month of January, thanks to plough out every few days for clutters and sleighs. Motor cars are plentiful enough. James Clark was in town last week attending the Council meeting.—Service on this circuit next Sunday, February 9th, as follows: Sand Hill at 10.30; Bay at 2.30; Greer's Hall, 7.30. Pastor will preach. Subject: "The heroic in our Religion."—Mr. Rockwell Parks spent a few days last week visiting his brother, at Picton.—Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walsh on the arrival of a new baby at their home.—The Young Peoples' Union, of Bethany, will hold their semi-monthly meeting in the Church this Thursday evening, February 6th, at 8.00. Splendid program. Refreshments.—The Circuit Congregational meeting will be held at Bethany Church, Monday evening, February 3rd. Reports were received for the year 1929, showing substantial balances in every treasury; from the two Women's Missionary organizations, one of which exceeded its allocation; from the five Sunday Schools, all of which made a good report. The pastor was invited to remain for another year. After the meeting the Bethany Ladies' Aid served lunch.

TAMWORTH

The play, "Mary's Castle in the Air," put on by the members of the United Church Y.P.U., on Wednesday evening proved to be a great success. The hall was crowded to the doors long before the time for the curtains to rise. Mrs. Arnekin, taken by Mrs. Dale Donovan and her daughter, Jane, taken by Miss M. Kirkness, were the first to appear on the stage. Then came Bill Bronson, (M. M. Miles), Janet (maiden aunt), Mary Ann Hall, (Orval Richmond), the grocer boy, who was forever butting in and on one occasion actually did so. Grace Allen, Bronson's girl, Jane; Mary Estabrook, (Muriel Olde), the air castle girl, who was very pathetic and would have given up her love and happiness for what she thought to be the welfare of her blind mother, Mrs. Estabrook, (Miss Duncan), if Daddy Alden, (E. J. Huffman), the village philosopher had not stepped in and taken a hand, and Jim Ruggles, (A. A. Carscallen), a young attorney, proved to be Mary's ardent suitor, and Edward Carlysle, (F. Ballard), and his daughter, Alma, (Vera Lamont), who came from the city did not succeed in spoiling the happiness of the Estabrooks, as they had planned to do. Last, but not least, comes Della, (Elsie Martin), the colored servant of the Estabrooks, who was a wow through the whole play. Each character took their individual parts in the production to a nicety. During the evening Mr. Willcox favored the audience with a solo, which was very much appreciated.

Wallace's Rum, Honey and Tamarac Balsam, while perhaps an old fashioned remedy, is just splendid for relieving coughs and colds. We now have it done up in generous sized bottles, and it sells at 35c.

BICKNELL'S CORNERS

The weather has been quite stormy these last few days.—Quit a number from around here attended the New Hall Basket Social Commencement on Wednesday evening.—Mrs. E. W. Simmons received the sad news on Thursday morning of the death of her father, Mr. J. FIVE CHILDREN BURNED

A terrible tragedy occurred at Close's Mills in North Fredericksburgh, about nine miles from Napanee on Saturday morning, when five children were burned to death when fire destroyed the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lloyd.

The children were: Harold, aged 8; Allan, 6; Cora, 4; George, 3, and Madeline, 15 months. Their charred bodies and the smouldering ruins of the little frame house tell the story of the family's calamity, the most terrible tragedy in the history of the district.

The mother and the father and a 10-year-old girl, Lorna, alone survive. They were all absent from the house when the fire broke out. They are left without a possession in the world, everything having been destroyed when the five children died.

The father set out early Saturday morning to chop wood on the farm of Thomas Johnson, two miles away. Lorna, 10, left for school at 8:30. Mrs. Lloyd, leaving the five kiddies playing in the kitchen beside the stove left for the home of her neighbor, Mrs. Joseph Kent, who lives only 100 yards away. The view from the Kent home to the Lloyd dwelling is obstructed by trees. Mrs. Lloyd had been absent only 15 minutes when she was informed by neighbor youngsters that the house was afire.

The lads first on the scene tried every means to rescue the imprisoned children from the blazing home. They shattered the windows, but they were licked by leaping flames and almost smothered by stifling heat.

Mrs. Lloyd, hysterical, dashed for the door in hope of rescue, but was seized by neighbors and held back.

Realizing that her children were trapped in the seething house, Mrs. Lloyd collapsed and was carried to a neighbor's home. By this time the house was consumed like tinder and when the father arrived it had almost fallen to the ground. Returning to the house burned to the ground. Glowing embers and burning remnants prevented any immediate search of the ruins, and water was poured on by the willing brigade of workers. They found the charred bodies in the cellar beneath the frame of an old iron bed so badly burned that it was impossible to recognize any of them.

The funeral of the five small victims was held on Sunday and was largely attended.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Uniform Price and Quality

Prof. H. H. Dean, of O.A.C. has some timely advice for distributors of milk and other dairy products. He declares that milk and milk products of good quality provided at a fair and uniform price throughout the year will satisfy the consuming public better than variations in quality and price. He suggests the following aids in this direction: Daylight and no "moonlight" delivery, the use of mono-service bottle for milk, cartons for pound print butter, sell varieties of cheese, like cottage, and thus use profitably the skim-milk, the "zone" system to save duplication of milk routes, and courteous consideration of customers by all drivers and salesmen.

Winter Care of Pigs

The main factors in the successful rearing of pigs during the winter months are:

1. Early litters. Pigs intended for winter feeding should be farrowed not later than the month of September. This gives them time for a good start before cold weather.

2. Clean yard. A good clover field or yard with clover and is ideal for pigs. Avoid all old yards and wallows.

3. Clean and dry sleeping quarters. These should be entirely free from draughts, but provided with ventilation.

4. Suitable rations. From weaning until four months of age, the following ration will be satisfactory: 200 pounds of finely ground oats, 200 pounds of middlings, 50 pounds of wheat bran, 50 pounds of barley or corn, 15 pounds each of linseed oil meal and tankage, 5 pounds of bone char and 3 pounds of salt. This should always be fed as a warm slop mixed with skim milk or buttermilk. As the pigs get older increase the proportion of barley or corn. Be careful not to overfeed; every meal should be all cleaned up quickly and more looked for. A supply of alfalfa or clover hay should be on hand at all times, and a few mangels or apples given daily. Keep all pens clean and supply drinking water each day.

The Scrub Bull

In a recent address on the scrub bull and its effect on the dairy industry, W. E. Thompson, president of the Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association, claimed that a scrub sire was a liability to the breeder.

The good purebred sire was the logical one to head a herd, since with a registered sire there are greater chances of getting results in the way of building up the herd than when a grade or inferior breed is used. The purebred has a long line of descent of the one breed. Mr. Thompson declared that a cow must give at least 6,000 pounds of milk to pay for her keep. Better breeding and better feeding are necessary to profitable returns in his opinion.

The Export Market

W. A. Wilson, Agricultural Products Representative for Canada in Great Britain who has been spending some months in Canada, addressing agricultural organizations and service clubs, emphasizes the importance of a steady volume of export in order to hold the market.

The limit in consumption has by no means been reached, he declares. Canada's position in the world is becoming increasingly dependent upon her ability to hold her own in world competition. In reference to Canada's exports of agricultural produce Mr. Wilson points out that these have shown a marked tendency to decrease in recent years. Unless Canada can maintain a policy of supplying a reasonable volume for export to the British Isles, the inroads made by foreign competitors will become still more serious.

Ontario Makes Ready

Hon. John S. Martin is chairman of a committee just named to see that Ontario is represented at the World's Grain Show in Regina in 1932 by her outstanding grain producers. Special ribbons will be awarded at all fairs in the province for high-class exhibits, and all exhibitors will be given every consideration. The committee will build up a list of men who have done well at leading shows in the past and add others who appear to have a chance in competition with the best of other countries. At the Chicago show Ontario annexed 30 awards and the Department will try to beat this record and bring home some of the $200,000 offered in prizes. A subcommittee has also been appointed to see that prospective exhibitors secure the very best seed available.

Canadian Milk Drinkers

Statistics have shown that Canadians eat more butter and eggs per capita than the people of any other country. A recent survey shows that one of the favorite beverages of the people of Canada is milk. To satisfy this demand for fresh milk alone, over 4,625,000 gallons per year, or about one pint per head of population per day is required. This should serve to give some idea of the prominence which dairying has attained. The total value of Canadian dairy products exceeds 250 millions annually.

Change Weed Act Regulations

The Hon. John S. Martin has announced changes in the regulations of the Ontario Weed Act to be effective this year.

Road superintendents or foremen will not be eligible for appointment as weed inspectors. The reason for this regulation is that the weed inspector must report on the enforcement of the Act with respect to roads.

To simplify enforcement of the act the following less important weeds in Ontario have been removed from the noxious list:

Cinquefoils (potentilla spp.), field peppergrass (lepidium campestre), stickseed (lappula echinata), Russian thistle (salsola kali), wild barley (hordeum jubatum).

Municipal councils are encouraged to appoint men capable of giving leadership in an educational way. Weed problems are not simple and the best men available are essential if progress is to be made. It is not sufficient for a council to appoint a man and instruct him to wait for complaints before taking action.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Joseph Huffman

At her home at Tamworth, on December 18th, 1929, after several weeks' illness, there passed to her reward, Lucy, beloved wife of Joseph Huffman. Six years ago she suffered from a stroke which left her sight impaired, but from which she otherwise recovered a semblance of her former health.

On April 7th, 1886 she was united in marriage to Joseph Huffman, the union proving a peculiarly congenial and happy one.

Over thirty years ago during revival services conducted by Rev. Louis, she was soundly converted to God and his services, to which she has remained true as testified by her unwavering faith and trust in her Master throughout the years of her bodily affliction. Of a kind and lovely, though retiring disposition, she made for herself many friends, all of whom were privileged to feel the genial warmth of her hospitality.

In her care for her home it could be truly said: "She looketh well to the ways of her household and eateth not the bread of idleness." Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss one son, Edward, at home; Mrs. Frank McLaughlin, at Tamworth, and five grandchildren, also three brothers, Joseph Wagar, of Enterprise, Wellington, of Gladwin, Mich., Jacob, of Tamworth, who resides on the farm where most of the family of eleven were born, and one sister, Mrs. Henry Kellar, of Camrose, Alberta.

The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. I. N. Beckstead.

The power of the picture is immediately noticeable to the observer. The figure is standing by a table with one hand resting on a large black hat. He is wearing a long black cloak with a creamy lace collar and cuffs and a large silver crest. The aristocratic features of the man and the radiant sneering smile, the regal bearing and the challenging eye, all well portray this strong-willed king. Although a despotic ruler, it is immediately known from his features that he is a clever man.

This picture is warm and clear in coloring and shows great attention to detail. The hands are particularly beautiful and the pattern in the lace is exquisitely painted.

Many critics claim that this picture was painted by Peter Lely, the court painter to Charles II, after the original VanDyke, and some even claim it to be an original of Sir Anthony VanDyke, the famous painter of the early seventeenth century, who was employed by James the First, and knighted by Charles the First. Whoever the painter may be the work is a great masterpiece.

This great treasure was presented to Canada by Viscount Dillon in accordance with the wish of his wife. Lord Dillon was an officer in the British army and was in Canada with his regiment about the year 1870. Here he met and married Miss Stanton of Montreal. This picture was a family heirloom and the tradition is that it was painted by Lely.

Ontario Man Speaks With Great Enthusiasm

Mr. J. A. Shook Tells of Dodd's Kidney Pills

He Says He Uses Them More As a Preventative Than a Remedy

Corbetton, Ont., February 4. (Special) It is with true enthusiasm that Mr. J. A. Shook, a well known resident of this place, gives his opinion of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For the past thirty years I have been working at ditch and shovel work—ditching, road building and section work. Pretty stiff work on the back, kidneys and bladder, with the result, a pain in the small of the back. A friend recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills. I used some with the following results—less pain and more work. That was some thirty years ago. Since that time I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills more as a preventative than a cure. I use them when I have hard work to do. Eat lots, work hard and use Dodd's Kidney Pills is my maxim. I am in my sixty-third year and can do a man's work yet thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Entering a football enclosure one of the spectators was observed to walk towards a pile of bricks and put one in each pocket. "What do you mean by it?" one of the club officials asked him; "these bricks are for the new grandstand."

"I'm sorry," said the man, humbly, "I thought they was for the referee."

U.S. QUOTA REGULATIONS AGAINST CANADIANS THREATENED

The Department of State, through the Canadian Ministry at Washington, has been notified that two new measures are now projected in the U.S. Congress with the object of bringing Canadians entering the United States under quota limitations similar to those now imposed upon immigrants from the Eastern Hemisphere.

Comparable legislation has been offered at the U.S. capital almost every year since the quota system was adopted and once or twice the prediction was made that it would become law. That far it has not proved an acceptable proposition and Canadian politicians do not incline to the belief that the new bill will be any more popular.

Their advocates, however, claim for each special virtues not hitherto advanced. One of the measures proposes that a quota be established on a basis whereby for each United States citizen who emigrates to a country of North or South America, three residents of that country would be admitted to the United States. The idea, it is claimed, if adopted would reduce the influx from 150,000 to 50,000 per year.

The second bill would restrict immigrants legally admitted annually from each of the said areas during the five fiscal years next preceding July 1st, 1929" and limits the number from all such countries to 50,000 annually. This bill provides for less onerous restrictions against English-speaking citizens of Canada than against others.

Sponsors of each bill claim the necessity of protecting the United States against "subservient" labor.

Irrespective of Party political leaders in Canada are not opposed to the effects of a quota against Canadians, it might be somewhat of an affront to national pride but it would effectively halt the flow of Canadians to the larger country to the south. Most recent figures show that approximately 30,000 Canadians left to take up residence in the United States in the five months ended November 31st which, with the larger annual spring movement would indicate an annual exodus at the rate of approximately 85,000 to 90,000.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Canadian butter leaves room for improvement both in quality and quantity. This improvement, according to a prominent dairy authority, can be brought about by improving the quality of the raw material through paying a higher price to the producer.

The Potato Market

"Ontario Potatoes for Ontario People," is the slogan that is beginning to bear fruit. City consumers are finding out that the table quality of Ontario potatoes is unsurpassed providing the tubers are as carefully graded as those coming in from outside sources. Ontario growers are learning to grade their potatoes properly, and Ontario dealers are glad to handle them when properly graded. Our dealers are now buying freely and at good prices from the organized potato growers of Central Ontario, who are practising proper grading and bulk marketing.

A recent questionnaire sent out from O.A.C. revealed that Ontario has been producing an annual average yield of about 18,850,000 bushels. The average total annual consumption is estimated at 12,292,000 bushels, or 6½ million bushels less than the annual production. It is interesting to note that while Ontario produces approximately one-third more potatoes than she consumes, the questionnaire reveals that about one-half of all the late potatoes handled by the dealers were grown outside the province. This in spite of the fact that the consumer has to pay an average premium for P.E.I. potatoes of 21½c and for N.B. potatoes of 15½c a bag. The dealers apportion the blame for this condition as follows: Improper grading of Ontario potatoes; poor condition of the bags; mixture of varieties in the cars; truckers handling ungraded potatoes; poor seed. Out of 2210 cars of Ontario potatoes, only 45 were of unmixed varieties.

A Work of Value to Farmers

During 1929 an increasing interest was shown by experimenters in the work of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union. According to the secretary's report a total of 2,555 farmers received material for cooperative experiments. A steady increase in this regard has been recorded, the last five years showing an increase of 39 per cent. in the number of experimenters over the previous five years. Last year material was distributed for a total of 47 distinct cooperative experiments, including variety tests with field crops, dates and rates of seeding, methods of seeding, mixtures of grain for grain production and for forage production, thinning plants at different distances apart in the rows, and fertilizer experiments. The Union has been a most potent factor in the improvement of field crops in the province for the past 50 years by supplying farmers with the very best seed of selected varieties and encouraging the distribution of this material to the farmers.

ERNESTTOWN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The January meeting of our W. I. which was held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Spring was well attended although it was an exceedingly rough day. A sleet storm, which cut like a knife, but, in spite of the inclemency of the weather, two of our members walked two miles each to get there.

The hostess smile and the warmth of her pleasant home made us welcome indeed.

The Vice President, Mrs. Harry Mott, presided. There was a hearty response to the roll call, "Moments I'd like to live over again," one member saying she would like to experience the Armistice in London; another that she would like to be at the highest point in the Alps in Switzerland, that she reached five years ago, and some would like to live their school days over again, and some their honeymoons.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Chaplin acknowledging the flowers, books and kind letters, which she received while in the hospital.

The program was put on by the younger members of our branch and well carried out.

Miss Mildred Seeley gave us a splendid demonstration of embroidery showing us several stitches and the fine exhibit she had made us marvel at the fineness and neatness of her stitches. She certainly profited by our needlecraft course.

Miss Muriel Miller read an excellent article—her own composition—about Grace Darling, which gave us a very fine pen picture of that English heroine.

Then we had dumb charades, conducted by Mrs. Kensal Priest and Mrs. Harry Mott, which proved no end of fun. One member, on all fours, was led in by a string and kept snapping at everyone, which was our in "handkerchief" and another who was dressed up as an Indian chief made us laugh even harder. But the climax of merriment was reached when one was dressed up as a witch in the word "sandwich."

We all declared we had never had so much laughter at a meeting before and any branch wishing to brighten up a meeting cannot do better than try charades.

Mrs. Edgar Thompson carried off the prize in the peanut contest.

Delicious refreshments were served by the gracious hostess and her daughter, Mrs. Edgar Thompson.

Our February meeting, "Grandmothers' Day," is to be held at Mrs. Harry Mott's. The roll call being, "Something Grandmother said or did." and we hope to have a paper by Mrs. Raymond Pretts, of the Maple Leaf branch. There will also be an exhibit of articles and clothes used in Grandmother's time.

SILLSVILLE LADIES' AID

The Sillsville Ladies Aid met at the home of Mrs. Herb. White on January 30th, 1930, with a good attendance.

Opening Hymn 264, "Lead me Nearer," was followed by Scripture lesson, part of the 15th Chapter of Romans, which was read by Mrs. Sharpe.

"My Blue Ridge Mountain Home," on the Victrola, followed by readings: Mrs. Rod Sharpe, "The Long and Short of It." One by Mrs. Perry Young, entitled "The Doctor." Mrs. Amelia Sharpe then gave suggestions as how to make money for the Aid.

The Treasurer's report for last year was read and approved and as Mrs. Mellow resigned, Mrs. Archie Thompson was elected Treasurer for the coming year. We welcome Mrs. Thompson as Treasurer of our Aid, as well as a resident of our neighborhood.

Moved by Mrs. Harold Hough and recorded by Mrs. Wesley Young, that we have a congregational meeting in the form of a social evening, February 14th, in Sillsville Hall. Meeting closed by singing grace and Mizpah benediction, after which a bountiful lunch was served. Lunch fees 25. Next Ladies' Aid meeting is at Mrs. Harold Hough.

CHINESE ATTRACTED TO ENGLISH TALKIES

The novelty of talking pictures is said to be attracting considerable enthusiasm in China and is creating a new type of "movie fan." Although pictures have all been in English dialogue the Chinese audience have evinced a keen interest in them. This reaction is more readily understood when it is realized that the medium of English is often used by the Chinese to overcome the barrier of diverse dialects within their own language.

The possibility of new censorship problems being raised through sound films naturally has occurred in Shanghai, the first city in China to have wired theatres. Censors have shown an attitude of friendly co-operation and no special rules governing sound pictures have been found necessary. A few cuts have been required, but no sound picture has as yet been banned.

If the cutting does not involve any great length of film there is very little effect upon synchronization and none at all after the completion of the reel cut. Censorship in China is maintained by the municipal councils of both the international and the French concession, each having separate boards of film censors, with no liaison existing between them.

OUR WEEKLY RECIPE

Fish chowder is not a common dish and it is not generally known that it is tasty and most delectable. It is an easy dish to prepare and is especially suitable on a luncheon or supper menu.

The recipe is:

1/8 lb diced raw salt pork.
1 1/2 cupfuls cubed raw potato.
1 cupful of ray fish.
1 stalk celery chopped fine.
1/4 cup of diced onions.
2 1/2 cups of boiling water.
1 quart of milk.
1/2 teaspoon of salt.
1/8 teaspoon pepper.
Paprika.

Fry the diced raw salt pork in a kettle and heat until the pork scraps are golden brown. These scraps may or may not be removed. Add onions to the melted fat in the kettle and cook until a golden brown. Add potatoes, celery and boiling water. Cook ten minutes and then add the pieces of raw fish. Cook fifteen minutes longer. Heat the milk and add the first mixture. Season and serve with crackers. Serves six.

EXPENDITURES OF U. S. VISITORS IN CANADA

Between the year 1923-1929, the value of the Canadian tourist trade has grown at a more rapid rate than the income of any other individual industry in the country. According to the the following figures, published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the revenue from this source increased from ninety million dollars in 1922 to two hundred and fifty million dollars in 1928. Three hundred million dollars constitutes a conservative estimate of the total for 1929. On this basis there has been an increase of 233% in this revenue since 1922.

Expenditure of tourists has increased from $91,666,000 in 1922 to $300,000,000 in 1929.

There is a greater annual migration across the border between Canada and the United States than across any other international boundary. During 1929 there were more than fifteen million people who visited Canada. The number of visitors in the course of the year is 50% in excess of our total population. In commenting on the business opportunities presented by this unique movement, in his annual speech before the shareholders of the Royal Bank of Canada, Mr. C. E. Neill, the Vice President and Managing Director said: "This great annual migration presents an unparalleled opportunity for increasing our trade. As yet there has been no concerted effort to build the tradition that there are purchases which can be made in Canada more advantageously than in the United States. It is estimated that in France, the amount of sales to each visitor averages $750. If we could make purchasing in Canada sufficiently attractive so that the average value of the merchandise taken out of the country amounted to only one-tenth of this sum, it would make a difference of more than one billion dollars a year in our trade."

The relatively large amount of trade secured by France is due to the sale of various luxuries, including wearing apparel, perfumes, and art products. Tourists who visit France go there expecting to make purchases of such luxuries. This tradition is of major importance to French trade.

In order to attract more visitors from the United States, the German government makes a large annual appropriation for advertising the attractions of Germany throughout the United States. In France, the appropriation for this purpose is in excess of one million dollars, but the French government is not advertising on as large a scale as is Germany.

As one illustration of the implications of this plan, let us study its effect upon Empire trade. The tourist trade of Canada might become an outlet for a large volume of British goods, particularly of kinds not produced in the Dominion. The British manufacturers and exporters will find that Canadian stores bring their goods to the attention of fifteen million Americans, as well as to ten million Canadians. The present advantageous preferential on Irish linens, for instance, permits them to be used as a display item of the type suggested above. The sale of goods of British origin may be used as a means for increasing the sale of allied lines of Canadian products. Where manufacturers and merchants can agree that the use of a display item of British or foreign origin will tend toward the increased sale of allied Canadian products, they would be justified in asking the government to place such articles on the free list. Farseeing policy in this connection can lead to direct increase in the sale of goods of Canadian manufacture to tourists, as well as to the indirect increase of sales resulting from the growth in wealth of the country.

In instances where goods of a similar class are not manufactured in the country, certain articles can be placed on the free list with the deliberate purpose of increasing the volume of Canadian trade. The power to admit foreign goods of this character to this market should give the government greater bargaining power with other governments. When foreign producers realize the extent of this new market in Canada, they may well agree to reasonable preferences on Canadian products in return for the opportunity of displaying their goods to fifteen million visitors from the United States.

If individual European countries who receive only a few hundred thousand visitors can afford to spend one to five million dollars a year in national advertising, the situation in Canada would justify an expenditure much in excess of that amount. In every issue of the periodicals which have a large circulation in the United States there should be advertisements of Canadian attractions and suggestions as to the types of merchandise that can be purchased in this country on a particularly advantageous basis. National, provincial, and municipal advertising could feature the fact that articles in many lines of merchandise can be bought, at as low a price in Canada as in any country in the world. When visitors return to the United States and show their friends the bargains purchased in Canada, they will help us to create the tradition that such purchasing is an attractive and essential part of the trip to Canada.

Canadian Export

The total value of commodity exports for the twelve months ending October 31st, 1929, amounted to 1,381 million dollars. Of this total revenue 523 million dollars came from the United States, 351 million dollars from Great Britain, 110 million dollars from other parts of the Empire, and 300 million dollars from countries other than the United States and parts of the British Empire. Since 1900, Canada's total exports have been increasing by seven, and exports to these other countries by twenty-one.

The fiscal year of 1900 compared with the twelve months ending October 31st, 1929.

CONWAY W. I.

The January meeting of Conway W. I. took the form a a social evening in the Parish Hall, and a pleasant time was enjoyed by all present. The singing the Ode brought the meeting to order, followed by a piano solo by Mrs. G. Hall.

Mr. Runions, Agriculture Representative of Napanee, braved the weather and roads to be with us and gave a very able talk, outlining the work he is carrying on in an endeavor to assist and help the farmer in many different lines. Mrs. Haight's solo, "The Institute Aid," was much enjoyed. The next feature of the program was a debat: Resolved that the farmer with 100 acres of good land and $2,000 equipment is in better financial position than the city man with a salary of $2,000. The affirmative side was led by Mrs. A. Ruttan, representing Bath W.I., ably supported by Miss Ferguson, while the negative side was led by Miss J. Denner, with Miss McCam as her support. The latter was keenly contested and many good points brought out and the judges gave their decision in favor of the negative side, however, the affirmative side took the defeat nicely, conceding themselves with Clark that "that the farmer never gets the best."

Mr. J. Denner, in his pleasing style, sang a solo, and was heartily encored.

Refreshments were served by the Institute ladies, after which dancing was indulged in. Leaher's orchestra furnishing the music. The February meeting will be held in the evening on February 11th at the home of Mrs. H. M. Robinson.

TRINITY CHURCH ANNUAL CONGREGATIONAL MEETING

At a very largely attended gathering the congregation of Trinity United Church met together on Wednesday evening, January 29th, to hear the annual reports of the various church departments and review the work of the year 1929.

Rev. Harry Pawson was chairman of the meeting and after conducting the opening devotional exercises, spoke very appreatively of the fine spirit evidenced throughout the year in the church and the loyal co-operation that had been extended to him in the church work. He informed the audience that in the church there were 210 families and that the total membership was 416, and that during 1929 eight members had been removed by death and 23 new members had been added to the roll.

The meeting accepted a resolution from the Board of 1929, that the committee of elders be the same as last year with the addition of Mr. David Brown to fill the place of Dr. G. H. Cowan, deceased, and that the Committee of Stewards be the same as in 1929 with the addition of Percy Vine, Joseph Lucas and David Aylsworth, to fill vacancies by removal and death.

The financial reports from the various church organizations were of a very gratifying nature and showed that considerable progress has been made during the year 1929.

Mr. D. B. Wilson, Treasurer of the Church, reported that the total received by him for all purposes was $6,538.

Mrs. J. E. Robinson, Treasurer of the Ladies' Aid reported a total amount raised by the ladies to be $1,213., and gave a very comprehensive review of the many activities of this organization.

C. L. Graham gave the returns for the Missionary Maintenance Committee and showed a total of $2044. had been forwarded to the Treasurer of this fund in Toronto.

Mrs. Harry Vanluven in reviewing the work of the Women's Missionary Society proved that this society is in a very satisfactory condition and reported the amount received in 1929 to be $581.

Mr. Godfrey Paul, the President of the Mission Band, showed that this junior organization had been very active during the year and that the sum of $72. had been raised.

Miss Rockwell, speaking for the Mission Circle, reported the total amount raised to be $112.

The finances of the Sunday School as received by Mr. F. S. Boyes were received to be in better condition than for some years and showed a total raised of $609.

The Young Peoples' League, reported by C. L. Graham, gave a total raised of $95.25.

Mr. La Salle, the President of the Choir, in a short review of choir activities reported that the choir raised a total of $102. during 1929.

The Ready Helpers' Class in the Sunday School through Mrs. T. M. Asselstine, the President, gave a very satisfactory report of its many activities and showed the total cash raised to be $200.

Mr. Vandervoort, leader of the Mid-week Class, spoke very eulogistically of the fine work being done by Mr. Pawson, the speaker at these meetings, and the benefit that the members were receiving by their attendance.

A summary of all the reports showed a grand total raised for all purposes of $11,400.

Following the business part of the meeting adjournment was made to the dining-hall, where a social hour was spent and refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid.

WEDDING BELLS

McCullough-McGinness

A large number of relatives and friends gathered at Wesley United church on Saturday evening, November 23rd, at 6.30 to witness the marriage of Lillian Marguerite, only daughter of Mrs. Frank Clark and the late Artemus McGinness, Carman, Man., to Mr. Gavin McCullough, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCullough, also of Carmen. Rev. R. A. Swyers, local pastor, performed the ceremony, under a white arch of apple blossoms, wedding bells and evergreen.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. William Vanloughnet, entered to the strains of the Lohengrin Bridal March, played by Mrs. William Parrett, Jr., accompanied by Mr. Parrott, on the violin. Soft music being played throughout the ceremony.

During the signing of the register Miss Alice Hobbs sang "O Promise Me." The bride wore an imported frock of ivory satin, with fitted bodice, long sleeves and triple tiered skirt. Her veil was of tulle and she carried cream roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Bessie Roblin, wore nile green georgette with black hat and fox fur, and carried pink roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride following the ceremony. The house was decorated with pink and white streamers, apple blossoms and wedding bells, the bridal table being centred with the wedding cake.

Later the bride donned her travelling costume, an ensemble of black velvet and metal cloth, and close-fitting cand velvet hat and cand cloth coat with mole collar.

Mrs. Clark, mother of the bride, wore rosewood georgette with sand and black hat and corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. McCullough left for Winnipeg, where they will make their home, the bridegroom being a member of the teaching staff of the Success Business College.

The brides' father, the late Mr. Artemus McGinness, was a brother of Mrs. Wellington Brown, of Napanee, and the bride's aunt, Mrs. Frank Clark, was before her marriage to Mr. McGinness, Miss Martha Ackerman, of Selby.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET

On Thursday evening, January 30th, the spacious dining hall of the Paisley House was the scene of a very happy event when one hundred and thirty five women and girls sat down to the tastefully decorated tables at the Annual Mother and Daughter Banquet, under the auspices of the Napanee Branch Women's Institute. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick had spared no pains in providing a sumptuous repast which was quickly and capably served to the guests.

At the close of the dinner community singing was indulged in for a few minutes, then the following toasts were honored:

"The King," proposed by Mrs. Ralph Ham, President of Napanee W. I. and responded to by the entire company singing the National Anthem.

The second toast, "Our Home and Country," was proposed by Mrs. Reg. Douglas, and responded to by Mrs. J. Stalker, each of whom in her remarks made an especial plea for world peace, urging the Institute members to work toward this end. A verse of "Home Sweet Home," and "O Canada," were then sung by the entire assemblage.

The toast to "Our Mothers," which followed was sweetly and effectively proposed by Miss Helen Allenbrack, and responded to by Mrs. R. G. Gilbride, who in a few well chosen words told of the comfort and companionship possible between mother and daughter, the happiness mutual confidence ensured.

Mrs. Harold Dennison delighted her listeners by singing a slumber song and later in the evening she again sang in excellent voice, "Birds at Evening." The beautiful song so beautifully sung gave great pleasure to all.

The President then introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. J. W. Stone, of Bond Head, Ontario, Honorary President of the Provincial Federation.

In opening her address Mrs. Stone felicitated the Institute on the splendid attendance at this banquet, so carefully arranged and skilfully carried out saying it was quite the finest one she had yet attended. Mrs. Stone's talk was directed more especially to the younger people present. The daughters of today said she, have had wonderful privileges as to education, training, etc. Everywhere you find the young people in organized groups and organisation makes for efficiency and self-control. The Institute was one of the finest training grounds in the province. The speaker went on to point out the advantages we possess over the branches in northern and newer Ontario, where the people were so seriously handicapped by cold and the lack of even ordinary conveniences. She told of households where there were seventeen and eighteen children needing care and counsel. For these the Institute is doing a great work, especially through its courses of training in home nursing, care of children, etc.

Mrs. Stone staunchly championed the girls of today saying they are the best ever produced. They're frank, free, but they are clean, she said.

In closing she urged the members to make this year the most successful yet, and stressed the need of co-operation and loyalty to the officers elected. Each one can do some one thing for her Institute, for her home or for her country, better than anyone else can do it. Find your especial niche and then adorn it to the best of your ability.

A vote of thanks to Mrs. Stone and all who had made the evening such a pronounced success given by Mrs. Powell, was seconded by Mrs. Stone Loynes and responded to by Mrs. Stone.

"Good-night Ladies," and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," brought a most enjoyable evening to a close. Mrs. B. M. Black was the accompanist of the evening; the committee in charge being Mrs. Graham, Mrs. W. Exley and Mrs. Katherine A. Powell.

"Did you know, dear, that tinnel we just passed through was two miles long and cost $12,000,000?" said the young man to his sweetheart.

"Oh, really, did it?" she replied, as she started to rearrange her disheveled hair. "Well, it was worth it, wasn't it?"

"So you were down to Montreal last week, eh?"

"Yeh—that's what I hear."

L. AND A. MUTUAL HAS A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The fifty-third annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company was held in the Council Chambers, Napanee, on Saturday afternoon last, with a representative gathering of the policyholders in attendance.

Mr. A. C. Parks, the venerable President, occupied the chair. The President has an enviable record in connection with our home company, inasmuch as he has held office for fifty years and has also been a Director in the L. and A. for forty-five years.

Mr. W. R. Lott, the efficient Secretary, read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which, on motion, were confirmed.

The President then addressed the meeting briefly, drawing the attention of the policyholders to the splendid condition of the finances of the company and also stated that the Directors had purchased $15,000,000 worth of C.N.R. bonds at 95. These bonds are A No. 1, and are guaranteed by the Dominion government.

The next order of business was the receiving of the Auditors' Report which was ably presented by Mr. Sid. C. S. McKim, who congratulated the company on the efficiency of their secretary-treasurer, and other officers.

Dramatic Milestones in Canada's Story

BY C. W. JEFFERYS

"Father Lacombe and the Blackfeet at the Building of the C. P. R."

The coming of the railroad into the prairie country stirred the minds of the Indians of the West with uneasy forebodings. They saw in the surveyors with their instruments, measuring out the lands, magicians of evil omen, putting a "bad medicine" upon the country and its people. As they watched the long railroad creeping resistlessly across the plains, the hordes of laborers at work, the endless line of supplies, the iron monsters that followed, bellowing smoke and fire, their fears increased, and they began to realize more keenly the approach of the white flood which was to overwhelm them. Already the buffalo had gone, and isolated settlers had planted themselves here and there on the lands over which for ages the red men had roamed. They had met the white chiefs in council, and by one treaty after another had surrendered their rights in exchange for sustenance which the plains no longer yielded them. Numerous and extensive areas of land had been set aside throughout the country for the various bands; but most of the territory they had given up was still unoccupied, and the boundaries of their Reserves as yet were merely lines on the unbroken prairie. The building of the railroad showed them clearly that the wandering freedom of their life was over.

They watched its steady advance with sullen discontent, which sometimes broke into passionate protest, and on a few occasions into active opposition. Among others, the Cree chief, Piapot, set himself to obstruct the progress of track-laying. He pitched his camp across the right-of-way, and refused to move, while his braves galloped threateningly around the railway men, whooping and firing their guns. Word was sent to the nearest Mounted Police post, and a sergeant and a constable rode swiftly to the camp. Piapot refused to obey the orders of the police. The sergeant strode to Piapot's teepee and kicked out the poles; the other tents were pulled down in the same way, and covered by the cool intrepidity of the two policemen, Piapot and his braves shifted the obstructing camp, and the work of track-laying proceeded unmolested.

Steadily the iron road crept westward till it reached the Blackfoot country. Here the survey lines had been run through a portion of the Reserve allotted to this warlike tribe, some sixty miles east of Calgary. It was the intention of the Government to compensate the Indians for the land taken for the railway; but through some departmental carelessness, at the time only too common when Western affairs were concerned, no word of this had been sent to them. When the laborers began to lay the rails on the lands of the Reserve, a crowd of angry Indians met them and tore up the track. Their great chief, Crowfoot, forbade the railway men to enter upon their lands, and bloodshed was threatened if they persisted. This meant serious trouble for the Blackfoot confederacy was the most numerous and formidable body of Indians in the North-west.

One man there was who might be able to allay their excitement and hostility. It was Father Albert Lacombe, the missionary, who years ago had earned the name of "The Man With the Good Heart," among the Blackfeet by his devoted services during the epidemic of small-pox that ravaged their camp. He was the friend of every tribe, at home in every lodge, a peacemaker, a ready helper in times of famine, a man upon whose word the Indians relied with absolute confidence.

To him at Calgary the railway builders sent word of the trouble. He rode for the Blackfoot Reserve at once. There he found the Indians resolute in confronting the laborers, determined that not a rail should be laid across their lands. Father Lacombe gave his word of honor that the Government would give them other lands in payment for the right-of-way, and was then consent to allow the tracks to be laid through the Reserve.

It was but one of many errands of peace that he undertook during more than fifty years of missionary service among the Indians, the Metis, the rail road laborers and the settlers. To the influence of the missionaries, Catholic and Protestant alike, is due very largely the peaceful settlement of the Canadian West, and among them none rendered more extensive and valuable service than Father Lacombe.

For the Indian, in particular, he had an intelligent sympathy and a ready intuition, which perhaps was quickened by the slight strain of Indian blood which he inherited. In 1835, a party of Algonquin warriors captured the eldest daughter of a habitant farmer at St. Sulpice, on the St. Lawrence below Montreal, and carried her off to Sault Ste. Marie, where she was forced to become the wife of one of the Indian raiders. Five years later she managed to escape with her two infant children, when a party of traders visited the Sault, and she was recognized by an uncle who was among them. She was restored to her family and one of the rescued children became the ancestor of Father Lacombe. Close rooted to the soil, the family clung to the home by the St. Lawrence, and it was on the same farm from which the little French girl had been carried away that the great Indian missionary was born in 1827. Eighty-nine years later he died in the home for orphans and the aged poor which he had established at Midnapore in Alberta, after a life-time full of adventure and of work for the welfare of his fellow men, red and white.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

The harmful effect on consumptive demand for lamb by the production of heavy buck lambs cannot be over emphasized. It prevents the industry expanding to its normal limits.

Courses in Horticulture

The Ontario Agricultural College announces the following short courses under auspices of the Department of Horticulture for the month of February:

Fruit Growing, Feb. 3rd to 8th; Vegetable Gardening, Feb. 10th to 15th; Ornamental Horticulture, Feb. 17th to 20th. These courses will feature a wide variety of subjects and the discussions will be led by O.A.C. professors as well as other prominent horticultural specialists from various points in Ontario.

O.A.C. Short Courses

The increasing interest on the part of junior farmers in agriculture education is evidenced by an enrolment of 166 in the short courses at O.A.C., a decided increase over former years. The three months' course in dairying alone has 53 students, including two from Denmark, one from England and the balance from the Maritimes and Ontario. Prof. H. H. Dean states that the object of this course is to improve the uniformity and standard of the dairy products of Ontario. It covers practical work in cheese and butter making and training in dairy bacteriology and chemistry. Enrolment in the poultry, live stock, apiculture and drainage courses is also large. The total number of young men in all classes at O.A.C. is now close to five hundred.

Specialized Farming

The modern trend to specialization on the farm is clearly exemplified in one county in Ontario, where in addition to production of staple crops, farm land is being devoted to the growing of apples and tobacco on a large scale, the ranching of foxes and mink, breeding of large flocks of high-class poultry and turkeys, and even to muskrat ranching. Many farms are devoted exclusively to one or other of these various specialized lines. The financial attractiveness of this plan of farming has been definitely established.

Last year's statistics concerning the live stock industry in Canada showed that the only branch which did not show a reduction in total numbers as Canadian farms was sheep. The prairie provinces imported some thousands of grade ewes to stock weedy farms, thus giving an impetus to the eastern breeders to supply the demand for pure-bred stock, resulting in a healthy market condition.

Value of Cut Straw

There is satisfaction in the fact that cattle appear to relish the straw this winter. Good oat straw has a definite feed value besides being a filler. Many cattle wintered on turnips and straw have gone out in the spring in fairly good condition. When straw is cut or ground up and mixed with pulped roots, beet pulp, silage or even sprinkled with molasses, the live stock seem to consume more of it than when fed long.

Pete: "You don't look like you did when I saw you last winter. When I saw you then you looked like a duke."

Ike: "Times are different now. I'm married."

Pete: "What has married life to do with it?"

Ike: "Why, I'm subdued now."

A Simple Treatment For Children's Colds

Cold in the head is very common at this time of the year, especially in the very young. Neglect of a cold is prone to lead to serious consequences. To relieve all congestion of the system is the first step in treating a cold, whether in infants or adults. For the very young, Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal means of doing this. Obtainable by no narcotics or other harmful drugs they soothe the child's irritations, relieve its suffering and hasten convalescence.

Baby's Own Tablets are without an equal for relieving indigestion, constipation and colic. They check diarrhoea; break up colds and simple fevers; promote health-giving sleep and make the dreaded teething period easy. The Tablets are the one medicine that a mother can give her little ones with perfect safety as they are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Pig breeders in thousands have exchanged their coupon for a free packet of " Provendeine " and many have already written to advise us of the splendid results obtained. Hogs kept for fattening put on more weight when given " Provendeine " and are ready for market much sooner. Young pigs (sucking or just weaned) develop and grow faster and their flesh acquires a more rosy tint. A most precious advantage and one that astonishes every user of " Provendeine " is that WITHIN A FEW DAYS IT CAUSES RICKETS or FOOT TROUBLE to DISAPPEAR.

'PROVENDEINE' is a particular boon this year when the dry weather has caused a scarcity of food. By giving your hogs PROVENDEINE they will fatten much faster and you will economise 2 months feed.

Pigs worth $10.00 more per head

Dreher Farm, East Molesey, England. June 22nd. 1929.

Please forward me two more packets of your Provendeine. I have now been splendidly since using it. The pigs are beautifully glossy now, and look as if they will give them, so we are recommending it to all our friends.

I have a litter of 27 pigs. I split them in two lots, and the one that was fed with Provendeine are about 40 shillings per head heavier. I have sold three to go to the factory Monday, but the other pen will not be ready for another three weeks. If you are passing this way I should be pleased for you to have a look at them.

34,700,000 CARS IN USE IN THE WORLD

The automobile industry of the United States achieved its largest yearly production in 1929, when 5,851,000 cars and trucks, having a wholesale value of $3,483,900,000 were placed on the market according to statistics compiled by non-governmental agencies and which are now available at the automotive division of the Department of Commerce. These figures compare with the total of 4,601,130 units in 1928, having a wholesale value of $3,162,798,880.

During 1929 the motorist paid an average of $812 for his car, while the average retail price of trucks amounted to $877. The automotive industry also proved to be one of the largest employers of labor, using, in 1929, 4,300,00 workers either directly or in allied lines.

Besides a record year in the production of machines the industry manufacturered parts and accessories for replacement as well as service equipment, with a wholesale value of $926,000,000 and turned out rubber tires for replacement worth $600,000,000.

World registration of motor vehicles at the close of 1929 reached 34,700,000 of which 26,700,000 or 76 per cent. were registered in the United States.

An unprecedented record was established in export business also as 1,015,000 American made automobiles were sold outside of the United States last year and they, with accessories and tires, had a value of $757,400,000.

In 1929 only 710 vehicles were imported into the United States. The increase in foreign sales over 1928 totalled 23 per cent. and consisted of 18 per cent of the domestic production.

Two delegates were present from each legion being Brighton and Colbourne, Comrades Lt.-Col. Chas. Rutherford, V.C., Fred Bradley; Trenton, Comrades McKibbon and Heath; Picton, Comrades Hepburn and His Honor Judge McLean; Belleville, Comrades Tiffe and Day; Napanee, Comrades Capt Hughson and Napolis; Kingston, Comrades Livesay and Wheeler; Gananoque, Comrades Lloyd and Wheeler; Brockville, Comrade Wooding and Monroe; Chairman of Zone, Comrade Hicks.

The business session was held at the Armouries during the afternoon, which was followed by a banquet at the Dundas House, which was tendered to the visiting comrades by the Napanee Branch No. 137. Quite a number of townspeople were also present at the banquet.

Zone 13 had for its special and honored guests, Lt. Col. C. R. Pearkes, V. C., and his Honor Judge McLean. Following the banquet a number of addresses were given. Capt. A. S. Hughson, president of the Napanee Legion presiding.

Mayor J. M. Simpson, in a brief address, officially welcomed the delegates and was also delighted to welcome the two distinguished soldiers who had won the Victoria Cross, the highest award war decoration in the British Empire.

He then presented the keys of the town to Col. Pearkes and Lt. Rutherford.

Col. Pearkes, on rising to reply, was given a hearty reception and referred to the causes of the formation of the Canadian Legion.

Separate units had been formed but it seemed that to serve the interest of the veteran in a proper manner an amalgamation of all units should take place, which was done hence the Canadian Legion.

"The people in the Old Country," said Col. Pearkes, "were whole heartedly behind the British Legion."

The speaker also referred to the dinner tendered to the 300 Victoria Cross soldiers, by the Prince of Wales.

All present will always remember this memorable banquet.

Lt. Rutherford, V.C., also expressed his pleasure at being present and expressed the same sentiments as the previous speaker.

Judge McLean in a short address stated that the Canadian veteran had a warm place in his heart and also congratulated the Napanee Legion on its splendid success.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

The Hockey Club and members of the team are very grateful to Messrs. Harry Boyle, Charlie Loucks, Harold Anderson and Tommy Kirby, for the use of their cars on Friday night. It is only through the generosity of these men and others who will help take the team to Belleville on Tuesday, that the locals are able to finish their schedule.

* * *

The funds are pretty low, due to the large expenditures necessary for outfitting the team, building the sub. box, etc., and at that money has been lost at nearly every game.

* * *

Some of the fellows thought that it would be better to quit now rather than end the season very much in the red, but it was pointed out that if free transportation could be obtained, the gate receipts at the future games would take care of further expenses.

* * *

There generally is some other means of getting out of any hole other than quitting—especially in sport.

* * *

The locals put up a snappy fight in Trenton the other night even though they were outscored from the face-off.

* * *

One of the players was a little jealous because I said something last week about a certain other fellow's girl.

* * *

So I asked him what he called the apple (or peach) of his eye.

* * *

And he said "Maizie." I suppose he calls her that because he never can tell where she is going.

* * *

Due to disruptions in the ranks of two of the departments' line-ups, the remaining fixture of the Bushwackers' schedule had to be post-poned for a week. Some of the regulars have not yet recovered from injuries sustained in last week's games.

* * *

However, an exhibition duel was waged between the reinforced cabinet-room squad and the Battleaxe Kings, alias the basketball team.

* * *

And it was a real battle from start to finish, in spite of the fact that the basketeers were a mite short most of the game. Sometime ago I said that the gun-men could all go the sixty-minutes without a rest, but that did not mean they would spot any team one or two men.

Nevertheless they came out on the long end of a 7-6 tally.

* * *

One of the goal-umpires said that one goal was made from an off-side play and therefore shouldn't count, but the ice-official didn't see it and faced the puck off at centre. Thus the goal is as good as any in the opinion of local hockey authorities.

TRENTON BEATS NAPANEE

Back in their old stride, Trenton Junior hockey team demonstrated their superiority at the local arena last night by defeating Napanee 11-1. The visitors, who are in O.H.A. for their first year, showed plenty of improvement over their first game here. They played a well-coached game, but lacked ability to put their knowledge into action. Trenton simply outskated them at every turn.

Every man on the Trenton line-up was on deck with all skates set, and the way they travelled was very encouraging to the hockey executive.

For five minutes Napanee kept the rubber in Trenton-territory by playing a short attack and long shooting game. But the black and white forward line broke through and scored three in quick succession, Lambert being on the end of some splendid team work, made the shots. At this point the scrappiest piece of stick handling and shifting of the evening was put on by Filion, who came from behind his own line and circled every obstruction to finally snap a hot one at Hayes in goal for the visitors, which made that boy pennyless. It was sure legal to watch, and Hayes didn't have a coon's chance to stop the puck. However, this same Hayes will come along, and should be useful next season. In this period, too, Begin found the time for combination effort, the score being 5-0 at the first bell.

Parnell and Lambert alternated for the first four tallies in the second frame, and Begin and Filion each got another, while Huffman for Napanee came through for one. The period ended 11-1 for Trenton.

Better hockey but less effort went into the last twenty minutes, and neither team scored.

The penalties were evenly divided, each team getting four for minor offences. Claire Devlin, of Kingston, handled the game to the satisfaction of everyone.—Quinte Sun, Trenton, Feb. 1st, 1930.

BASKETBALL

On Saturday evening, February 8th, the Senior girls' team were once more victorious in a game against Queen's University in Kingston. Thus adding one more victory to their long and splendid record. The girls were very doubtful as to their success before the game because they knew that they were coming up against a fast and hard working team, and they therefore were "on their toes," playing their very best to do honor once more for the Napanee Collegiate and not to mar their record. The activity of the forwards and the splendid jumping and checking of the defences helped the girls to pile up a resulting score of 42-28.

In the first half Dorothy Wilson showed her usual splendid work by scoring six baskets for N.C.I. Danny Joyce following with five and Nookie Daly with two and two free throws, thus making the score 28-18 for our girls. Queen's showed quick, snappy work, but could not keep up with the locals. Ella Sexton made the most points for the University.

The second half gave even greater credit to the N.C.I. team as they not only kept their margin but added to it, making that final score of 42-28, defeating Queen's by 6 points. Embury and Jean Milligan did wonderful defence work and checked many chances for Queen's to score. Doris Anderson had the tip-off every time and tapped that ball wherever she wished. In the last Dorothy Wilson scored five baskets for N.C.I. and Danby Joyce two. Nookie Daly did splendid field work, making it possible for the others to score.

So far the Napanee Collegiate Seniors have not lost a game and this is the second victory over the University. HENRY SUGGESTS POLICE REFRAIN FROM PRACTICE OF SUMMONING AUTOISTS

A suggestion to "all municipal and police authorities in Ontario" that their highway and street patrols be animated by educational and cautionary ideals, rather than by motives of persecution, was put forward Monday night by Hon. George S. Henry, Provincial Minister of Highways.

Such a policy was applicable and feasible even within large centres such as Toronto and other cities and would go far to promote sane driving and sane use of the roads, in the opinion of the Minister, who was the chief speaker at the annual banquet and business meeting in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, of the Ontario Motor League.

He suggested also the abolition as far as practicable of the system of taking the number of a car infringing the traffic rules and regulations, the owner later with a summons. Few owners are able or inclined to return a week-end court in the city, which they may have violated a rule, often unconsciously, by, Mr. Henry argued.

The speaker's plea was directed to a gathering of some 600 men and women, including members and officials of the league, leading executives of the automobile industry, prominent citizens of Toronto and representatives of United States motoring organizations.

We are already striving for results along this line through my department's highway patrol system," Mr. Henry remarked. "We do not strive for revenue or to 'collect' drivers into obedience by threats and abuse. Promotions in the force are made on the basis of how well an officer can reduce the accidents in his district, and promote co-operation between the motorists and those responsible for safe driving.

"When next Summer comes, I hope that the thousands of tourists who will flock on the highways will benefit from my suggestions, and that we will find police and highway patrols working for caution, reasonable driving, rather than for fines. Let us have more and Common sense.

"So far I haven't heard anyone express the ideals to be followed to produce model conditions on the roads of the province, but I suppose it takes years, decades, even generations, to develop sanity in the use of automobiles. Meanwhile, I feel along as people move about the roads, that certain rules will be observed. I am afraid, there will be accidents, but these can be avoided by care, courtesy and commonsense."

FOR THE BUSY FARMER NEWS AND INFORMATION

Raise heifers from the best cows is the advice of one prominent dairy authority. This advice applies to all classes of stock. Raise breeding stock from the best females. There will be enough misfits even then without breeding them.

Loans in excess of three millions of dollars were made to farmers of the province during 1929 by the Ontario Government Agricultural Development Board, according to a statement issued by the provincial Treasurer. The total last year on loan to farmers was about $19,000,000, and this year will be something under $22,000,000. This money comes from the deposits of citizens in the provincial savings office.

Poultry Co-Operative

The Chamber of Commerce in Norfolk County is sponsoring the formation of a poultry co-operative along the lines of that already in operation in Oxford County, which is doing a very large business for some 600 members. The prime purpose of the co-operative will be the organized marketing of eggs, which heretofore has been conducted in a haphazard manner, with resulting loss to producers and failure to maintain uniform standard of quality. The co-operative would also assist in the distribution of birds of high productive qualities.

Value of Dairy Products

In commenting upon the request of the Canadian National Dairy Council for an increase in protective duties on butter so as to save the Canadian butter market for Canadian farmers and creamery men, Prof. H. H. Dean of O.A.C., furnishes figures which reveal the tremendous value of the dairy industry. The capital invested in the creameries and cheeseries of Canada is over forty million dollars. These establishments pay out to farmers over ninety million dollars annually for raw maierial, milk and cream. The milk and cream from over two million cows goes into the manufacture of cheese and butter in Canada. These cows are worth two hundred million dollars, which represents the farmers' investment in cows for two branches of the dairy industry, to say nothing of the investment in land, stables etc., to maintain these cows.

Barley Recommended

Recent weather conditions have caused concern to many farmers who have been depending on fall wheat alone for their cash crop. In considering the possibility of an alternative cash crop, barley is recommended by many leading agriculturists, since it may be sown after the wheat has failed and it will bring in a substantial cash return. It should not be sown on land where fall wheat has failed but on a clean piece of well-prepared ground. There is a good home market now for commercial barley and it is most important that the proper kind of good seed be sown and the field be given more than ordinary attention. According to Departmental statistics the cash returns per acre from barley have been $4.00 ahead of oats.

Your Woodlot

It is time and money well spent for any owner to examine his woods and remove weed seed trees. This is the first step to take in improving the forest stand. Culls should be removed and gotten rid of, either by selling or by cutting for firewood. It is always important to leave seed trees of the valuable species, and these it will be found, will seed an area rapidly if there is no competition from advance growth of forest weeds. On most farms, woods which originally contained fine white oaks, elm, poplar, walnut, maple and ash, have deteriorated into culled forests having little or no lumber value. The value of the woods depends upon its growing stock, whether small or large trees. The first consideration then in any cutting operation, where openings are made in the forest stand, is to remove the weed trees.

How Bees Winter

Prof. Millen of O.A.C. gives this interesting story of how bees winter: The honey bee is cold-blooded and if individual bees are placed in a temperature below 50 degrees F. they lose all power of movement and soon die. Collectively, however, in the colony, they overcome this disadvantage by forming a hollow cluster with a tight wall of bees forming an excellent insulating medium. Inside this hollow cluster, bees are moving freely and by a rapid movement of wings they maintain a temperature of 80 degrees F. or more even though the temperature outside is zero. The bees which form the insulating wall are constantly changing places with the bees inside the cluster, and thus they all keep warm. Beekeepers must have sufficient worker bees in the colony to form a thick insulating wall otherwise the bees die of exhaustion in trying to retain the heat which is generated.

Professor Graham Speaks

Poultrymen will be interested in the following excerpts from a recent address by Prof. Graham of O.A.C.:

One of the things that poultrymen have learned is, that direct sunlight is the cheapest kind of feed. Poultry do not thrive in the dark.

Just as the beef cow and dairy cow are two very different types, so the laying hen is a type distinct from the hen that does not produce plenty of eggs. No one understands just why the beef cow puts the food on her back and the dairy cow puts it into the milk pail. Nobody we know why some hens get fat and don't lay. But the difference is there and the successful dairymen and poultry raisers must get the right type of animal.

All nations of the world are spending large sums on research and production. We may as well get ready for expenditure of even larger sums for research. It is imperative to improve general living conditions of the people.

Poultry raising has become a business. Nowadays we have the mammoth incubator that hatches 12,000 chicks at a time. This is all done electrically. Heat is furnished and controlled and eggs are turned by electric current. Last year in Ontario eight million chicks were hatched in one two-week period. The question now is, how big is the market?

Why is it that we eat hens' eggs and not duck eggs? Some say because the hen advertises. As soon as she lays an egg she tells the world.

LOCAL FIRM GETS VALUABLE AGENCY

Local citizens who have heard of the results which have been accomplished by Sargon, will be interested in the announcement that this new and scientific formula can now be obtained in this city.

Sargon was introduced in the United States in April 1928. Since that time it has become a nationally-known, nationally advertised product. Not in recent years, perhaps, has any other medicine of its kind attained such widespread popularity, and were it not for the actual facts and figures given out by some of the leading drug firms of America, the success attained by this product would be hard to believe.

Sargon is now being introduced in Canada, and a new, modernly equipped plant has been established in Ontario to take care of the rapidly growing demand throughout the Dominion.

In awarding the local agency, the manufacturers of Sargon are carrying out their established policy of confining the sale to one thoroughly responsible and centrally located drug firm in each city, and wherever introduced the Sargon store will be found to be one of the leading and most representative. Such firms are always anxious and willing to co-operate with the manufacturers of meritorious products, especially inter-nationally known products of proven merit.

Sargon was recently introduced in Toronto, Hamilton, London and other cities in Ontario, and judging from the large initial sales and the repeat business it has enjoyed, it now seems a foregone conclusion that the success attained by Sargon in the United States will be duplicated in Canada.

In the leading cities of the United States some of the most prominent men of the country have been among the hundreds who have come forward to tell what Sargon has done for them, and many thousands have used it with the most gratifying results. Human nature is the same the world over, and when suffering men and women find a medicine that helps them, they want to tell their friends about it, and in this way Sargon is rapidly becoming known throughout the entire American continent.

The exclusive agency for Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills for this town and section has been awarded to Hooper's Drug Store. In anticipation of the extraordinary demand, this well known firm has just received a large shipment of this celebrated medicine.

CANADIAN FARMERS LOSING MARKETS

The latest trade returns issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that the farmers of Canada are not only steadily being shut out of foreign markets for their produce, but are also losing ground in the home market. An analysis of these returns, leaving out grains shows that in the case of all other farm products, the people of Canada are actually importing a greater amount of these than are the farmers exporting. The figures show that if the Canadian farmers were excluded from all world markets and yet controlled the domestic, he would be better off financially than he is now with world competition.

The Canadian farmer has sixteen commodities for sale outside of grains: animals, butter, cheese, eggs, flax, fruits, hay, hides, lard, leather, meats, milk and cream, seeds, tobacco, vegetables and wool. For the 12-month periods ended December 1928, Canada exported these farm products to the amount of $124,394,547; for the similar period in 1929, there was a decrease of $20,759,087, the total being $103,635,460. Taking the number of farms in Canada at 800,000, each farm exported an average of $129.50 worth of these products in 1929 as against $155.49 in 1928.

While the exports of these products show a marked decrease, the imports of the same commodities show an increase and today Canadians import more of these same products than they export—a reversal of conditions existing a year ago. While in 1928 Canadians imported these goods to the value of $105,615,681, in 1929 these same imports increased to $109,042,687 or an average of $136.30 per farm, and if the imports of grains be considered the total imports of farm products amounted to $135,124,022 of $168.90 per farm. Thus we have the startling contrast that whereas the farmer sold these goods to the value of $129.50 per farm outside Canada, the Canadian people imported the same commodities and grains to the extent of $168.90.

The figures show that imports exceeded exports in the following commodities: butter, flax, fruits, hides, seeds, tobacco, vegetables and raw wool. In butter alone Canada imported in excess of $12,000,000 over what she exported, while the import of fruits was nearly $26,000,000 greater than exports. Which is better for the farmer —a market of 103 millions outside Canada or a market of 109 millions for the same commodities if the foreigner were shut out?

"KITING" TO BE COSTLY

Ottawa bankers decided to make a charge of fifty cents for all cheques returned "N.S.F." at their bi-annual meeting held in the city for the election of officers and the transaction of clearing House Association business. Bank clearings for the city reached their highest total in the history of the city during 1929, when they totalled $643,894,942. At the same time there was a large increase in the number of cheques drawn against accounts without sufficient funds; hence the new ruling.

Canadian Crops

The final crop report for Canada gives an interesting summary of the basic industry of the country. The Bureau of Statistics estimates the 1929 wheat yield in the prairie provinces at 269 million bushels as compared with 244 million in 1928. The past five-year average was set at 397 millions while the past ten-year average was 349 millions. The bureau estimates this year's crop at 143 million bushels or 155 million bushels less than last year. Barley is set at 84 million bushels which is a decrease of 20 million bushels.

Wool ought to be cheap this year in view of the large number of lambs fleeced.

Save all your Pigs at weaning time

Provendeine

Provendeine brings health-giving sun rays to hogs in their feed. It is the only hog conditioner based on vitaminized diastases. It brings your hogs vitamins normally obtained direct from sunlight rays and from sun-irradiated fresh foods. It gives them the vitamins which combat disease and the vitamins which promote growth.

Diastases are digestive principles which are vitally necessary to correct dieting. They enable the body to select from the food it absorbs that proportion each animal needs of protein, fats, minerals, and other essential elements.

At the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, the pigs fed Provendeine made 5.5% more rapid gains on a 5.5% lower feed consumption.

WHEN you save all your pigs you save money because you have more pigs to sell when ready for market. That is exactly what Provendeine will do for you. It will put your sows into that healthy vigorous condition that assures a strong hardy litter—No more stunted growth in the young pigs. The extra small cost in adding this wonderful vitimized feed to your present ration returns its cost many times in the hogs you save and the increased weight they attain in a much shorter period.

Testimonials from farmers all over the country prove that Provendeine does produce thrifty pigs and remarkable gains.

Provendeine prevents foot trouble.

Provendeine creates a healthy appetite.

Provendeine will balance and make the ration you are now feeding more easily digestible.

Provendeine will hasten the development and growth of your pigs.

Try Provendeine's watertight, satisfaction or money refunded guarantee. If you are not satisfied after using half of the package, return direct to us the other half in the original container, and we will refund the purchase price of $1.50 without question or discussion.

Make your trial on a runt or rickety pig. Segregate the animal getting Provendeine. Then every few days, compare this animal with the rest of your herd. You'll be amazed to see that Provendeine will make the unthrifty pig more thrifty than the others.

If your own dealer doesn't stock it already, he can get it for you within 48 hours. Or, to start your trial at once, use the coupon and we will send your first package immediately.

PREMIER'S DAUGHTER CHRISTENS NEW SHIP

Ten thousand people witnessed the launching of the C.N.S. Prince Henry, new vessel of the Canadian National Steamships, at the yards of Cammell Laird and Co., at Birkenhead, England, when this magnificent new ship was christened by Miss Isbbel MacDonald, daughter of Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain. Miss MacDonald, who has travelled over the route between Vancouver and Prince Rupert, over which the Prince Henry will sail after her delivery to Canada, was enthusiastic as to the beauties of this Inside Passage and said she hoped soon to renew the pleasures of that trip. F. A. Pauline, Agent General of British Columbia, congratulated the builders and also the Canadian National Steamships on their enterprise in having this splendid vessel added to their fleet, while C. J. Smith, European Vice-President of the Canadian National System explained the work which the Prince Henry and two other new steamships, soon to be launched, will perform on the Pacific Coast. Photographs show (left) Miss MacDonald with R.S. Johnson, Managing Director of Cammell Laird and Co., descending the gangway after the launching and (right) Miss MacDonald breaking the bottle of champagne on the ship's prow as she gave the vessel its name.

FASCINATIAG LINKS IN CANADA'S HISTORY.

There is a closed cabinet in the new wing of the Dominion Archives Building which contains four intensely interesting mementos of the early life in Canada. These are tunics, sash and stock worn by Brock when he fell fighting for his country in the year of 1812, and the shoes worn by General Wolfe when he was a baby.

The tunic which belonged to Brock is of the flaming scarlet color which the warriors wore in those days. It is bound in black and has gold buttons. The bullet hole over the heart, is very noticeable, and it was the charge which was fatal to the brave soldier.

With the tunic was worn a plaid sash, which was a present from Tecumseh to Brock. He also wore a stock, as it was called in those days, which reminds one of the Windsor ties worn by the school boys of about twenty years ago.

Brock's coat was sent to his relatives and in 19-9 the Misses Tupper, nieces of Sir Isaac Brock presented it to the Dominion Archives.

The little kid shoes were worn by General Wolfe were given by Mr Thomas Wolf, a relative of the Generals, to his cousin John Chandler, of Newcastle on-Tyne and we're presented by W. J. Atkinson, grandson of the latter, to the Archives in September 1928.

These little mementos of early history in Canada when seen as they were worn by these brave men, recall to mind the battles in which they engaged and the personal contact of seeing the tunic worn by Brock recalls the splendid achievements of a man, who, when he was killed, was in years, just a boy.

DO NOT LET YOUR BABY SUFFER

Baby's Own Tablets Are Just the Help He Needs

At the cost of a few cents every mother can add to her own happiness and to her children's safety, for, while the cost of Baby's Own Tablets is small the value of these Tablets to every home where there are little ones is exceedingly great.

What mother does not suffer when her little ones are suffering—when they are undergoing the tortures of the teething period; the agonies of constipation and indigestion, or the miseries brought on by colds or simple fevers? What mother can sleep when her child does not sleep? She can banish these troubles, however, and in banishing them she is making a happy household, for the happy child makes everyone else happy.

To banish childhood suffering Baby's Tablets should always be kept in the home. They are recognized the world over as an absolutely safe and efficient remedy for little ones. They are a mild but thorough laxative and through their action on the stomach and bowels never fail to banish any of the minor ills of little ones. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SEA-GOING ETIQUETTE

A query in the Imperial House of Commons, as to whether the First Lord of the Admiralty would approve of chief petty-officers keeping their caps on when being paid, raises a point of sea going etiquette.

Whenever a sailor sets foot on the quarter deck he must come smartly to attention and salute, even though there may be no one there to return it. A civilian is expected to remove his cap. The reason is that in an age now past there was a crucifix on the quarter deck, and though it has now gone, the space it once hallowed is still remembered and revered.

The Reversed March

A queer custom about naval funerals is that when his shipmates follow him up his last journey, whether he be an admiral or an "A. B.," bluejackets walk immediately behind the flag-covered hearse, followed by their seniors in service, with the commanders after the lieutenants, and the captain last of all. But on the return journey the the captain leads the way, with the rest of the company following in order of seniority.

Senority also has a time-honored custom of slipping backwards on Christmas Day. Then the ordinary sailor has a chance of "bossing" even the Master-at-Arms, and wearing his clothes as well. Automatically, as the youngest boy usually becomes Acting Master-at-Arms, the man whose rank he assumes for the twenty four hours takes over the duties of his temporary usurper. Imagine the chief Bosun's mate as a ship's boy for one day.

"Eight bells," midnight, ends the day's fun, and any other day in the navy, though, as a matter of fact, the bells are not always sounded nowadays. The clanging annoys the behammocked crew. The only occassion on which more than eight bells are struck at a time is on New Year's eve, when sixteen are struck at midnight, eight for the old year and eight for the new.

"Rule, Britannia"

Bandmasters have to beware of traps of etiquette. "Rule Britannia" may only be played at the reception of the Board of Admiralty, Admirals of the Fleet, Admirals, and Commanders-in-Chief.

In the Ward Room, when its occupants honour the toast of the "King," not a man rises. Once, long ago, a distinguished officer who was very tall stood to toast the Sovereign and badly bumped his head on the beams of the deck above. From that time the toast has been honored seated.

There are times, too, when the business end of a sword is sharper and more deadly on a table of peace than when brandished at war. That is when an officer finds himself tried by court-martial. The verdict is know before it is announced by the position of the prisoner's sword, which lies on the table. If the point is directed towards him he is "guilty" but if the hilt is pointing towards him it means "not guilty" and is one of the finest sights of his life.

USING DIESELS TO COMBAT BUS LINES

Operation of a Diesel driven railroad car has recently been tested by the Swedish Railroad Company, according to a report just issued.

The motor develops 150 horse power and can attain a speed of 65 kilometers per hour. A mechanical reduction gear is used. The car accommodates 72 seated and 25 standing passengers, and there is also a baggage room. The tanks have a capacity of 330 litres of fuel oil. It is claimed by those interested that the cost of operation is very low, and it is proven to be the case several of the private Railroads in Sweden may use coaches of this type in an effort to meet the steadily, and rather rapidly increasing competition offered by the bus companies.

Any fortunes accruing through recent activities on Wall Street may be referred to by inheritors as having been founded by their forebears.

Mrs. Cortonsel—"I've been expecting a package of medicine for a week and haven't got it yet."

Mrs. Cortntonel—"Well, if you must know, its indigestion."

("Children of to-day, with their sense of liberty, are finer than any previous generation," says a writer in a daily paper).

"Spare the rod and spoil the child,"
Cried parents long ago.
But now the little dears run wild,
And towards perfection grow.
For doting mums and dads make gods
Of all their darling brood,
And will not hear of penal rods
To keep the youngsters good,
So now the youngsters have their way
The rod is obsolete.
Fond parents spoil them, and they say:
"They simply can't be beat!"

She: "You pride yourself on being able to judge a woman's character by her clothes What would be your verdict on my sister over there?"

He: "Insufficient evidence."

At a heavy weight contest between two men of different heights the spectators had been bored by six rounds of hugging.

The shorter man dropped his guard for a moment, his opponent shot out a wicked right . . . and missed.

This spurred the shorter man to action, and he started punching away at the head of his opponent.

TRINITY CHURCH W. M. S.

The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church was held in the Sunday School on Tuesday, the 4th, at 3 p.m. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. S. Daly, through illness, Mrs. John Topping presided.

After the opening hymn a very fine and impressive feeling was engendered in the meeting by the prayer offered by Miss S. Shorey. A plea for sacrifice and further effort from the lips of one who has led such an unselfish life tends to make others feel very humble and rouses a desire to accomplish greater things and breeds a spirit of unselfishness, that is essential to missionary effort.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read by the secretary, Mrs. H. VanLuven, further inspiration was given by a lovely solo rendering of "Nearer My God to Thee," by Mrs. Harry Steacy. Following this the Scripture lesson and Devotional Leaflet were read by Mrs. Pawson. After the singing of the hymn, "More Love to Thee, O Christ," the second chapter of the study book "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," was splendidly outlined by Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. A. Fellows. This book is proving a most interesting study of the birth and development of Christianity, to-day's chapter giving a vivid picture of the struggles and sacrifices of the early Armenian christians.

Mrs. D. B. Wilson spoke for a few minutes regarding financial prospects for the coming year, urging a further effort towards our allocation, which we feel will surely be realized this year. A splendid impetus was given towards this objective by the results of today's meeting, a very substantial amount being realized from various sources.

Owing to the very complete report of the Presbyterial contained in the local papers, a full account was not given at the meeting, but Mrs. Edward Kayler, touched on several points of interest, laying particular emphasis on the elevating influence of the quiet half hour conducted by Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson, of Newburgh, which latter has roused enthusiastic comment on all sides. The hymn, "Jesus Shall Reign Where-er the Sun," brought to a close a very worth-while meeting.

E. Church, Tarrytown, with the Rev. William H. Vaughan, pastor of said Church reading the ceremony. The bride was gowned in white chiffon with picture hat and carried white roses. The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Kennedy, of White Plains, wore sapphire blue gown with accessories to match and carried tea roses.

CAMDEN VIII. W. M. S.

The February meeting of Camden VIII. W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Wilson, on Thursday, February 6th. Despite the extremely cold day of 20 below zero a goodly number were present. The thanks of the society is tendered to Mr. Nath Reid, who so kindly, month after month, takes his team and sleigh and brings all the women to the meeting place.

The devotional period was in charge of the President, Mrs. B. Close. The Scripture reading of Joel 2: 28-32, Acts 2: 36-39 and Acts 3: 24-26, pointed out Pentecost in prophesy; then Pentecost in fulfilment. The devotional leaflet, "To you and to your children and to all that are afar off," was read by Mrs. Sam Doupe, ending with a beautiful prayer.

The 2nd chapter of the study book was in charge of Mrs. Hyland, assisted by Mrs. R. J. Wilson, excellent papers being prepared by each of the ladies, showing the expansion of religion from Jerusalem to the East and the South.

Mrs. Close and Mrs. Thomas Wilson gave a report of the Presbyterial meeting, Mrs. Close explaining the work of the nominating committee and Mrs. Wilson reviewing the general sessions and reports.

After the reading of minutes of last meeting, roll call and offering, the meeting was closed by singing, "Jesus, Saviour Pilot Me," and Mizpah benediction.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ross McGregor, on Thursday, March 6th, at 2 p.m. Everybody welcome. At the close of the meeting, lunch was served and a social time spent.

LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of Camden East Library Association held in the Library Room on the third Monday of January was attended by the usual number of persons interested in the welfare of the library.

Splendid reports for the past year were read revealing the fact that the library had had a most encouraging year. Its finances were much better than for some years previous to 1929, due not so much to membership fees, as to the success of the play prepared, presented and produced by them and also to a gift of books and money from Sir Gilbert Parker.

About fifty dollars worth of new books were bought, a case of forty books was loaned us from the Educational Department and we exchanged books with Newburgh library, making in all about 200 new books for the use of our readers during 1929.

The old "Board" thanks all those who in any way contributed to the success of the year just finished and the 1930 Board asks your hearty cooperation in making this year even more successful.

1930 Fees are now due and we thank those who have so promptly paid theirs.

By paying the one dollar fee early in the year one has an opportunity of reading one hundred and four books and three thousand books. These include science, history, literature, travel and fiction—books suitable for every reader.

The 1930 Board and Officers are:—Mr. A. Salisbury, Pres.; Mrs. O. Smedley, Sec.-Treas.; Mrs. A. M. Rinch, Librarian; Directors, Mrs. R. Lewis, Mrs. R. Butterill, Mrs. H. Robinson, Mrs. A. Dafoe, Mrs. T. Allore and Mr. A. H. Dickson.

SILLSVILLE W.M.S.

The Sillsville W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. Robt. Merritt the afternoon of February 6th. Our president, Mrs. M. B. Whyte in the chair. Twelve members answered to the roll call with a verse of scripture on giving. According to our annual program, Mrs. Geo. Philpott conducted the devotional exercises, after which the president took charge. Mr. D. H. Hough and Mrs. W. H. Phippen bearing on Pentecost.

Mrs. Merritt, as Temperance Superintendent, gave statistics showing the large increase in liquor sales, ending with a most graphic definition of alcohol. Mrs. R. Robertson gave a brief talk on Mission work in Africa.

Then came Mrs. Harold Hough's concise report from the recent Presbyterial held at Napanee. Mrs. Hough brought out a number of business points, and urged that each do her best for the coming year. Each of those who attended the Presbyterial were much impressed by Rev. A. J. Wilson's illustrated lecture showing the direct need of mission work in China.

Mr. Plant ably presided at the organ. After singing Hymn 94, "Jesus Shall Reign," the meeting closed with the Alladin benediction.

Our hostess served the social cup of tea, and each voiced it an enjoyable and profitable afternoon. The March meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Philpott.

MORVEN YOUNG PEOPLE MEET

A very fine group of forty young people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller, under the auspices of the Young Men's Class of the Sunday School on Thursday, February 6th, to enjoy a social time together; among the visitors were several young ladies from Newburgh. The evening opened with community singing, of round songs, etc., followed by an interesting address by the pastor, Rev. R. M. Seymour, on the Silk Industry of China and other lands. Mrs. Seymour then favored us with a reading. After the choosing of partners two guessing contests were thoroughly enjoyed.

At a somewhat late hour the whole company sat down to hot dogs, pickles, and cocoa, after which a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Miller for the kind hospitality of their home and the friends said good-night by the singing of "Good Night Ladies" and "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

It is hoped that this social evening will be but the beginning of a great series of meetings of this kind thus showing that our people of Morven are alive and awake to the great significant fact that "We must provide some form of entertainment for our young people if we ever expect to hold them of the church and create a church interest in their lives." These young folk are the trustees of to-morrow.

WHY SHOULD HE suffer from rheumatism like this?

If he would accept the advice of thousands of men and women, he would find relief by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Rheumatism is not a surface ailment that can be banished by rubbing with liniments or oils. Watery, poison-laden blood must be built up and purified before there can be any progress toward permanent recovery.

Time and again, sufferers have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the treatment of rheumatism. "For some years," writes Thomas Martin, of Novar, Ontario, "I was so badly troubled with rheumatism I could hardly walk and suffered great pain. I had medical treatment but did not get much relief. After taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for some time the trouble disappeared and has not since shown the least sign of returning."

The Devil

Burnett had been dispirited and irritable for some days, and that he realized it. He muttered—

Head of me, heart of me, tired as a stone;

Tongue tied now, now blaspheming like a Turk.

That was about it, though, of course, there was nothing the matter. He sat over the waning fire, and thought morosely of his failures, particularly of the failure of his novel. It wasn't merely that he had had a "bad press" but he saw that he deserved a good deal of it. He could do better, but it would be an enormous labor; he felt that he had taken up a hard life. Everything seemed hard at present with the curious exception of that job that Phillimore had offered him. But to be "Contributor to Phillimore's" was to work himself, and gave one a start of sorts. He could do it. Oh, it would be fatally easy! And a stepping-stone to other things—yes, other things of the same sort. No, he hadn't sunk to that. And, really, there was a slight exhilaration in turning it down. He might as well write a letter of that at once. Yes, he could have it off his mind. He muttered—"Devilish weak."

There was a tap at the door and his landlady, Mrs. Bloom, entered. She said: "I'm sorry to disturb you, but a gentleman has called and would like to see you." She offered a card and he looked at it. It was an ordinary visiting card, and there was no address to mar the simplicity of the announcement: The Devil. Now who was playing this trick? His mind ranged over his few immediate acquaintances. Looking at Mrs. Bloom's troubled face—it was not wont to be troubled—she said: "Did you see the name on the card, Mrs. Bloom?" She was apologetic. She said: "I'd sorry sir, but I haven't my spectacles with me and I came straight up." "It's rather an unusual name," Burnett said, and she nodded and said she thought he looked an unusual gentleman. Burnett asked her to describe him, and she hesitated and then said that he looked like a stranger. "And yet—" she said. Yes, she was troubled. When he told her to bring him up she said as she turned away: "Well, I shall be downstairs." Her manner was protective.

He entered quickly and bowed. Yes, Burnett saw at once that he was a stranger and stood up instantly with a vague intention of defending himself. And yet he was thinking: Where have I seen this fellow before? The man was dark, rather pale, carlessly well-dressed, of no particular age, swift and precise in his movements. Burnett tried to keep on the normal plane. He said: "You appear to be engaged in some kind of joke." (The reply was: "I was afraid that you might think so.")

It might be considered a cultivated voice; a little lacking in resonance. It went on: "May I sit down?" and Burnett said: "Certainly, if your tail won't be in the way." He smiled politely, madly, and sat down. Burnett sat on the other side of a little table between them in characteristic attitudes. But perhaps flame is more in your line than smoke," he said.

"It is curious," said the visitor, that facetiousness should persist as a defence against the serious things of life."

Suddenly, brusquely, Burnett said: "What do you want?"

The Devil leaned over the table: "I thought we might do a little business together," he said.

"Of what kind?"

"Shallow say—the usual kind?"

"You propose to make an offer for my soul?"

The Devil made a graceful, deprecating gesture. "Pray understand," he said, "that we are long past the old, crude ideas of this subject. I have not the least intention of asking you to sign your name in blood or any nonsense of that kind. In the old days I'm afraid we were very melodramatic, Hell-fire, eternal torment, and so on. Not very effective as a bargaining asset, you would say. Now, my dear sir, it is a curious fact that these old people—Dr. Faustus and his like—practically insisted on that kind of thing. Of course, one never really believed in it, but we were all rather portentous and thought it would impress slightly was a kind of mega-lomania."

"What do you want of me?" said Burnett.

"Simply to join us, to be one of us. It's no more than joining a club. Really, I find it difficult to distinguish my motives from altruism. I do think I'm a party of common sense. You'll find that all the most amusing people lets an notoriously immoral."

"Shallow say—the usual kind?"

"Yes, propose to make an offer for my soul?"

PLANNING TO SPRAY

Preparations to spray are often delayed untill the insect or disease it is hoped to controll is seen. This is much to late and the failure to successfully control these enemies to successful fruit culture is in many cases due to procrastination.

Preparations to spray should be made during the winter months before the rush of spring work and and before the insects and diseases become active.

The latest information on the best methods of control of the pests it is desired to destroy should be obtained during the winter. The spray materials should be purchased and the spray pump put in order or a new one obtained. One should be prepared to make as many applications as will ensure clean and uninjured fruit and foliage. At the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, it has been found that in some seasons six applications or more of spray material is required to entirely control the apple scb, but it is well worth the extra labor and small cost to obtain clean fruit. The first application must be made very soon after growth begins if not when the tree is still dormant, hence plan to be prepared to begin in time.

GHOSTS TOO EXPENSIVE

There was no purchaser for them, the historic castle of Hurstmonceaux, Sussex, which they have haunted for centuries, being withdrawn at $35,000.

An air of reverence, not often linked with the sale room, characterized the auction. The auctioneer, reciting the ancient glories of Hurstmonceaux, might have been a monk reading from some old missal. Words like "postern," "mullion," "manorial," fell so softly from his lips that people sitting two or three rows of chairs away could not hear them at at all.

After much Preliminary coaxing, the bidding started at £20,000. It crept slowly up by five thousands and one thousands, and then came an abrupt standstill.

Sir Hurstmonceux's two Ghosts—the famous drummer who beats a tattoo on the ramparts and a little grey lady who walks the noble staircase hall—remain for the present undisturbed.

The castle is in the market in consequence of the death of Colonel Claude Lowther, who spent more than 100,000 pounds in restoring it. It is regarded as one of the finest examples of domestic architecture of the fifteenth century, and stands in a Sussex village eight miles from Eastbourne.

Sir Roger de Fiennes, who fought at Agincourt, built the castle in 1440. In 1777 it was demolished internally and so remained internally and so remained untill purchased by Collonel Claude Lowther in 1910.

FASCINATING LINKS IN CANADA'S HISTORY

In the Northcliffe collection at the Ottawa Archives, one of the collections which immediately attract the eye and the mind of the visitor is the section of books which belonged to General Wolf. These books were presented the Dominion Archives by Sir Leicester Harmsworth, as part of the Northcliffe collection.

They are volumes which belonged to the library of General Wolfe when when he was at Blackheath. Twenty four volumes in the collection were amongst the books bequeathed to Col. Guy Carlton by Wolfe's will, executed on board the Neptune June 8th, 1759. They were taken to Quebec by Col. Carlton when he became Govenor of Canada and some years later they were presented by him to Surgeon Major Connolly and through him found their way to Ireland.

Two of the volumes have the French arms on the side and in the first volume there is a note in the handwriting of Guy Carlton, as follows: "I believe that these volumes were brought home to England by General Wolfe from Louisburg in 1758, the gift of a distinguished French officer." G.C.

Twenty two of the volumes have the autograph of Wolfe with the crest of the Wolfe family on the sides. Many of them contain notes and criticisms in the handwriting of the famous general. The bindings are all in a good state of preservation.

It is interesting to note that amongst the collection are books relating to warfare and the histories of nations. One book, which is exceptionally large, is a history of the Civil War of France by Ellis Farneworth. One volume is the Naval History of England in all its branches from the Norman conquest 1066-1734, by Thomas Lediard, seems to have been thoroughly studied.

Among the interesting collection are Sully (Duc de) Memoires. 1745; Feuguiere (Lieut. Gen. Le Marquis de) Memoirs, 1756; Soinville, (M.Le Capt. d'infantrie), 1756 and Dictionnaire, (Le Petit), 1746.

VERDICT ON RUSSIA BY VETERAN OBSERVER

Nothing is much more difficult to get than a clear idea of what is going on in Russia. One might as well try to form a correct impression of a country in the midst of a general election. No voice is heard but the voice of the partisan or the paid advocate. There are those who have represented Russia as a kind of Paradise; there are others who describe it as a hell on earth. In the past, for lack of anything better, we have presented the views of both sides. We believe, however, that the opinions of Mr. Oswald Garrison Villard will be accepted as those of a man with long training as a writer and observer, who wants to be fair and who certainly is no champion of the capitalist order of things. He has recently returned from Russia after a visit of several weeks, obviously far too short a time to collect much but impressions, and has been contributing to The Nation, of which he is editor, a series of articles Mr. Villard was highly sympathetic toward the Soviet experiment when he went, and he seems to be highly hopeful on his return, though doubts creep in and he is in no better position than most others to peer into the future and say how things will turn out.

A World of Paradoxes

Russia seems to have impressed him not so much as a foreign country but as a new world. It is a world of contradictions and paradoxes. Honest observers who go to Russia with any sort of case to prove have no difficulty in getting all the facts they require. Even in the party to which Mr. Villard was attached, all of whom members saw the same things, there were widely different interpretations put on business ranging when they arrived in Paris or Berlin or London at the greater freedom which they have for enjoyment. They feel as first day boys let out of school for the holidays. But later on they begin to long to return to Russia—to the place where money getting and the pursuit of pleasure are not the main objects, but where there is in existence at least a plan, an idealistic program, which hopes to benefit others.

Russia Ruled by Tyrants

That may be so. But they are not returning to any free country. The liberty of speech, for instance, that exists in Russia is precisely the same as the liberty of speech that exists in Italy Everybody has the utmost liberty to say anything which will not annoy the dictators. We are reminded of Anatole France's tribute to the law, which, magnificent impartiality, forbids the rich and the poor alike to sleep under bridges and beg in the streets. Mr. Villard was told that if he were in Russia and wished to issue such a journal as the Nation, in which the communist scheme would be denounced, he would be permitted to issue just one number. The bolshevik leaders love to justify themselves on the ground that they would not allow a handful of dissenters, who are not five per cent. of the population, to disturb the progress of the many. When a young American asked him if capitalist America would be justified in suppressing the communist press on this continent, which does not represent anything like five per cent. of the population, he was told that if any further embarrassing questions were asked it would be necessary to terminate the conference.

Children in Darkness

Another leader was asked by Mr. Villard when he supposed the Russian people would become educated enough to permit the releasing of the iron discipline that now controls and directs them. He replied: "Never." Education is not free in Russia. The children's studies and reading are as rigidly prescribed as though they were candidates for orders in the Roman Catholic church. They are not permitted to read anything that might seem to suggest that capitalism had something good in it. The minds of the children are arbitrarily closed to all things in life except those approved by the soviets. In some senses the children are getting the most modern information, but in the end. Undoubtedly there is a great deal here at work. It is something akin to the waves of religious asceticism which in past centuries swept through many countries and periods afflicted history. It is accompanied by something reminiscent of the Spanish inquisition, for the methods of the bolsheviki in dealing with their political opponents is even harsher than the Charist method. Perhaps it would be more correct to call both the Russian method. No other seem to be understood. So the forwarding of this noble ideal goes on to the accompaniment of savagery and bloodshed that no other country has seen in our generation.

"Dear, Lord," prayed the co-ed, "I don't ask anything for myself—just give mother a son-in-law."

"Why are you and your little sister always quarrelling?"

"I don't know, dad; unless she takes after mother and I take after you."

Burton: "Do you play cards for money?"

Jim: "No, but I play against fellows who do."

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

"I have come to ask the hand of your daughter."

"Of which one? I have two daughters."

"Of the one that is left. I have just run over one with my car."

Nearly all children are subject to worms, and many are born with them. Spare them suffering by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, an excellent remedy.

Does your wife choose your clothes? No, she only picks the pockets.

Why suffer from corns when they can be painlessly rooted out by using Holloway's Corn Remover.

"But, boy, you can't live on the slender income your mother makes from selling the milk. Does not your father do anything?"

"Yes, he pours in the water."

For Both House and Stable.—There is a good deal of similarity, physically speaking, between human beings and the lower animals. Both are subject to many ailments arising from inflamations anld to all manner of cuts and bruises. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is an entirely reliable remedy for such ailments and mishaps in both human beings and the lower orders of animals.

"A woman came into the hospital the other day and she was so crosseyed that the tears ran down her back."

"You couldn't do anything for her, could you?"

"Yes, indeed; we treated her for bacteria."

Many infants are infested by worms which cause great suffering, and if not promptly dealt with may cause constitutional weakness difficult to remedy. Miller's Worm Powders will clear the stomach and bowels of worms and will so act upon the system that there will be no recurrence of the trouble. And not only this, but they will repair the injuries to the organs that worms cause and restore them to soundness.

Two Scots were discussing the domestic troubles of a friend. "That woman leads Sandy an awfu' life," said one.

"Humph! What else could ye expect?" asked the other. "He only courted her for seven years, an' I hold that nae man can understand a woman in that time. Now I courted Maggie Deans for twenty-two years—"

"And did happiness follow this lengthy courtship?" asked an Englishman seated opposite.

"I found out at the end o' that time that I didna much care for the woman, an' cried aff!"

Choked for Air. Some little irritant becomes lodged in the bronchial tubes, others gather, and the awful choking of asthma results. Nothing offers quit such quick and positive relief as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. The healing, soothing smoke or vapor penetrates, clears the passages and gives untold relief. It has behind it years of success. It is the sure remedy for every sufferer.

The picture on the screen showed an old woman, cast off by her cruel children, trudging wearily along the road to the workhouse. The pathos of it brought tears to the eyes of a woman who sat with her little boy in one of the back seats.

The boy heard his mother sob.

"Don't worry, mother," he said comfortingly. "When I grow up to be a man I won't let you go to the workhouse like that."

"Won't you dear?" said his mother sniffling. "What will you do?"

"I'll make sure you have a taxi."

Persian Balm is irresistably appealing to all women who appreciate charm and elegance. Its use keeps the complexion always clear and beautiful. Tones in effect. Stimulates the skin and makes it wonderfully soft-textured. Softens and whitens the hands. Persian Balm is equally invaluable to men as an excellent hair fixative and cooling shaving lotion. Splendid also to protec, the tender skin of the child.

Grimes: "I've proposed to her twice and she has refused me. But I've a good mind to have another shot."

Benson: "I don't think I'd risk it, old man. Your luck might change."

Do as Mr. Gard

Mr. Ansón A. Gard, the well known Littérateur of Ottawa, called the Wandering Yankee, says in an unsolicited testimonial for ZUTOO Tablets :

"Zutoo Tablets stop my headaches so completely that I do not mind having them any more."

No need for any one to suffer from headache if they do as Mr. Gard does

The Young Man: "I've come to see you about your daughter."

Girl's Father: "Too late — she eloped last night with a young fool who has no money."

"You're right about the money—but I'm no fool."

Doctor (inquiring after boy who had swallowed a shilling): "How is Tommy today?"

Mother: "No change yet."

What Are You Doing For That Stiff Swollen Joint ?

Did you ever stop to think that many times the inexpensive remedies are best?

Many a man has lost a week's wages with a slow-acting remedy when one or two good rubbings with swiftly penetrating JOINT-EASE would have kept him on his job.

Now just bear in mind, that a generous tube of JOINT-EASE made right here in Canada costs but 60 cents and when JOINT-EASE gets in joint agony and other aches and pains get out!

Give your ailing, pain-tortured joint a good rubbing with JOINT-EASE, and to-morrow morning if you don't say that the 60 cents you paid isn't the greatest investment you ever made, get your money back, from any druggist in Canada.

WILL MR. EULER LEAVE THE GOVERNMENT

The public reaction to the cabinet shuffle which brought Mr. Dunning in as Minister of Railways remains to be demonstrated at the polls but the reaction within the cabinet itself has been sudden and certain.

There are two major cleavages in the King ministry, and a third which may prove more troublesome than those two.

Mr. Euler threw the major cabinet split into the open at Brantford, January 24th, when he endeavored to publicly spike the guns of Mr. Dunning, whose declaration of faith is "immediate and substantial reduction in the tariff" and free trade in foodstuffs, clothing and implements of production; of Mr. Greenar who says the tariff is "a positive injury" to the farmer; and of Mr. Stewart who toills "the death knell of protection."

His attack on the policy of his colleagues evidently has the tacit approval of Messrs. Malcolm and Elliott, though they have not yet emulated his frankness in bringing the cabinet upheaval out in front of the public.

Mr. Euler is quite right. Foreign goods that can be made in Canada are never cheap. They cause unemployment and nothing is dearer if one has not the money to buy. Upwards of 60,000 unemployed and their dependents in Canada will only bear testimony to that reality. Unfortunately, perhaps, Mr. Euler is but one in twenty members of Mr. King's Privy Council and the vote-baiting politicians will win. Industry will be made a political football again.

The second cleavage finds Mr. Euler leading the opposition to Premier King in the latter's decision to force the issue of suspending clearance to vessels clearing with liquor for United States ports and here Mr. Euler probably has the approval of a majority of Liberal members.

More sinister than those two disagreements on policy is the outbreak from Quebec over the terms of agreement upon which Alberta will receive her natural resources. "King is sacrificing the French-Canadian!" is the cry, and his Quebec ministers are highly apprehensive of the political result. If the Government interferes in the school autonomy of the provinces it loses the West. If it doesn't, it may lose a large portion of Quebec.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Quickly Relieved Ontario Man

Mr. W. J. Spencer Suffered With His "Kidneys—Dodd's Kidney Pills Did the Rest

Earlton, Ont., February 11 (Special)—"I had Kidney trouble so bad, I could hardly stand up," states Mr. W. J. Spencer, a well known resident of this place. "I also had Rheumatism. I got some Dodd's Kidney Pills and after I had taken ten boxes, the Rheumatism had left me and my kidneys were all right. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a fine medicine."

Dodd's Kidney Pills not only relieve the pain or ache that is causing the most distress, they put the kidneys in good working order and all the impurities and poisons are strained out of the blood. The result is that new strength is carried to every part of the body. Thats why so many sufferers, relieved by Dodd's Kidney Pills sum up their condition, "I feel like a new man." New energy is new life. You can't have it with sick Kidneys. (O-7)

"France won't give women any political rights; she gives them very few legal rights, and yet French women do a big share of the country's work."

Count Amaury de Villeneuve Vence of Tours, whose mother was a Philadelphian, was discussing the woman question at a dinner in New York.

"In the country, for instance, the position of the women reminds me of a story.

"I was hunting in the Tennessee mountains last year, and an elderly Tennesseean gave me lunch one day in his cabin. While I was eating, he talked on and on about the hard times in Tennesee, but finally, I said to him:

"But, friend look here; couldn't you make money shipping green corn to the northern markets.

"'I mout,' he agreed in a sullen way. 'You have the land, I suppose, and you could get the seed?'

"'Yep, yep.'

"'Well, then, why don't you start it on the proposition?'

"'No use, stranger. The old woman's too lazy to do the plowin' and plantin'."

TYENDINAGA EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Tyendinaga East W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. Haggerty on Thursday evening, January 16th. There were twelve members present, with the President presiding. Several visitors were present and two new members were added to the list. The meeting was opened in the usual way. The roll call was answered by "my one superstition." The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The secretary read several business letters, pertaining to the work of the Women's Institute. A discussion was held as to whether we have a department speaker to address the Women's Institute some time in the near future. A motion was put to that effect and was carried. "Current Events," were read by Mrs. G. Waddingham, a very interesting review of world events of the day. Mrs. W. Waddingham gave a splendid reading on "What Counts." After the business part of the meeting was closed a social time was spent. The programme consisting of contests followed. The Mystery Ball contest was very amusing; also a spelling contest was held and was interesting as well as profitable. Lunch was served and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close. The February regular meeting is omitted and a Valentine party will be held on the 27th at the home of Mrs. W. Waddingham.

BURGLARS AT NEWBURGH

Sometime Wednesday night, three daring robberies took place at the village of Newburgh, a considerable quantity of goods being stolen.

The back door was forced open at Mr. Charles Walker's garage and two boxes of flashlights, a quantity of tools, $3.00 in silver and about $2.00 in coppers were taken.

The second place entered was that of Mr. Ross Dupuis who keeps a general store. The back door was forced in with a heavy sledge and the hinges were carried off the safe. The money in the safe was about $5.00 in silver. From this store the robbers secured three or four cartons of cigarettes, a quantity of cigars, several wrist watches, a considerable number of jack-knives and other accessories.

The third store entered was the hardware store of Ms. G. H. Bray. The entrance was made through the front door by means of a jimmy. In Mr. Bray's store the burglars took two men's wrist watches, 27 knives and forks, one half dozen silver spoons, an alarm clock and a considerable number of tools.

A large congregation of friends and relatives were present at the funeral of the late Mrs. D. S. Robinson, who passed away at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Humboldt, Saskatchewan, on Monday morning, January 20th, following an illness of only five days. The service was held at Westminster United Church, conducted by Rev. H. D. Ranns. The casket was banked with flowers and wreaths, received from the following: Mrs. J. Connor, Mrs. J. Brennen, Mr. and Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. Van Valkenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Stebbings, Mr. and Mrs. Weeks and family, the girls and boys of grade six, Mrs. Bowen, four, Mrs. Byford, Mrs. Wallwork, Mrs. Percy Spurgeon, Mrs. W. R. Newton and family, Dominion National Social and Athletic Association, Humboldt, Dr. J. M. and Mrs. Ogilvie, Mr. Wilson.

Following the service the remains were laid to rest in the town cemetery.

The late Mrs. Robinson was the daughter of Mrs. Van Valkenburgh, and came to Humboldt with the family in 1904. She was married to Mr. Robinson in 1918, and the union was blessed with five children. Besides her husband and family, she is survived by her mother, at Belleville, Ont., her grandmother, Mrs. Baggley, who lives with an aunt, Mrs. Garfield, in Winnipeg; one sister, Mrs. Charles Anderson, Grand View, Man.; and one brother, Wilburt, of Winnipeg. Mr. D. S. Robinson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Robinson, of Napanee.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

There's no use talking, it simply can't be done.

No sextet in the parts can beat them, that's all there is to it.

And I can't imagine how a 42-28 tally game can be even interesting. However the girls must keep in practice until some of the other leagues play off and so the near-by squads must suffer defeat.

* * *

One of the local business men was telling me that he would like to see these fair champions play one of the boy's teams in town.

* * *

He didn't know that the boys' and girls' games are almost entirely different. While the latter was refused from the former, its rules prohibit the speed and team play which are the strong points of the boys rules.

* * *

Many fans have said that they would rather watch girls play than men. This is due to two things, the locals have always had championship or near championship teams and secondly, quite a number of fans would rather watch girl athletes than men.

* * *

The Intermediates would have reversed the score on R.M.C. last Wednesday if they hadn't been way off on their shooting.

* * *

Its the first game the cadets have won and so the locals' hopes look slim.

* * *

The cabinet-makers came through in fine style to win the Gibbard Bunch-whackers' League on Saturday night.

* * *

They downed the finishers, who were decided weakened by the absence of two of the regular stars not yet recovered from injuries sustained in former battles.

* * *

Now the Basketball team are going to take on the best puck-chasers in the factory for an oyster supper. It's to be decided in the best two games out of three, games to count.

* * *

It was great to see the old boys in action again. It should be a real game when they meet the so-called invincible Picton Imperials.

* * *

The crowd was mighty well pleased with Eddie Watts' Juveniles. Leave our police force alone and it will produce a winning team yet.

NAPANEE SENIORS DEFEAT ADOLPHUSTOWN 11-2

Well, the "Old Boys" stepped away to a flying start on Thursday night last week, when Adolphustown visited the local arena and the locals trimmed them to the tune of 11-2.

The arena was well filled with spectators and gave the locals some good support.

The puck was faced off at 8.30 with "Mag" Loucks on the bell, and the first period was one of the fastest ever witnessed in Intermediate hockey on the local arena. Both teams were playing strong when "Twin" Johnson broke away and scored the only goal of the period. Prout of Adolphustown scored after the bell rang for an off-side and the referee received a bit of roasting.

The second period was practically all one-sided, and the locals, with their unlimited supply of subs, chalked up no less than six and the visitors worked in one goal on "Stub" VanLuven.

The last stanza was fast and furious, both teams playing hard and the boys held the visitors down and in the meantime chalked up four more. Towards the last of the period the goalies were handed at stickhandling the puck up the ice, and "Stub" nearly succeeded. The visitors' goalie tried the same thing and travelled to the blue line where he received a bad jolting.

The score by periods was as follows: 1st—Johnson, Napanee. 2nd—Richardson 2, Bentley 2, Beltor 1, for Napanee; Prout 1, for Adolphustown. 3rd—Bentley 1, Watts 1, Richardson 1, Johnson 1, for Napanee. Church 1, for Adolphustown.

This game is one of a series of which the locals are going to play. They are all to be exhibition games and are going to provide lots of excitement and good hockey.

The Imperial Oils, of Picton, are the next on the list to play here on Tuesday and promises to be a fast one.

The locals are out to win every one if possible and are asking for the support of the hockey fans, so turn out and give them all that you have.

The Juveniles, the Falcons and the Maple Leafs, two of Manager Watts' teams, had a battle just before the Seniors, and by the way some of the young lads played it looks as though they might be the material for a first team in years to come.

The boys played a good brand of hockey and showed that witnessed it said it was well worth watching.

The line-up for the game were, for the Leafs, "Mis" Murphy, and for the Falcons, "Chuck" Hearns; both boys were real good, both at stickhandling and shooting.

The Juveniles will be on hand next Thursday night to play before the Seniors and as these lads are all "comers" it will be well worth going to see.

WINS PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST

During recent years, S. S. No. 12, Richmond, has taken a very active interest in the Rural School Fair, each time standing among the highest in number of points awarded.

For the past two years Jean E. Smith has succeeded in winning first place in the Public Speaking Contest, consequently she was eligible to compete in the County Contest last November, where she won first prize and the silver cup donated by the County Society.

Believing this Jean entered the contest in Belleville, held February 11th, in the manner from several counties competed. Here, too, she was successful in carrying off the honors of the day.

Besides these, the Eaton trophy, awarded for the greatest number of points won at the School Fair, has for two years in succession fallen to the same energetic pupil; for Jean's ambition is not alone due to the smiling of Fortune, but, to her own ability to work.

Jean is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith.

ENTERPRISE

On Wednesday evening the members of the Y.P.U., of Enterprise United Church met in the League room of the church to conduct their regular meeting and spend a social hour with Miss Della Bell, before she left for her new home in the West.

At the end of the regular meeting Miss Bell was presented with two cozy wool blankets and a rayon spread to match.

A rather novel idea was carried out by her girl friends for the presentation.

A large artificial wedding cake, daintily decorated with white crepe paper and surmounted by a tiny wax-like bride, had been placed on a table in the centre of the room.

The two lower layers concealed the wool blankets and the top layer the rayon spread.

During the reading of the following address by our worthy President, Miss Mona Kellar, Miss Bell and Mrs. W. Mellow presented the gifts.

Dear Della,—We your friends and companions who have known you ever since childhood, have learned with deep regret that you are about to depart from our midst. It is our cherished hope, however, that the bond of friendship is such that neither time nor distance can mar its beauty.

"Friendship is a chain of gold, Shaped in God's all perfect' mold; Each link a smile, a laugh, a tear, A grip of the hand, a word of cheer As steadfast as the ages roll, Binding closer soul to soul; No matter how far or heavy is the load Sweet is the journey on Friendship's Road.

We shall miss you very much, and find it difficult to fill the place you have so cheerfully and faithfully taken in the activities of the choir, the Sunday School and Young Peoples' Society. Many demands have been made upon you, but you have always unsparingly both of your time and talents.

We also appreciate Christian life you have lived amongst us.

Although we cannot go with you we trust that the dearest Friend of all will be with you always, and grant you many years of happiness and prosperity in your new home.

We hope you will enjoy these small tokens of our affection and gratitude, which we ask you to receive, hoping that they may serve to recall pleasant memories of your friends in Enterprise and the happy days spent together. Signed in behalf of the choir, your Sunday School class and the League.

ARCHDEACON WOODCOCK PASSES AT BROCKVILLE

Another severe loss has been sustained by the Anglican Church in the death Wednesday night of Venerable Archdeacon Francis Dealtry Woodcock, rector of Holy Trinity Church, Brockville, Ont., following a brief illness from cardiac trouble, at the age of 73 years.

Born in Lancashire, England, Archdeacon Woodcock came to Canada with his parents at the age of nine, was educated in the public schools and by private tuition, and embarked upon a commercial career Before he decided to enter the church. He studied theology, and divinity at Trinity College, Toronto, graduating in 1888. He was ordained deacon the same year and a priest in 1889 in the diocese of Ontario. His first service was as a curate in Prescott, whence he went to Camden East in Addington County, where he remained for 15 years. He subsequently became incumbent at Bath, Ont., and was appointed rector of Holy Trinity, Brockville, 28 years ago. He was, in turn, rural dean of Leeds, chaplain to the Bishop of Ontario, a canon of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, and, after the accession of Bishop Seagar, was appointed Archdeacon of Kingston. He was well known in Toronto, and frequently occupied the pulpit and took part in the service at Christ Church, Deer Park, of which his son is rector.

He took keen interest in the Orange Association, was for years chaplain of the Brockville lodge and deputy grand chaplain of Ontario East and of the grand lodge of British North America. He was also closely identified with community and social welfare undertakings. Always an energetic worker, never sparing himself, he continued to discharge his onerous duties until less than two weeks ago, being absent from his church for the last two Sundays.

He is survived by his wife; four sons: Edward, of Minneapolis, Minn.; Maurice F. D., of Kingston; Rev. Canon Herbert Woodcock, rector of Christ Church, Toronto, and George D. Woodcock, Toronto, and two daughters: Mrs. W. E. Kidd, of Lancaster, Ont., and Mrs J. H. Hayward, of Ottawa. His sister, Mrs. Gerald Gwynne, of Dundas, Ont., predeceased him a few months ago at the age of 80 years.

$375,000,000 PROGRAM FOR GOOD ROADS

Resultant on the recent passing of a bill by the United States Senate, the U. S. Government will expend an additional $300,000,000 in the next three years for the building and improvement of roads in co-operation with the various states of the union. Of this $50,000,60 will be available before July 1st in addition to the $75,000,000 previously made available this fiscal year. $250,000,000 will be expended during the years 1931 and 1932, thus bringing the year expenditure for good roads by the Federal Government to $375,000,000.

This great increase for road building was made partly as a result of appeals from state highway commissioners and others for Federal aid so that road building might be increased proportionate to the increase in traffic, and partly to aid in maintaining the country's prosperity. This latter was specifically mentioned by the Senate committee in reporting the bill, which stated:

"This bill also recognizes the need for a wisely arranged program of public works, as well as the fact that nothing contributes to national prosperity as much as the construction of adequate facilities."

OUR WEEKLY RECIPE

Often a hostess is at a loss as to what to serve her guests. She wants something different in the food itself, or in the way it is served. For a luncheon menu there is always a choice between casserole dishes, timbales and other possibilities for the hot dish. Chicken timbales are easily prepared and are always tasty for a luncheon.

Chicken Timbales—Melt three tablespoons of butter; add one-half cupful of milk; cook for five minutes, stirring constantly. Add one-half a spoonful of salt, a little pepper and paprika, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one and one-half cupfuls cooked chicken cut in dice, and three eggs slightly beaten. Mix well and turn into individual buttered timbale molds, filling them two thirds full. Set moulds in pan of hot water, cover with greased paper, and bake at 325 degrees F. for thirty minutes. This recipe will serve six.

ANTIQUE CHAIR

There are many interesting bits of furniture and clothing, manuscripts and letters in the Dominion Archives at Ottawa which remind Canadians of the early life of this great country. Wolfe, Montcalm and Sir Isaac Brock and their history are brought immediately to the mind of the sightseer by the mementoes which have been given to Canada.

In 1908 the Prince of Wales, now King George V., brought with him on a visit to Quebec a chair which belonged to General Wolfe and presented it to Lord Grey, to be given the Archives.

The facts of the history which is attached to the chair are very meagre. Whether it came from Wolfe's home or was a deck chair on his ship is not known. It is an unusual bit of furniture. Shaped in the same fashion as a deck chair, yet not collapsible, it is made of tooled leather and wood and is very substantial. The top of the chair and the arms are inlaid and it looks as if it would be very comfortable for use. The chair is placed in a conspicuous place in the Archives and is on a table with the bust of Wolfe.

INCREASED YIELDS FROM SPRAYING AND DUSTING POTATOES

"You are an up-to-date potato man, Jim. Are you satisfied that it always pays to spray or dust your potatoes?"

"Yes, as far I have figured that it does, Tom, but I went down to the Agricultural College last week to see what they think about it there, and I had quite a talk with Mr. Sands of the Department of Botany. He told me about a special experiment he has been running on the Experiment Farm at Ridgetown in Kent County, which seems to indicate that even in years when there is little or no disease, the application of spray or dust to the growing plants gives a profitable increase in yield of potatoes. Here are the figures and facts he gave me:"

On June 15th, 1929, three plots of Dooley Potatoes were planted, and on July 15th, when the plants were about seven inches high, the first treatment was given. Plot No. 1 received five applications of Copper Lime dust at intervals of about ten days. Plot No. 2 received four applications of Liquid Borax (4 pounds bluestone, 8 pounds hydrated lime and 40 gallons water), at similar intervals. Plot No. 3 was not treated with any fungicide, but was sprayed with Calcium Arsenate to control potato beetles. The same insecticide was also used with the first three plots were, of course, owing to the fact that the potato tops were protected by the fungicide from the late blight and not much destroyed the foliage on the third plot and thus prevented it from making full growth and from producing a full crop.

On June the 8th, 1929, three plots of Green Mountain Potatoes were planted, and were treated in about the same way as in the previous year. In this season, however, the weather during July and August was very dry, and no late blight and rot or other fungus disease developed in any of the Plots.

However, when the plots were examined early in September the plants in Plot No. 3 were found to be so badly affected by Tip Burn that the tops were brown, and practically dead, whereas the foliage on Plots Nos. 1 and 2 was still fresh and green.

The potato yields were as follows: Plot No. 1., sprayed with Liquid Bordeaux, gave 235 bushels per acre; Plot No. 2, dusted with Copper Lime Dust, gave 193 bushels per acre, and Plot No. 3, which received no fungicide, gave 156 bushels per acre. This year the spraying and dusting both apparently had a marked effect in controlling Tip Burn. Thus the tops were kept green for a long time, and the yields were increased.

In both years a profitable increase in yield was obtained by spraying and dusting with some difference in favor of spraying. However, it is quite possible that this difference might have been reduced or eliminated if a power duster had been used in applying the Copper Lime Dust.

Better information will be available when we have had a chance to try the power machine in applying the Copper Lime Dust.

Relieve BACKACHE with DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

The present agitation by the Roman Catholic bishops for a division of the school taxes paid by incorporated companies between the Public and Separate Schools on the basis of population or school attendance is an attempted encroachment upon our non-denominational Public School system that far transcends in its effects anything that the Roman Catholic bishops have proposed since 1863, when a final settlement of the Separate School question was formally agreed to between Dr. Ryerson, representing the Government of Ontario, and Bishop Macdonnell and Bishop Caraeau, representing the Roman Catholic Hierarchies of Ontario and Quebec, respectively.

The fundamental principle of the Separate School Act is that Roman Catholics in Ontario shall enjoy the "special privilege" (given to no other denomination) of having their school taxes applied for the maintenance of their sectarian schools, in which the Roman Catholic religion is taught as the most important subject on the curriculum. As Archbishop McNeil has said in a public address, the only difference between the Public and Separate Schools is that religion (Roman Catholicism) is taught in the Separate School system and not in the Public system.

It is a vicious principle that public money be used for the teaching of any particular form of denominational faith. However, that special privilege has been granted to Roman Catholics, and so far as the provinces of Ontario and Quebec are concerned, it is embedded in our constitution. Nobody has organized an agitation to violate the constitution in that respect. The people of Ontario have accepted the Act of 1863 as a final settlement of the question. On the other hand, the Roman Catholic leaders have repudiated the agreement made in 1863 by two bishops accredited by the heads of the Church in the two provinces.

The bishops secured from the Government of Sir Oliver Mowat a series of amendments to the Separate School Act and the Assessment Act, giving them additional special privileges, not containd in the Act of 1863. Some of those amendments are of so serious a character that they should be repealed. That is a subject for future consideration and what we have to deal with at the moment is the present agitation by the Roman Catholic bishops to secure for their religious schools a division of the taxes paid by Protestants for public education.

So far as legislation can effect the purpose, the law as it stands provides a way by which every dollar of school taxes that can be shown to be paid by Roman Catholics is available for the maintenance of Separate Schools. However, it is in the form of real estate, personal property, or business tax. So far as real estate is concerned, the law in singularly generous to the Separate schools in that regard.

If all the house property in Ontario were owned by Protestants, the Separate schools would get the taxes on every residence occupied by a Roman Catholic, and the Protestant owners would be compelled to pay at a higher rate for schools.

In the province of Quebec the reverse is the law. Houses owned by Roman Catholics and occupied by Protestants are assessed to the Roman Catholic schools.

It will be seen, therefore, that the minority in Ontario is treated much more generously than the minority in Quebec.

In dealing with taxation for school purposes, the Legislature in Ontario has done all that could be done—while preserving the fundamental principles every dollar of school taxes that can be shown to have been paid by Roman Catholics—if they desire to support Separate schools.

The Separate School Act does not compel Roman Catholics to support Separate schools. They have the option of paying their taxes to the Public schools. The reason for that is that the Public schools are non-sectarian, and are designed as much for Roman Catholics as for the people of other faiths, as they are Public Schools, common to all classes of citizens, while the Separate schools are designed for and conducted so that only Roman Catholic children can use them.

The Government—having established a Public school system suitable for the education of every child in the province—granted a special privilege to the Roman Catholics to operate schools of their own—it follows that the administration has a peculiar responsibility to protect the Public system from any invasion under the guise of paying their taxes. That is exactly what is being tried by the Roman Catholic bishops in their present demands.

In 1886 an amendment was made to the Assessment Act providing for the taxes paid on shares in incorporated companies held by Roman Catholics being applied to Separate schools—if the owners of the shares so desire. They have the option of supporting either system. The method of procedure is that the holder of such shares shall have the book of directors notify the clerk of the municipality that such proportion of shares are held by Roman Catholics, and that they desire to be assessed for Separate schools. That notice stands from year to year, until the board of directors sends a different notice. It is difficult to conceive of any better plan for carrying out the intention of the Act.

But the bishops argue that there are many cases where shares in Public schools are on the market, some of them held by Roman Catholics, which cannot be shown to be so. They instance the Railway corporations, and other public utilities. No such board of directors can tell how many shares of such companies are held by Roman Catholics. Then there might be ten thousand shares held today and not one tomorrow. It is a constantly shifting quantity. So far as where it cannot be shown, the whole assessment properly goes to the Public school system, in the use of which Roman Catholics have the same right as Protestants or Jews.

If the demands of the bishops were granted, the Public school system would suffer an annual loss of revenue that would run into an enormous sum. That would mean a contribution of that amount by Protestants for the teaching of the Roman Catholic religion. It would be an intolerable injustice. But it would be more than that.

If the present revenues of the Public schools were depleted by two million dollars a year, the taxes of Public school supporters would be increased accordingly, and the efficiency of the Public system were maintained, if not, the salaries of the teachers would be reducted, the character of the school building would be on a lower standard, and the general equipment of the schools would be impaired. That is not a pleasant prospect for Public school supporters. Especially when the Public schools are open to Roman Catholics and Public school trustees are compelled by law to provide accommodation for every child applying for admission.—A SUBSCRIBER.

"UNITED" THEY STAND

Ten years ago last August the Liberal party in convention at Ottawa publicly proclaimed the policy of free trade and appointed the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mac-Kenzie King as their Moses to lead them out of Egypt and protection and into the promised land of free trade. Since then their remarkable "unanimity" of opinion has been strikingly shown by the utterances of the leader and some of his disciples. The following are five extracts from ministerial speeches:

Free trade is not the policy of the Liberal party, if it were, I would oppose it because I believe it would bring disasters to our industry and remove from the farmers the home market, which is practically the only market they have left.—Rt. Hon. W. L. Mac-Kenzie King, at Amherst, N.S. on August 5th, 1921.

Now I submit that protection is of no value to the agricultural industry. I go further, I assert that it is a positive injury to the industry.—Hon T. A. Crerar, in House of Commons session, 1925. Hansard p. 3821.

The Government of Canada is fully prepared, in the interests of Canada to re-adjust its fiscal policy from time to time to meet any changes that may take place in the tariff structure of the United States or of any country.—Hon. Jas. Malcolm, at Tara, Ontario, June 28th, 1929.

I am not a free trader nor do I think that free trade could be the practice in Canada today. Free trade is all right in theory, if countries did not erect impassable tariff walls about them.—Hon. W. D. Euler, at Brantford, Ont., Jan. 24th, 1930.

As is well known, I am a low tariff man. That means that I believe that the tariff of this country be set as low as possible.—Hon C. A. Dunning, at Regina, Sask., Feb. 6th, 1930.

These remarks are particulary interesting in view of the binding resolution passed at the Ottawa convention in 1919, which said in part:

Resolved, That a revision downwards of the tariff should be made whereby substantial reductions should be effected in the duties on wearing apparel and footwear, and on other articles of general consumption (other than luxuries) as well as on the raw material entering into the manufacture of the same . . . And the Liberal party hereby pledges itself to implement by legislation the provision of this resolution when returned to power.

Because they have drums in their ears some think they are musicians.

One unpleasant consequence of the swelled head is the cold shoulder.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

They were in the midst of a heated discussion. He declared that a man could kiss a girl whether she willed it or not, while she maintained that it couldn't be done.

Finally they decided that the only way to settle the argument was by experimenting.

The man won after a brief struggle, and kissed the girl ardently for several moments. Then he released her.

"Oh, well," said the girl, "you didn't win fairly! My foot slipped. Try it again."

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will drive worms from the system without injury to the child, because its action, while fully effective is mild.

Bill: "Was the tramcar crowded?"
Nill: "Crowded? Why, there were even men standing."

Corns are painful growths. Holloway's Corn Remover will remove them.

The old Scottish "commercial" was listening patiently to the shopkeeper's tale of woe.

"I wouldna worry," was his sympathetic advice to the aggrieved one.

"Worry!" ejaculated the shopkeeper. "Why, man, what would worry you more than knowing that people were telling lies about you?"

The knight of the road looked thoughtful for a moment, then with a sly smile replied.

"I wouldna worry about lies, but I wad be gey annoyed if they told the truth."

Excellent for Croupy Children.—When a child is suffering with croup it is a good plan to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It reduces the inflammation and loosens the phlegm giving speedy relief to the little sufferer. It is equally reliable for sore throat and chest, earache, rheumatic pains, cuts, bruises and sprains. "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is regarded by many thousands as an indispensable of the family medicine chest.

According to a weekly paper, the police always stop the traffic to let Mr. George Bernard Shaw cross the road. The idea of stopping Mr. Shaw to let the traffic pass is said to have been abandoned years ago.

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and a cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

The learned council glared at the witness.

"Are you positive, sir," he demanded, "that the prisoner is the man who stole your car?"

"Well," answered the witness, "I was until you cross-examined me. Now I'm not sure whether I ever had a car at all."

Nights of Agony come in the train of asthma. The victim cannot lie down, and sleep is driven from his brain. What grateful relief is the immediate effect of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. It banishes the frightful conditions, clears the passages, and enables the afflicted one to again sleep as soundly and restfully as a child. In fact on the genuine at your nearby druggist.

"The door of opportunity is not locked, nor even latched. Push is the only opener you need."

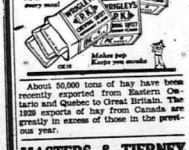
Persian Balm is a sheer delight to use. Cools and relieves irritations caused by weather conditions. Imparts a rare charm and beauty to the complexion. Fragrant and velvety smooth. Never leaves a vestige of stickiness. Swiftly absorbed by the tissues and stimulates the skin. Persian Balm is the peerless toilet requisite. Every woman will appreciate the subtly distinctive charm achieved by the use of this magical lotion.

Dr. Hess' Poultry Panacea will not only start hens laying and keep them laying, but will also prevent the many diseases among poultry. For healthy flocks, feed Panacea, 25c, 85c and $1.50 at Wallace's, Napanee agents.

WRIGLEY'S

Life—like good golf—is made up of many little things each one of which helps the score.

Better digestion—steadier nerves—clearer brain, are all factors that count and are gained from the use of Wrigley's.



About 50,000 tons of hay have been recently exported from Eastern Ontario and Quebec to Great Britain. The 1929 exports of hay from Canada are greatly in excess of those in the previous year.

BURGLARS ARRESTED IN TORONTO

Unable to forget her eight-year-old daughter, whom she is alleged to have previously abducted and later returned home, Florence Shane brought about her own arrest and that of James Walker, alias Lee, alias Wilson, with whom she has been living, by sending the child gifts said to be loot stolen from a number of stores, during the past five months.

Wilson and the Shane woman were returned to Napanee under escort of provincial officers Monday to answer charges of abduction laid by the Children's Aid Society. Police intimated that owing to the fact that the child had been returned home shortly after the elopement this charge might not be pressed. Seven charges of shopbreaking await Wilson, however. Mrs. Shane will be either charged with receiving or also with shopbreaking.

Police have been on the trail of the pair since the day last September when they left Napanee taking with them the eight-year-old daughter of Florence Shane and her husband, an armless veteran.

During the succeeding months, while officers trailed the couple from one address to another, these two are alleged to have paid periodical visits to the home district of Mrs. Shane. These visits all took place at night.

Mrs. Shane is said to have sent her daughter back home, and occasional parcels of gifts she sent to the child eventually aroused suspicions.

Securing one of these packages from the express company, the officer examined it and found it to contain a quantity of clothes recently stolen from a general store, it is said.

Feeling sure that at last they had located the hang-out of the wanted couple, Provincial Constable Barrett, of Napanee, and Inspector Gurnett of the provincial force, and Detectives Levitt and Hill were also assigned to the search.

A house on Ontario Street, Toronto, came under suspicion and a long watch from a parked automobile was finally rewarded by the sight of the woman coming out of the house. When the place was later visited after dark in hope of catching both at home, a large quantity of swag was recovered.

Wilson had not yet come home, so watch had to be kept up until nearly 3 o'clock in the morning before he returned. As he entered the house he was arrested by the waiting officers.

Amongst other things found on him was a receipt from a Church Street storage company for a trunk and other articles. In this trunk, officers state, they found a varied assortment of stolen goods.

Three revolvers, a .32 and two .38-calibre weapons, with a quantity of ammunition, were hidden at the bottom under piles of clothing. A sewing machine from a general store in Brighton, also articles stolen in the recent robberies in Newburgh were found. A number of articles were also recovered that were stolen in Napanee in the series of burglaries here last October.

OBITUARY

German Wagar

The subject of this sketch was born at Enterprise 1872, the son of H. M. and Martha Wagar. He resided at Enterprise until the spring of 1927 when, owing to ill health, he was forced to give up farming and he moved into Newburgh. In 1895 he married Miss Lulu Brown, who now mourns the loss of a kind, thoughtful and loving husband. Two children blessed this union, Martha, who predeceased him in 1918, and Miss Maude, nurse-in-training at Kingston General Hospital.

During the pastorate of the Rev. J. W. McMullen, Mr. Wagar united with the Methodist Church and for many years, until he moved to Newburgh, he enjoyed the confidence of his brethren, who elected him to the position of trustee of the Church and steward.

Letters received by Mrs. Wagar from several former pastors all speak in the very highest praise of his consistency as a member and their esteem of him as a man. He was quiet and retiring, strictly honest and upright; fond of reading, especially of history.

Mr. Wagar departed to be with Christ, on January 17th, 1930 and his funeral service was held in the United Church at Newburgh, conducted by his pastor, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson. Although the day was very cold and stormy very unfavorable a very large number of his former neighbors and fellow church members from Enterprise, attended his funeral.

Besides his wife and daughter, Mr. Wagar is mourned by two sisters, Mrs. Geo. A. Walker, Toronto; Mrs. C. Brown, Enterprise, and three brothers, Mr. Cyrus Wagar, Enterprise; Mr. Gardener Wagar, M.A., Bowmanville; Mr. Beecher Wagar, Copley, Ohio. To all these sorrowing members of the family their many friends extend very sincere and prayerful sympathy.

NAPANEE W. I.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Agricultural rooms Tuesday afternoon, February 11th, at two thirty o'clock. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Ralph Ham, the Vice President, Mrs. T. V. Anderson occupied the chair. After singing the Institute Ode the minutes of the previous meeting, correspondence and business arising from same took up the entire session.

Arrangements were made for an Afternoon Tea and a large committee appointed to look after the tables, etc., particulars of which will be found in another column of this paper.

Mrs. Haggerty read her "Current Events," which were, as usual, most interesting.

A demonstration was given by Mrs. D. L. Tucker, illustrating her directions by the mentioned stitches she taught the women how to embroider stencilled designs, using a prettily designed rumpler for her lesson and working with rope silk. Her work was much admired.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

NAPANEE SENIORS DEFEAT PICTON IMPERIALS, 6-1.

The local arena was filled to the doors on Tuesday the 11th, last week, when the "Imperial Oils," of Picton, visited Napanee, and were defeated by the local boys.

The game was a real fast one from beginning to end and both teams worked hard to get where they did. The stars of the game were, for the visitors, Church and Cole, and for Napanee, Bentley, Watts, Detlor and Hayes.

The whole game was a sample of clean fast hockey, and the fans were more than pleased with the way the locals are getting in shape. It looks as though they might go a long way before they get a trimming. (We might add that the manager, Reg. Douglas, has several games booked, to be played here, so watch for the bills).

The locals have an unlimited supply of material, and they are going to work a real fast team out of the bunch.

The local goalie, "Shorty" Hayes played a wonderful game. He seemed to fill the net whenever a Picton player got within shooting distance and he was peppered more than several times, but only one lone counter was registered against him, and it would have brought the fans out on the ice if he had stopped it. But what is one goal in an exhibition game.

The referee, who was from Picton, handled the bell to both the players and spectators' satisfaction, by calling everything that did not rhyme with the rule book.

Picton secured their only goal in the second period. Napanee secured two in the first period, one in the second, and two in the third.

The line-ups:

Picton—Goal, D. Young; defence, R. Church and C. Cole; centre, B. Myatt; forwards, J. Grindrod and P. Stafford; subs. Art Storm, E. Myatt, C. Hunt.

Napanee—Goal, B. Hayes; defence, F. Bentley and E. Watts, forwards, R. Wilson, M. Detlor, H. Johnson; subs. D. Miller, L. Richardson, A. Rogers.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Grange, Sr.

There passed away at Selby, on February 9th, in her seventy-ninth year one of Selby's most highly respected citizens in the person of Mrs. John Grange, Sr., who before her marriage was Helen Brandon. In the year 1878 she was united in marriage to John W. Grange, who for many years was the well-known stage driver from Erinsville to Napanee, who pre-deceased her twenty-four years ago.

While in failing health for many months, and in spite of the best of loving care, and medical treatment the end came with suddenness. The late Mrs. Grange was of a lovable, cheerful character, having gained many friends by her kindly interest in everyone. Although in failing health so long, she seldom complained, just remarking that 'I would like to live a while longer but if I can't everything is all right." She leaves to mourn her loss, her only son, John A., who lives on the homestead West of Selby, and her only granddaughter, Gertrude.

She is also survived by one brother, James Brandon, of Morven.

The funeral which was largely attended was held in the United Church, Selby, of which she was a member. The services conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. W. Foley, after which the remains were placed in Riverside vault.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Ab. Frisken, L. L. Price, James Dudgeon, Gardener Jackson, Joe Tate and Melville Windover.

STORMY WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The stormy, blustery weather which Canadians experience during February and March is extremely hard on babies and young children. Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep them confined to the house, whose rooms may be over-heated or cold and their whole system becomes racked. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the home and an occasional dose given the baby to keep him fit, or if a cold suddenly grips him to restore him to health again and keep him in good condition till the brighter, warmer days come along again.

Baby's Own Tablets are just what the mother needs for her little ones. They are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach; break up colds and simple fevers; banish constipation and indigestion and make the cutting of teeth easy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FOR THE BUSY FARMER NEWS AND INFORMATION

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, will accompany Premier Ferguson to London, England, next summer to open the new Ontario Government building there.

It pays to groom live stock every day. Your cows can be made more productive by brushing them thoroughly and taking care that they are free from dirt and filth. One prominent dairyman claims that by keeping his cattle clean his revenue has been increased by one-third.

Ontario Potatoes Appreciated

Good success is being attained by the Central Ontario Potato Growers' Association. This organization is marketing potatoes under brand name and grading to a standard above No. 1. To January 10th, thirty car loads were sold in new sacks bearing the brand name. Some of the largest retail firms in Ontario are now handling this stock. The price compares favorably with that received for potatoes imported from eastern provinces.

Co-Operative Marketing

Co-operatives grow not simply by an increase in membership, but more surely by an increase in the loyalty of the members. Not necessarily according to the number of cars, or tons, or dollars handled but according to the extent the business aids in improving the conditions of each member. Not by an increase in quantity, but constantly by an increase in the quality of the marketable product of the individual. Not by spurts of evangelism which brings groups of uncertain minds into the field at one time, but by constant missionary work which brings into membership, one by one, these sober-thinking, yet perhaps conservative and individualistic producers who, once convinced of the value of co-operation remain loyal to the end.

Use Tested Seed

That price should be the last consideration in the buying of seed is the advice of a well-known seed specialist. Quality, as indicated by purity, germination, and trueness to name is the important thing. Experience has repeatedly demonstrated that it is far cheaper in the end to buy the best obtainable than to take as a gift low-quality, weed-infested seed. Canadian seed authorities advocate the same policy in view of the results of seed surveys which indicate clearly that the average farm seed used is badly infested with weeds. It is constantly urged by men well-informed concerning seed conditions that seed purchased should be confined only to the tested varieties. Seed may be tested at the nearest government laboratory.

Combatting Fires

A Western Ontario farmer in commenting on the number of barn fires caused by lightning operating or exploding suggests a remedy which sounds practicable. The base of the lantern is stuffed with cotton batting until completely filled. A small hollow is then made with the finger to allow the oil to lie in it. The lantern is then filled with oil and the surplus fluid drained off. The wick will take the oil from the saturated batting as needed and this method, undoubtedly precludes any possibility of the troublesome fluid spilling.

Milk-Testing Pays

There is sound common sense in the suggestion of a farmer keeping five good cows in place of fifteen "just cows." The case is cited of a farmer who tired of the work entailed by keeping fifteen sows and who reduced his herd to five "good ones." The surprising thing was that the net returns from the five were greater than they had been from the fifteen. This should prove conclusively the value in the use of weeding out the non-paying members of the herd by milk-testing. The local department of agriculture stands ready at all times to advise the farmer in these matters.

New Hog Grading Rules

To new hog-grading laws which came into effect last September have resulted in some confusion among the less well informed breeders and shippers. The new qualifications are as follows. Hogs shall be divided into two classes, the bacon hogs and the non-bacon hogs; the bacon class is divided into two classes, the "selects" and "bacon." The standard for the select grade is the same except that the minimum weight is now set at 190 lbs. weighed off car. The second grade of bacon hogs or "bacons" must weigh from 170 to 220 pounds off car. The first grade of the non-bacon class is known as "butchers" and its weight range runs from 150 to 220 pounds weighed off car. All hogs of smooth fleshing and finish not conforming to bacon standard are included in this class. The old shop grade has been entirely removed and hogs under 150 lbs. are known as "lights" and requirements for killers are filled from the feeder grade.

Protecting Cattle

The stockman must be perpetually on the lookout to prevent his choice or even scrub cattle from attacks by vermin, particularly lice and ringworm. The former are very persistent and cause much annoyance. Cement and hellebore, six parts to one, have been used but it has been found that this dries the hair. Linseed oil may be rubbed into the parts attacked by lice or sabadilla powder or some insect powder may be dusted into the hair. One application may kill and clean up the pests, but a new batch will hatch out and in ten days another application will be necessary.

Water For Cows

Cows producing large amounts of milk require large amounts of water as well as feed. It takes up seven pints of every gallon of milk produced and is necessary for all life processes. It is said that of every 100 pounds of milk produced, there is contained, on an average, 87 pounds of water. The cow requires 350 pounds of water including that in the feed, for every 100 pounds of milk produced. Good cows should be supplied 12 gallons or more of water per day, and should have access to it at least twice a day. This supply need not be warmer than 45 degrees if available at all times, but if only supplied twice a day it should be warmed to 65 degrees or above. An abundant supply of water will prevent digestive troubles and assist in the production of the maximum quantity of milk.

The teacher had taught his class that the Equator was an imaginary line running round the middle of the earth.

He was surprised to hear a few days later that one of the "dangers" of the tropics was the Equator.

"You said it was a menagerie lion, an' if it's running all round the middle of the earth it must be dangerous, 'cos it's not caged up."

Dreaded anaemia can be banished!
IN middle life, when vitality is not as great as it once was, and the blood stream is naturally thinned and devitalized, anaemia easily lays hold on the system. At first, just a tired feeling, it quickly results in bodily weakness that ordinary tonics cannot avail.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills then become a wonderful aid. They supply the necessary oxygen to the blood, increase the blood count and restore waning vigor.

"I was afflicted with anaemia," writes Mrs. Charles Lambert of Post Hope, Ont., "and was in a very bad state. As a girl I had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a run-down condition and decided to take them once more. Again the results were marvellous. In a little while I was fully well again."

You cannot begin too early to check anaemia. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold at your druggist's or by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Milk Market Improved

Market milk has been improved in quality in recent years. Health departments in many cities have been applying scientific tests in order to protect the consumer from contaminated or adulterated milk. Milk dealers themselves are also making use of these tests to protect the consumer, the dealer and the careful producer alike. By systematic testing and grading of incoming raw milk supplies, the dealer is now able to eliminate milk unsuitable for bottling and thus to improve the quality. A Dominion Department of Agriculture Bulletin, No. 122, has been issued treating the subject from the standpoint of food value, cleanliness, keeping quality, healthfulness and flavor. It explains the importance of these factors, and tells how the tests are made. From knowledge of tests are made. From knowledge of these tests, dealers are able to grade milk and to pay for it according to its value. Local conditions such as present quality of milk supply, relative shortage and surplus at different seasons as well as competition at other outlets for milk, must be taken into consideration in any system of grading.

The high rate of dividends allotted to participating policyholders is continued and the special dividend on maturing policies extended and increased.

NEW HEAD OFFICE BUILDING

EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

Policies paid for numbered 161,391 for a net amount of $654,451,143.27, an advance of $213,206,-000 or more than forty-eight per cent., over the previous year. This marked increase and the far; reaching advantage policy, for the first time, exceeds the already impressive evidence of the ever-growing popularity of the Company.

Deducting amounts reassured, the total increase in force amount to $2,401,237,036.94, an increase of $304,321,71,102.37. This advance is notable not only for its magnitude, but because when due is made for terminations by death and lapse, it represents a remarkably high rate of increase, and evidences great satisfaction on the part of our policyholders.

The amount paid to policyholders since organization, together with the amount at present held for their benefit, exceeds the total amount received from them in premiums by $139,290,474.03.

The rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets has been increased from 6.92 to 7.02 per cent. This figure includes the full amount from bonuses and stock privileges arising in many of the Company's holdings; but if these be entirely eliminated the rate would still be over 6 per cent.

A net profit of $13,077,284.62 was realized from the disposal or sale of securities.

The surplus earned during the year, based on the valuation reserves in the Rutherford table of valuation, amounted to $42,863,000.00, but from this sum substantial appropriations were made to further strengthen the reserves $2,656,000.00 in excess of those of the Government standard.

$1,000,000.00 has been set aside as additional protection against claims arising from total disability, death claims not yet uncovered, and possible surrender values to policies on which a surrender value or reinstatement might be applied for.

$7,000,000.00 has been paid or allotted as profits for distribution to policyholders.

The special amount entered as a liability to provide for unforseen contingencies has been maintained at $12,500,000.00.

After making all these deductions and allocations, $5,868,899.96 has been added to the undivided surplus, bringing the total over liabilities, contingency accounts and capital stock, to $60,307,762.44.

In accordance with our usual conservative practice the securities owned by the Company have again been valued at figures much below the market quotations current at the close of the year. This undervaluation represents an important element of strength to the Company additional to the specific provisions in the statements.

Your Directors are pleased to announce that the high scale of profits at present allotted to participating policyholders will be continued during the ensuing year, while the Special Dividend on maturing policies, introduced last year, has been extended to include policies maturing after having been in force five years or longer and the scale of benefit has been increased.

The business of the Company has always been conducted under the exacting provisions of the Canadian Insurance law and the rigid supervision of the Insurance Department of the Government of Canada. Ever since we entered the United States in 1895, the Company has been under similar supervision there and is now subject to the regulations of thirty-eight States of the Union which require periodical examination of the affairs of all companies licensed in their territory. In the discharge of their regular duties a committee of twenty-two examiners, representing the States of Michigan, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Ohio, Tennessee, Washington, Virginia, West Virginia, Florida and the District of Columbia recently completed an exhaustive examination into every department of the Company's affairs. The report of this committee makes gratifying reference to the liberal treatment accorded to our policyholders, and provides authoritative testimony to the Company's strength. Even adopting the low valuations placed by us on our securities, the committee still reported a surplus at that date of last year $1,333,921.71 in excess of the figure claimed by the Company.

A new office-boy had been sent to the post by his chief with two important letters.

"Did you catch the post with those letters?" asked his chief on his return.

"Yes, sir; just managed it," was the reply. "But you made a mistake—you put the twopenny-halfpenny stamp on the Birmingham letter and the three-halfpenny on the one to Paris."

"How annoying! What did you do?"

"Oh, I made it all right, sir! I noticed it in time, so I slipped into the post-office and altered the addresses."

SARGON RAPIDLY BECOMES KNOWN OVER CONTINENT

If you found a medicine that was of such great benefit to you that you would go to the trouble of sending it to relatives and friends in distant countries, you would have to be convinced in your own mind that it possessed real merit, wouldn't you?

That's just what hundreds of people throughout the United States have been doing with Sargon, the new formula recently introduced in Canada.

From all over America and wherever Sargon has been introduced, thousands of letters have been received from grateful results that SH SH SH from grateful users telling of the gratifying results that have been accomplished by this celebrated medicine.

Thousands Express Gratitude

On November 27, 1929, a letter dated November 22, was received at the Sargon offices advising that in one week one drug firm alone had received orders for Sargon to be shipped to Cavite, Philippine Islands; Coca Solo, Canal Zone; Belebrook, Ireland, and Paris, France.

Only recently a well-known resident of Denver, Colorado, who had been restored to health by Sargon, sent a full treatment to London, England, to his sister, who is the wife of an executive of one of the greatest retail drug firms in the British Empire.

During the past month there appeared in the Toronto papers the statement of a well-known World War veteran whose health had been greatly impaired while in the service, who stated among other things, that he owed his restoration to health to two bottles of Sargon sent him by a friend in Minneapolis.

Letters Received From the Northwest

From Minnesota and Wisconsin and throughout the Northwest, many letters of this kind have been received advising that users of Sargon are sending it to relatives back in their old countries of Sweden and Norway.

Many such letters and endorsements have been received from men of prominence, including former governors, business and professional men, mayors, state and county officials, and even ministers of the Gospel who have deemed it their duty to come forward and tell what Sargon has done for them.

Only a short time ago, for instance, the vice president of the one of the South's largest corporations walked into a Memphis drug store and purchased his sixth bottle of Sargon. He had taken three bottles himself and stated that he had received such wonderful benefit from it, he was getting the other for relatives and friends.

Four Men in One Firm Are Taking It

Another well-known business man who had also been greatly benefited by Sargon, recommended it to his business associates and employees, so that four different men in one firm are taking the Sargon treatment as the result of only one bottle originally sold.

These are only a few of thousands of such cases which have arisen since Sargon was placed on the market in April, 1928.

Sargon is extensively advertised, it is true, but such large and rapidly growing demand could not be brought about by advertising alone. One bottle is sold in a neighborhood through advertising, but ten more may be sold in that community after the first bottle produces results. People are always willing to talk about their ailments, but they are more willing to tell others of the medicine that helps them.

Not a day nor a week passes that does not bring hundreds of statements from the people concerning the good this medicine is doing, and reciting the circumstances of ease after case that would convince the most skeptical.

Sargon has attained its prestige and widespread popularity through actual results accomplished—not empty promises. This celebrated medicine may now be obtained in Napanee at Hooper's Drug Store, who has been awarded the exclusive Sargon agency for this town.

CIVIL AVIATION IN CANADA SETS MARK OF 6,200,000 MILES

The Civil Aviation Branch, Department of National Defence, gives a rough estimate of the miles flown during the year 1929 by civil aircraft as 6,200,000. This compared about 82,250 hours.

The civil aircraft, which includes passenger, mail and freight carrying, exploration, light airplane clubs and Ontario provincial air service activities, in that time is estimated to have flown 6,000,000 miles and were flying 75,000 hours.

The civil government air operations for the year occupied in the neighborhood of 12,000 hours and the miles flown is estimated at 100,000.

But as well, the civil government had planes patrolling the forests of the prairies and on photography operations and the miles estimated in this branch of the service is 100,000.

"Is your wife shy about telling her age?"

"Very—about ten years shy."

CIVIL SERVICE WAGES PER YEAR, $82,311,000

While the employees of the Civil Service in all departments are classed as permanent, temporary and non-enumerated, yet it is noted from the Statistics of the Civil Service of Canada in the statement published at the end of the last fiscal year in Ottawa that in April 1927 the grand total of employees of the enumerated classes numbered 40,001. In March 1928 the number had increased by 1,232, while the salary expenditure increased by $448,696.57, during the same period.

Of the employees other than at departmental headquarters there was an increase of 222 permanent employees between April 1927 and March 1928, while $20,336,460.31 was paid out for salaries and wages of the non-enumerated class. Comparing with the preceding fiscal year there was an increase of $3,183,974.56 in salaries of permanent employees, an increase of $1,208,-760.16 in salaries of temporary employees, while the salaries and wages of non-enumerated classes increased by $1,629,834.25.

The increased expenditure on salaries was due partly to the increase of 1,651 employees over the preceding year; to the flat increase of $120 per annum granted to Civil servants from April 1st, 1927, and also to the customary annual increments of salaries through out the year.

FASCINATING LINKS IN CANADA'S HISTORY

History does not always give credit to those who do the most for civilization. It is difficult to estimate the benefit to the world of the work of the cartographer, Herman Moll, a Dutchman who came to England in 1680, and in 1715 composed an atlas of his maps. The encyclopedia does not even mention his name, but a visitor to the Dominion Archives at Ottawa will find that the most correct, interesting, and artistic maps are the work of this almost unknown man. He made maps, copied maps, engraved them, and compiled them into one of the earliest atlases. Not only are the maps geographically correct—for their time—but they are illustrated in some cases with sketches of the inhabitants of the country depicted.

One of these maps is a colored engraving of Denmark and Sweden, "according to the newest and most exact observations of Herman- Moll, geographer," and it is dedicated to "His Excellency, John, Bishop of Bristol, Lord Privy Seal, and Her Majesty's first plenipotentiary at the treaty of Utrecht." The map itself is amazingly correct and the printing on it is most wonderfully fine and yet quite readable. The map is double page of his atlas which appeared in 1715 and has been carefully framed to preserve it, though the crease of the page is still to be seen. The territory shown includes Lapland and it is of the inhabitants of this land that the illustrations have been made.

Down one side of the map are these small pictures showing "a church for such as are Lutherans, with a basin full of brandy with" a spoon in it at the porch, of which every one that enters it takes a sip. The priest, the chief man in the parish, and a bride with two bridesmaids followed by the bridegroom and other friends." Another picture shows figures standing upright in what look like wooden boxes and this we are told is "their way of burying." A short distance away a figure is kneeling before a skull and cross bones, which, the author tells us is "their manner of praying to death to spare them a while longer." Then follow many pictures of their houses, dress and food, but perhaps the most interesting of all to us is a gentleman on a very modern looking pair of skis which is "their way of sliding with great activity over the snowy mountains." The last picture is also very amusing for it shows a gentleman with both arms around his deer and the inscription is "A Laplander whispering the reindeer what he should do or whither he must go."

Fatuous Old Gentleman (to small boy picking weeds in a garden): "Ahh, my little man. I expect your papa has promised you something if you get all those weeds out today."

"He's going to give me a hiding if I don't."

Young wives are advised not to send their pastry to the Cookery Exhibition, but to wait until next month, when the Hardware Convention will be held.

"Is it true that a clock can go 14 days without winding?"

"Yes."

"Then how long will it go if it is wound?"

I have taken your medicine before each of them, was born and have certainly received great benefit from it. I urge my friends to take it as I am sure they will receive the same help I did."—Mrs. Milan McMullen, Vanessa, Ontario.

LEG CRUSHED.

Donald Murphy, farmer, who resides near Marysville, met with a painful accident last Friday. The unfortunate man was loading logs about a mile from his home, when a heavy log fell on him and crushed the leg badly. Crawling from underneath the log, he managed to drag himself to the sleigh, and, after much painful effort, at last hoisted himself up. He then drove his team back to the farmhouse, where aid was summoned. The patient was removed to the Belleville Hospital, where he is resting as comfortably as possible under the circumstances.

MEN'S FORUM

The Men's Forum had as their guest speaker on Sunday afternoon Professor J. W. Richards Netram, of Indore Christian College, India. About two hundred and fifty men met in Wonderland at three o'clock. Several hymns were sung, led by an orchestra. Then a duet was given by Arnold Rogers and Mr. Fred Lacelle. Professor Netram was then introduced by A. J. Wilson and gave a stirring Christian address, which left a deep impression on the large gathering. Professor Netram commented after the meeting on the fine spirit and lusty singing of the gathering. The Men's Forum meets every Sunday in Wonderland from 3 to 4 o'clock, good music, good singing and a good talk. No offering is taken.

LATE HUGO B. RATHBUN.

The death occurred Saturday morning of Hugo Burghard (Pete) Rathbun, at Belleville. "Pete," as he was affectionately known among his many friends, was born in Deseronto, the son of the late Herbert B. Rathbun. He was an enthusiastic yachtsman, being a member of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto, and the Bay of Quinte Country Club, Belleville. Mr. Rathbun enlisted in Belleville in 1915, being sent to France that year with a draft of officers, and afterwards was attached to the 20th Battery, Second Division Artillery, serving with that unit until the close of the war. He has recently been engaged in the insurance business in Belleville. He leaves his mother, Mrs. W. J. Gibson, one sister and one brother, to mourn his loss.

MRS. NELLIE LEUTY

TRINITY CHURCH ANNIVERSARY SOLOIST

The soloist at Trinity Church Anniversary Services and Concert, March 9th and 10th, will be Mrs. Nellie Leuty, (Pupil of Hope Morgan), a former and present soloist of Avenue Road United Church, Toronto.

Mrs. Leuty is one of Toronto's outstanding artists, and possesses a contralto voice of very fine quality and is a young woman of charming and magnetic personality.

The following is a judgment. Fort William hearers during her recent tour in the broadest sense of the term was scored by Nellie Leuty, dramatic contralto, in a recital at Westminster United Church last night. The vocalist, so popular here, rendered a programme which, for sustained excellence and uniform high quality, seldom has been equalled at the Lake Head.

Undoubtedly a rare treat is in store for those who attend Trinity Anniversary Services. 8a

NETRAM, OF INDIA, IN NAPANEE

Napanee was honored over the week-end by a visit from a native preacher from India, Rev. J. W. Richards Netram, professor of comparative religion in Indore College, India. Professor Netram is a product of the United Church Missionary enterprise. He is in Canada under the auspices of the United Church and is addressing meetings all through Canada. He addressed a meeting in Grace Church on Friday night. Then on Sunday he spoke in the three United Churches and at the Men's Forum. In these addresses he amazed his audience with his discrimination command of the English language, his splendid loyalty to British rule in India and his devout and earnest Christian appeal. His inward complexion, native costume and turban and charm of manner added to the attractiveness of a great personality. A personal friend of Ghandi, and of E. Stanley Jones he was able to give first hand information about the work of these men and of the present situation in India. Mr. Netram's last word to his audience was that India is waiting and ready for Christian life and service but needs help of money and men from wealthy Christian Canada.

NAPANEE SENIORS DEFEAT PICTON KIWANIS, 6-5

The Napanee arena was filled to capacity when the Napanee Seniors trimmed the "Kiwanis," of Picton, to the tune of 6-5.

It was one of the fastest games of hockey of the season. The Picton boys, who sometimes are called the Invincibles, took their first defeat of the season, and from a team who played clean fast hockey.

The first period was a whirlwind from start to finish, both teams playing their best. Picton broke the suspense by placing one in the corner when he caught the goalie off his feet. Then the Picton boys showed some real playing when trying to even it up. Towards the last of the round Bentley worried another between the Picton goalie's armor and the period ended with the score 2 to 0 for the locals.

The second section of the game was a little faster but very fast and the locals had a hard time getting back into the old game of passing and finishing combination that resulted the Picton boys netted four counters. One of the goals might have been called a "fluke," as it was passed from the boards out to centre and was "kicked" by Johnson's stick and went between Shorty's skates. Johnson and Wilson both netted one for the locals and evened it up. The round ended 4-4.

The third period was a battle to see which team would win and the fans were there when it came to boosting.

The visitors defence came through on a rush and scored, but Bentley and Wilson, who displayed some beautiful stick-handling worked into the visitors' defence and chalked up another. The score was again tied. Ice-locals went at it harder than ever, and 'Emik" Wilson ever present at the blue line whisked one by the goalie for the winner.

The referee from Picton handled the game well from start to finish and doled out several penalties and both the teams and spectators were satisfied.

BASKETBALL

Sweeping everything before them, N.C.I. girls' basketball team easily defeated the Queen's University ladies' cage sextet in a good game of basketball in Napanee gym. This was a return game following those previously played in Kingston between the two teams. The Queen's Intermediate boys came up and played a scheduled game against the Napanee Vocational School from which they emerged victorious. Better team play won the game for Queen's.

The girls game was quite evenly played in the first half with the score at half time 19-14 in favour of N.C.I. team would back the necessary factors in winning games, speed and accuracy. You very seldom see "Noodle" miss a shot and heavy guarding never bothers her.

Jean Milligan and Marion Embury did wonderful defence work that broke up many of Queen's plays.

The Napanee girls basketball team ever developed in this district has yet to taste defeat.

The teams:—

YARKER-COLEBROOK WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

On Wednesday February 19th Mrs. T. Keyes, Colebrook, was hostess for the regular monthly meeting of the Yarker-Colebrook W. I. The weather was ideal, but the roads were bad; nevertheless there was a record attendance of sixty-seven. Fifty-three of them being members.

The President, Mrs. N. Boyce opened the meeting in the customary manner. Then extended a hearty welcome to all the visitors.

The minutes were read and approved and after the treasurer had presented her report the roll call was answered by "Aunt Het's" sayings.

The correspondence consisted of numerous letters from those who had been remembered by the sick committee. Although we are very sorry so many have been ill, we are pleased that our sick committee is doing its work so thoroughly. A letter received from the Secretary of the Ontario School Trustees and Ratepayers Association suggesting that we send a delegate to their convention in Toronto in April, resulted in Mrs. V. Atcheson being appointed to attend said convention. The secretary of that was won by Mrs. S. Winter.

Mrs. D. Martin gave a splendid paper on Current Events and then the event of the day took place, namely the drawing of the ticket for the beautiful Kenwood blanket. The lucky ticket was held by Miss Lena Dafoe, whom we extend congratulations. Just here we wish to thank all the friends who so willingly bought tickets and so helped to swell our treasury funds to the extent of $55.20.

The meeting was closed by the singing of the National Anthem. Everyone then enjoyed the dainty tea which was served by the hostess and lunch committee, also the social chat.—

The next meeting is under the direction of Mrs. R. Hollister and will be held at the home of Mrs. T. Tomkins on March 19th. The roll call will be answered by a verse of some well known hymn and will those unable to attend kindly send in their answers to the roll-call.

Hogarth's now have a very complete range of walpapers in stock. Come in and look over our samples.

BAY CIRCUIT

The beautiful spring-like weather of the last few days is keeping the local weather prophets busy. Motor traffic has been resumed on the River Road as well as the Bay and Hamburg roads.—Some of the houses near Anderson are in danger of being submerged by the little creek overflowing its banks.—The Young Peoples' Union of Anderson visited the Hawley Society on Friday evening. The meeting was held in the beautiful big home of Mr. Gordon Parks. The program was given by the Anderson group under the direction of Mrs. Allan Baldwin. The subject of the worship period was "Beauty." This was followed by readdresses on the literary value of the radio, newspaper, library and Bible. Vocal music was given by Miss Ola Boomhour and Miss Gwendolyn Becker. One of the special features was a birthday cake with fourteen candles on it presented to Mr. Clarence Parks, son of the home, in which meeting was held. Cohtests were enjoyed and lunch served by Hawley folk. Hawley returns the visit on Tuesday, March 18th.—Mr. and Mrs. W. Grieves, of Cabin Point, spent the week-end visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Herb Melvin, Greenan.—Mr. Sidney Parks, aged 'uncle' Jim Edward Country, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Parks.—Two of the Ladies' Aid Societies of this circuit are holding social evenings this week. — On Tuesday evening Anderson Aid meets at the home of the President, Mrs. J. Card. Meeting begins at 8.00 p.m. On Wednesday evening, Stanley Hill Aid meets at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore, at 8.00 p.m.—Mrs. E. S. Cole has been confined to her home with illness for a few days.—Mrs. E. J. Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station

Quicker Service— and cheaper than ever before

Long distance telephone service is constantly improving. Seventy per cent of long distance connections are now completed while the calling party holds the line.

In 1927 it took an average of 5.8 minutes to complete connection. In 1929 the average was 3.5 minutes per call and many calls, of course, are put through on the instant.

And with this greater speed there have been two reductions in long distance rates within the last year. Every Bell telephone is a long distance station today, making speech possible across the province or the world — more quickly — and at lower rates — than ever before.

OUR WEEKLY RECIPE

How often is the plaintive cry heard, "how can people eat it?" And in this case "it" is one of the favorite dishes of those who have learned how to prepare thir own beef for a meal of "Dinty Moore's favorite," corned beef.

Pick out a piece of beef which you would use for the table, not a scrag end. Combine 2 pounds of salt, 1-2 pound of brown sugar, 1-2 oz. saltpetre, 1-2 oz. baking soda and 3 gallons of boiling water. When the mixture is cold pour over the meat, preferably in a stone jar, and cover. Put a weight on the meat and when pickled take out and rub for two days with ground spice. The meat will pickle in a week if the piece is small. Never try to pickle beef and port together.

Dr. R. F. Ruttan Dies In 75th Year

Dr. Robert Purford Ruttan, emeritus dean of the faculty of graduate studies and research and for 42 years associated with the faculty of McGill University, died early Wednesday morning at his residence 1374 Sherbrooke street west, Montreal, following a lingering illness. He was in his 75th year.

At the time of his retirement from McGill he was the oldest professor in point of years on the staff. His tenure of office as chairman of the department of chemistry was marked by a great advance in the study of this science which now has more research students at McGill than any other department. He retired as chairman of the department of chemistry and dean of the faculty of graduate studies and research last year.

Born in Ontario

Dr. Ruttan was born on July 15, 1856, the son of Allan Ruttan, M.D., and Caroline Ruttan in Newburgh, Ont. He prepared for the university at Napanee Collegiate Institute, and graduated from the University of Toronto in 1881, taking the gold medal in natural sciences. He came to McGill University and there took the degrees of M.D., C.M., obtaining the gold medal for chemistry in 1883. In 1885 he went to Germany and studied for two years at Berlin University under Professor A. W. Hofmann.

He became a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1884, but never practised the profession of medicine. He began his career in chemistry as assistant to Dr. Girdwood in the medical faculty of McGill University, holding the title of lecturer from 1886 to 1891, when he became professor of practical chemistry and registrar of the medical faculty, which position he held until 1902. He then succeeded Dr. Girdwood as professor of organic and biological chemistry. In 1912 he was made chairman of the department of chemistry.

Research Director

When the Honorary Advisory Council for Research was organized by the Dominion Government, he was made a director of that body, and he also entered the directorate of the Biological Board of Canada. In 1924 he was appointed dean of the faculty of graduate studies and research. In 1929 he resigned, and he was appointed professor emeritus of chemistry. At the same time, he resigned from his position on the National Council of Research.

On the occasion of his retirement Dr. Ruttan was presented with a painting of himself by the teaching staff of McGill, at a banquet marked by unstinted enthusiasm.

Separate Subject

When Dr. Ruttan joined McGill, it had no separate department of chemistry. This subject was taught separately in each of the other faculties interested in it. Some little time after he came to the university, he urged for a separate department of chemistry was recognized, and it is now generally admitted that it is due in small measure due to the efforts of Dr. Ruttan that McGill enjoys the high reputation it does in the field of chemistry today.

Among the various important positions held by Dr. Ruttan during his life, are those of president of the Royal Society of Canada, member of the University Club, Montreal; president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association; president of the Society of Chemical Industry; fellow of the Corporation of McGill University. He was also the author of many papers on organic and biological chemistry.

Dr. Ruttan was a son of the late Dr. Ruttan, of Napanee, and a brother of the late G. F. Ruttan, K.C., of Napanee.

They Were Certainly A Great Benefit To Me

Says Ontario Lady Of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. H. Gordon Suffered With Pains in Her Back

Cobourg, Ont. Feb. 25th — (Special) "After taking several doses of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I began to feel the pains in my back diminish," writes Mrs. H. Gordon, who resides on University Ave. "After continuing with the Pills for some weeks, the pains ceased." They were certainly a great benefit to me."

Mrs. Gordon's statement is brief but to the point. Ninety per cent. of the ills from which women suffer arise from weak or diseased Kidneys. They are the organs that strain all the impurities out of the blood. If they fail in their work, the impurities remain in the blood and are deposited all over the body.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have restored sound health to thousands of troubled women and men. Give them a trial at once. They can be obtained from druggists everywhere, or The Dodd's Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto 2, Ontario

FASCINATING LINKS IN CANADA'S HISTORY

Recent visitors abroad tell, as one of the interesting bits of a tour, of a visit through Windsor Castle. There the visitors are allowed to roam through all the private rooms of Their Majesties palace and this privilege is availed of by nearly every Canadian tourist. One of the remarkable pieces on display at Windsor Castle is the Queen's Doll House which was presented her in 1924 by the people of Canada.

The doll house is enclosed behind a railing and is in a glass case, with one side open so that the visitors may view the many marvels of the house. It is eight feet long and five feet high. People of Canada are especially interested in the doll house because when it was presented to Queen Mary a few of the accessories had been made, a trifle too large for accommodation in the house, and in the neighborhood of thirty articles were sent to the Dominion's Archives at Ottawa. In Ottawa they are enclosed in a case and behind the case are pictures of the doll house.

It is a masterpiece of miniature realism and includes bedrooms, bathrooms, with hot and cold running water, nurseries, garage, library, dining room and kitchen all furnished and decorated in most perfect taste. There are 30 rooms and over 1500 leading artists, authors and craftsmen lavished time and care on the countless treasures contained. In the sloping roof of the house 3,800 tiny old Delabole slates were used which had been quarried in North Cornwall. The house is perfect in every detail. The elevators are in running order, there is electricity and the piano and sewing machine all are in order. The grand piano in the drawing room is a masterpiece and on account of the tiny parts, which only a fairy could play, cost more than an ordinary grand piano.

In the library are 200 miniature volumes to which 170 authors contributed. In the King's bedroom is a portrait of Princess Mary painted by Ambrose McEvoy. There are 750 miniature water colorings, etchings and drawings.

To one who had not the privilege of seeing the Doll's house when it was in Canada, it is enlightenment to see the parts which have been given Canada. There are two tiny jars containing strawberry jam and marmalade, which are so small that a magnifying glass has to be used to see what they contain. Then there is a checker board, a silver tea service, a toilet set, an ink stand, blotter, pencil and scissors, an umbrella stand containing six miniature parasols, a Bible, powder puff, soap dish, atomizer and lamp.

These articles should be seen by any who visit the Archives to view the treasures which are contained therein.

MARY'S STOCKINGS

(By Doris Martin, aged 10, Raymore.)

Mary had pairs and pairs of hose,
A different pair for wherever she goes.
When she is happy they're a very bright blue,
A red, a yellow, or maybe a blue.
And when she's cross they're a darker shade.
She wears them as dark as ever they're made.
If you haven't a notion what mood
Mary's in,
Take a look at her stockings, you'll know by them.

(Doris Martin, aged 11 years, Raymore)

How fine it is at night to say,
"I've done no wrong all through the day.
And no place where I chanced to stay
Has suffered ill through me to-day."

But better still at night to say,
"I've done some good during this day,
And places where I chanced to stay
Have brighter been thro' me to-day."

And when the night of life is nigh
I hope to say without a sigh
"I've done a little good on earth
It's brighter than before my birth."

The ruptured man will find a strong serviceable and comfortable truss at Hooper's Drug Store.

OBITUARY

George D. Lucas.

There passed away at Colebrook on Thursday, February 6th, at an early hour, one of Colebrook's most highly respected citizens, in the person of George Dennis Lucas, in his 64th year. Mr. Lucas was the only son of the late Hiram Lucas and Marjory Wagar, and was born near Centreville, where he spent his childhood days; moving with his parents to the vicinity of Colebrook, where he spent the major part of his life. In the year 1910, on October 26th, deceased was married to Agnes Isabelle Wagar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Wagar, of Enterprise, who still survives him, and mourns the loss of a loving and thoughtful husband.

Mr. Lucas has been in failing health for four years, the last year of which was very trying, but was borne by him with christian fortitude and patience. In spite of the best of loving care and treatment the end came. He was of a lovable, cheerful character, having gained many friends by his kindly interest in everyone. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his sorrowing wife, three sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Richardson, of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Ida Riddle, of Colebrook, and Mrs. Jay Woodcock, Hermicer, N.Y.

The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon in the United Church, conducted by his pastor, Rev. Mr. McKenzie, who took for his text: "What will it profit a man, if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul," after which the I.O.O.F., of Odessa, took charge of the service. The remains were placed in the vault to await interment in the White Church Cemetery in the spring.

MILK COWS DECLINE, BUT CATTLE INCREASE

The number of cattle on the farms in Canada increased by more than 137,000 in 1929, although the number of milch cows was slightly less than in the previous years, according to Dominion statistics.

The total number of cattle on Canadian farms was 8,930,988; the number of swine 4,381,725; sheep, 2,042,187; and lambs, 1,686,122. This was a decrease of about 115,000 swine from 1928, an increase of about 122,000 sheep and 180,000 lambs, according to the data.

PICTON EDITOR DEFEATED IN MAYORALTY CONTEST

A. E. Calnan, editor of the Picton Gazette, was Monday defeated in the mayoralty contest by ex-Deputy-Reeve J. C. Clapp. A record vote of 1,100 votes was polled, Mr. Clapp's majority being 79. The election was caused by the death of Edmund Peelling, who died two weeks after being given the post by acclamation. Mr. Calnan resigned as councillor to contest the mayoralty.

Every member is requested to be present, especially ladies. Mr. Walsh has many interesting new pictures. If you miss it, you miss a treat. All are welcome.—Secretary.

DR ROBERT F. RUTTAN

One of the most outstanding figures in the world of organic and biological chemistry has been removed from the arena of active work by the death of Dr. Robert F. Ruttan. His retirement a few months ago from the chair of the Dean of Graduate Studies and Research at McGill University, which he had occupied with distinction for eleven years, was the occasion for widespread recognition of his notable achievements throughout a long and brilliant career. He was made a Professor in the Faculty of Science thirty years ago, and no man of higher integrity and sincerity of purpose has ever been associated with the University. Like a famous colleague, Sir William Osler, he labored at all times to elevate the standard of his particular sphere of activity, and his name brought added fame to his alma mater.

Though Dr. Ruttan came to McGill to study for a purely medical career, he soon fell under the spell of the microscope and the test tube, and his exceptional knowledge of chemistry rapidly brought him to the front. Under his watchful eye the important department of graduate studies and research at McGill has developed, particularly in the scientific subjects, into one of the highest standing on this continent. He was a staunch friend of the students, ever ready to talk with them, no matter what the subject or the hour, and he endeared himself to thousands of young men who were privileged to be guided in their post-graduate work by him. He enjoyed an international reputation as one of the greatest biological chemists of the century, and he leaves behind him an invaluable example of intense application, devotion to duty and tireless enthusiasm. —Editorial, Montreal Daily Star.

TRINITY CHURCH MISSION CIRCLE

On Tuesday evening, February 18th, the Mission Circle of Trinity Church celebrated their 27th birthday in the Sunday School auditorium. The guests were unanimous in their praise of the successful evening the girls had arranged. After a few cordial words of welcome from the Circle Superintendent, Miss B. Hawley, the program was opened with an instrumental by Miss Jean Asselstine, followed by a group of delightful cornet solos from Mr. Gordon MacGregor.

A ladies' trio, under the direction of Mrs. J. E. Madden, rendered three very lovely numbers. Mr. Donald Scott's solos on the Xylophone lent great interest and variety to the program and his audience very much appreciated the little explanatory talk on the mechanism of his instrument. Mrs. M. Eppiett contributed a very beautiful and popular group of vocal solos: "Songs My Mother Taught Me," and "Mighty Lak a Rose."

The girls were justly proud of the excellent performance of one of their own members, Miss Nina McKim in the realm of elocution, whose humorous readings met with enthusiastic applause. This talented young lady contributed in a marked degree to the success of the program.

An interesting feature was the description of the early days of the Circle, after its organization in 1893, by one of the chartered members, Miss Doris Casey.

The tall birthday cake, gracing the centre of the tea table was very generously donated by Mrs. Francis and with its thirty-seven candles lent a festive appearance to the scene. This confection was cut by Miss Anna Casey, another chartered member. At the close of the program really delightful birthday refreshments were served to the many guests. The success of this very necessary part of the occasion was due to the competent management of the Refreshment Committee, Mrs. R. Sills and Miss M. Shannon.

One of the most gratifying results of the evening was the addition of several new members to the Circle.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear father, David William McFarland, who departed this life February 27th, 1928.

Sweet was your smile and gentle your tone,
In the midst of friends we are blue
With a smile on our face we've a heartache;
Longing dear father for you.

Always remembered by daughter, Annie. 9ap

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear father, William McFarland, who departed this life February 27th, 1928.

Hist I but seen him at the last
And held his dying head,
Or heard the last sigh of his heart,
Or held his drooping hand,
My heart, I think, would not have felt
Such bitterness and grief;
But God had ordered otherwise
And now he rests in sleep.

Ever remembered by his loving daughter and son-in-law. 9ap

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

Why are schoolmaster and schoolboy like dog and cat?—Because one is the canin' species and the other is the feelin'.

Worms in children work havoc. These pests attack the tender lining of the intestines and if left to pursue their ravages undisturbed, will ultimately perforate the wall, because these worms are of the hook variety that cling to and feed upon the interior surfaces. Miller's Worm Powders will not only exterminate these worms, of whatever variety, but will serve to repair the injury they have done.

Weary pater familias appearing in parlor doorway at midnight: "My dear sir, I have no objection to your coming here and sitting up half the night with my daughter, or to your standing on the doorstep for three hours saying 'Good night.' But, in consideration for the rest of the household who wish to go to sleep, will you kindly take your elbow off the bell-push?"

Worms sap the strength and undermine the vitality of children. Strengthen them by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator to drive out the parasites.

Mike was going to London for the first time in his life and his friend Pat was giving him a few hints on what to do and where to go in the great city.

"What do I do when I go to the Zoo?" asked Mike.

"That's one reason I am here, sir," vived Pat. "You'll see some foine animales if you follow the words 'to the lions' or 'to the elephants,' but take no notice of the one 'to the exit,' for begorrah, Mike, it's a fraud, and it's outside I found myself when I went to look at it."

Hard and soft corns both yield to Holloway's Corn Remover, which is entirely safe to use and certain and satisfactory in its action.

Mr. Packham, the village grocer, was gradually losing his temper with his new boy assistant.

"Look here, my lad," he said, "for the seventh time this week I've caught you asleep at the shop. What do you mean by it?"

"Well, sir," replied the puzzled youth, pulling a much-thumbed piece of paper from his trouser's pocket, "this advertisement says that you wanted a boy to sleep on the premises."

Powerful Medicine. — The healing in six essential oils are concentrated in every bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, forming one of the most beneficial liniments ever offered to the use of man. Many can testify as to its power in allaying pain, and many more can certify that they owe their health to it. Its wonderful power is not expressed by the small price at which it sells.

Two little boys were enjoying themselves tobogganing when their mother, who was watching them from her room, rapped at the window "Johnny," she called "why don't you let your little brother have the toboggan part of the time?" "I do, ma. I take it going down hill, and he has it coming up!"

Persian Balm appeals instantly to the dainty woman. Stimulating the skin, making it velvety soft in texture, it creates and preserves complexions of exquisite charm. Delicately fragrant. Cool and delightful to use. Especially recommended to soothe and dispel roughness or chafing. Stimulating and invigorating. So that's the very reason when we call for eggs

Like a Grip at the Throat. For a disease that is not classed as fatal there is probably none which causes more terrible suffering than asthma. Sleep is impossible, the sufferer becomes exhausted and finally, though the attack passes, is left in unceasing dread of its return. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is a wonderful remedial agent. It immediately relieves the restricted air passages as thousands can testify. It is sold by dealers everywhere.

It was not a capital offence, but the judge seemed anxious the prisoner should be represented by counsel.

"Don't you want a lawyer to conduct your defence?" he asked.

"Not perticuler," said the accused.

"Well, what do you want to do?"

"So far as I am concerned," said the prisoner, I'd prefer to drop the whole business."

CANADIAN BUILDING PROGRAM FOR 1930 PROMISES RECORD

Building construction in Canada in 1929 exceeded the previous year by 22 per cent., went above all previous years, and the outlook for 1930 is favorable, with winter work expected to continue its steady increase.

The value of contracts awarded for construction in the month of December 1929 was about $576,650,000 and amounts substantially in excess of that for any previous year in the history of Canadian construction exceeding levels reached in 1928 by 22 per cent.

The amount of winter construction is increasing from year to year. First quarter, 1929, showed a forty per cent. increase over that of 1928. The same holds true for November and December 1929, during which months construction contracts were considerably higher than for the closing months of 1928.

In comparison with 1928 all the provinces throughout the country registered a gain with the exception of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Quebec especially showed a large increase over 1928 (22.6 per cent as compared with Ontario 14.4 per cent). The slight decline under 1928 in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is accounted for by the fact that during 1928 several unusually large contracts were let.

During 1929 business construction still headed the list. Engineering and public utilities, however, accounted for nearly as large a percentage of the total, and registered a large increase over the 1928 figures.

With the exception of apartments most types of construction work have registered an increase over 1928. As intimated above this is especially true for engineering enterprises, principally dams, wharves, and municipal works. The increase during 1929 for engineering work of all classes was about 24 per cent. over 1928.

The outlook for 1930 is favorable. Winter building should be more active than was the case last year at this time. The country's economic stability is expected to continue with the consequent steady growth of building construction of all kinds.

30,000,000 POUNDS OF HONEY IN 1929

The annual production of honey in Canada according to a statement made the Standard News Service today from the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, is believed to be at least 30,000,000 pounds.

The principal commercial users of honey are bottlers, confectioners and bakers. Bottlers are the largest buyers of this commodity and usually blend honeys coming from different section to produce a uniform mixture of color and flavor.

Large amounts of honey are used by confectioners in nougatines, taffies and bars of various kinds, and its use is said to be increasing. Honey sometimes displaces sugar in other types of candies, especially when the price of sugar, as compared with honey is relatively high.

LETTERS CANNOT BE RETURNED TO WRITER

Postmasters in the approximately 12,000 offices in Canada receive upwards of 1,000 requests each day for senders of mail that they be allowed to retrieve it from the post.

In about half the cases an opportunity to correct addresses is sought. In the other half, people, on second thought, decide the letter would be better unsent.

Applicants, however, are doomed to disappointment for when a letter goes into a mail box or a post office the sender loses his rights in it. It automatically becomes the property of the person to whom addressed. Requests for the return of mail have become so numerous that the Deputy Postmaster-General, L. J. Gabourg, has issued a warning to Postmasters stating that mail matter once posted must be forwarded according to its directions. On no application, however urgent, can it be delivered back to the writer, or to any other person."

1930 CANADIAN GARDEN SERVICE

This is probably the most critical time of the year for all winterized plants. The sun is getting stronger, and during the middle of the day is often quite warm enough to stimulate growth, especially in a southern exposure where the snow has disappeared. Where this occurs the plant becomes tender and when the mercury goes down again at night, severe damage results. Incidentally, this explains why growth in a southern exposure is more liable to be killed than that facing north. To prevent damage, one must keep the plant, lower stems and roots, in a dormant condition until the weather really warms up. Mulch with straw, leaves or similar material which will protect from the sun and gather that most valuable protective material of all, snow. Protection of this kind for all herbaceous perennials, shrubs, climbers and roses is advisable. In the colder districts of Canada, it is also a good plan to protect grape vines, raspberry bushes, strawberry plantations, currants, and similar things. During a winter like the present one when the temperature has fluctuated widely from week to week and snow remained with us but a short time, damage to wintering plants is always quite heavy. Mice and rabbits are also a source of worry in certain districts, these pests girdling shrubbery and trees. Tramping the snow about the trunks or stems, or protecting with collars of building paper, tar paper, or galvanized wire netting is advised.

Flowering Shrubs

There should be a few flowering shrubs in every garden, writes W. T. Macoun, Dominion Horticulturist. Among the most satisfactory in order of blooming are Spirea arguta, and Spirea Van Houttei, and the Russian Pea Shrub, Caragana frutex is good and is very hardy. If one lives in a part of Canada where the climate is mild, the Golden Bell (Forsythia) is still earlier and well worth planting both for the flowers and the appearance of the shrub afterwards. Following there are Japanese Rose (Rose rugosa), Philadelphus variety Virginal or any other of the many good varieties of Mock Orange, Hydrangea arborescens grandiflora, Hydrangea paniculata grandiflora, and, if one has room for more, one or more lilacs and a bush honeysuckle should be planted, also Weigelia, Eva Rathke, and, if one can plant a few small trees with attractive flowers, some of the best are the Bechtel Double-flowered crab, European Mountain Ash, Yellow-Wood, Japanese Tree Lilac, and Catalpa. A crab apple or apple tree of some good variety makes a pleasing and useful feature of the garden.

A Hot Bed

Where one plans to use a large number of those plants which must be started indoors, or where one is not in a position to purchase such plants as Petunias, Zinnias, Marrigolds, Cosmos, Asters, Tomatoes, Cabbages, Cauliflowers, Head Lettuce and similar things, a hot bed is essential. The construction of such an affair is neither difficult nor expensive, and in addition to growing such plants as the above, it may be used to produce early lettuce, onions, radishes and melons for the table. Secure a supply of fresh horse manure which has been turned frequently to prevent burning, and store this in some sheltered spot, turning over occasionally, until ready to use. The hot bed should be located where it will be convenient for the person looking after it during all sorts of weather. Preferably, it should have some shelter from north and west winds by fences, buildings or shrubbery. Select or prepare a well-drained site and make a pile of the manure eighteen inches deep when well pressed down. On top of this, place a light frame of wood any desired size, and cover tightly with a window sash. The latter should slope a few inches toward the front which must be south. Cover the manure with three of four inches of fine soil. The bed will heat up rapidly at first, but by the fourth day should have cooled down sufficiently for planting purposes. One can plant in rows quite close together so that a bed three by four feet will produce ample plants for the ordinary garden. In cold or stormy weather, water sparingly and only on bright days. Ventilate a little every day by raising the sash, keeping it open longer as the days grow warmer. The plants should not be removed directly from a hot bed to the field, except in very favorable circumstances, but should be hardened off for a week or two in a cold frame which is exactly the same as the hot bed without the manure.

Unusual Vegetables

Some of the more unusual vegetables which are worthy of a place in every garden and which when once tasted will win that place from then on are: Soy Beans, Asparagus, Broad Beans, Squash or some of the Bush Beans. The new Green Sprouting Broccoli is especially recommended. This vegetable closely resembles the cauliflower but by many authorities is considered even more superior. The cauliflower-like heads are grown on long, juicy stems, both stem and head edible. It is easily grown and hardy. Seed should be started indoors, or else plants be secured. One should go over the new seed catalogues and read the descriptions of these uncommon vegetables and select one or two to try every year. In this way, as much interest will be built up in the vegetable end of the garden as among flowers.

Friend From New York Told Him About Sargon

THOMAS STACK

"When a friend of mine from New York visited me recently and told me about Sargon medicine, I had no idea it would be the end of suffering that I had made my life miserable.

"Stomach and intestinal disorders had ruined most of my age and I saw I had a case of it. Chronic constipation and my whole system full of rheumatic conditions. I was troubled with my back with pains in it all over my body. I couldn't sleep and became dizzy spells and finally had an attack of heart disease. I couldn't even drink a cup of tea without having heartburn and sometimes the pain would be so awful I could seem to almost stop heart action.

"So that I can live the rest of my days, but consolation in that I suffered such misery. Since I tried dief Sargon and given up in despair. I might as well tell you that from New York friend told me. He said that he had a big hit in Sargon and he decided to try it; so I went down to Tamblyn's Drug Store and bought a treatment, along with the Sargon Pills.

"I had only used about half a bottle of Sargon and the same quantity of the Pills, when I noticed a big change for the better. I quit having indigestion and gas on the stomach; the rheumatic pains began to loosen their grip, and a feeling of new strength and vigor came over my entire system. I got out my car the other day and can now drive around as much as I please without being afraid of those dizzy spells. I'm eating heartily, sleeping well and enjoying life in every way.

"The Sargon Pills are the finest thing in the way of a laxative that I ever used. Instead of purging, they seem to work on the liver with a stimulating action that has a lasting effect and keeps the bowels regulated perfectly.

"Everyone I've recommended Sargon to tells me that it's doing them a world of good and I honestly believe it will help anyone suffering with troubles like mine, if they'll take the treatment faithfully."

The above statement was made by Thomas Stack well known retired business man of 36 Beulah Ave, Hamilton, Ont.

Sargon may be obtained in Napanee from Hooper's Drug Store.

Apple Market in France

A recent bulletin issued by the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario points out the possibility of France being developed into an attractive market for good quality Ontario red apples. Satisfactory prices can be secured for fruit that meets the demand of the better class trade as the general run of French apples are inferior in quality, although a large quantity of apples are produced annually in the country. It is predicted that in the next fifteen years good quality apples will have to be imported in increasing quantities owing to the depreciation of the orchards.

Presentation and Address.

On Wednesday evening, February 12th, between fifty and sixty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Desoronto Road to spend a social evening before they leave for their new home at Sillsville. The early part of the evening was spent in dancing and euchre. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were taken completely by surprise, when Mrs. Harry Oliver read the following address.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson:—We, your friends and neighbors, have taken the liberty of assembling here to-night to enjoy once more that fine hospitality which you have always extended so freely and graciously. It has been our privilege to be closely associated with you for some time and on this occasion we wish to pay tribute to your spirit of helpfulness and good cheer, that real kindliness we shall all miss.

While we regret your removal from this immediate neighborhood, we are glad to know you will still be in Lennox and trust our friendship will continue as strong and true as when we met almost daily.

As a pledge of this loyal remembrance we ask you to accept this Library table and chairs, a very small evidence of our real affection for you and your family, and of our continued good wishes.

Mrs. Harry Oliver,
Mrs. Claude Allenbrack.

Mr. Thompson, on behalf of himself, Mrs. Thompson and family, in a few chosen words thanked his friends for the beautiful gift. After the singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," refreshments were served and dancing resumed until the wee small hours of the morning.

Soaks Right In And Limbers Up

Stiff Joints

Nowadays people don't have to be tormented with inflamed, swollen, creaky joints.

If you want your bad acting joints to limber up and work with smoothness the sensible thing to do is to get something that is made for just that purpose.

It's up to you—just ask for a tube of Joint-Ease and give your troublesome joint a good rubbing to-night.

When you rub this magical yet scientific emollient on your sore, painful, stiff joint it has the uncanny power of penetration—it soaks right in and away it goes through the skin and flesh right down to the ligaments and tendons of the joint—right where the trouble starts.

Out comes the inflammation and down goes the swelling—a hard job is well and swiftly done—your joint is limber again—it works smoothly—you are thankful.

Joint-Ease is a product of Canada and every good drug store in the Dominion sells lots of it. Make a note of this also—for lumbago and backaching back one good rubbing is usually enough—60 cents for a generous tube and it's guaranteed—you must get results or money back.

Valuable Crops

Hay and pasture crops, including grass, clover and other forage plants constitute the most valuable group of plants grown on Ontario farms. Over seven million acres of land, which is cultivation, are used to produce the hay and pasture crops of the province. This hay and clover crop is valued annually at more than $50,000,000 for the past 45 years, and over $80,000,000 annually for the past five years, 1924-28.

News and Information For the Farmer

Spray Early and Often

At the Experimental Farm, at Ottawa, it has been found that in some seasons, six or more applications of spray material are required to entirely control the apple scab, but it is well worth the extra labor and cost when one obtains clean fruit. The first application must be made very soon after growth begins, if not when the tree is still dormant. The best plan is to have the spray machinery and materials ready at the earliest possible date and prepare to begin in time.

Weekly Crop Report

The weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture indicates that farmers throughout the provinces are experiencing a hard winter in feeds particularly due to the fact that live stock went into winter quarters in a poor condition. Algoma is an exception, however, and rough feed is plentiful in that district. Hay is being brought into Carleton in large quantities and the possibility of a feed shortage is apparent in Dufferin. Good prices were obtained by Durham farmers for cattle shipped while egg production there is reported as being only fair. In Frontenac milk and cream is plentiful. Haldimand has had a great demand for good seed grain, which indicates a renewed interest in good seed. Huron farmers are having a shortage of root and silage feeds. Milk is far below the average in Lennox and Addington, while Peel indicates a surplus in the supply. Importation of New Zealand butter has lowered the price of that commodity in Lincoln. In Temiskaming seed grain is said to be moving slowly with a light demand. Potatoes, however, are good.

Interesting Figures

Interesting statistics issued at Ottawa recently show that Canadians drink a pint of milk a day on an average, making an increase of approximately one hundred per cent. since 1921. Canadians are also said to eat more butter per capita than any other people in the world as indicated by a figure of 29.31 pounds per man, woman and child annually. The per capita consumption of milk is 470.8 pounds per year, which is compared with 438 pounds per capita for the United States. Ice cream, likewise, has shown an increase, the 1928 figure being 7.04 pints per capita as compared with 5.26 pints for 1921. The consumption of cheese in the past seven years has also risen from 2.51 pounds to 3.54 lbs. per capita per year.

Canadian Bacon Supreme

An interesting fact is the statement recently issued which showed the decrease in the bacon export trade with Great Britain in the last eight years or since hog-grading was entertained as a general practice. Eight years ago Canada's export of bacon amounted to more than 100,000,000 pounds. In 1929 it had dwindled to less than 38,000,000 pounds. The reason given is that grading has in reality improved the quality of Canadian bacon and that more and more of it is consumed at home. The reputation of Canadian bacon stands supreme on the American continent and is equal to any bacon offered in Great Britain. The most pressing need at the present time in relation to the Canadian bacon industry is larger production and continuous supply.

Farm Machinery

It has been proved that the use of modern machinery can reduce the costs of production on all crops. However, the buying of machinery should be done only after careful consideration, and machinery will not turn a deficit into a profit. Machinery will not take the place of good seed and good cultural practices nor will it serve as a substitute for intelligent management. In fact, the more machinery there is on a farm, the greater is the necessity for following the best farm practices because investment costs are higher, risks are greater and losses may be heavier.

—o—

Sow Correct Seed

Farmers should remember the value of sowing weed-free seeds and seeds of tested varieties of grain. By so doing one may increase the yield from 30 per cent. to 63 per cent. above the lowest yielding varieties. In oats it has been shown that large plump seed will average 62 bushels to the acre while the small seed yields only 46.6 bushels. In barley the rates are 53.8 and 43.2 bushels. Farmers are adviced to get a copy of the analysis of the same before buying seed. Your district agricultural office can furnish desired information on this subject.

Apple Prices Poor

The latest bulletin of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association based upon the reports of the overseas representative, indicates a low price for the last lot of Canadian apples received at Liverpool due to poor condition. It is recommended that growers shipping overseas use shredded oil paper for packing as a large part of the last shipment was affected greatly by scald. South African pluma, peaches and pears are being offered in large quantities and are quite cheap, affecting somewhat the sales of Canadian apples. The fruit is of excellent quality and well packed and commands a ready sale on the British market.

Quality of Cheese Improves

There has been a steady improvement of the quality of cheese year by year since grading was undertaken by government, some seven years ago. It was recently authoritatively stated that a new mark was attained in the past year when 93.1 per cent. graded was found to be of the first grade. This was an increase of 15.1 per cent. over 1923, when grading began. All provinces showed a marked improvement but Ontario particularly made an astonishing record with 96.7 per cent. of the highest grade. In the province there were approximately 730 factories in operation receiving milk from thousands of farms.

OBITUARY

John Reeves

John D. Reeves dropped dead on the street at 10.30 Tuesday night, just opposite Mr. Newton's home at Tweed.

Mr. Reeves was just over 46 years of age, he having been born at Maime in 1883 and attended Madoc High School for a number of years, continuing his education at the O.B.C. Belleville.

In 1907 he was united in marriage to Emma Kenny of Madoc. He was later a brakeman on the C.P.R. running from Havelock to Smith Falls, where, in 1915, he enlisted for war service, in which he was shell shocked and gassed and had suffered from bronchial asthma at heart weakness as a result ever since.

He was a stretcher-bearer in the front line for 11 months, rendering first aid to the wounded for which he won his medals. He was later employed at the Canada Cement works at Actinolite, Anne, where he operated either steam or electric shovels, but for the last few months, owing to ill health, he has been living at his home in Tweed.

He was a pensioner, and a member in good standing in the Canadian Legion Post No. 99, at Belleville, where he was well-known and highly regarded.

"Jack," as everyone called him, was a kind hearted, sociable fellow and his sudden death has been a great shock to the community.

Besides his sorrowing wife he leaves to mourn five children, namely: Clarence, Irene, Grace, Jack and Edward.

The funeral service was held at 2.30 Thursday afternoon from his late home being conducted by the Rev. B. B. Cooke, pastor of the United Church. He spoke of having so many confidential talks even in the quiet hours of the night with Mr. Reeve.

Mrs. Harry Grier sang a solo, "Just as I Am Without One Plea," being a favorite of the deceased.

The bearers were all returned soldiers: Messrs. T. Beatty, W. Beatty, C. Brown, C. Graham, C. Parritt and H. Purdy. The remains were laid in the vault until spring, then interment will be made at Victoria Cemetery, Tweed.

MORVEN W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. O. Clark, on Wednesday, the 12th, with a good attendance of members and visitors present. The meeting opened with Hymn 282, after which the Apostle's creed was repeated in unison. Scripture lesson by Mrs. A. VanSlyck. The business part of the meeting then followed, after which Mrs. P. Lake gave a splendid reading on Christian Stewardship. The heralds then responded as follows: Trinidad, Mrs. G. Clarke; India, Mrs. R. Jackson; China, Mrs. B. Hamm; Temperance, Mrs. Seymour; Solo, Mrs. Seymour, which was very much enjoyed by all. A very helpful discussion on the Presbyterial held in Napanee then followed. Hymn 94 was sung. The meeting was brought to a close by the Mizpah Benediction, after which the hostess served delicious candy.

BATH INSTITUTE

The February meeting of Bath W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Harlow. The day was very disagreeable, but eleven were present. Owing to inclement weather the speaker of the day was unable to be present.

Minutes were read and adopted. Reports from various committees were given. Mrs. Ruttan was appointed Education Convenor.

It was decided to hold a dance on February 27th, in the Masonic Hall, in order to raise funds to help out where help is needed in our village.

A Gingham Patching Contest was next. The judges found it difficult to choose the neatest and best patch, but finally awarded the prize to Mrs. B. Morrow.

Mrs. Mott offered her home for the March meeting. All the members should try to be present as our sister, the Ernestown Institute will put on the program.

After a dainty lunch and a social chat the meeting adjourned.

FOURTH LINE

(For last week.)

The Fourth Line Mission Circle held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. House Denyes on Friday evening last with a splendid attendance. The meeting opened with Hymn 270, which was followed by a prayer by Mrs. Miss Lena Hagerman, the scripture lesson being read by Miss Helen Dawson.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The roll call was answered to by naming a missionary and telling where each labored. The Misses Violet Dawson and Luella Hagerman favored the audience with splendid missionary readings. Miss Luella Hagerman was in charge of the social part of the meeting, which consisted of contests and games. Everyone entered the social activities and had an enjoyable time. Delicious refreshments being served by the young ladies.

The next regular meeting is to be held at the home of Miss Florence Reid on Friday evening, March 7th. It is to take the form of a St. Patrick's meeting. We hope to have a large attendance at this next meeting.

TAMWORTH W.M.S.

The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of Tamworth United Church was held on February 11th, at the home of Mrs. S. Haggarty.

Our missionaries, our work and ourselves. Mrs. (Rev.) Beckstead announced the subject of study, "Christianity turns to the East and the South." We were reminded to make preparations for the annual Day of Prayer. Facts were presented showing that where the "Free Will Offering" system had been adopted, the work was much more successfully carried on. The lesson study was taken by several ladies: Mrs. Jas. Donovan, "Historias Church, in India and China;" Miss H. E. Reid, Map Study; Mrs. White, The Early Assyrian Church; Mrs. Beckstead, A Legend of King Agabus; Mrs. J. Donovan, The Story of Rdesas and the Armenian; Mrs. S. Gilmore, Mrs. E. J. Huffman and Mrs. W. W. Redden also presented splendid papers. The next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. W. W. Redden. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

A man home on leave from a port of Equatorial Africa generally held to be unhealthy was recounting his experiences to some friends.

"There's nothing the matter with the country," he said. "All it requires is a better type of settler and a decent water supply."

"If you come to think of it," remarked one of his listeners, brightly, "those are the only drawbacks to Hades."

As a man thinks so he is, therefore some people never are.

BURGLAR ESCAPES FROM NAPANEE JAIL

James Walker, alias Lee, alias Wilson, who was arrested last week in Toronto and brought to Napanee in connection with a number of robberies, escaped from the jail Monday evening. Some time before fine o'clock he removed an iron bar from one of the doors and climbed over the wall, making good his escape. He is wanted for a number of robberies in this and other districts and police have been after him for several months. He was arrested in Toronto in company with Florence Shane and goods stolen in Napanee, Newburgh, Brighton and many other places were found in their possession. They were to have come up for trial yesterday morning. Why in a prisoner of this character was allowed the run of the jail, instead of being locked in his cell, is more than most people can understand.

Hooper delighted all present with her travelogue entitled, "A Trip to the Maritimes." The entire function was admirably managed and reflected great credit on all those in charge.

MEN'S FORUM
The Napanee Men's Forum is attracting a good deal of attention. The New Outlook, the official organ of the United Church, carried a half column last week, describing it as a new venture. The large number of men who attend the whole-hearted singing of old hymns and the keen interest in the whole meeting, is greater, by far, than the sponsoring the Forum had hoped for. The meeting opens sharp at 3 o'clock. An orchestra leads the music. Then there is usually a special musical number. This is followed by a brief address by J. Wesley, who deals with some phase of the religious life. The meeting last just one hour. Last Sunday a men's chorus of six voices gave the special musical number. Next week a quartette will be the musical attraction. Good music, good singing and a good talk: No offering is taken. All men are welcomed.

A TIMELY WARNING
The mild spell of weather has caused a number of boys to turn their attention to acts that require warning. The provincial law covering the shooting act provides reads: "It shall be unlawful for any person to shoot, destroy, wound, molest, take or have in possession any birds during an unlawful period, and any other wild birds at any time other than the following: Sharp-shinned hawk, great horned owl, crows, cowbirds, grackles, and house sparrows." The fine is $25.00. It may not be out of place to mention that the firing of firearms within the town is prohibited by law. Although some birds, like the robin, do cause some injury to cherries, strawberries, etc., the harm is easily counterbalanced by the good done during the remainder of the year. A very large proportion of the food of birds consists of insects which would otherwise be injurious to fruits and vegetables. During the summer our birds devour many bushels of weed seeds. Furthermore certain birds prey on small mammals such as field-mice, ground squirrels and rabbits. Even in the case where birds are hawfully or necessarily shot, make sure that they are killed and not left to suffer for hours before expiring.—Napanee Humane Society.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

Judging from the showing the local seniors made in their exhibition games, the hockey club would have been better advised to have entered a team in the Bay of Quinte loop.

* * *

In fact, they would have gone quite a way in Intermediate O.H.A.

* * *

And with a little hard work and proper coaching they would have given a lot of teams in the Senior B loop a run for their money.

* * *

There is all kinds of material for a forward line in Detlor, "Bunk" Wilson, Roy Wilson, "Twin" Johnston, Vanduzen, Ted Bentley and others, while the work of Bentley and Watts on defence is hard to beat in these parts.

* * *

The rushes of this last mentioned pair were a treat to watch to all but the opposing defence men.

* * *

At present it looks as though the weather man has all local hockey licked and in all probability there will be no more hockey as far as Napanee is concerned.

* * *

That is where artificial ice comes in.

* * *

At last the local girls are beginning to see light as far as championships are concerned.

* * *

They are to play the winners of Smith Falls and Renfrew, as I understand it.

* * *

Then the winners of this tussle will take on one of the Toronto teams.

It seems as though this particular team from the Queen City claims the championship of Western Ontario.

* * *

So the local girls have a good chance of taking the Provincial honors without a defeat.

Paper, by Mrs. Bruce Cummings on the "Social Life of the Farm." She pointed out that a womans' home life needs to reach out in the community. "Current Events," by Mrs. Bert Fretts.

Mrs. Sagar and Mrs. Day acted as judges in the "Button Hole Contest." Miss Beatrice Sager won the prize. Humorous reading by Miss Fanny Cline. Collection $1.30. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess, to those who assisted in the program and lunch committee. Meeting closed by singing "God Save the King," followed by a social half hour over the tea-cup.

Proceeds of social evening held in the hall on Thursday Evening, February 20th amounted to $7.65.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Hattie M. Mackman

The death took place in Picton, on Wednesday, February 19th, of Hattie Mackman, wife of the late Theo. Mackman, of Adolphustown. She was born in the Township of Athol, Prince Edward County, in the year 1849, and was the major part of her life in Lennox and Addington.

Being of cheerful disposition she had many friends and remained cheerful despite her many afflictions during the latter part of her life. It was in the midst of these trials that she gave her heart to the Lord and professed Him as the saviour of heart. Up until the end, which came suddenly and with no suffering she rejoiced in the knowledge of a risen Saviour and often expressed her desire to enter on that life more abundant.

The funeral service was held in Glenwood Chapel, Picton, by Rev. H. G. Rogers. The remains were interred in the vault at that place awaiting burial at Dorland. Her only remaining sister, Mrs. George N. Harrison, of Adolphustown, predeceased her over a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Carter received word that their son, Wilfred Carter, of Oshawa was married to Miss Anna Burnett, of Belleville, in January. His many friends extend their congratulations to him.

Mr. Wm. Hope, of San Jose, Cal., is visiting his brother, Mr. Lydia Hope and sister, Mrs. G. A. Aylsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wales, of Switzerville, called on the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wales, on Monday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Parley, Vivian and Ethel visited the latter's father, Mr. Parley on Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Craig, of Morven visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wales one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Denison, of Napanee visited Jas. Parley recently.

Mr. Gilbert Milligan is at home for a few days.

Mr. Stewart Gandler of the Bank of Commerce, Kingston, spent Sunday at his home.

Mrs. Geo. Wartmon spent Monday in Napanee.

Rev. and Mrs. Byres, of Stirling, are visiting his daughter, Mrs. R. R. Dougan.

GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE LIFE OF RAILMAN

Responding immediately to a call for blood donors for a dying man in Grace Hospital after having both legs and both arms severed by a train, Jim Copeland, chief announcer of radio station CKGW, was able to give the man blood before the general public had learned from the "Cheerio" station of his need.

James Banks, aged 46, of 225 Ashdale Ave., was the man for whom the emergency measures were taken, though fruitlessly. He died about six hours after an accident in the Danforth yards of the C.N.R. when he was terribly mangled by a shunting train which backed over him.

The unfortunate man was a car inspector, and it is believed to have stepped off the back of a train directly in the path of a string of freight cars backing up through the yards. Several cars were over Banks before the train was stopped. One car had to be backed up before he could be removed.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station

Sell this new way— by Code Numbers

Many progressive firms today are using long distance telephone service to get sales at lower costs. They divide their territories into "Key Towns" from which different groups of customers can be called conveniently and economically.

We assist in this by compiling Sequence Lists of calls and giving each call a Code Number. The salesman then just tells the Long Distance operator: "I want numbers 2, 6 and 9 on my Sequence List".

The increased facilities for long distance service make Key-town Selling by Code Numbers more efficient than ever. We shall be glad to explain the details and help you organize your lists.

Most accidents, in fact, are the fault of the victim. I see, for instance, that although 6,500 people were killed last year in Germany, owing to motor accidents, no fewer than 4,574 people were killed by falling off roofs. I can scarcely believe that in each of these 4,574 cases it was the roof alone which was to blame.

HANDLED 6,000,000 EGGS

Napanee's new system of egg marketing is working out well, according to R. H. Ashton, manager of the co-operative egg marketing service at the foot of John Street.

The change-h egg marketing methods is a radical departure from the time honored system of bringing the eggs in to the grocer, generally in exchange for goods. Now it appears that the latter system is to follow all other ancient methods of barter into the discard, and in future egg sales will be on a cash basis rather than trade. In accepting the new system Napanee is following the lead of many other towns in Ontario.

The reasons for the change are many. Chiefly it is the egg grading regulations through which every grocer had to grade and candle every egg handled, and pay for eggs bought on a graded basis. Mr. Ashton's service means only one grading. The eggs are never graded again, in Montreal or elsewhere. That system means cutting out another middle-man who had to have a profit in the marketing chain. The new system should mean a little higher selling price for the farmers' eggs.

"In Napanee," said Mr. Ashton, "the grocers took on this new system last August, and both grocers and farmers are well pleased with their six months' experience with it.

"Grading by our organization," said Mr. Ashton, "will mean uniform and reliable grades. Eggs graded by us can be shipped without regrading, which means lower cost of handling and higher prices to sellers of eggs.

Mr. Ashton started in that business in Morrisburg 28 years ago. Four years ago he opened a co-operative egg marketing service in Belleville, and now has branches in Napanee and Picton. Several farmers' egg circles and collecting stations sell eggs to him.

Last year 12 per cent. of Canada's export trade in eggs was shipped by the Ashton organization. About 16,000 cases were handled by Mr. Ashton last year. That figures out at 5,760,000 eggs.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE SOLDIER

There is an interesting document in the records of Parliament which, in the light of the King Government's pre-election concern for the returned soldier, becomes doubly interesting.

It is a bill which reflects Liberal interest in the veteran of the Great War. It's sponsor was Frank S. Cahill, Liberal member for Pontiac and one of the leading members of the party in the House. In fact Mr. Cahill has for several years been chairman of the Committee on Railways and Canals, which is only one step removed from cabinet membership in party councils.

The bill appeared to amend the Civil Service Act and leave to introduce it was sought by Mr. Cahill on December 13th, 1926. It appeared for first reading February, 1927. Its purpose was to take away from the returned soldier the very small preference then given him in seeking employment in the civil service. The disabilities he suffered, the dangers he faced, the time he lost in the service of his country was not to be considered at all, if Mr. Cahill's bill carried.

Resentment of Conservative members was so keen that the measure was finally withdrawn, but it stands on the records as lasting evidence of the lack of regard for the returned man which has been characteristic of the Government until now that an election is pending.

The smaller the fish the more it strains the veracity of the angler.

FASCINATING LINKS IN CANADA'S HISTORY

Another connecting link with the Old Regime in Canada has been established by the securing of a picture of Charles de Menou, Seigneur d'Aunay Charniasy by the Dominion Archives at Ottawa. The portrait was considered a "find" as it was not thought there was a picture of the former governor until a few years ago.

At exposition held last year in Paris a miniature was shown which was owned by d'Aunay's relatives and it is from the miniature that the present painting has been made. It is large and well framed and has just been received from the photographers by Dr. Kenny at the Archives. The picture is that of a young man, with kindly eyes and long fair hair. His collar which is attached to his military suit, is edged with beautiful lace and the eyes do not revert to the details, but rather to the strong character which is lined in the face.

The story of D'Aunay Charniasy is told by Parkam in Vol 1, of his Old Regime in Canada. There he tells of the coming to Canada of d'Aunay in 1632, with his cousin Claude de Razilly. He was a gentleman of birth and character and they settled on the Acadian lands. Razilly who represented King Louis, died in 1635 and left his authority to d'Aunay and nobody disputed his authority except La Tour. La Tour had been sent to Acadia by Sir William Alexander and was made a baronet of Nova Scotia, a new title which King James had authorized on people of consideration aiding him in his work of colonizing Acadia. La Tour pretended to be independent of d'Aunay in virtue of his commission from the Crown and his grant, which was of lands at Cape Sable. Hence rose dissensions that at last grew into war.

La Tour ruled over his little kingdom at Cape Sable, with its rocks, fogs and breakers, its seal haunted islets and iron bound shores guarded by Fort Lomeron, which he called Fort La Tour. On the other side of the peninsula d'Aunay reigned at Port Royal like a feudal lord. Then La Tour to strengthen himself against his formidable neighbor, got from the company of New France the grant of a tract of land at the mouth of the river St. John, where he built a fort and called it after his own name, though it was better known as Fort St. Jean. Then a bitter feud started between the two chiefs, each claiming lands occupied by the other. Fights followed in which the King sent soldiers from France to aid d'Aunay and La Tour was a fugitive. d' Aunay was drowned in 1650 not far from the mouth of the Annapolis while out in a canoe. Madame La Tour had died a violent death in 1644, and in 1653 Madame d'Aunay married the foe of her late husband, La Tour.

Requests are received quite often at the Archives for a picture of Madam La Tour, but so far they have been unable to locate one at all.

WAS RUN DOWN AND VERY WEAK

Too Little Blood the Trouble and Tonic Treatment Restored Her Health

"I am writing to tell you," says Mrs. James A. Haughn, Bridgewater, N.S., "the great health benefit I received through the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. I had become badly run down and very weak; so much so that I could only with difficulty do my housework. I suffered from headaches, and had very little desire for meals. The trouble affected my nerves, and as a result I did not sleep well at night; and would often awake with a choking sensation, and would have to sit up in bed. I was taking treatment, but it did not help me and I was losing courage, when I saw an advertisement of a case which seemed much like my own, which had been relieved by the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. I decided to give this medicine a trial and got two boxes. Before these were all gone there was an improvement in my appetite, which seemed a hopeful sign. I procured a further supply of the pills and found a steady improvement in my health. I could eat well, sleep soundly at night and my housework was no longer a task beyond my strength. From my own experience I would advise weak, run-down people to give Dr. Williams Pink Pills a fair trial, feeling that what they have done for me, they will just as readily do in other similar cases."

If you send your name and address to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., a little book, "Building Up the Blood," will be mailed you prepaid. This little book contains many useful health hints.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Lamb and Mutton

The consumption of lamb and mutton in Canada is showing a rapid increase. During the year ending last March, upwards of 40,000 more sheep and lambs were slaughtered in inspected packing houses than during the previous year. The totals were 1,068,835 cattle; 640,994 sheep, and 2,453,704 hogs. However, there was a decrease in the number of cattle and hogs slaughtered at these abbatoirs. The packers are said to be making increased efforts to improve the quality of the products they turn out. More of the finished and prepared meats ready for the table are being manufactured, looking to the development of the home market.

Analyze the Allowance on Your Used Car

If a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must make up the difference by extra charges on the new car or re-sell it to someone else at too high a price.

PERMANENT value is always better than a temporary bargain in the purchase of an automobile. It pays to look ahead and consider reliability and ultimate up-keep costs, as well as comfort, safety, speed and beauty of line and color.

Since most automobiles are bought for replacement, the value set on your used car is a factor in almost every purchase. Frequently it is given an importance beyond its true worth.

Used cars have a definte market value and you are justly entitled to an allowance based on that value. It is not fair that you receive less. It is not to your best interest to receive more.

If a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must either re-sell it to some one else at too high a price or make up the difference on the new car. This he cannot do unless he is allowed an excessive profit on the car or on financing, extra equipment and other charges. In either case you pay the bill, for no way has yet been found to give something for nothing. The money must come from somewhere. It is good for you to have a true picture of the used-car situation and its secondary importance in the purchase of an automobile.

You may not get the largest used-car allowance from the Ford dealer, yet you gain in the long run. You save far more than the seeming difference in trade allowance because of the lower first cost of the Ford, the low charges for selling, financing and accessories, and the lower cost of operation, service and replacement parts. The profits of the Ford dealer are not marked up or increased to cover a high allowance on a used car.

Furthermore, at least $75 extra value is given to you in the new Ford in the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, Rustless Steel, five steel-spoke wheels, and four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers. The large number of ball and roller bearings, and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings are other features that show the extra quality built into the Ford car.

POLICE TO UNITE ON RADIO SERVICE

The likelihood of more than 550 cities in Canada and the United States with populations of 20,000 and over, applying for authority to operate police radio service to aid in the apprehention of criminals, requires a definite determination of policy by the Federal Radio Commission in "order to save the situation from a chaotic condition" Lt. Kennedy Cox, of the chicago police department, informed the Federal Radio Commission.

Appearing before the commission with a committee of police representatives of several cities, Lt. Cox said the Commission should make provision for an adequate number of frequencies in the mobile continental short wave band for such police services, and also require the installation of modern equipment and place a definite limitation of power with a view to keeping interference at a minimum. He said the advantages of police radio already had been proved and that the use of makeshift equipment and the "doubled up" of stations of the same channels by cities in close proximity was leading to a condition that will warrant correction because of the impending large number of applications.

The Chairman of the Commission said the Commission had already decided that police radio is to the public tinterest, but it had not anticipated the number of cities which would require the service

ANOTHER LAUGH

A man was one day visiting a lunatic asylum, and while walking in the grounds he met a patient, to whom he said:

"How did you get here?"

The man replied:

"Well, sir, you see I married a widow with a grown-up daughter, and then my father married my wife's daughter. That made my wife the mother-in-law of her father-in-law, and my father became my stepson. Then my stepmother, the daughter of my wife, had a son, and that boy, of course, was my brother because he was my father's son, but he was also my wife's stepson and therefore her grandson, and that made me the grandfather of my stepbrother. Then my wife had a son, so my mother-in-law, the stepsister of my son, is also his grandmother because his stepsister is his wife. I am the brother of my own son, who is also the son of my step-grandfather. I am my mother's mother-in-law, my wife is her own child's aunt, my son is my father's nephew, and I am my own grandfather.

Following an entertainment in a village hall, the chairman of the committee approached one of the entertainers and said sympathetically:

"I am sorry we didn't get time to call on you for your magic turn, but time was getting short and we had to cut down the program considerably. I hope you have not been put out about it."

"Well, sir," he murmured, "I am put out rather."

"I'm sorry to hear that," went on the chairman, "but I hope that another time you will get a chance."

"It isn't that exactly," explained the magician, "I'm put out financially—two shillings, to be exact."

"What do you mean?" asked the chairman.

"Well, I didn't get a chance to get rid of the florin I smuggled into a man's pocket, which I was going to mysteriously produce in my main turn."

A little girl had sent back her plate two or three times for turkey. She had also been bountifully helped to other good things. When the plum-pudding was pladed before her she looked at it longingly, and sighed, but did not begin to eat it.

Her uncle noting her expression, said "What's the matter, Kathleen? You look mournful."

"I am more'n-full," replied the little girl. And then she wondered why everybody laughed.

GAVE JAM TO QUEEN MARY

London Customs Held up Gift of Preserved Plums For Buckingham Palace—Ruling Unable to Accept Mat From Nova Scotia Lady

Refusal of the Canadian Department of External Affairs to allow Mrs. Mary Ann Googoo, the Nova Scotian Indian woman, to send the King her kind gift of a pair of moosmatts reminds one that His Majesty cannot accept promiscuous presents. It also reminds one that some of his early predecessors were not so reluctant. William the Conquerur had a very taking way with him and King John's minions were reputed to sear with hot irons or to pull the teeth one by one from people who balked at the royal demand for a loan which might or might not be repaid. Things reached a climax under Edward IV., who had a most unpleasant custom of notifying some rich noble or commoner that a gift of cash would be acceptable. Thereupon the subject, if he valued his life and liberty, made haste to obtain the hoard of gold and silver required by the sovereign. Needless to say, the royal gratitude was sometimes displayed in the later award of titles, honors, lands and privileges to such royal creditors, though many indeed received nothing for their forced generosity.

Might Be Advertised

The inability nowadays of British monarchs to accept gifts from one and all arises, of course, because they cannot be under obligations and also because they would be inundated with presents of all kinds. Moreover, the senders would often be actuated by motives of self interest and one can picture the commercial uses that would be made of the fact that the King had accepted a present of a certain brand of cigars, a box of a certain toilet soap, etc. It would never do. One can imagine, however, that in the case of Mrs. Googoo, an exception might yet be made.

Queen's Canadian Jam

Once at least during the Great War the royal rule about accepting gifts was relaxed, though not in regard to the King. And strangely enough the favored person was, like Mrs. Googoo, a Nova Scotian woman. One morning Col. Claude Brian, son of Rev. Mr. Brian, of Parkdale, and who had just succeeded Col. Hodgetts, of Toronto, as head of the Canadian Red Cross in London, received a letter from a farmer's wife living near Wolfville, N.S. The letter stated that the sender had just finished preserving her plums and that she was sending, via the Red Cross, a present of a dozen gem jars of the fruit for Her Majesty the Queen, who the kind farmer's wife felt must be suffering from the food shortage which had put the royal family, like everyone else, on rations. More interesting still were some photos in the letter taken with a little camera. One showed the trees in the orchard weighted down with plums. Another showed the family plucking the fruit, another the farmer's wife making jam in the back kitchen. A fourth snapshot showed the box of preserves in the family cart in front of the little farm house, about to depart on the first lap of the long and precarious journey to Buckingham palace.

Customs Held Up Gift

The Queen's secretary, immediately notified about the present of plum preserves and the accompanying photos, informed Her Majesty. Queen Mary, deeply touched and very pleased, said that under the circumstances court etiquette must be waived and that she would be delighted to accept the present. There was joy in the Nova Scotia farm house when a gracious message of acceptance from the Queen reached the farmer's wife. Meanwhile the London customs house where the plums had been detained in the usual course was notified by the Red Cross to forward the fruit to Buckingham Palace.

Three weeks later the phone rang at Red Cross headquarters. A voice at the other end of the line stated that the plums had not yet arrived and that Her Majesty wondered what had become of them. But when the Red Cross queried the customs it was informed that the sugar in the fruit made the preserves dutiable and that they had been held for customs dues The Queen, amused and rather irritated by this display of customs red tape, instructed her secretary to ring up the customs and say that she was much annoyed and to send up the plums without another minute's delay. The preserves arrived at Buckingham Palace on a truck and were presently enjoyed not only by the royal family but by the staff of servants, who wished that there had been a dozen boxes instead of one.

Mat For the King

Still another Nova Scotia woman has sent a gift to royalty. Some time ago a kindly, pious old lady, famed for her skill at making hooked mats of wool, who had heard about the coldness of English houses, conceived the idea that the King would enjoy putting his feet on a nice soft rug when he got out of bed of a morning. Forthwith she worked a pretty mat whose centrepiece was a snowy white lamb grazing upon the most verdant of grass. Beneath it, worked in woollen letters, was the textual inscription, "Behold the Lamb of God."

Neatly packed and addressed to "His Majesty King George V., Buckingham Palace, London, England," the rug, escaping the snooping eyes of departmental officials, reached its destination.

Old Lady Framed Letter

Deponent sayeth not what transpired when the mat reached Buckingham but about three weeks later a package, with it the postman delivered a very courteous letter on royal stationery bearing the signature of the King's secretary, thanking the old lady and expressing regret that rigid rules prevented His Majesty from accepting the gift she had so kindly sent. It was, indeed, a blow, but that letter more than offset the old lady's chagrin. Had she not received at least a token of the royal appreciation? Forthwith she framed the letter and hung it on the wall of her parlor right over the much travelled mat which tells the King and the royal family had gazed upon and admired. Since then the letter and the mat have been proudly displayed to many visitors.

CELEBRATE 50th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

An interesting event was celebrated yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. McKim when they received countless messages of congratulations on the occasion of their golden wedding. Congratulations from the longest distance over telephone reached them in the early morning from their youngest daughter, Hazel, who is residing in San Francisco, California.

Mr. and Mrs. McKim were born in Selby, Ontario, where they were married. They came to this district in 1906 from Napanee, Ontario, and took up a homestead north and west from Wilkie, where they have since resided. They have two daughters and one son living, Mrs. Cliff, Hazel McKim and Claude McKim. Mrs. Cliff, with her two children and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. McKim celebrated the auspicious occasion with them yesterday and in the evening the Wilkie United congregation conveyed its congratulations through a group who drove out to the McKim home and on behalf of the church presented Mr. and Mrs. McKim with a casserole and spoons. Presents were received from the children and grandchildren.

A short address was read referring to the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. McKim are held in and around Wilkie and to the joy of their many friends on the occasion of their golden wedding. The recipients fittingly expressed thanks and spoke of their many happy associations with the Wilkie people.

Mr. and Mrs. McKim have always taken an active part in church work in Wilkie. In the early days they were among the first members of the Wilkie Methodist congregation and for years Mr. McKim served on the Quarterly Board. On the event of church union he was ordained to the eldership of the United Church of Canada.

The Press joins with many others in tendering hearty congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. McKim and sincerely wishing them many more years of active endeavor in this district.—The Wilkie Press, Wilkie, Sask., February 19th, 1930.

OBITUARY

Samuel Madole

The people of the Deseronto Road and the surrounding community were sorry to hear of the death of Samuel Madole, that occurred at his home on the Deseronto Road, on February 10th, 1930. Mr. Madole was born in Ireland in the year 1840. When he was 13 years of age he, with his parents, came to Canada, settling west of Deseronto. At an early age Mr. Madole took up farming and was successful with it. He then married Miss Rennie, of Deseronto, but she predeceased him about 35 years ago, leaving him with a large family.

He, with his family, purchased a farm 2 miles east of Deseronto, about 25 years ago, and lived there and farmed very successfully until his death. If Mr. Madole had lived until April 1st he would have celebrated his ninetieth birthday.

He leaves to mourn his loss his son and daughter, Thomas and Maggie, with whom he lived until his death; another son, William, living on the same farm; Jack, who is now at home; also Mrs. Jack Birrel, of Napanee, and Mrs. Fredericks, of Picton, Ont. The funeral was conducted at his late residence by Rev. Mr. Radcliffe, pastor of the Church of England, Deseronto, of which he was a member. He was a life-long Conservative.

The bearers were Austin, Mendell and Wesley Kimmerly, Claude Alkenbrack, John Thompson and Robert Rennie.

Mrs. C. R. Allison

The oldest and highly esteemed resident of Adolphustown, Catherine Jane, widow of the late Cyrus F. Allison, passed away on February 25th.

Mrs. Allison, of United Empire Loyalist descent, was born in Adolphustown, June 10th, 1837, daughter of the late William Murdock, and had been a life long resident of the community, and with her pleasing personality and her unswerving allegiance for all that was laudable and just, she has left a record seldom achieved.

Despite her advanced years she took an active interest in religion and political issues of the day and retained a keen mentality until the last.

She had one son, Roderick, who predeceased her in 1902 and is survived by two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Dorland, Kingston; Mrs. Robert Wilson, Pittsburg, Pa.; one granddaughter, Mrs. J. W. Duffet, and her two daughters, Lena and Catherine, Adolphustown; from whose home the funeral was held. The service being conducted by Rev. J. A. Plant, of Adolphustown United Church, of which Mrs. Allison had been a very active member for many years.

The remains were laid to rest in the Allison mausoleum at Adolphustown.

Henry Thomas Flynn

Following an illness of over a year the death occurred last Thursday, February 21st of Henry Thomas Flynn, 599 Shaw St., Toronto, for over 40 years a bailiff in that city, at the age of 89 years.

Born in London, Ont., he was a son of the late Thomas Flynn, Crown Lands Officer, of Kingston and Napanee, later moving to Napanee, where he was engaged in the grocery business until he went to Toronto as bailiff, carrying on until a little over a year ago, when he retired on account of ill health.

Mr. Flynn was a life member of Doric Masonic Lodge, A.F. & A.M. and one of the eldest members of the Royal Arch Chapter, of Napanee. He was a Methodist in religion and is survived by his widow, Eliza J. Flynn and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Granger, of Trenton, and Mrs. Sophia Iris, of Watertown, N.Y.

OBITUARY

William Breault

The funeral took place on Monday, February 24th, from his late residence, 136 Nelson Street, of William Breault, a former well-known resident, of Camden Township.

The funeral was held to St. Mary's Cathedral, where at nine o'clock solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Father A. O'Neill.

Many floral and spiritual offerings banked the casket. The pall bearers were David Breault, William Breault, Mark Dowling, Thomas Sweanor, Edmund Harpell and Thomas Lawlor.

The remains were placed in the vault at St. Mary's Cemetery. The late Mr. Breault carried on farming in Camden district for many years and was widely known and respected throughout the country side. Eleven years ago he retired and since that time had been living in Kingston. He was seventy-three years of age. Mr. Breault had been ill for some time, his death occurring on Friday.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Francis Breault, of Detroit, Michigan, two daughters, Mrs. Edmund Harpell, of Cataraqui and Mrs. George Harpell, of Cataraqui; ten grandchildren, one brother, Levi Breault, of Erinsville, also survives.

ERNESTTOWN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The February meeting, (Grandmother's Day), held at the home of Mrs. Harry Mott, was a decided success, crowds coming from all directions in jolly sleigh loads.

The roll call was readily responded to with amusing stories and incidents of grandmother's time.

A letter was read by the Secretary from the Educational Association, of Toronto, and, after some discussion, our Branch joined it.

A report of the National Council of Women, held at Kingston the previous week, was given by our President, Mrs. Fred Hamm.

Mrs. Claude Thompson sang, in her usual pleasing voice, a song suitable to Grandmother's Day.

The demonstration, "Something New from Something Old," given by Mrs. Geo. Springs, was a child's silk dress, beautifully made from an old one.

The discussion, "Active Middle Age Surpasses Youth in the Enjoyment of Life," was heartily entered into, and a lively exchange of thoughts was given. Perhaps the younger women had the better of it; still the grandmothers held their own quite well.

The talk, "An Eulogy to Grandmother," given by Mrs. Raymond Fretts, of the Maple Leaf Branch, was excellent. That so young a woman could give us so able an address was a happy surprise. She gave us a history from pioneer days down to the present, and Mrs. Herbert Laidley played suitable songs for grandmother, mother and daughter.

Mrs. Winzlo Thompson read a clever article about "Pioneer Days."

The parade by some of the members in clothes of grandmother's day was much enjoyed, some declaring that they were even prettier than present day styles. There were old dresses, capes, coats, bonnets, veils, stockings, shawls, and quite a collection of old articles on exhibition.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Harriet J. Perry

There passed peacefully away at the residence of her granddaughter, Mrs. E. Osborne, Benton Harbor, Mich., on Wednesday, February 26th, 1930, Harriet Jane Pralick, relict of the late Samuel Perry of Ernestown, at the ripe age of 92 years and 11 months.

Her parents, Peter S. Pralick and Elizabeth Vanluven were among the early and prominent residents of Ernestown, they being the parents of a family of nine, Mrs. Perry was the last member of that generation.

Her husband predeceased her about forty-five years ago and being the mother of seven children, she has been called upon to mourn the loss of six of them. Her son, Earl, lives in Detroit, but owing to illness was not able to accompany the remains to their last resting place. Her amiable disposition and kind Christian character endeared her to all her relatives and friends. In her later years she was not allowed to feel the loss of her family, inasmuch as her grandchildren cared for her in a way that only love can do.

Her remains arrived in Napanee on Sunday and were taken to the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. V. Pralick, Adelphi Street, at whose home the funeral was held on Monday at 2 o'clock. The service was in charge of Rev W. P. Woodger, who spoke sympathetically and reverently of the whom God had honored with many years. Her remains were placed in the Morven vault, to await interment in the family plot in the Violet Cemetery in the Spring.

Mrs. William Holmes

Napanee was shocked on Thursday, February 27th to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. William Holmes, Adelphi St., who in the midst of apparently good health, was called to her Maker. Mrs. Holmes was born sixty-two years ago in Minnesota, Hannah Matilda Johnston, and has been living in Napanee for the past ten years, where she has made many sincere friends.

The deceased was a faithful member of St. Mary Magdalene Church, where the funeral services took place on Sunday afternoon, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. J. Dumbrille.

The remains were then taken to the vault at Riverside Cemetery, to await interment in the Spring.

Those who are left to mourn the loss of a good wife and mother, are William Holmes, her husband; Morley and Tony, her sons; Mrs. Gordon MacKinnon and Miss Rose Holmes, her daughters.

Those who came to Napanee to attend the funeral services were her only brother, Mr. T. A. Johnston, Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon MacKinnon, of Cardinal; Mr. Richard Johnston, Mr. Arnold Johnston, Mrs. M. Boush and Mr. Edward Thompson, of Ironsides; Mrs. Amy Howes and Miss Pearl Stirtan, of Spencerville.

NO NARROW-GAUGED POLITICIAN

If one quality of the Hon. R. B. Bennett has been impressed more than another upon the people of Canada since he accepted the leadership of the Conservative Party, it is, that he thinks and acts constructively. When he criticises he offers a remedy. He is an advocate of progress, an opponent of purposeless change.

At the last session of Parliament the outstanding constructive suggestion came from him, when he urged the holding of an Empire economic conference to devise ways and means of promoting business relations among British people. Within the Empire, he said, are one-fourth the world's people and one-fourth its area, with all the facilities for self-sustenance. Their utilization by the Empire would multiply prosperity and cement for all time the bonds of kinship. Within the Empire the great majority of things we buy may be bought and most of what we sell may be sold. Within it are the British people needed to develop Canada as a British nation.

Mr. Bennett's suggestion found hearty endorsation throughout the Empire and several months later the King Government adopted it. The conference will be held this fall.

On April 13th, 1927 he moved in the House an amendment to the Pensions Act which would remove the most serious injustice under which veterans suffered. They were rejected. Last November Sir Arthur Currie startled Canada with his exposure of the unfair and unsympathetic treatment accorded veterans and demanded the very reforms which Mr. Bennett advanced two years and seven months earlier. And Premier King has promised to make them effective.

For three years Mr. Bennett has been demanding justice for the Canadian farmer, the dairymen and the horticulturist; demanding that the home market be made available to him. Now, with an election impending, the King Government has promised the relief which it has persistently refused.

Mr. Bennett has stoutly championed the cause of the municipalities and the province in their demand that the Federal Government lift some of the burden of taxation by assisting agriculture, technical education and national highway construction.

These and many more instances drive home the thought that a more self-seeking public man would be less generous in laying bare a very able mind to help his political opponents solve national problems in the national interest.

Keep Them Happy By Keeping Them Well

It is natural for children to be happy, active and full of fun. When they are fretful, fussy and disinclined to play you may be sure something is wrong. Almost invariably that something lies in the digestive tract.

It is to meet the need for an absolutely safe corrective of childhood ailments that Baby's Own Tablets have been designed. They gently regulate the stomach and bowels and thus drive out constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers and allay teething pains. Concerning them Mrs. W. E. Forsyth, Dover, Alta. writes: "I would not be without Baby's Own Tablets as I know of nothing to equal them for fretful, fussy babies who are troubled with colds or sour stomach."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Lady Driver (who has just knocked policeman down): "Can I do anything for you—I'm a doctor—"

Constable: "Well, mum, if you sets 5 leg like you drive a car I'd rather be excused."

Street Singer: "Yus, lady, it is monotonous singing the same old song. Fifteen years I done it, and me father before me, but it wasn't so monotonous for him 'cos he knew the words.

CHINESE DANCE TO CANADIAN RECORDS

Canadian and English dance records are becoming more popular and there is an increased demand for them in China, owing to the growing popularity of western dance steps among the Chinese.

Phonograph import of China have expanded considerably within recent years, but Chinese merchants are beginning to manufacture these instruments themselves.

Phonographs were first introduced into China about 30 years ago, and from the time of their introduction to the present there have been many changes in the methods of manufacturing and marketing this product. A French firm organized the first phonograph factory in China. As a result of the profits, which were apparent, Chinese merchants began to establish phonograph factories in Shanghai to manufacture not only phonographs, but records as well.

The phonographs manufactured are very cheap and retail at the equivalent of $10 and $18 Canadian currency. These supply the demand of the majority of the population, but it is apparent that a large number of imported phonographs are sold in China both to well-to-do Chinese and foreigners.

It is interesting to note that phonographs are not separately classified in the Chinese customs statistics, being included under the general classification "Musical Instruments" and the imports of musical instruments into China have increased from a value of $558,440 in 1925 to $1,256,540 in $928. It is believed that imdorts of phonographs and parts have at least shown a corresponding increase in the same period.

The wealthier classes of Chinese and the resident foreigners prefer the cabinet types of phonographs because of their added value as household furniture. On the other hand the mass of the population cannot afford to pay high prices for luxury goods.

DETECTION OF DISEASE BY "FINGER PRINTS"

Detecting disease germs by the finger-print method used in detecting criminals is now a major function in the Illinois Department of Health according to a statement just made public.

During the last ye r129,296 tests were made, and of these 22,421 revealed germs. The full text of the statement follows:

Detecting crime among the germ population by the finger print method is now a major function of the State Department of health. No less than 334 examinations of this Kind are made daily, and 17 per cent show traces of guilt. These facts are disclosed in the annual report of Dr. Andy Hall, State health director.

It showed that the laboratory referred to as the finger-print bureau, made, 129,296 tests during the last fiscal year and that 22,421 incriminated numerous bacteria bent upon the destruction of people all over the States. Specimens reached the laboratory from every county in the State, ranging in number from 3 for Edwards to 12,624 for Kane.

"Fingerprints are simply evidence frequently left by criminals that give positive identity to the culprit when matched with readings from his own hand, and disease-producing germs leave in the blood and tissues evidence no less incriminating of their presence," said Dr. Hall. "Each type of germ leaves signs peculiar to itself, just as human rogues find it impossible to cover up their tracks completely, each one leaving some trace of his particular character. The laboratory looks for evidence of this kind more often than it seeks to find the germ itself in specimens examined."

Money is everything—if you haven't anything to be proud about.

ALBERTA'S WIDE SEARCH FOR OIL

In Canada oil exploration extends over a wide area in the Province of Alberta and oil has been discovered in the southern area as far south as the international boundary, in the Sweet Grass district, and in the north as far as Fort Norman within the Arctic Circle.

The wide search being made is for crude oil, which was discovered in commercial quantities in the Fort Norman district, but undeveloped because of the lack of transportation. At present the Turner Valley field, 35 miles southwest of Calgary, is producing principally high grade naphtha, and a limited quantity of crude oil.

The Wainright field, which ranks second to Turner Valley, from the standpoint of developement work now in progress, is believed to give better evidence of crude oil and considerable scientific work has been accomplished. The result, however, is not highly satisfactory as far as the search for crude oil is concerned.

At present some 45 wells are drilled or drilling, and 10 wells are alreapy procuring gas or oil. The output is as yet comdaratively small in volume, but the presence of oil is conclusively indicated and many of the most important operators in the West are now directing their attention to the Wainright field.

MOST MOTH CURES ARE VALUELESS

Anti-moth fumigators are affective only in containers and are not reliable in ordinary rooms or closets according to a result of tests recently made.

Small cases, cards or bags containing naphthalene will not furnish protection against moths when hung in a room or large closet, will not drive out flies, mosquitos roaches, bedbugs or ants, and will not purify the air, disinfect or destroy odours, according to the result of a test.

For many years these materials were called moth repellents and it was believed that their odour would keep moths from entering a closet or drive them out if they were already there. Experiments have shown that moth larvae will crawl though a line of paradichloro-benzene, commonly called P.D.B., or of naphthalene, and not be affected. Adult moths will fly over P.D.B. placed across the side of a box and deposit eggs on the flannel in the box or will remain and breed in a small open room or closet where both compounds are present in considerable amounts.

Both materials are very effective against moths when used as a fumigant at the proper dosage in small tight containers as for example trunks, boxes, and small tight chests or wardrobes. They cannot be relied upon in ordinary rooms or closets that are not tight.

AUTO PRODUCTION IN CANADA EXPANDS

Automobile production in Canadian factories during 1929 amounted to 265,393 units, an increase of 9 per cent over the previous year, the growing popularity of closed cars being indicated by an increase of 13 per cent in such models.

Truck output increased 26 per cent. Exports of passenger automobiles during the year were 16 per cent larger, the greatest gain being in cars of the $500 to $1000 class. Truck exports were 59 per cent larger than in 1928, the chief increase being noted in those of over 1-ton capacity. Trick imports during the year decreased 27 per cent from the 1928 valuation. A decline is also noted in the valuation of passenger cars imported, due to a falling off of 19 per cent in the movement of cars valued at more than $1,200. There was an increase of six per cent in the movement of cars listed at less than $1,200.

News and Information For the Farmer

When calves are getting skimmed milk with clover or alfalfa hay, a very good grain mixture is 200 pounds wheat bran, 300 pounds ground oats, 200 pounds corn meal and 100 pounds linseed oil meal. Some prefer rolled oats to ground and others use a commercial calf feed. The main thing is to grow the calves that are later to take their place in the herd.

The Weed Campaign

An intensive campaign against weeds in the Province of Ontario has been inaugurated for this year. By an order-in-council, the Weeds Act has been changed as to regulations and in future no member of a municipal council or road foreman or superintendent may be appointed weed inspector. Some of the lesser weeds will be overlooked this year and the effort will be to concentrate on the real pests.

Early Buying Pays

The poultryman who goes to buy cockerels early in the season will not only have a larger selection to choose from but will be able to obtain them at a more conservative price. The hatch is then started off to the last moment often results in securing fowl that are not entirely satisfactory for the price paid. Another advantage in early buying is that the poultryman can be surer of the birds that he wants at that time of the year as the early maturing birds will show up to a greater advantage than later in the season. Early buying also allows the cockerels to become accustomed to the farm, thereby increasing their usefulness. A bird will seldom prove satisfactory as a breeder when he has but recently been added to the flock.

Tankage For Weaning Pigs

Tankage is recommended as the best substitute for weaning pigs. Pigs fed tankage instead of skim milk may not make quite as rapid gains during the first month after weanings as pigs fed on skim milk, but they will be much more thrifty than pigs fed grain alone. Tankage may be mixed with grain at the rate of five pounds to 95 pounds of grain for the first week after weaning, increasing them to from seven to ten pounds in 100 pounds of feed mixture until the pigs reach a weight of from 50 to 60 pounds. The small pigs may be allowed to help themselves to tankage if it is placed in a small self-feeder rather than mixing it with the grain.

Need Cleaner Soil and Good Seed

In spite of the fact that official reports indicate that over a period of years there is no decline in crop yields, there are still many districts where the impression prevails that the harvests are not what they used to be. A case in point is in Wellington County, where the agricultural representative has found that there are many farmers who are not satisfied with results of recent years and are sending samples of seed oats to be tested. This dissatisfaction may be due in part to the short crop of 1929 when lack of moisture cut the yields almost everywhere, a natural condition which should give the impression that either soil or seed have run out. There are now available varieties of wheat, barley and oats that outyield the other sorts, but even the best selected seeds cannot give results if the soil is not in condition or if the fields are overrun with weeds.

Home Mixing of Fertiliser

The home mixing of commercial fertiliser for tobacco has certain advantages over the use of ready-mixed fertiliser. The cost of home-mixed fertilizers is considerably less than ready-mixed brands, also the grower knows exactly what he is using, not only the percentage of nitrogen, phosphorous and potash, but the origin of these ingredients.

The mixing should be done on a level surface such as a barn floor or a specially constructed mixing box. The ingredients should be spread out and all lumps broken before mixing is done. The whole batch is then thoroughly mixed by repeated shovelling. Not more than a ton should be mixed in one batch and it should be applied to the land within 24 hours of its preparation.

Makes 1000-Mile Tour

Farmers in Ontario will be given free information, advice and literature by experts with regard to their soil problems, if A. Carol, markets branch director, recently left Toronto in charge of the Ontario Department of Agriculture farm train for a 1000-mile trip through the province. The train of three cars will make approximately 55 stops during this sixth annual tour from February 18th to April 23rd. Information on wheat control, utilization of horsepower, fertilizing problems and other matters will be dispensed along the road.

Bovine Tuberculosis

Farmers are urged to take advantage of the proposals made by the Dominion Government, to have their cattle tested for tuberculosis. Each municipality, by a resolution signed by two-thirds of the cattle owners therein, may have a veterinary test their herds for tuberculosis, and all animals found infested will be shipped away, and the proceeds given to the owner, together with a bonus of $40 per head for grade cattle and up to $100 for pure-bred animals. This would effectively eradicate tuberculosis from the restricted areas thus formed, with little or no loss to the owners of the stock.

"Old Dobbin" Replaced

It is interesting to note the decrease of "Old Dobbin" and the increase of the "Iron Horse," particularly on the Prairie Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. There are, according to a recent estimate, a total of 60,220 tractors in operation on the 248,162 Canadian prairie farms, 14,507 of which were purchased but last year. In Manitoba there are 12,246; in Saskatchewan, 35,082, and in Alberta 18,791 farm tractors. No figures are available for Ontario but it is doubtful if this province can even begin to compare with the western prairie provinces for numbers of this type of machinery.

TRY TO FIX TIME MAN HAS EXISTED IN NORTH AMERICA

To fix more definitely the time when man began to live in the area that is now North America, Dr. James W. Gidley, of the vertebrate paleontology section, National Museum, will again visit Florida, it was stated at the Smithsonian Institution.

Evidence already discovered in Florida, by Dr. Gidley, it was stated, has convinced most anthropologists that man inhabited this continent in the Pleistocene period. Dr. Gidley's search is intended to find more remains of man in association with those of animals, and thus to fix with more certainty the beginning of human inhabitance, which may have been anywhere from somewhat less than 100,000 to more than 1,000,000 years ago, according to the statement.

"IN-A-HURRY" CAKE

There is so much entertaining to be done in the holiday and the winter season. Each member of the family wants a party of some kind, mother tries to pay back her invitations by having a few tables of bridge at a time and when she is out father often has a "stag." At times like these there is always the hurry at the last minute for attractive and appefining food to be served.

A lunch cake, which is very quickly made and is a great favorite with those who often have to "hurry up" a last minute lunch is convenient to keep on hand.

The recipe is: 5 eggs, 1 cup white sugar, 1 lb. seeded raisins, 1-2 pound orange and citron peel, 1-2 lb. butter, 1 small bottle3 maraschino cherries. Cream butter and sugar, add the eggs, one at a time, and beat five minutes after each egg. Add fruit. Bake well in moderat oven.

DAIRY FACTORIES OF CANADA, 1928

The final report on the dairy factories of Canada for the year 1928 has just been issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. There were in operation in Canada in that year 2,833 dairy factories, with a capital investment of $53,552,319 and a product valued at $144,373,614. The total number of persons employed was 12,257, the amount paid in salaries and wages $12,809,102 and the amount paid to patrons, $103,871,580. In the eight-year period 1921 to 1928 the value of capital investment of the industry increased by 52 per cent, the number of employees by 9 per cent., the amount paid in salaries and wages by 39 per cent. The movement towards centralization is evidenced by the gradual decrease in the number of factories and the increase in the average value of output per factory. In 1921 the factories was 2,833, and the average value of output, $50,961.

Copies of the report may be had on application to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa.

Found Relief After Taking The First Box

Read What Mr. E. Gibb Says Of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Ontario Man Suffered For Years With His Kidneys

Bracebridge, Ont March 4th, (Special) — Once more Dodd's Kidney Pills have proved their wonderful value in the case of Mr. E. Gibbs, a resident of this place. He writes: "I suffered for years with my kidneys. I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills and got relief after taking the first box. After taking three boxes I felt as well as ever I did. I would not be without them now, and keep them in the house all the time. My wife also uses them."

To avoid disease, the Kidneys must be kept in good working order. The Kidneys are the scavengers of the body. Their work is to strain all the impurities out of the blood. If the Kidneys are wrong, the impurities, the seeds of disease, remain in the blood, and serious trouble may follow.

At the first sign of trouble give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial.

FOUND HIS PLEASURE IN POISONING PEOPLE

We have recently made the acquaintance, through the medium of the American newspapers, of one of the most revolting scoundrels who has appeared in the news since the time of Rickman, the California murderer. He is James Baker, a sailor. He calls himself "Texas Jim" and admits or even boasts of nine murders. Arrested in Detroit and being taken to New York he was found to be in possession of a couple of revolvers and a stiletto with which it is supposed he intended to complete the number of his victims. It seems rather characteristic of Davis that he would have had a fancy weapon in a stiletto, and not an ordinary butcher knife which would have been a good deal more effective. For he seems to be a kind of movie murderer. It is said that he will talk of his crimes by the hour. He does not apologize for them and relates the most horrible details with a gusto one might expect to find in youthful degenerates like Loeb and Leopold. Davis, too, is a degenerate, and while he may not have killed the nine people he names at least two of them were undoubtedly his victims. And as a New York detective remarked grimly, "One murder if all a guy needs to burn for in this state."

A Pervert

Davis' fondness for women rather than for murders seems to have been the cause of his undoing, for while the police were looking for him they had suspected he had gone to South America, and he could easily have kept out of their clutches if he had had a little more caution, or a little more control of himself where women were concerned, or if he had known a little better how to manage them. After committing his revolting murder in New York Davis left the city and turned up in Detroit. He immediately plunged into whatever amours were handy and seemed to think them of more importance than saving his own neck. He posed as a kind of combination sheik and gunman. He carried a revolver on which nine notches had been cut, each of them representing a man he had killed. His pockets were also full of pictures of girls, most of them nudes, and notes from girls, and extracts which he had laboriously copied from the works of Krafft-Ebbing, Havelock Ellis and the memoirs of the Marquis de Sade, all of them concerning sexual perversions.

Betrayed by Newspaper

Another of his treasured possessions was a portrait of himself clipped from a newspaper, which he used to keep on the wall of his bedroom. Underpress above and below had been clipped off, but the portrait was unidoubedly that of Davis in a heroic pose. A girl he had in Detroit became curious about the picture and when she visited Davis in his rooms for the last time she surreptitiously removed it and gave it to a Detroit detective. He was unable to identify it, but filed it away for reference. Then one day it happened that Tom Smith, a New York detective, went to Detroit to look after a parole breaker and the Detroit detective handed him the clipping. He did not recognize the face but looking on the back of the paper he recognized news items which showed that it had been published in New York. So he took the thing back with him. At New York headquarters the picture was identified at once as that of Davis, wanted for murder. The Detroit police were telephoned and they swooped down on Davis who made no resistance, and was soon talking expansively about the crimes he had committed.

Another Thrill Murderer

His first murder was that of Cyril Parks his stepfather, in Texas. They didn't get along very well and he shot him. Parks, by the way, was the only man Davis ever shot, his other victims being poisoned. From his youth up he seems to have taken a morbid interest in poisons, and when possible would get hold of some and carry it around with him. But it was not until 1924, when he was ashore in Galveston, Texas, from his ship, that the first impulse to murder anyone with poison became overwhelming. He was sitting in a lunchroom with another man who had just finished eating. He slipped a little poison in the sailor's coffee and had the thrill of seeing him die in convulsions in three minutes. Davis then went back to his ship and in the next three years he sailed to various parts of the world dropping poison when he had the opportunity, and on one occasion making an attempt to exterminate an entire crew with cyanide of potassium which he mixed with the coffee. Forty-one men drank the poison but only three of them died. "I watched them die," said Davis. "It was very interesting and just like the books said— their convulsions, I mean."

A Revolting Crime

The New York crime for which he will be tried was committed in the winter of 1928, the victim being a night watchman at the Guggenheim Laboratory in New York. Davis had worked for some little time at the laboratory and had stolen doses of poison from time to time. Indeed, when the police searched his rooms after he fled from New York they found enough cyanide to kill 10,000 people. At one time it seems that he had an ambition to make something of himself at the laboratory but disappointment at not securing a position he desired turned his mind to poison once more, and he quit his job. Then one night he went back to the laboratories and was admitted by Henry Gaw, the watchman, who knew him. They talked together for some time, and Davis found a chance to put poison in Gaw's coffee. But Gaw became only slightly ill and soon recovered. Then Davis drew his revolver and terrifying Gaw with it poisoned to mix up a kind of paste of cyanide and coffee, which he rammed down the doomed man's throat with his revolver. Before he could get clear of the place two truckmen entered, but Davis held them up with his revolver and robbed them. He intended to murder them also but they pleaded so desperately for their lives that he let them go. Of this he bitterly reproached himself later. "I guess that was a mistake," he said. "It was those guys who identified me from the laboratory photographs when the cops decided it was an inside job."

"Have you brought it?" asked the sick man eagerly.

An inspector was examining a class of boys in science, and receiving few answers to his questions. He asked one in a rather facetious manner, which drew a smile from a boy in the back row: "Silly ass!"

It is usually safe to say that when a child is pale, sickly, peevish and restless, the cause is worms. These parasites range the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and preventing the infant from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's Worm Powders act by stroying the worms, correct these faults of the digestion and serve to restore the organs to healthy action.

The Family Physician.—The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

"Man overboard!" came the hoarse shout. Boats were lowered and a search made.

Later the ship's company were lined up and the rollcall read over. The mystery deepened, for no one was missing.

At last a very scared-looking A.B. stepped forward and addressed the officer of the watch.

"I think, sir, 'as 'ow the man who went overboard must 'ave been me, sir," he said. "I went over, sir, but I managed to grab the anchor-chain an' climbed in again."

"Then why on earth didn't you say so before?"

"Very sorry, sir, but bein' in the lifeboat's crew, sir, I 'ad to go away to look for the man overboard."

Keeps Your Skin YOUNGER LOVELIER

CIVILIZATION MAY HAVE GENESIS ON THIS HEMISPHERE

There is no debt owed by the Western Hemisphere to the Old World for arts and letters distinguishing its civilization, says an archaeologist of note, F. E. Cox. The earlier studies of monuments and prehistoric remains of the American continent point conclusively to a native resource for its civilization. From wampum, pictorial grave post and buffalo robe to the hieroglyphics of Copan, Palenque and Chichinitza—the great native American Se-Quo-Yah, the second Cadmus in history—continuous traceable steps appear whereby American man developed for himself the wondrous invention of letters which legend ascribed to Thoth or Mercury, or with less mythology, to the Phoenician Cadmus.

The history of the first step in metallurgy is embodied in myths of the new world no less than of the old. Artiste labels a Carthaginian discovery as "Antilla," and Siculus assigns Carthaginian knowledge of an island in the ocean, the location kept secret for the purpose of a place of refuge if compelled to desert their African homes. The discovery of Punic coins at Beverly, one of the Azores, 800 miles from the European Atlantic coast, proves seafaring exploration to this extent.

A Phoenician expedition, 611-605 B.C., circumnavigated Africa, using the Red Sea. Hanno's expedition was to found Phoenician cities beyond the Pillars of Hercules; he pursued the same route which in a later century, resulted in the discovery of Brazil.

The evidence now available points to the isolation of the American continent through unnumbered ages. The legend of the lost Atlantic is true in that it regulates the knowledge of the world beyond the Atlantic, by Mediterranean races, to a time already of hoary antiquity in the age of Socrates, or even of Solon.

Graphic stone memorial of the passerby have furnished evidence of man's action. The vast empire of the strange Hittites has vanished from the world's memory, but the inscribed lion from Marash, now in Constantinople, speaks of a wonderful conquest prior to B.C. 1340. Through all the centuries of definite history, America has remained a world apart, secure in its isolation, with languages, arts and customs essentially native in character.

There has been a tendency to trace everything which marks the awakening into intellectual life of the American race, to an Asiatic or old world origin. No reason can be shown or has yet appeared why human intellect might not begin on the same course in America as in Mesopotamia or the Nile Valley.

No one should be surprised to learn of the discovery of a genuine Phoenician or Egyptian inscription or some hoard of Assyrian gryphons, or shekels of the merchants of Tyre, being recovered among the still unexplored treasurers of the buried empires and long deserted ruins of America.

An old Scottish ferryman was asked his terms for taking a party over on the Sabbath, and he replied: "Ah couldna' satisfy my conscience under feefteen shullins."

MR. AND MRS. THOS. B. REED

"SARGON has brough health, strength and happiness to both my wife and me and I would not take all the money in the world for the good it has done us," declared Thomas B. Reed, well-to-do farmer and lumberman, living at 919 Holmes street, Kansas City, Mo.

"Five years ago when on the train going from Bonnaud, Canada, to Calgary, I had a severe attack of acute indigestion and nobody thought I would live to reach my destination. When I came to myself I was in the hospital at Calgary.

"Since then I have suffered constantly from bilious attacks and splitting headaches that lasted for days at a time. Everything I ate disagreed with me. I had smothering spells that made me think I would die. I would get so dizzy I could hardly stand up, and I was constipated all the time. I was nervous and did not get a good night's sleep for years. Many nights I would get up and sit in a chair for hours.

"Sargon made a well man of me, has restored my nerves steady as a die and I sleep like a boy. My old-time strength has returned, and I have gained 15 pounds. I feel fine all the time."

"Sargon helped my wife, who is the mother of 13 children, the same way. She has actually gained 15 pounds in weight and feels better and stronger than in many years.

Mr. Reed was formerly a worshipful master in the Masonic order and Mrs. Reed is a beloved member of the Methodist Church.

OUR WEEKLY RECIPE

I surely never hope to view
A steak as luscious as a stew.
The latter is the tasty goal
Of elements in perfect whole
A mad assemblage of legumes
Exuding warm ambrosial fumes,
Each seasoning of proper length,
Proving in union there is strength.
A steak is grandgr it is true,
Yet needs no special skill to brew.
It is an art a stew to make,
But anyone can broil a steak.

Q John Alger, Jr.

If monotony has crept into your kitchen programs, I will commend to you some fascinating work. In the recipe for Irish Stew you will find it perhaps not salty enough. Stews should be kept closely covered while cooking either in the oven or on the top of the stove.

Irish Stew

2 lbs. mutton; cold water to cover meat; 6 medium potatoes; 6 medium carrots; 6 small onions; 1 small yellow turnip, cubed; 2 teaspoons salt; 1-4 teaspoon pepper; 2 tablespoons sugar; 3 teaspoons dark carmel; 3 sprigs parsley, flour to thicken.

The dark carmel is made by melting one cupful of sugar until it is a very dark syrup, stirring constantly while it melts. Then stir in carefully one cupful of boiling water and stir until smooth. Cut the mutton in inch cubes, add cold water to cover, measuring it, and bring to a boil. Add the sugar, salt and pepper, sugar and dark carmel. Cover closely and simmer slowly for two hours or until the meat is tender. For each cupful of water stir in one tablespoonful of flour mixed smoothly with an equal quantity of cold water and stir gently until it boils. Then cook slowly for about ten minutes.

Serves six to eight.

If cooked in the oven add half an hour to the cooking period.

FLOGLAZE YOUR FLOORS

Floglaze, in 26 lovely shades, such as jade green, delph blue, Jonquil yellow, for sale at Wallace's. Ask to see illustrated book of color schemes.

It's easy to find fault, but it is hard to tell what to do with it.

CANDIDATE FOR MOSS SCHOLARSHIP CHOSEN

J. A. Walters, fourth year student in Biological and Medical Sciences at Trinity College, Toronto, has been elected candidate for the Moss Scholarship. There were five undergraduates competing for the honor.

Mr. Walters received his secondary education at Napanee Collegiate Institute. Before coming to Varsity he spent one year in Mathematics at Queen's University. Upon completion of his present course he intends to enter the Faculty of Medicine at Toronto.

"I am afraid I have no claim to fame," smilingly remarked Mr. Walters when interviewed by "The Varsity." "This is the first great honor that has overtaken me." He is keenly interested in the Trinity College Literary Institute, and is at present its secretary. He is also a member of the Dramatic Society, the Science Club, and the Theological Society at Trinity.

Last year he won his first "T" on the Intercollegiate track team. He is a member of the rugby team and harriers at Trinity College.

Provost Cosgrave bore testimony of his scholastic attainments, but had no comments to make on the Moss Scholarship.

J. A. Walters is a son of Mr. C. A. Walters, Napanee.

KINGSTON LOSES 25 STREET CARS IN BIG BLAZE

Kingston's street car service was wiped out in a disastrous fire early Saturday morning when all but one of the street cars were completely destroyed, and the city was absolutely without any kind of service. Fire broke out from what is believed to be spontaneous combustion and in a few minutes the car barns were a veritable inferno and houses in the vicinity were seriously threatened. Over twenty-five street cars were totally destroyed, and the damage will run more than $125,000.

H. C. Hyde, superintendent of the company, who is at present in Toronto, stated over the long distance telephone that insurance would partly cover the loss. Doubt was expressed that the service would be renewed by new cars, and prospects are that Kingston will be without street car service for some time.

People in the outlying districts, which include the village of Portsmouth were forced to walk to work, and with little prospect of service being restored, taxi drivers are starting to reap a harvest. When spoken to, officials would make little comment regarding providing the service, though it is now believed the establishment of a bus line will be the first move. The cars which were destroyed by fire are covered by insurance, but amount is not nearly the replacement value.

Mayor Craig stated the question of the formation of a bus line would be taken up immediately.

The street railway proposition has been a losing one for years and it is not believed anything will be done in the matter of securing new cars.

BASKETBALL

Belleville "Y" Wiseman's Club defeated the Gibbard Basketeers last night to the tune of 43-27 in a fast and flashy exhibition in Belleville.

The Belleville squad are the winners of the local group, and in the semi-finals. They play in Orillia with the return game a week from Saturday. The winners will enter the provincial finals.

Both teams started off at a break neck speed and the pace didn't slacken until the final whistle. The game was played in fine spirit, only 7 fouls being committed by Gibbards' and seven by Belleville, two of which were technicals.

The winners used two complete teams, substituting the one for the other in the middle of each period. They are all experienced men and play consistent basketball. Their lanky centre was probably the most outstanding player on the floor, scoring no less than 23 of his team's points. McFee accounted for 10, Weir 6 and Buck 2.

The woodworker's combination was almost equal to that of Belleville but they were considerably weaker in shooting. Their solid defence seemed bothered the champions considerably, since they play and are used to a man-to-man defence.

Gibbards' used no subs, at all, every man going the route. Belleville had a demoralizing effect on Belleville because when they did show in their second team, they had double speeding up to the play.

Wilson led the scoring for the losers, registering 10, Gibbard 8, Stewart 6 and F. Bentley 2.

Jimmy Grimman, of Albert College, handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

Belleville—Forwards, Evoy; McFee, centre, Weir; defence, Davison, Buck; subs., Armstrong, Weir, Walters, Alexander, Bryant.

MISS RUSSELL WINS PRIZE

Miss Myrtle Russell is enjoying a trip to New York this week as the result of having had the highest percentage in sales in her department throughout the chain of Canadian Department Stores, for the past year. In honor of the occasion and Miss Russell's success, a banquet was tendered her in the store, the evening before her departure, when all the Napanee employees were present. The supper was staged and Mr. Campbell and Mr. Campbell, who proposed a toast to Miss Russell, and Mr. Bedore who read a witty poem, helped to make the evening a very pleasant one.

SHORT COURSE A SUCCCESS

The Short Course in Agriculture and Home Economics, which was held at Sillsville during the month of February, came to a very delightful close on Friday afternoon, February 28th, when about 120 people collected for a social afternoon in the Sillsville Hall. The presentation of prizes to the successful students followed a short program, after which lunch was served by members of the Home Economics Class.

The feature of the program was a debate: "Resolved that men spend more time and money on pleasure than do women." Miss Marion Young and Mrs. McLean upheld the affirmative side, while the negative side was taken by, Mr. Leonard Mellow and Mr. Maurice Young. The judges were Edith Zavitz, Mr. E. V. Binkley and Mr. John Fitchett, had considerable trouble arriving at a decision, but it finally decided in favor of the affirmative.

Mrs. Rodney Sharp delighted the audience with two very humorous recitations, while Mrs. Archer, at the piano, led the audience in community singing. The prizes, which were made possible by generous donations from public spirited citizens of the Township and County, were presented to the winners by Mr. Henry Cooper, Mr. Frank Gallagher and Mr. Wesley Young, members of the South Frederickburgh Township Council. They all congratulated the successful students very heartily and spoke very highly of the course. Following is a list of prize winners:

Home Economics Class, General Proficiency—1st, Miss Marion Young; 2nd, Miss Ruth Mallery; 3rd, Mrs. Harold Hugh; 4th, Mrs. Percy Young.

Agricultural Class, Live Stock Judging—1st, Harold Young; 2nd, Percy Sievers.

Seed Judging—1st, Gerald Young; 2nd, Bert Lloyd.

Written Examination—1st, Maurice Young; 2nd Leonard Mellow.

Oral Examination — 1st, Terrance Carroll; 2nd, Arthur Lewis.

General Proficiency—Douglas Magee.

The Home Economics Class was in charge of Miss Edith Zavitz, Ilderton, who conducted classes for the whole month, while the two week's course in Home Nursing was in charge of Miss Edna McAlpine, Toronto, and the Sewing Class was conducted by Miss Alice Owens, of Ilderton.

The Classes in Agriculture were in charge of A. D. Runions, Agricultural Representative, who was also assisted by H. V. Binkley, B.S.A., of Hamilton.

The attendance was quite satisfactory and altogether it was one of the most successful Courses ever held in the County.

Imagine my embarrassment!

And to think that I can't even find out who "Lemonella" is.

* * *

I have heard nothing but "The Fall of the Basketeers" all week.

* * *

But there is a lot that the gifted poet forgot to tell his readers.

* * *

For instance that the "Basketeers" had already won twice and that they still have a chance to defend the oyster supper.

* * *

"I'll write a poem in answer to "Lemonella," just as soon as I can think of one.

* * *

A lot of the local hockey fans who have been calling Varsity to win the Senior O.H.A. title all season, certainly weren't disappointed on Saturday night.

* * *

A few even treked westward for the battle and gained admission to the arena, by, hook or crook.

* * *

And they sure were lucky because when you pack 9,000 fans in the Varsity arena, there isn't much room to spare.

* * *

But when Harry and Billy Vine travel 150 miles to see a hockey match, mere trifles such as a squadron of cops and a couple of managers don't stop them. There is always room for two more.

* * *

And Varsity showed the cock-eyed world that they can either play hockey with the best of them or lay on the hickory, whichever seems to be in order.

* * *

There isn't much difference in the teams though, when you figure that the total goals each team has scored against each other all season is even.

* * *

Belleville Collegiate defeated Albert College last week to take the B. of Q. Boys' Championship. Albert still have a postponed game with the locals but apparently that has no bearing on the team's standing.

* * *

If the girls don't play-off pretty soon, they'll be able to play out-doors the way they used to.

THE MEN'S FORUM

The Men's Forum is no longer an experiment, it is a tested and proved achievement. Begun in fear and trembling, it is continued with confidence and enthusiasm. It is becoming more popular week by week, without resorting to any method of artificially stimulating interest. The crowd has steadily grown. The average number present is about two hundred. Last Sunday two hundred and fifty men enjoyed the service. The men meet in Wonderland Theatre. Sharp at three the hymn is projected on the screen and the orchestra provide the music. Rousing community singing of old familiar hymns creates a friendly atmosphere.

A special solo or quartette is given, then the speaker A. J. Wilson gives a bright and non technical address, drawing on his wide experience of men, books, and travel, he gives the old gospel a new and modern application. The meetings will be continued until Easter and will be resumed in the Fall. Every man is welcome, good music, good singing, good talk. No collection.

Dean Is Appointed College Trustee

Dean William H. Metzler was named a trustee of the new Abraham Lincoln University at a dinner conducted at the Hotel Cosmodore in New York, Wednesday, February 12th, Lincoln's birthday. The dinner was the first anniversary of the inauguration of the idea of the university.

Twelve distinguished men and one woman of educational, professional, and business life will serve with Dr. Metzler on the board of trustees. These include John Dewey, professor of philosophy at Columbia university and author of "Quest for Certainty;" Arnold Bennett Hall, president of University of Oregon; David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Leland Stanford Junior university; William B. Millar, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches; Michael I. Pupin, professor of electro-mechanics at Columbia university; Eugene Randoll Smith, head master Beaver County Day School; Mary Emma Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke college; General J. Johnson Morrow, brother of Dwight Morrow; Flynn D. Sampson, Governor of Kentucky; Honorable Chas. H. Tuttle, United States attorney of New York; George M. Verrity, president American Rolling Mill Company; and Roy Curtis, president of Abraham Lincoln Foundation.

Dr. Curtis and Dr. Metzler were both original incorporators. With three other men, they first conceived the idea of the Abraham Lincoln university on Lincoln's birthday a year ago. The ideal of the university is to build character among its student body which is to be recruited from all parts of the world and sent back after their graduation to be leaders in their community in spreading the idea of world peace.

The aim of the university a different from other institutions of higher learning, according to Dr. Metzler. The development of character will be a specific purpose of instruction.

The board of trustees was appointed by the educational advisory committee of the foundation. The members of this committee are Dr. Dewey, Dr. Woolley, Dr. Pupin, Dr. Metzler, Dr. Jordan, Dr. Hall, and Dr. Finley.—State College News, February 21st, 1930.

Dr. Metzler is a brother of Mr. J. W. Metzler of Napanee.

INTERESTING LETTERS

Among the many volumes of interesting letters and reports at the Dominion Archives is one of 1792 which records the formation of an executive council for Upper Canada. At that time John Graves Simcoe was Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Upper Canada and in that first volume of the meeting and work of the executive different books were kept for the State and Land matters.

The writing is very legible and the volumes were well bound and are in excellent condition. It is noted at once that in 1792 the executive were obliged to take three oaths, allegiance, supremacy and adjuration. Only the first oath is in use at the present time.

The first record in the book is dated at Kingston, July 8th, 1792, and says that His Excellency John Graves Simcoe, Esq., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Colonel commanding the forces in the said province, having appointed the Protestant church as a suitable place for the reading and publishing of his Majesty's commissions (spelled then Comifions) accordingly repaired to the said place accompanied by different men of the household of His Excellency took the oaths. The next meeting, the following day, the names of those present are recorded and an executive council of five members was formed who were said to be allowed to have and enjoy freedom of debate and vote in all affairs of public concern which might be debated in the said executive council.

Instructions to the executive occupied four pages of small writing in the large minute book and were mostly regarding money. They were warned "not to suspend any of the members of the Council, executive council, judges, sheriffs or others officers without good and sufficient cause" and if this was done they were to transmit reasons to "one of our principal secretaries of State."

A survey of land was ordered and "as nothing can effectively tend to the speedy settling of the said province of Upper Canada, the security of the property of our subjects and the advancement, of our revenue" they urged to sell land to the settlers. A publication was ordered of all laws regarding the buying of lands and it was to be issued as a proclamation.

On July 16th the province was divided into counties in order to establish as equal representation as possible and as the nature of circumstances would permit.

Volumes of these books from the earliest are to be found at the Archives and visitors will find Dr. Kenny not only kind in showing all visitors through the Archives, but also with the history of all the articles on display practically at his finger tips.

OUR WEEKLY RECIPE

This is the season for cranberries and almost every housekeeper has a few jars of cranberries on hand to serve with fowl, when needed. Cranberries make an appetizing dish and yet the average housekeeper does not use them enough. Food experts say they contain numbers of vitamines, so they should be used as more than a garnish for fowl, or in pie.

Have you ever tried a cranberry souffle? If not here is a splendid tested recipe:

Cranberry Souffle

1 cupful milk, 3 egg yolks, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon water, 1/2 cupful sugar, 1 cupful cooked, sieved cranberries, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin and 3 egg-whites.

Combine the milk and one-half cupful of sugar and place in the top of a double boiler. When the milk is hot add the egg-yolks well beaten together with one-half cupful of sugar and the salt. Cook until thick and then add the cranberry juice, lemon juice and gelatin, the latter having been softened in the water.

Continue cooking until the gelatin has dissolved and then turn out and cool. When cold, fold in the egg-whites, stiffly beaten. Pile in the serving dishes and serve cold. This recipe serves six.

Telegraph Light To Be Dredged

With the work entailed in deepening and widening the channel to Telegraph Light this summer, the bass fisherman will have to seek elsewhere for their fishing.

The Telegraph Light grounds have been about the best fishing place in the Bay of Quinte for some time and it is no trouble in the summer to pick up the latest news from Belleville, Point Anne and Northport, from many anglers who congregate there, particularly on Sunday afternoons.

The limestone, rock which runs in ledges, is swept by the fast current, and is the natural feeding ground of the "small-mouth" at that time of the year when they leave the mud and go to the rocky bottom for a change of diet.

Some years ago the channel was dredged and the removed rock was dumped a few feet from the Prince Edward shore, east of the light. This dump proved to be another good fishing grounds, but as it will in all likelihood be used again this year by the dredges, another good spot may have to be passed up.

Boy Breaks Leg Again

A very unfortunate accident happened on Sunday last, when Johnny Perry, son of E. J. Perry, Horlowe, was walking to a neighbors. The road being very icy, the boy slipped and fell striking his hip on a sharp stone, breaking his leg near the hip. It is particularly sad, as it will be remembered that in July last the boy was kicked by a horse and had his leg broke.) below the knee and also putting his ankle out of joint. Johnny's many friends are sorry to hear of his accident and hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. Taylor was born at Baddeck, Nova Scotia, in April, 1865, but had been resident in British Columbia for many years. He entered the Fisheries Service on March 13th, 1905, as Inspector of Fisheries for the Vancouver Island district and he had been continuously on the Fisheries Branch staff since that time. He is survived by his widow and two children—Edward Geddes, 15, and Helen Christine, 12.

Mr. Taylor is a brother-in-law of Mr. R. Geddes, Deseronto, and was well-known in that place.

The Responsibility Of A Fond Mother

Her child is a never-ending source of joy and a never-failing responsibility to the fond mother. It not infrequently happens that minor ailments of the child distress and puzzle her; she does not know just what to do, yet feels them not serious enough to call a doctor. At just such times as these it is that Baby's Own Tablets are found to be mother's greatest help and friend.

Most childhood ailments arise from a derangement of the stomach or bowels. Baby's Own Tablets will immediately banish them by cleansing the bowels and sweetening the stomach. They relieve colic, correct the digestion, banish constipation and make teething pains disappear.

Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs such as opiates and narcotics and may be given to the newborn babe with perfect safety and beneficial results. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box and from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

INLAND CANADA BUYS MORE MARITIME FISH

Statistics compiled by the Dominion Fisheries Branch show that shipments of Maritime Province fish to Central and Western Canada by railway freight and express have increased annually during the past years.

In 1927 these shipments totalled 38,440,481 pounds. In the following year they increased by nearly 1,200,000 pounds and amounted to 39,602,129 pounds. The 1929 shipments showed a very substantial increase and reached a total of 43,677,854 pounds.

As between 1927 and 1929, the greater part of the increase has been in shipments to Ontario and points west of Ontario which, all told, amounted in 1929 to 20,145,380 pounds. Shipments to Quebec last year, totalling 23,532,474 pounds, were, roughly, a million and a half pounds greater than in 1927.

A large business is also done by Maritime Province fish producers with the United States by express and freight. There is fluctuation, of course, in the amount of business from year to year and the 1929 shipments, 16,545,655 pounds were not greatly in excess of the 1927 figures.

PROGRESS IN NORTH

Filletting of fish in the Peter Pond district, a couple of hundred miles north of the Battleford area in Saskatchewan, was undertaken this winter for the first time. Forty thousand pounds of jackfish were filletted.

Announcing
New features of the FORD TRUCK

TO EVERYONE interested in moving goods economically from one place to another, the improved Ford 1½-ton truck offers long, reliable service and low cost of maintenance.

Rugged strength is an important feature of the improved Ford chassis. Many parts are of new design. For example, the front axle, which is a chrome-alloy forging, is nearly twice as strong as formerly. The front spring is heavier, with wider leaves. Front radius-rod, king-pins, thrust bearings and wheel bearings are larger.

The rear construction is also improved. It has a spiral bevel gear of special Ford truck design, with straddle-mounted pinion. The housing is of exceptionally strong construction. The axle shafts are heavier than formerly, and because of the three-quarter floating design of axle construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

A feature of the improved Ford truck is the new 4-speed transmission, which provides an unusually flexible range of speed and power. At ready control of the driver is abundant power for moving capacity loads, and ample speed for efficient service where time is an important factor.

Brakes on the front wheels have been enlarged to the same size as those on the rear wheels, providing increased braking area and a high degree of safety.

The four-cylinder engine of the Ford truck develops 40 horse-power at moderate speed. This means that nearly its full power becomes available without the need for excessive speed. Especially important to the reliability of the engine is the simplicity of the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems.

Other chassis features, many of which are unusual in a truck of such low price, are the cantilever rear springs, which reduce unsprung weight and lessen rebound; the torque-tube drive, which relieves rear springs of all but their normal function of absorbing shocks, and the large-sized opening provided in the transmission for power take-off mounting. Dual rear wheels are available at small additional cost. Balloon tires of one size are used throughout, with the dual equipment, so that all six steel disc wheels and tires are interchangeable all around. Only one spare wheel and tire need be carried.

1. 4-speed Transmission
   A wide, flexible range of speed and power
2. New Spiral Bevel Gear 3 / 4 Floating Rear Axle
   Rugged strength and long life
3. Larger Brakes
   Brake rods insure positive control under every condition
4. New Heavier Front Axle and Spring
   Unusually sturdy front construction
5. Torque-tube Drive
   Relieves rear springs of all driving stress
6. New Open-construction Steel Disc Wheels
   Interchangeable all round

You can inspect the improved Ford truck, today, at the showroom of your Ford dealer.

It is available in three distinct types—a speedy, attractive light delivery, a standard truck for general haulage, and a heavy duty model.

Ford trucks are priced low in accordance with established Ford policy.

—:—

On of the theatres advertised for new songs and invited applicants to present their works and sing them over in the presence of the manager and musical director.

Mr. Bibbs, who fancied himself as a genius, composed a ditty and presented himself at the theatre.

The song was commonplace, without rythm or tunefulness, and the musical director put his hands to his ears as the songster shrieked it.

"What do I get for that?" said the minstrel with an ingratiating smile as he finished.

"I'm a musical director, not a magistrate," was the sarcastic reply.

HUGE DISCREPANCY IN TRADE RETURNS OF U. S. AND CANADA

There is a discrepancy of almost $55,000,000 between the volume of goods which the United States claims to have sent to Canada in 1929 and the total for the same trade given by the Department of Trade and Commerce here.

The United States Department of Commerce has just issued a report showing a $34,000,000 gain over 1928 for 1929 exports to Canada, with a gross to this country of $948,501,227. Almost simultaneously the Canadian Bureau of Statistics issued its return for 1929 on trade showing that Canada imported from the United States in that year $893,606,685.

The latter figure is the one on which the Department of National Revenue based its collections. Either the United States figures are erroneous or there is a serious loophole somewhere in the Canadian revenue system. The average duty on all imports is in the neighborhood of 15 per cent. so that if $55,000,000 worth of goods shipped in during the year without official check the inference is that the public exchequer is short some $7,500,000 of revenue which it should have received.

Detailed figures from Washington will have to be checked against the Canadian returns before the Customs branch can decide where the error lies.

Canadian figures for the 1929 period show Canadian exports to the United States at $522,585,557, or $371,000,000 less than imports from the same source.

Closely following Canada in trade expansion with the United States was Argentina whose purchases were nearly $32,000,000 greater than in 1928. The total shipments to that country were $210,389,697, which places Argentina in sixth place among the markets for American merchandise.

In percentage gain Chilean trade recorded the greatest proportional growth with purchases 39 per cent. in excess of 1928. Total exports to Chile were $55,776,914. Other countries whose purchases showed a valuation gain of 25 per cent. or more, were Egypt, Netherlands, East Indies and British Malaya.

The United States import trade in 1929 showed increases with 29 principal countries and declines with 9 countries. The greatest valuation gain was recorded in purchase from Japan. Imports from that country were $47,000,000 greater than in 1928 and totalled $431,977,664, according to the analysis.

Decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Moncton, New Brunswick—"Before my last baby was born I was very weak, nervous and discouraged. I saw an advertisement in the paper about a woman who had been like me so I bought a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took three bottles and it carried me safely through that critical time. I have three children to care for and I feel well and strong. I have told two other women about your medicine."—Mrs. Gus Arsenault, 82 Albert Street, Moncton, New Brunswick.

BILL BORED

Oh, something's gone bloocy with scenes of my childhood
That recenly gladdened the motorist's eyes,
For streamlet and mountain and valley and wildwood
Are hidden by ads. of preposterous size;
Then bear me, old bus, to some trail that is fairer;
I'm fed up with roads where the landscape peeks through
The big wooden billboards, the skyscraper billboards.
The ad-covered billboards that ruin the view.

A successful business man was giving an address on "Commercial Acumen" to a class of students. In speaking of his career, he mentioned a certain company that had been wound up on account of its shady practices.

"Of course," he said righteously, "as soon as I realized there were possibilities of dishonest profit being made I got out of it."

"How much?" asked a student.

MORE FUR SEALS ARE TAKEN BY B.C. INDIANS

During the year just past 3,116 fur seals were killed by Indians in British Columbia, an increase of slightly more than 1,000 over the number taken in 1928. Under the Pelagic Sealing Treaty none but Indians are permitted to kill fur seals.

In 1929 fur seals to the number of 2,248 were taken in Fisheries District No 3, which includes Vancouver Island and part of the adjacent mainland. In District No. 2, which includes that part of British Columbia to the north of District No. 3, the Indians captured 868 seals. No fur seals are taken in District No. 1. Hunting was lest in the vicinity of Bonila Island, in District No. 2, where 630 seals were taken last year.

DORLAND

Spring weather continues. — The heavy rain on Friday night washed away most of the remaining snow.—A few are still venturing on the ice, although it is in very poor condition. A number of cracks opened up last Tuesday and H. John, S. E. Gallagher and H. Strawbridge had an exciting experience while returning from Picton. In endeavouring to go around a crack they got on very thin ice near Madden's camp and the team and sleigh which belonged to Mr. John, suddenly went to the bottom. Great difficulty was experienced in extracting them and the horses were badly chilled from being so long in the icy water, one expired almost immediately after being rescued, the other recovered.—Despite the wet weather on Friday afternoon the social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Magee was well attended and a very pleasant time spent in games and contests.—The weather was also unfavorable for the W.M.S. meeting at the home of Mrs. John Magee on Wednesday afternoon. However, the attendance was fair and a profitable meeting was enjoyed.—We are glad to report that Mrs. Carr, who has been ill for the past two weeks, is improving.—Mr. F. E. Foster spent a few days last week in Ottawa with his father and sisters.—Rev. A. Strother returned on Friday, after spending a week in Toronto with Mrs. Strother, who is recovering from an operation for goiter.

The weather the last few days has been real spring-like and some of our busy housewives are already at their housecleaning.—We are glad to report Mrs. Edgar improving nicely with her fractured arm and to Mrs. A. Salsbury and Jack Oldham. All are glad to see him out again after his operation for appendicitis, but sorry to report his brother, Harold, very ill in Kingston Hospital. All hope for a speedy recovery.—Mr. George Lee is also on the sick list.—Mr. George McFarlane and son, Norman, have returned from Eganville, where they have spent the last ten days visiting his parents.—Mr. Kenneth Peters and wife spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jaynes.—Mr. Osman Edgar and family spent Sunday at Cyrus Edgar's.—Olive Shangraw and Bruce Freeman are confined to their home with the mumps.—A kitchen and dressing room is to be built at Church Hall as soon as the frost is out of the ground, so the men can work at it. This is very badly needed and will be a great convenience as it will give more room to the hall and also a stage.—The Ladies' Aid will hold a St. Patrick's Supper and Concert on Monday night, March 17th. A full course supper and a good program, consists of a play entitled "Aunt Betsy's Beau," and several other numbers.—Mrs. Roy Lampkin is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen.—Mr. and Mrs. C. FOURTH ANNUAL QUINTE DISTRICT SEED FAIR

On Wednesday morning, March 12th, the Fourth Annual Quinte District Seed Fair gets under way in the Wagahee Armouries. Farmers and every one interested in Agriculture have an interesting three days in store for them.

The people of Napanee and the farmers of the County are particularly fortunate in having this Exhibition of Seed Grain and Farm Crops, along with its special educational features, brought to the district.

The Prize List of $800 is made available by means of generous grants from the Dominion, Department of Agriculture, Toronto, and the County Councils in the Quinte District.

In order to create a greater interest locally and to induce more farmers of the County to exhibit, the directors also were able to secure an additional donation from the County Council and are offering three Special Classes for Lennox and Addington farmers only.

The entries in the open classes are quite heavy, and are drawn from all parts of the Province. To date entries have been received from as far west as London, as far north as New Liskeard, and as far east as Plantagenet.

On Wednesday the judging of the exhibits will begin and will be the main feature of the day's program, while in the evening the preliminaries of the Horse-Shoe Pitching Tournament will be run off.

Thursday, the big day of the Fair, will begin with the Junior Farmers Seed Judging Competition at 10.30 a.m. This is a worthy and worth-while feature of the Fair, as it is necessary for a man to know good seed before he can produce a prize winner, and these young men receive special training in these Judging Competitions.

During the afternoon of Thursday, brief practical talks will be given on Agricultural topics by prominent speakers and in addition the Annual Meeting and election of officers of the association will be held.

Thursday evening a banquet by the Napanee Rotary Club is being held in the Paisley House. The executive were very fortunate in securing Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of Experimental Farms for the Dominion, as a special speaker for the occasion.

The Fair will be brought to a close on Friday afternoon, when an auction sale of the prize seeds and grains will be held. This has always been a feature of the Fair, as it affords local men an opportunity of securing some of the very best seed available at reasonable prices.

Modern seed cleaning machinery is being installed and will be in operation during the three days of the Fair.

The executive and local committee have received excellent support from the local people and have spent a great deal of time and energy in an effort to make the 1930 Fair, and Napanee's first, the most successful Fair ever held in the district, and it is to be hoped that this splendid exhibition, with its educational features, receives the support of everyone in the town and county.

A SURPRISE PARTY

On Friday afternoon, March 7th 1930, the close relatives of Mr. James Turnbull, Belleville Road, gathered at his home and helped him and his good wife to celebrate his seventy-seventh birthday.

Seventy-seven years ago Mr. Turnbull was born in the northern part of Richmond and has lived continuously all his life in the Township of his birth. And now when he has reached such a venerable age he can look back on a life well spent and his children, his relatives, neighbors and all his friends can rise up and call him blessed, for no more respected and highly esteemed gentleman lives or has lived in the good old township of Richmond.

The writer has known Mr. Turnbull all his life and never had I the pleasure of meeting a man more generous and of more kindly disposition in my life, and I know from the remarks of all his neighbors that they never asked for a favor in vain, and a man, who is always spoken well of by his neighbors in these days must have been a true gentleman indeed.

After partaking of a generous and bountiful dinner in which a large birthday cake figured very prominently, they presented Mr. Turnbull with a beautiful smoking set for which Mr. Turnbull expressed his heart felt thanks.

Amongst those present were Mr. and Mrs. Archie Turnbull and two children, Mrs. Wm. Kerr and Miss Freda; Mrs. Alvera Davis and son, Albert; Mrs. W. M. McCullough and Mrs. C. M. Stratton, of Napanee.

In their leave-taking all the guests expressed their wish that they hoped that Mr. Turnbull would live to see many more milestones in the journey of life.

IN MEMORIAM

Sager—In loving memory of a dear Mother, Martha Sager, who passed peacefully away, March 15th, 1927.

We are thinking of someone
Who was loving kind and true,
Whose smiles were as dear as the sunshine;
Dear Mother, that someone was you.
We cannot forget you, our loved one so dear
Your memory grows sweeter year after year;
You cannot return, so our tears are in vain,
But in Heaven we're hoping to meet you again.
Sadly missed by sons and daughter. 11a

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear husband and father Jacob Clancy, who departed this life on March 13th, 1927.

Today brings back sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of him today
Are those who loved him best.
Sadly missed by wife and daughters. 11ap

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Malcolm A. McQuaig, who passed away March 15th, 1921.

How oft there comes before us
That dear face, fond and true,
For death can never take away
Sweet memories, dear, of you.
For remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
Memories drift to scenes long past,
Time rolls on, but memories last.
Sadly missed by parents, brother and sister. 11ap

—Tom McDuff Copeland, the World Famous Scottish entertainer was heard in the Napanee Town Hall on Wednesday, February 26th last, in a two-hour concert recital. Owing to the hurriedness of the arrangements the clever comedian was insufficiently advertised, and the attendance was regrettably small. A large percentage of those present, indeed, were those who had heard this entertainer on previous occasions, and who, despite the inclemency of the weather, had driven many miles to again listen to his program. He was so enthusiastically applauded and so much appreciated by those who did hear him, that it was immediately decided to re-engage him. He has given the Legion his next open date, which will be noted in the advertisement in this issue.

CAMPAIGN FOR CALENDAR REFORM GROWING

Active propaganda has been resumed both in Canada and the United States in favor of the adoption of the proposed fixed calendar, of thirteen months of four weeks each.

The suggestion, already favorably considered by the League of Nations, is largely a Canadian foundling. While it was largely and variously debated prior and subsequent to its submission to the League interest ebbed during the past year. Apparently a concerted effort has been launched to press the question into the foreground anew and debates as to its acceptability are noticeably common.

A review of the general attitude suggests apathy on the part of the great majority and concentrated opposition from Jews and Sabbatarians, the Jewish objection being mainly based that once each year and twice in leap years the Sabbath would fall on the eighth day, contrary to the Jewish doctrine of Divine command.

Fixed calendar advocates reply that the alleged economic hardships, or civil disabilities are not civil abridgements of any individual's rights, but are inconveniences he must experience simply because of his particular religious creed and convictions.

In addition to the thirteen months or four weeks the fixed calendar would provide for giving one day each year a non-week-day name such as "year day" and by giving the additional day in leap year a non-week-day name such as "leap day."

Ottawa has been the source of a great deal of the propaganda favorable to the changed calendar and the reaction here can be more clearly guaged than in most centres. The whole thing is regarded more in the light of an interesting academic argument rather than a reform which is of any vital concern to this generation.

MECHANICAL ERA CUTS MEAT CONSUMPTION

Mechanism of industrial and commercial life, with its consequent lessening of the demands for physical effort, is manifesting itself in the diet of the nations, and more particularly in less eating of meat.

The change in meat consumption however, is confined more to the type of meat than to the total. The lighter meats, principally pork, are today in most favour, whereas a decade ago beef led in per capita consumption.

An evidence of the trend towards lighter meats contributing somewhat to the declining meat consumption, is the increasing popularity of fowl in the Canadian diet. The year round eating of turkey, once confined to Thanksgiving and Xmas as well as the greater demand for chickens, has no doubt correspondingly displaced a part of the part of the meat total.

The growth of the fish industry reflected in the wider use of fresh and frozen fish and canned products, is another manifestation of the tendency toward the lighter foods and is directly related to the consumption of meat.

A number of factors have contributed to this change toward the lighter meats, chief of which is the lessened need for the heavier labor. The automobile, the truck, the tractor, labor saving devices and equipment in manufacturing, mining, agriculture and in practically all phases of our commercial and home life have doubtless affected our meat demands.

WISHES EVERYONE KNEW OF SARGON

"Although I'd heard some wonderful reports about this new Sargon medicine, I'll have to admit that I was surprised at just how much it did do for me.

J. A. POGSON.

"I'd gotten in such a rundown condition I could hardly muster up enough strength to get myself out of bed mornings and always felt fagged out before the day was half over. The trouble was I had indigestion so much, my food wouldn't do me any good—just soured on my stomach and caused gas and heart palpitation—and constipation finished pull me down too.

"Sargon made a new man out of me. I've got the strength and endurance now and never have the slightest trouble with indigestion. The Sargon Pills that go with the tonic are without a doubt the best laxative I ever used and regulated me perfectly. My appetite is so good that I've already picked up five pounds, and I'd go out of my way to tell others about this remarkable treatment."—J. A. Pogson, 190 Shoveden Ave., Toronto.

HIGH PRICES PAID FOR CANADIAN POULTRY

Almost eight dollars apiece was the price paid by Cuban Poultrymen for a consignment of Canadian hens recently shipped to that country, according to information released by the Poultry Division of the Department of Agriculture.

Advices received by the department showed that the latest shipment of R. O.P. birds from British Columbia consisted of 78 for which the sum of $600 was paid to the Canadian producers. These were shipped by the Record of Performance Co-operative Association, of B.C. and were imported into Cuba for the improvement of Cuban stock.

In recent months Canadian birds of high egg production ability have been sent to all parts of the world, Japan having accepted several shipments, as well as Cuba, United States, England, Belgium, and other countries.

News and Information For the Farmer

J. A. Carroll, crops and markets director, explains that to be of the greatest service, a weed inspector or "adviser" as he is to be known in the future, should be free to plan and carry out a weed elimination campaign. Some of the lesser weeds will be overlooked this year and the more serious pests concentrated upon.

Dr. G. I. Christie, O.A.C. president, speaking at the Ontario Vegetable Growers' convention, declared: "With all the advantages claimed for the United States, I don't believe there is any place on this continent producing a better class of vegetables or garden products than we can show right here in Ontario."

Many Attend Swine Course

Western Ontario Junior Farmers were in attendance to the number of 87 at the special educational swine course held at the Toronto packing plants in February. By means of lectures and demonstrations on live hogs and dressed carcasses, the young men were shown clearly why the best type of hog to satisfy consumers' demands is the most profitable to produce. In the grading competition held in conjunction with the course, Lorne Simpson, of R.R. 2, Blenheim, won first prize. George Goodfellow, of Tedwater won the first prize in the live hogs competition, while Orvie Bauman, of Foradale, won the first prize in the dressed carcasses competition.

Pasteurizing Recommended

When a bottle of milk is held up and observed from below, any dirt or sediment which has settled to the bottom is clearly visible through the glass against the whitish background of the milk. A heavy sediment is soon noticed by the consumer and usually leads to a change of dairies. Such dirt indicates carelessness in the production and handling for dirt has no place in any food product, least of all milk. The practice of pasteurizing milk in the home is strongly recommended for all localities where milk properly pasteurized is not obtainable.

Must be Well-Drained

The ideal soil for apples seems to be a deep, well-drained sandy loam or a light clay loam with good moisture holding capacity and a moderately pervious subsoil. It has been shown also, that apple trees will grow on so-called poor soils and will give good results if properly managed. Soil drainage, however, is an important factor in relation to tree growth and productiveness. Fruit trees require a good range for root development and this desirable condition does not obtain on poorly drained soil. It is thus seen that for permanent and profitable results the soil for apples and other fruit trees as well should be deeply and thoroughly drained by natural or artificial means.

Grading of Cheese Pays

The grading of food products exported from Canada has had the effect, during the past few years, of greatly increasing the demand for Canadian foodstuffs throughout the British Empire and in foreign countries. A recent case has been cited which shows that in 1922 Canadian cheese had been selling in England at a price of one or two cents, per pound cheaper than that of New Zealand. With the advent of grading the price has now risen until the Canadian product commands the highest price on the British market for imported cheese, two cents higher than the price paid for New Zealand cheese.

An Important Discovery

Ontario farmers will probably be saved many thousands of dollars by a discovery made by Dr. G. H. Stevenson of O.A.C. stated the Hon. John S. Martin to the agricultural committee of the legislature recently. Dr Stevenson has found that a certain condition of pigs and sheep making them unfit for marketing has been caused by worms. This is an entirely new angle and an important discovery from the farmer's standpoint. "The conditions are general across the province," said Hon. Mr. Martin. "There have been large numbers of sheep and pigs that weren't fit for the market and the farmers didn't know what was the matter with them. Dr. Stevenson has found that these animals are filled with worms. If not checked, this condition will go right through the farm yards and affect the chickens and other poultry and animals. Tests and experiments are being made to cure this condition of worms."

Weekly Crop Report

The most recent weekly crop report at hand concerns chiefly the matter of live stock and the milk situation. In Brant cattle on feed are reported to be fewer than usual. Dufferin reports a great interest in the breeding of hogs with requests for good quality breeding stock. Seed oats of No. 1 grade are selling for $1.00 per bushel. Cows are in good condition in Dundas County and at a recent sale grade Holsteins averaged around $100 per head. A plentiful supply of apples is indicated in Durham with lowered prices for eggs. Essex reported a surplus in the milk supply, which is becoming a problem. This is the case also with Frontenac. At Glengarry live stock is in poor condition due to scarcity of food and poor pasturage last fall. Purebred live stock is commanding good prices in Haldimand. Fall wheat is "looking green and fresh in Huron and a good supply of red clover is indicated in Lambton. A big demand has been created for certified seed potatoes in Leeds.

Improvement Needed

It is stated by A. Fulton, special overseas representative of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, that Ontario apple exporters have a great many difficulties to overcome if they are to hold their place in Great Britain in good, sound condition. The question of sizes and scalds are paramount and should be gone into immediately by the shippers in order to be ready for the next shipping season. Shippers in Ontario could be saved money by having a thorough inspection at the shipping point not only to conform with the Fruit Act, but also according to the requirements of the export market.

Time to Prune

The time for the pruning of your apple orchard is in the spring before the growth starts, but if this is impossible it may be done immediately after the trees leaf out. It is desirable to have the wounds, if large, healed as rapidly as possible to prevent decay. When pruning is done in the autumn or early winter the wood is likely to dry out and split.

Value of Ime

It has been found through experiments over a period of the past 25 years that lime has direct value to apple trees. The nature of the root system of the apple, penetrating fairly deep into the soil, enables the tree to obtain all the lime it requires from the sub-soil. The apple, furthermore, is a plant which prefers a slightly acid soil and does best under these conditions. However, lime is of indirect value because it enables the farmer to grow leguminous cover crops in the orchards and thereby supply organic matter and nitrogen which are the two constituents absolutely essential for the maximum production of fruit.

Lime and Manure

Manure is the best fertilizer obtainable, but manure alone will not bring full returns to acid soil. When the soil is acid the plants cannot obtain the food from manure that they would if there were lime present to facilitate the action of the bacteria which form nitrates as these can work only when lime is present. Thus lime ensures the full effect of the manure.

Planting Indoors

One can easily grow a supply of flowering plants as well as those vegetables such as tomatoes, cabbages and cauliflowers which require an early start, indoors. If a large quantity is wanted of course a hot bed is advisable, but where only a few plants are required use shallow boxes, about twelve inches by eighteen. Punch a few holes in the bottom to allow for drainage and add a layer of cinders or gravel. Fill the rest of the box with rich fine soil. Moisten the earth and then mark off your rows which need only be an inch apart. Sow the seed and then cover the top of the box tightly with a piece of sacking or burlap. The burlap will prevent the seed from washing out and will also hasten germination. When the plants have pushed up through the soil, remove the cover and give them full sunlight. Unless there is a storm window on the outside, keep the box at least eight inches from the glass to avoid draughts and low temperature. The box must be turned around every day or so to prevent the plants from becoming spindly and pointing in one direction. After the first set of leaves has developed, transplant to another box and give more room.

—:—:—

Specialties

In ordering vegetables and flower seeds, it is a good plan to choose varieties of well known value for the bulk of the planting. Small packets of some of the attractive specialities may be added for trial.

Most seedsmen devote a section of their catalogue to "specialties." In this part of the catalogue are listed new varieties that seem to have merit and special strains of the well-known varieties that the seedsman has been improving.

Seedsmen are giving more and more attention to securing varieties of the best quality and to improving them. The descriptions of these specialities are usually very complete and accurate and furnish the necessary information on which to base a selection.

—:—:—

Sweet Peas

Sweet peas should be planted just as soon as one can work up the ground. These will come along in first class shape no matter what the weather following planting is like. It is best to dig a trench about a foot or so deep. Place a layer of rich soil or rotted leaves or manure in the bottom, covering it with about six inches of fine loam. In this, plant the sweet peas about three inches deep, and an inch apart. The rains will gradually fill in the trench, and the plants will develop a very deep root growth as a result, which will protect them against summer droughts. Get the very best seed possible, and try some special shades. After the peas have come up an inch or so, thin out to four inches apart, and supply brush work, strings or poultry netting at least thirty inches high for the vines to climb on. Wire netting is the least desirable for this purpose, as it is liable to become hot in warm weather and injure the growing plants.

—:—:—

The Lawn

A careful inspection of the lawn is advisable as soon as the frost comes out of the ground. The past winter has been particularly severe on wintering grass and clover, some of the coldest weather occurring where there was little snow. As a result, there has been a good deal of freezing and thawing, which, alternately contracting and releasing the top layer of the soil, breaks off many fine roots and thus kills the grass and clover. To correct this condition, it is advisable to go over the lawn in early spring with a heavy roller or pounder. Bare and thin spots should get some good seed and plenty of it. Sprinkling this over a late snowfall is a good plan, especially where the snow is melting and will disappear in a few hours. The seed will work down into the soil and germinate in a few days.

AN ANSWER FROM WITHIN

A graphic and convincing exposure of the King Government's vigorous but ineffectual attempt to sell the people of Canada that Canadians are prosperous is supplied from within the family circles at Ottawa.

It is a letter with which the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Mr. J. C. Grisdale, is circularising the farmers of Canada. It reads in part:

"You are, I understand, interested in livestock of some kind and are therefore, I have no doubt, interested in Canada's holding her place and even doing a little better than that on the world's markets for various livestock products. Now, as a matter of fact Canada seems unfortunately to be losing ground in this connection. For instance, We no longer export any eggs or butter. We send abroad very little dressed poultry or lambs; our exports of beef cattle are dwindling, our shipments of beef are decreasing, our exports of bacon which, a few years ago, were very large have almost disappeared and our shipments of cheese are rapidly falling off.

"This Department is naturally very much concerned to note this most extraordinary situation in a country such as ours, where so many of our people are farmers where the possibilities for the production of these articles and series besides, are so great."

No wonder Mr. Grisdale's department is alarmed. Every Canadian who realizes the situation is alarmed. Mr. Grisdale might have gone further and pointed out that Canada not only is no longer an exporter of butter, but that in the year just closed she imported over 35,000,000 pounds of it for home consumption. He could have gone further and told the farmers that in the year 1929 we imported into Canada agricultural, vegetable and animal products of the kind he mentions and more, to the value of over $300,000,000.

He has cause for alarm and so have all other people concerned in the well-being and development of this country. Premier King says Canada is prosperous. Let the people refer to agent Mr. Grisdale's facts over Mr. King's fiction.

Suffered For Years From Rheumatism

Regained Health Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Rheumatism is a disorder of the blood—caused by too much uric acid in the blood—and must be treated through the blood. It attacks its victims when vitality is low, thus setting up inflammation in the muscles and joints. Wet and cold weather may start the tortures of rheumatism but it is not the cause. The cause is the blood—bad blood. Enrich and purify the blood and rheumatism will disappear. If you are a sufferer from this painful malady begin the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and see how soon the pains and stiffness will disappear. These pills enrich and purify the blood and good blood means good health.

Mrs. John C. McPherson, St. Mary's Ont., was a victim of rheumatism for years and writes as follows of her illness and recovery. She says:—"I suffered from rheumatism for nearly sixteen years and for eleven years I was unable to walk. I tried a number of medicines as well as massage and chiropractic treatment without any permanent benefit. I was then so bad that I was at a loss to know what to try next. I noticed in different papers how strongly Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended for cases like mine so I decided to try them. After taking several boxes I noticed that my appetite was improving. The pains became less severe and my color improved. I continued their use and now I am able to do light housework. I wish I could impress an all rheumatic sufferers just what these wonderful pills have done for me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do one thing but they do it well—they enrich and purify the blood. This rich red blood banishes such troubles as rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia and neuritis and leaves the former sufferer robust and healthy and well able to take his or her place in doing the duties expected of them. The pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Seasick Passenger (on friend's yacht) —"I say, what about going back? After you've seen one wave, you've seen them all."

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but there are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs. These irritate the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect.

Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.

BRITISH MERCHANT FLEET CARRIES BIG SHARE OF U. S. TRADE

It is not generally known that British Empire, which is the most active competitor of the United States, on the foreign trade lanes, is also its best customer, as it engages in approximately one-third of America's waterborne foreign trade, according to a survey made by the Bureau of Research.

While America's total annual trade with the British Empire exceeds 35,000,000 cargo tons, actually less than 10,000,000 tons represent trade with Great Britian proper. The bulk of the business, 60%, is transacted with British territory in the Western Hemisphere which includes Canada, Newfoundland, British Honduras, British Guiana and the British possessions in the West Indies.

Canada totals in more than one-half of the total American trade with the Empire. This trade comprises approximately 8,000,000 tons of imports and 11,000,000 tons of exports, which represent 68% of all American import trade and 49% of all American import trade with British territory.

From a statement published in the "Merchant Fleet Bulletin" in Washington it is found that vessels flying the British flag carried more than thirty per cent of the total cargo tonnage moved in American foreign waterborne commerce in 1928. Of the aggregate commerce with Canada only 40% is exported under the American flag. American and British vessels carry about the same percentage of combined import and export tonnage movement between the United States and Canada.

The statement says: "This immediately brings into prominence the fact that more than seven per cent, nearly 1,500,000 tons of our traffic with Canada, our immediate neighbor, is carried in foreign ships having no interest in trade other than the freight money realized from it."

A man who was missing things from his premises every morning gave his servants, Pat, a sovereign and told him to go to town and buy a good yard dog.

"Pat came home that night dragging a mangy-looking cur after him.

"What kind of a dog is that?" roared his master.

"Begorra," replied Pat, "he's the nearest to a yard dog I could get. He's two feet, eleven inches."

EXPECTING INCREASED WHEAT DEMAND

According to well informed sources here an increased demand for Canadian wheat from Europe, with an improvements in prices may be expected shortly. This is due to the fact that while stocks are fairly large at Liverpool they are small at many of the continental European ports. While the crop estimate for Australia has been increased that for the Argentine has been reduced, and thus there is no material change in the world's crop. In many of the European countries, particularly Germany, Italy, and Austria, prices have risen in relation to the Canadian price, and it seems likely that the imports of these countries will increase.

Germany for a while exported considerable quantities of wheat to Great Britain; it now seems likely that this country will have to import, and thus will not be a factor in Canadian competition for the British market.

In some of the country districts of Ireland it is not an uncommon thing to see carts with the owners' names chalked on to save the expense of painting. One day a constabulary sergeant accosted a countryman whose name had been wiped out unknown to him. "Is this your cart, my good man?" "Of course it is!" was the reply. "Do you see anything the matter with it?" "I observe," said the pompous policeman, "that your name is obliterated." "Then you're wrong," said the countryman, who had never come across the long word before, "for my name's O'Flaherty, and I don't care who knows it!"

GERMAN DREAM COMING TRUE

The German hopes of a Berlin to Bagdad railway were shattered as a result of the great war, but in the interests of their foreign trade they have taken to the air instead of relying on steel rails and are now operating a Berlin to Angora air line. Negotiations with Mustapha Kemel call for a 20-year concession and the extension later of a service across Turkey to the East. The company controlling the service, the Deutsche Lufthansa plan to include a mail and freight service by early spring and to make Constantinople an important stop.

ASK CHAIN OF AIRPORTS IN CANADA

A coast to coast chain of airports across Canada is the suggestion of the Chamber of Commerce, which is pressing for such action in the interests of Canadian aviation. The Chamber proposes that some of these airports be provided by the Dominion Government, in cases where the local municipalities are not in a position to provide them, and where they are necessary for the transcontinental airway.

Most of the large cities in the country are now fairly well equipped with airports, but great distances separate them, and in the present stage of aviation it is felt that there is need for intermediate stations, if commercial aviation is to develop as it should.

SUNDAY AT THE FORUM

The Forum continues to attract and hold the interest of an increasingly large number of men. The town band last Sunday very generously gave their time and talent to lead the music. Mr. Owen accompanied by Mr. Eppes sang a solo, which the men greatly enjoyed. The community singing of old familiar hymns, the interesting and practical address by Mr. Wilson, completed an attractive program. The meetings last an hour only, from three o'clock to four. No offering is taken and all men are welcome.

POLICE DOUBT STORY OF WRECK ATTEMPT

Special Investigator Humphrey of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Constable Barrett of the Provincial Police staff at Napanee, announced that following a day and night investigation they have found nothing to support the story of an attempt to wreck the C.P.R. flier near Robllndale station on Wednesday last. They place little credence in a story told by Clarence South, a young farmer resident at that place. South claimed he was working in the bush about a mile and a quarter out of Roblindale Wednesday afternoon when he saw two men, acting suspiciously, along beside the track. Stopping his work for a moment he watched them. To his horror he saw them pick up three large ties, stagger to the rail, lift their weight and deposit them there. They then picked up a large rock and completed the barricade. After their work of destruction had been done, they disappeared amongst the rocks that line the main track at this point.

Rushing to the line, South worked feverishly for some minutes and succeeded in getting the ties and the rock away from the tracks. He was not any too soon for it was only a short interval until the flyer came through.

Police found no trace of the men although there were marks at the side of the tracks where it appeared as though the logs had been dragged across the ground. After thorough examination they again grilled South closely and found several flaws in his story.

BASKETBALL

Two games of basketball were played at the N.C.I. Gym. last Friday night between the Junior and Senior O. B. Schools of Napanee and Day Schools.

The senior game was played first and provided some snappy basketball handling on both sides, but the Night School had a little the better of the play, but were kept fighting till the last whistle to nose out the Collegians by 24-18. Both teams lost two regular players via the personal foul route, but the play was early carried on by capable subs. on both sides.

Day School—Guards, Kinkley and Donahue; centre, R. Howit; forwards, Thompson, Dran.

Night School—Guards, Nugent, Reid; centre, Black; forwards, Perry, MacDonald; subs. W. Coates.

NAPANEE SENIORS AGAIN DEFEAT PICTON 3-1

Well, well, here we are and at it again. It looks as though the local seniors may be worth something after all.

Those who failed to see last week's tilt sure missed a whale of a good game of hockey, in fact the best that has been seen on the Napanee arena for a long time.

The Picton boys came down to win, had to return with the same old alibi, "Too good for us."

The first period was a whirlwind. From start to finish, rough in spots, and several were given a trip to the penalty timekeeper, but fortunately none were over the one minute limit. Both teams worked hard but to no avail, neither could score.

The second section was practically a race, first one team had the rubber and would work up on the goalie, but it seemed as though they would get just inside the line, and then someone would chase the disc to the other end and try the same thing on the other net guard. This section of the game also ended scoreless. Persistent backchecking predominated in this period. The ice was well cut up when both teams were chased for a rest.

With the ice all cleaned off the third and last period started off faster than either of the two previous periods, and the result was a Picton boy drove one past Sherlbourne Hayes, and the Picton boys took courage and tried to get another. During the peerless of one of Picton's four-man forward line on the Napanee goal, Fred Bentley broke away and shot another past the Picton goalie and scored. From then on the game was anybody's, but Preddie, with the usual old stick-handling, worked another by the visitor's net guardian. This set the fans in an uproar and when Preddie Bentley scored another it was just too bad. Picton pressed hard to even up the scores and many threatening attacks were coolly handled by Ed. Watts on the defence. The game ended with the score 3-1.

The Picton boys invited the locals to their arena and if the weather and ice hold out, the boys will take their first journey. The game is to be played on Wednesday, March 12th, and provided the ice is in shape, the boys are asking for a little support, so try and be on hand and see the boys battle for a third time with the "Invincibles," of Picton.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

What about a little competitive tennis this year.

* * *

We have had two or three days lately that make a fellow wonder how soon the clay is going to dry up and he can dig rackets, nets, balls, etc., out of cold storage.

* * *

I have been trying to persuade the Golf Club to put in a couple of clay courts, but so far I don't think anything has been done.

* * *

There has been some very keen inter-city competition in the last two or three years between Belleville, Kingston, Campbellford, Tweed, Point Anne and other nearby clubs. Some of the fellows from these towns have been asking me why Napanee doesn't enter a team.

* * *

Three years ago a tournament was successfully held by the local club when J. L. Murray won the Robinson Trophy, emblematic of the Men's Singles. Judge J. E. Madden was the runner-up. That year the matches were held on the various courts about town, and that year also, a team was sent to Point Anne and Campbellford.

* * *

But since the club has had its own court behind the Curling Rink, no tournament had gone past the second or third round.

* * *

Now if the numerous tennis fans would show sufficient enthusiasm, likely the "Gaufers" would build a couple of courts, pick a tennis team in the same way it does its golf representatives and the new weak "Tennis Club" could be run as a part of the Golf Club. This is the way Belleville do it.

* * *

This would add to the advantages of the Golf and Country Club, besides sponsoring so popular a sport. In time it should be a source of revenue to the treasury.

* * *

Tennis is no game for an invalid. No game requires such a combination of stamina, accuracy, speed, co-ordination between mind and body and judgment as does the game of the courts when it is played properly.

* * *

At one time or another Napanee has had some real tennis players. Men like J. L. Murray, the Carr Bros., Lorne Wartman, J. E. Madden, Doug. Ham and others could hold their own with most of the teams around here. And there is no particular lack of material now either. From Bunny Detlor, Ralph Cowle, George Daly, Bill Coates, Goldie Smith, and a host of others too numerous to mention, surely a fairly respectable team could be chosen.

* * *

If any of the local fans should be interested in the "propulition" and be willing to help it along, they should get after Duffy Dafoe, the secretary of the club. The fee would probably be somewhere between the present Jr. members' fee and the associate members' fee. Of course this would increase the privileges of club-house which aren't to be sneezed at.

* * *

Perhaps the best way would be to make a canvas of all the tennis players in town to see how many would be willing to sign up, should the whole Napanee go through. Or better yet, let the players canvass themselves and then get after the Club Executive.

* * *

Once again I say, let's have some competitive tennis this year.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Kingston "Y" downed the Gibbard Basketeers last Wednesday night at the Collegiate gym, by 27-25 in a friendly exhibition game. The game was fairly fast, with occasional sprints of very flashy basketball, but at times the play was a bit ragged.

The locals had the edge on the play for three-quarters of the game but superior shooting enabled the more experienced team to finally emerge victorious. The Kingston squad play next ball and were in the finals with Belleville. However they do not stick to their style of play as well as they might and are more or less handicapped by their lack of a real centre player.

Gibbards led at half time by 11-5, but the visitors tied it in the last minutes. The tally was even many times after that, in fact the "Y" had a seven point lead with four minutes to go.

Kingston Y—Forwards, Vince, Edgar; centre, Drew; defence, Morriss, Laurenson; subs. G. Thomas.

Gibbard's—Forwards, Wilson, Stewart; centre, Gibbard; defence, Fred Bentley, Ted Bentley.

Referee—Maurice Kinkley.

WINNIPEG POLICE GET JAIL-BREAKER

Recognized from circulars distributed throughout the Dominion, James Lee, alias Wilson, alias Walker, alias Coulter, who broke out of the Napanee County Jail February 24th, and made a successful escape, was arrested in Winnipeg Sunday. Lee was in possession of a gun when arrested, but made no effort to use it.

At the arrest of Lee in Toronto, February 14th brought to an end a series of robberies in Napanee and vicinity. The post office at Centreville was broken into and robbed and many houses in the district entered and stripped of valuables. Lee was brought back to Napanee and was lodged in county jail to await trial on charges of shopbreaking and theft.

Shortly after nightfall February 24th, Lee took the bolts off the cell door, walked out into the courtyard and made his escape. Provincial police all over Ontario were given a description of the fugitive but all efforts at recapture failed. He is a dangerous man and has served three terms in penitentiary. Lee will be brought back to Napanee by Napanee officers and will face an additional charge of jailbreaking.

BATH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The March meeting of Bath Institute was held Monday, March 10, at the home of Mrs. Mott. Eight members were present and eight visitors.

The roll call was answered by "How to Fight Moths." Several good suggestions were given, the ones most used being red cedar and moth balls, newspaper and frequent airing being another.

The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted, and correspondence dealt with. At a previous meeting it had been moved and carried that a grant be given the library. It was impossible to come to a decision concerning the amount as there were not enough members out to carry the vote, one way or the other. A full attendance is requested at the April meeting that all matters now on the books, can be finished before the beginning of a New Year.

A very favorable report of the dance was given showing a profit of thirty dollars. It was moved and seconded that our district fees be paid. The Ernestown Institute then put on the program. Miss Muriel Miller gave a very interesting paper on the life of one, "Grace Darling." It was followed by a solo by Mrs. C. Thompson, "My Task." Those present would liked to have hear another selection, as this was so pleasing, but were not so privileged.

Mrs. W. Kellar gave a demonstration on rug making. Several pretty rugs were shown all done by this young Homemaker.

Our hostess got us all busy at a contest. A first and consolation prize being given.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Ernestown Institute and after a social half hour over the tea cup the National Anthem was sung.

The next meeting is at Mrs. G. Stevenson's when Mrs. Siret, of Kingston, is expected. Everybody welcome.

When you consider that Floglaze Enamel covers 20 per cent. more surface than any other makes; that one coat is equal to two coats of cheap brands; that there is no brush marks; that it dries quickly, with a brilliant gloss, and that it wears like finitely longer—then you know that at the price ($1.60 a quart and $1.85 for White Enamel and a few other shades) you can use no other Enamel and be satisfied. Floglaze for sale at Wallace's.

The regular meeting of the Maple Leaf institute was held on Thursday, March 13th, at 2 p.m. at the home of Mesdames Smith and Brandon.

Meeting was opened in the usual way. The correspondence was numerous, owing to an attack of tonsilitis we were unable to have Mr. Albert Hill with us but hope he will be able to be with us at one of our future meetings. Current Events by Mrs. Bert Fretts. Music by Mrs. W. R. Smith. A very interesting paper was given by Mrs. George Yankoughter on "Will Stains Come Out?" Mrs. John Chambers gave synopsis of second chapter in book of laws. Collection $1.10. Attendance 14.

Her Backache Trouble Quickly Disappeared

Ontario Lady Tells of Benefits Derived From Dodd's Kidney Pills

Ridgway, Ont. Mar. 18th (Special) "I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for pain in my back and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. W. H. Garretson, who is 71 years old and a respected resident of this place. "They certainly are a wonderful medicine. My backache is entirely gone. I can rest good at night and always feel fine. I keep a box in the house at all times. They are a fine remedy for kidney trouble."

Dodd's Kidney Pills hold their popularity just because of the results they make, but because of the good they do.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a Kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys so they can do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood.

Pure blood coursing through the body carries to the different organs the nourishment they need to keep them sound and healthy.

A French doctor named Tours claims to have discovered a means of making the human body transparent. This will be no news for wives, many of whom are already able to see through their husbands.

OBITUARY

Mr. John Uens

At Desoronto, February 26th, 1930, Mr. John Uens was suddenly called to his reward, just as the family had nearly finished moving back to the farm just outside the town.

Mr. Uens was born near Camden East, August 8th, 1852, his father being Henry Uens and his mother, before her marriage, Elizabeth Hinch. His parents moved to Mountain Grove when he was a boy about twelve years of age, his mother dying four years later. When he was quite a young man he went to Chaffey's Locks, where he became interested in cooking, and for a good many years cooked for the Rathbun Lumber Company, also for several construction firms.

On March 7th, forty-seven years ago, Mr. Uens married Miss Cecilia Jane Barr, daughter of Mr. Edward Barr, of Mountain Grove, making their home at that place until twelve years ago, when they moved to a farm about four miles east of Napanee. To them were born a family of six sons and two daughters, of whom all are living except one daughter, Bertha, who died about thirteen years ago. Four sons, also, those who were still at home, moved to the farm of Mr. John Green, just outside of Desoronto.

Besides Mrs. Uens and family, who are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father, are Mrs. Fred Pierce, Watertown, N.Y., and Ned, of Mountain Grove, the only two left of ten brothers and sisters.

The funeral was held at the home of his son, Eddie, Desoronto, and was largely attended, being conducted by Rev. Mr. Clark, of Shannonville, a former pastor at Mountain Grove. After the service the body was placed in the vault of Riverview Cemetery at Napanee.

ADOLPHUSTOWN W. M. S.

The March meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. John Magee, on Wednesday afternoon. Despite the stormy weather there was a fair attendance.

The President, Mrs. R. Humphrey, presided over the meeting. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. W. J. Magee. The meeting opened by all singing hymn, "I Am Trusting Thee, Lord Jesus," and was followed by prayer by Mrs. W. J. Magee, who also read the Scripture lesson, Isaiah 53th chapter. All joined in singing hymn, "Jesus Keep Me Near The Cross." The secretary, Miss H. Magee read the minutes of the last meeting and the Treasurer, Miss A. Magee gave her report. Several letters relative to mission work were read. The Watch Tower was answered to by Mrs. John Humphrey and Mrs. John Magee. A very interesting letter was read by our corresponding secretary, from our special missionary, Miss Margaret Mustard, of Manitoba, who with another graduate nurse, is kept very busy as there is not a doctor nearer than fifty miles.

The program was omitted as Miss Janet Rombough, who had charge of it, was absent. Miss Margares Magee gave a synopsis of a chapter in the Study Book.

The roll call, "A verse on the proper use of money," was responded to by the members, after which Miss Annabelle Magee read an interesting paper explaining the proper use of money, as was directed in the scripture. The meeting was taken and the meeting adjourned to meet in April at the home of Mrs. R. Cousins. The meeting will be in charge of repeating a prayer, led by Mrs. Wm. Magee. Grace was sung and the hostess served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

CHEAPER HYDRO RATES

Premier Ferguson pre-election promise of cheaper Hydro power to rural Ontario and governmental loans to farmers to aid in installation is advancing to fulfilment. Bills were introduced to the Ontario Legislature this week setting the machinery in motion to accomplish this most important phase of Hydro at cheaper rates to the rural communities and financial assistance in placing power on farms.

Hon J. R. Cooke, Minister of Power, spoke to the second reading of the bill providing for establishment of a definite maximum rural service charge of $2.50 a month, applicable to all areas now paying that rate or higher. Deficits between the amount realized at this rate and the actual cost to any district shall be paid by the province out of the consolidated revenue fund.

In the second bill, provision is made to set aside $2,000,000 out of consolidated revenue to meet the loans on installation. Behind the bills is a desire to attract rural users by the rate offered and by the loans for hydro equipment. An increased number of users per mile of transmission line will lower costs. At the end of a few years, the question of a deficit will end with all lines and districts becoming self supporting.

"The problem of Hydro distribution is one of the biggest the province has sought to deal with," said Hon. Mr. Cooke. "One of the biggest obstacles in dealing with it has been the misrepresentation that has gone out from the Legislature by members of the opposition and stirred up for political purposes."

While the problem, continued Hon. Mr. Cooke, is not electrical, the tremendous investment necessary in transmission lines to carry the power to the farm areas was the question. One mile of line erected to carry power to one customer makes the service cost prohibitive. In town centers, one mile of line will serve perhaps 100 users. At farming areas, one mile of line may only serve three to ten consumers, and yet the carrying charges on each mile of line is the same.

From surveys it has been learned that 75 per cent. of the rural area of old Ontario would yield an average of eight or nine consumers per mile if all the farmers used the power. On this was based the commission's plan to establish a maximum rate.

"Rural Ontario will become electrified," said Hon. Mr. Cooke, while the cost to the province for the next year could not be estimated in view of the fact that it was not known how many farmers would take the service.

TRINITY CHURCH W. M. S.

The March meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held on Tuesday, March 4th, at 3 o'clock. There was an unusually large attendance, sixty women having gathered to take part in the well planned meeting. The 3rd chapter of the study book, "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," was very capably handled by Miss M. Milling.

Mrs. Arthur Kimmerly, whom the members of Trinity always so much enjoy listening to, again delighted her audience with the beautiful solo, "Go Forth and Find." A very fine amount was realized from the Quarterly envelopes, which was further increased by Mrs. W. S. Davidson making herself a life member.

After the singing of hymn 294, Mrs. Rose closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Baughan and her committee then served refreshments.

Adding New Beauty to Outstanding Performance

ONE of the most significant points about the introduction of the new Ford bodies is the manner in which new beauty has been added to outstanding performance without increase in price. Following the established Ford policy, the savings resulting from economies in production and distribution are being passed on to the public in increased value.

These new bodies, in fact, are but one of the many features that make the new Ford such a satisfactory car to own and drive. For beneath this new beauty—in those hidden, vital mechanical parts which you may never see—is an excellence of material and craftmanship unusual in a low-price car.

The following partial list of Ford features shows the high quality that has been built into the car .... fully enclosed, silent four-wheel brakes .... four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers ... Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield .... exceptionally large number of ball and roller bearings .... extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings .... aluminum pistons .... chrome silicon alloy valves .... chrome alloy transmission gears and shaft .... torque-tube drive .... three-quarter floating rear axle .... and Rustless Steel head lamps, radiator shell, hub caps, cowl finish strip, radiator cap, gasoline tank cap and tail lamp.

The usual accuracy of Ford manufacturing methods is shown in the close limits of measurements maintained in making vital parts.

The aluminum pistons, for instance, are held true to within one one-thousandth of an inch of the specified diameter of 3 7-8 inches. The connecting rod is not permitted to exceed a variation of more than four one-thousandth of an inch in length. Every crankshaft is statically and dynamically balanced, with a minimum of 174 checks for accuracy. Many of these checks are to limits of one one-thousandth of an inch—others to one two-thousandth of an inch—and still others to five ten-thousandths of an inch.

Keep this mechanical, structural superiority in mind, therefore, when considering the unusual value of the new Ford. It is the reason for the safety, comfort, speed, acceleration, economy and long-lived reliability of the car—for its outstanding performance under all conditions.

HOUSE ORDER PAPER SUGGESTS ELECTION NOT FAR DISTANT

The Parliamentary session got under way with a rush suggestive of brevity but stumbled on a series of snags which promise nothing better than a midsummer prorogation and suggest general acceptance of the belief that an election is not far away.

Resolutions dealing with every local and general election cry have been put on the order paper in the scramble to get on with the written record as in favor of this, or as opposed to that, before polling day. The Government has given no further intimation of its intentions but the legislative program, as it develops, shows that the road is being paved for dissolution just as soon as the outlook is propitious.

Social and paternal legislation is being urged by both oppositions in aids to health work, to technical education, to a national highway, to agriculture and to returned men. There was a moment when it appeared that Mr. King was flirting with the idea of unemployment insurance when he told a delegation from Western Provinces he expected it would come presently. He largey dispelled the illusion the following day in indicating that he believed such insurance to fall under the Provinces. No one of the Provinces can act without all the rest in such a cause or it would be swamped with the unemployed of the whole Dominion each winter. An interprovincial conference with the Dominion on the subject is hinted at but it is unlikely before the general election.

Mr. Dunning is said to have his budget drafted but its contents remain a secret within the cabinet until its presentation. Tariff cuts on certain motor cars are hinted at, as are increases in both preferential and general duties on butter, eggs and cheese. Tax changes will also be designed to attract the voter with the least possible dislocation of revenues. Some difficulty is encountered in the fact that revenues are likely to automatically contract quite materially as a result of the stock market crash and the wheat situation which have lessened buying power and slowed up business generally.

Health Restored Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Mrs. Leo. Bedard, Quebec City, tells how her health and strength were restored through the use of that great blood-building tonic, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Bedard says: "Some three years ago, after the birth of my little boy, I was left very weak and pale. I did not seem to have any strength, and at times I was so dizzy I would nearly fall down. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I did so. In a few weeks I was surprised to notice the difference in my condition—I felt like a new woman. I continued taking the pills until I had used ten boxes, by which time I had completely regained my former health and strength. I feel that I cannot praise too highly Dr. Williams Pink Pills for what they have done for me."

To the woman in the home—the woman closely confined through household duties—Dr. Williams Pink Pills are a positive blessing. So if you are suffering from any condition due to poor, watery blood, or weak nerves, begin taking Dr. Williams Pink Pills now, and note how quickly your health will improve and your strength return. The pills are sold by all medicine dealers, or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A FUTILE GATHERING

There assembled in Ottawa the middle of this month representatives of all Provinces. They had been summoned by the Minister of Agriculture in an effort to work some miracle which will restore the Canadian farmer to a position where he will enjoy a reasonable return for his very arduous labors.

The Ministers of Agriculture, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, was able to offer nothing more attractive than greater production as a solution of the ills of the agriculturist.

What a helpful suggestion! With 200,000,000 bushels of last year's wheat crop lying in the country unmarketed do we need more wheat?

With 25,000,000 pounds of New Zealand butter flooding Canada and battering down prices, with the United States market closed to us, with the dairy farmer losing on his present production, will help himself by producing more?

With millions of dollars worth of foreign fruit and vegetables being dumped into Canada, where is the incentive to produce more?

With over $300,000,000 worth of agricultural, vegetable and animal products imported in 1929 to destroy the home market, where is the incentive to produce more or lose more?

There is a solution of the farmers' problems, but Mr. Motherwell and his Premier will not invoke it. Let them pursue a policy which will enable us to manufacture in Canada the $500,000,000, worth of manufactured goods we now import which could and should be made at home. Let them pursue a policy which will let us manufacture our own raw materials in Canada for Canada and for the world. Let them pursue a policy which will take care of itself. It will not be long then, until we are again a real factor in the great importing markets of the world.

EVERY BELL TELEPHONE IS A LONG DISTANCE STATION

Ready Now For Bigger Business

'Long Distance telephone facilities were never so complete — so effective, speedy and far-reaching as they are today.

Our 1929 building programme added about 14,000 miles of talking channels to our lines. The standard of service was improved —is steadily improving.

And it costs less than ever before, because on January 1st reduced rates on calls to points 75 to 800 miles distant became effective—the second reduction within a year.

Why not lay your plans now to take advantage of this speedy, dependable, time-saving service?

MODERN SPEED RECORDS

Speed of modern communication is constantly changing quantity in these days of radio, television and long distance telephone. The Bell Telephone Company's annual report is authority for the statement that the average time required for establishing long distance connection is now only 1.6 minutes. The report adds that 63 per cent. of all telephone connections are now made while the calling person "holds the line."

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held as usual on Tuesday afternoon, March 11th, in the Agricultural rooms. Despite the rainy weather there was a splendid attendance. The meeting opened by singing the "Ode," after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, correspondence read and other business attended to.

The President, Mrs. Ralph Ham then introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss A. M. Going, of Kingston, President of the Local Council of Women of that city. In opening her address, Miss Going extended greetings to the Institute from the Local Council and then went on to trace the influence women have had for good to individual efforts of women in the past, down through the ages to these days of united organized effort on the part of women for the cause of humanity and explained the work of the Council of Women from its inception. The Kingston Council was formed in 1894 and there are now fifty councils reaching from Halifax to Victoria, B.C., with many other societies affiliated. Miss Going complimented the Women's Institute on the excellent work being done by this organization, especially referring to the establishing of a doctor at Tobermory, and the recent grant toward the Shelter Fund at Kingston.

Miss Going, who is so well known under her pen name "Laurida," proved an equally interesting speaker and was listened to with great pleasure.

Following the address the Vice President of the W. I., Mrs. T. V. Anderson gave a demonstration of some new sandwich fillings and attractive ways of serving same. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

CONWAY W. I.

The March meeting of Conway W.I. which was held at the home of the President, Mrs. J. A. Young, brought out a good many members and also friends.

The meeting was opened in usual order and after reading of February minutes and their adoption the Treasurer gave her report showing a good balance on hand. Roll call was answered with suggestions for next year's program, also "ways of disguising the neighbors." On motion our district fees were voted paid. Some little time was taken up in discussion and planning for the meeting of the district annual which will be held at Conway the latter part of June. A letter of thanks from a friend for fruit sent during the illness was read, also letters from Adolphustown and Wilton asking us to consider putting on their plays on in our community. This matter was left over until the next meeting. This ended the business.

Miss J. Dennee gave a very interesting paper. A pen picture of Geo. W. Lee, giving us a very clear picture of the great railway magnate, picturing him in many different phases as the pioneer of the North country in his great ambition and untiring efforts to see the railway completed to James Bay, entertaining the sightseers and also as a good and popular citizen. W. L. Haight followed with a talk on poultry and the renewal of the flock. From his talk we learned many things we should do and also many things we should not do in order to expect the best results. Mr. Haight was tendered a hearty vote of thanks.

Misses Dennee favored us with a duet and Mr. J. Dennee a song. Everyone enjoying these to the fullest extent. Next came the judging of the candy exhibited by the members. The judge found this no easy task, but awarded the prize to Mrs. J. Young.

Meeting closed, after which refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed by all.

STRATHCONA W. M. S.

A very interesting meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Wilson on Wednesday, March 12th. There were eight members and three visitors present. The meeting opened by repeating our Watchword in unison, followed by hymn, "From Every Stormy Wind That Blows." The scripture lesson was read and commented on by Mrs. W. J. Finlay. Some discussions followed, after which there was a season of prayer.

The roll was called and members responded by a Temperance text on prayer. The Treasurer reported $40.00 in the treasury. After the reading of the minutes, the Watch Heralds gave their reports: Africa, Mrs. Rook; Trinidad, Mrs. W. Wilson; Korea, Mrs. Wilson; Japan, Mrs. B. Finlay; Christian Stewardship, Mrs. W. Finlay. These were all most interesting.

Mrs. Geo. Finlay gave a reading on "Discipleship, the Cost," which gave us much food for thought. Mrs. Bruce Finlay sang a beautiful solo, "A Little Bit of Love."

Mrs. Jas. Wilson, while visiting in Ottawa, heard the Rev. R. T. Netram, Indian Evangelist, speak in the interest of his country, India, and she brought very entertaining report of his address to our meeting. Our hearts are warmed and our interest strengthened in the cause of our heathen sisters as we listen to this first hand information.

The meeting closed by singing "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

MORVEN W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. E. Lane on Tuesday, March 11th, with a good number of members and visitors present. The meeting opened with Hymn 81 and prayer by the president.

Minutes of last meeting were read and the business part of the meeting then followed. Hymn 379. Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. George Fretts. Hymn 381 and prayer by several of the members. Reading by Mrs. Denyes, "The Parable of the Lighted Lamps." Music by Mrs. Sevmour and Mrs. Fralick. Christian Stewardship Mrs. F. Lake. Mrs. E. Lane then gave a very interesting chapter in the study book, Reading, "The prayer that was answered." by Mrs. Stone. Meeting closed with Mizpah Benediction.

USE OF RETURN ADDRESS MAY BE COMPELLED

There is a possibility that the Post Office Department will make it compulsory for mailers to place a return address on their mailings. If this order is carried it will mean a saving in the neighborhood of $500,000 annually to the government. The record of the department reveals that this amount is lost annually because of careless in addressing mail.

The expense is incurred by the department, it is said, in giving a special directory service to some millions of pieces of mail which are carelessly addressed. A suggestion which has been forwarded is a campaign among school children as a means of eliminating some of their lost time, efforts and expense in handling mail from careless patrons. The proper wrapping and addressing of mail more than once has been stressed by postal officials, but there are still some patrons of the service who fail to heed the advice of the Post Office Department.

It is the Post Office Department, or in the final analysis, the tax payer, who pays an annual toll for the support of this malignant growth, which amounts in the thousands of dollars.

Canadian Gardening Service

Vegetables

On a large place, it is advisable to move the vegetable garden around from year to year, that is to have at least two places for growing these each season. The job of fertilizing is more easily accomplished because this can be spread on the land during the off year and worked in. One can plant cover crops in nitrogen, such as peas and clover, and plow this under. But in the smaller places or where a certain definite plot fenced in or surrounded by a hedge has been set aside for the vegetables, complete moving around is impossible. However, the vegetables should be rotated within the garden. In other words, if tomatoes have been grown in a certain corner one year, grow them in another portion of the garden this season. Vegetables like corn for instance are very gross feeders and if they are planted in exactly the same place each after year will soon exhaust their plant food in that particular location. Peas and beans, on the other hand, actually enrich the soil on which they are grown because they extract nitrogen from the air and these should also be moved around to give the garden the full advantage of their presence. In planting the vegetable garden, do not make the mistake of putting in all the seed at one time. It is a good risk to sow a portion very early. Even if this is cut down by late frosts, the loss is negligible, while it is a distinct advantage to have early vegetables if they come through. It is also advisable to save some of the seed and plant it quite late, so that the harvest will be spread over a longer period. One should also have a sufficient supply to replant any rows that may have been ruined by flooding, or pests.

Pruning

This is the usual month for pruning in the garden and orchard. All of the dead canes should be removed from the raspberry patch as well as the spindly ones of new growth. Some of the older wood should be cut away from the gooseberries and currants. Grape vines must be pruned very early to avoid excessive bleeding. These vines are best cut back to a mere skeleton as fruit is borne on the wood grown the same year. Fruit trees should be opened up to let in sunlight and air, branches that rub together removed, and perhaps the top growth headed back so that one will not have to use an aeroplane to pick the fruit. Late blooming shrubs should be pruned in the spring, but the early bloomers not until Fall. Weak and spindly growth among the climbing roses should be removed at this time, or perhaps a little later.

Paths

No matter how small the garden is, the problem of paths will soon crop up. In the very small layout, whether one wants it or not, paths will soon appear across the lawn as the traffic is more concentrated than where the garden is larger. If properly handled, these paths can be made into a real asset and will actually lend an air of greater size to the garden. One can use flat stones sunk flush with the surface of the lawn so that they will not impede the mower, and laid irregularly. Brick is sometimes used, although it is a bit formal, while cinders and gravel are other materials. In a very large garden where there is no congested foot traffic, the pathways are often simply strips of lawn. Wherever there is a curve in the path, and these curves, it should be remembered add beauty, there must be a real reason, such as a corner of a building, a tree, a trellis, or something similar. If there is no reason, make one by planting clumps of shrubbery, trees, flower beds, trellises, arbors, archways, pools or garden seats.

While the cost of seed is usually the least important item in gardening it is the foundation of all success operations. Unless the proper precautions are taken, and these consist of screening all bloom from insects, selecting the very earliest and best specimens and making sure that colors and variety are absolutely pure, one should not depend on seed saved from the ordinary garden. The professional seed grower has spent probably a lifetime at the business, and in many cases he is the son and even grandson of the man who has done the same thing. He has expensive equipment and only specialties in one or two lines. He may be growing but a single early carrot, or one color and variety of aster. It is from these men that our commercial garden seed supplies are secured. And great care is taken in securing these supplies to make sure that they come from a climate suitable to our own. A flower may do exceedingly well in the balmy climate of California, or other Southern States, or in the moist temperate climate of England, but if it is grown here the results are almost sure to be disappointing. Because of this unalterable condition not only should the best seed be purchased, but only seed adapted to Canada's shorter growing season.

AUTOMATIC HANDLING OF AIRPLANE FREIGHT

A loading and discharging device for handling freight from moving planes has been invented in Germany according to a report received here by the Department of Commerce. Tests of the Deutsche Luft Hansa are reported to have been successful.

The freight to be discharged is attached to a cable and is lowered by means of a windlass through an opening in the floor just before the plane flies over a double gallows structure on the ground. On the ends of the cross beams, which nearly touch, is placed a disc is placed, to which the freight to be picked up is attached by two rubber ropes.

When the cable touches the cross beam of the gallows, it is led along to the slit in the disc, where two clasps automatically close around the cable. The disc will then fall down the cable in a fraction of a second and will strike on the grip attachment, thereby releasing the freight to be discharged. At the same time the freight attached to the disc is picked up off the ground.

There's nothing more expensive than free advice that is bad.

NAPANEE SENIORS LOST TO PICTON KIWANIS, 4-3.

The local seniors journeyed to Picton last Friday night and were defeated, in one of the fastest games of the season. The score was 4-3.

The ice was in perfect condition and the way the fans turned out to see a local game in Picton was wonderful. The large arena was filled with spectators.

The first period started with a "bang," when the Picton forward line broke through and scored. The time was a little over 10 seconds. Well boys, after that is was anyone's game.

Both teams going to the limit, and near the finish of the round, "Lee" Richardson, slipped a beauty by the Picton goalman, the score stood 1-1.

During the second session, Bunny Detlor, displaying some real stick-handling, dropped another one through for a counter, Picton put out practically a new team after that and they kept the locals down until half the round was over, Bentley making another spectacular rush, scored again, the Picton fans went wild and Picton, in order to redeem themselves chased up another. The score ended 3-3.

The last session was a real fast one, both teams playing defensive hockey and making one man rushes and the goalies sure had their hands full. With about 4 minutes to go, Picton put practically a new team on and made one grand rush and "Shorty" didn't have a chance. They slipped the winning counter by.

Their were only 2 penalties during the whole game, one for each team. Picton referee handled the ball to the satisfaction of both teams and spectators.

There is a bit of talk about entering this team in the Senior League next season, and it looks as though they may go a long way.

CANADA'S BLIND CITIZEN

Napanee had a visit Tuesday from Rev. Arthur Pickering, L.S.T., an Anglican clergyman, who lost his sight as a result of a serious breakdown. He was here in the interests of Canada's blind citizens of whom there are 7,000.

The work for these 7,000 is under the care of the Canadian National Institute for the blind with headquarters in Toronto. At the head of the organization is E. A. Baker, formerly of Napanee, who lost his sight during the war. This organization is financed partly by public subscriptions. Their interests are as varied as the blind and partially blind for whom they minister.

One fine feature of their work is the preventative measures. Anyone who is having serious eye trouble can make arrangements through the Institute to attend a free clinic. In case they are unable to travel and unable to pay, an expert will visit them and glasses will be supplied free.

Work is supplied in factories for all who are fitted for it. And classes of instruction are held regularly to prepare the blind to make a living for themselves.

Homes are maintaind for those who need intimate attention, where they are cared for.

A monthly magazine is published in embossed letters and sent free to any blind person anywhere. In addition a free library is available for all who desire reading material.

By special arrangement with all manufacturers blind people receive a reduction of from 40-50% on all radios made in Canada. And by special grant from the Government no license is required.

This is one of the finest pieces of philantropic and educational work in Canada and merits the support of all who are fortunate enough to have their eyesight.

Mr. Pickering hopes to return later and address a Napane audience.

CAMDEN VIII. W. M. S.

The March meeting of Camden VIII. W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Ross McGregor on Friday, March 7th, being presided over by Mrs. Close, who conducted devotional exercises with singing, prayer and scripture reading, selected from second, third and fourth chapter of Acts. Mrs. M. Marlin read the devotional leaflet, "Miracles Then and Now."

The study period was devoted to a study of the third chapter of "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," and was in charge of Mrs. Samuel Doupe, assisted by Mrs. Stanley Doupe. The study of Chapter IV for the April meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Thos. Wilson.

The roll was answered by fourteen members and visitors with a scripture verse beginning with the letter M. At the January meeting it was suggested that our roll call be answered with a scripture verse beginning with the initial letter of the month of the meeting, and that such verse be memorized. For next month's meeting the verse will begin with the letter A.

On motion of Mrs. R. J. Wilson a resolution of sympathy was extended to Mrs. Leslie Haggerty, who has recently lost her mother by death.

The Treasurer reported a correspondence from Mrs. Seymour, advising us that our allocation for this year will be the same as for last year. Also a letter regarding our supply work, which will be a quilt.

The April meeting will be held at Mrs. Samuel Doupe's on April 3rd, at 2 p.m.

Plans were discused for holding an Easter thankoffering service in Camden VIII Church on the afternoon of the last Sunday in April.

With the singing of a hymn, the regular meeting was concluded, to be followed at 5 o'clock with the prayer service of the Women's Day of Prayer. The programme as prepared and published in the Missionary Monthly was followed throughout, all taking part in the responsive readings and several leading in prayer. The singing of the hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," and the Mispah benediction closed the service, after which Mrs. McGregor served lunch.

An English curate taught an old man in his parish to read. After his lessons were finished, the man smiled and called upon him for some time, and when at last he called he found only the man's wife at home.

"How is John?" said he. "And how does he progress with his reading?"

"Oh, nicely, sir."

"I suppose he can read his Bible quite comfortably now?"

"Bible, sir!" exclaimed the woman. "Lor' bless your soul! Why, John was out o' the Bible and into the sporting papers long ago!"

The extra weight, rigidity and strength of the Gibbard type of solid walnut construction, is well-known, as also is it's accurately fitted joints, its dust-proof divisions between drawers, its guides to prevent drawers from sticking, its carefully rubbed finish and its hand carved decorations and artistic overlays.

HEALTH FINEST IN YEARS SAYS COOK

"I am 78 years old, but I couldn't ask any better results than I got from Sargon; it made me feel like an entirely different man.

M. M. COOK

"For the past three years my health gradually went back on me and finally I got in such a weak rundown condition that for days at a time I couldn't put my foot out of the house. I had such smothering spells at times I'd actually have to sleep propped up in a sitting position in bed. Five bottles of Sargon overcame my indigestion and heartburn, my appetite is lots better and I eat hearty meals without any bad effects. I enjoy my sleep and am stronger and more active than I have been in years.

"Sargon Pills toned up my liver and regulated me perfectly. I only wish I could have gotten hold of this wonderful Sargon treatment sooner."—M. M. Cook, 414 Willard Ave., Toronto.

Sargon may be obtained in Napanee at Hooper's Drug Store, who has been awarded the exclusive Sargon agency for this town.

A country parson received "a call" to a more remunerative post. "Has your father decided what to do about the inquisitive one of the young son.

OUR WEEKLY RECIPE

If you are a business or professional woman there are lots of times when you like to ask a few people to join you at supper time but you decided the time necessary to arrange a meal is too great and you would be too tired at the end of the day. Or if you have a home and do not keep a maid you are rather timid about inviting guests to your home. But remember this: the guest who gives a thought to criticism is a veritable Scrooge himself, and it is hardly likely any of your friends are in that category.

It is delightful to find an occasional recipe which may be wholly prepared the day before so that you can just slip it into the oven and give your undivided attention to the other last minute things. And this dish is truly appetizing and delicious. Try it.

Casserole of Ham and Vegetables

1 cupful drained peas, 2 cupfuls of diced cooked ham, 1 1-2 cupfuls scalded milk, 1 cupful soft bread crumbs, 1-4 cupful melted butter, 2 pimientoes chopped, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 1-2 tablespoons chopped onions, 1 cupful Canadian cheese, grated; 3-8 teaspoonful salt, 1-8 teaspoonful pepper, dash of paprika and three eggs.

Four scalding milk over bread crumbs. Add butter, pimiento, onion, parsley, grated cheese, and seasonings. Add well beaten eggs. Put ham and peas in a buttered casserole and put the milk and cheese mixture over them. Bake about fifty minutes at 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

News and Information For the Farmer

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, has introduced a bill in the Legislature providing for improvements in the quality of dairy products. The act now provides that milk and cream be paid for on a butter fat basis, except when for human consumption. The amendment removes this exception. It also provides that factories hereafter shall be termed plants and provides for extreme sanitation in buildings.

"College Royal"

During the past few years a new feature of unusual interest in the educational work of the Ontario Agricultural College has been the annual exhibition known as the "College Royal." The show is staged entirely by the students and is a sort of a miniature Royal Winter Fair. This year's show was held on March 4th and proved highly successful. An unusual feature is the fact that in the live stock classes prizes were not awarded on the merits of the animals but on the proficiency of the exhibitors in preparing and exhibiting their entries.

—:—

Current Crop Report.

The crop report issued for the first week in March describes a general poor condition among live stock. Grant Conroy reports that stock in many cases does not look too well and the farmers have been wintering them as cheaply as possible. Crops in Dufferin appeared to be in good condition and a heavy demand for No. 1 Alsike Oats is indicated. Considerable sickness in fowl is reported by Prontenac but unsatisfactory reports have been heard regarding fall wheat, but farmers in Haldimand are concerned on account of the unusual weather. Fall wheat and clover fields are in poor condition in Hastings, while serious damage has been done by rodents in Huron orchards. Fall wheat in Kent is in good condition and egg production in Lambton is rapidly on the increase. Red clover seed is plentiful in Lincoln but alfalfa seed is scarce. Cattle have been selling extensively in Middlesex. A surplus supply of milk is reported in Oxford. Orchards in Welland have been injured by the ice storms of the past winter.

Tribute to Agriculture.

E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the C.P.R., in a recent address at Toronto, dealing with the conditions of the railways in their relation to the marketing of Canada's wheat crop, paid a remarkable tribute to agriculture. He declared: "It all indicates the tremendous importance of agriculture of Canada's prosperity, not only in its direct results to the producers of farm products, but to the business of the country as a whole and through the value of the general purchasing power which agricultural prosperity gives."

—:—

Amount of Farm Loans

Hon John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, told the Legislature that the amount of loans outstanding under the Agricultural Development Act for the past three years was $15,531,360 in 1927; $19,465,405 in 1928, and $23,-835,897 in 1929. He said there was $133,999 outstanding in short term notes at the close of the last fiscal year. In answering a question as to how much money has been lost to date, he said: "There have been no actual losses because the reserve created for that purpose has taken care of all shortages, which have been $12,804 for long terms notes, and $905 for short term notes. The board has taken no foreclosures in the last three years, although sale proceedings have been taken in 52 cases."

Good Seed Pays Well

According to experiments conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College, it is now quite possible to raise the yield forty per cent. by using clean, high quality seed. Results based on the work of the last few years actually show that this increase over the low-yielding plots run all the way from 30 to 63 per cent. The importance of well-cleaned seed is further illustrated by the results from plots where small, shrunken and broken seed was used in one case and large plump kernels in the other. The case of the former showed the yield with oats to be 46.6 bushels per acre as compared with 62 bushels from the latter. Good seed costs less than two dollars per acre more and yet this extra two dollars means a yield of 15 bushels of oats on every acre.

Free Material

The Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union is again prepared to distribute in Ontario free material for experiments with grains, potatoes roots, fodder crops and fertilizers. All seeds and fertilizers will be sent in good time for spring seeding provided applications are received at an early date. The supply, however, is limited and those who apply first will be sure of obtaining the desired material. Prof. W. J. Squirrell of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, is director of experiments.

—:—

Eradicating Weeds

Good work is being done in part of Wellington County to curtail the weed nuisance. R. H. Clemens, the agricultural representative of that district, recently declared that the sow thistle has been cut down by about fifty per cent. Similar reports have been issued by other agricultural representatives who are giving special attention to this important matter. The past dry season was not favorable for the getting-on growth of the weed and, accordingly steps were taken forward in its eradication in many parts of Ontario.

Balance . . .

Is Your Investment List Well-balanced?

If you are not sure that it is, write for a copy of our latest pamphet entitled "Balance." It emphasizes the importance of a well-balanced investment list. No investor's holdings should include too many securities of any one type or of any one industry.

Moreover, a well-balanced list for one person might be wholly unsuited to another. For instance, a business man might purchase securities which would be unwise for a widow dependent solely upon income from interest and dividends.

We make a specialty of adjusting clients' investment lists to suit their particular needs. Write for further particulars of this service.

OSTRICH FEATHERS AGAIN IN FASHION

When the present up-and-coming generation thinks of an ostrich it is as of something with its head buried, but there was a day about twenty years ago when the Ostrich was as proud as the peacock. In fact more ostrich feathers went to plume milady-hats and ruff—than those of any other bird. Now, the Department of Trade and Commerce learns, Paris fashion arbiters have bought several tons of ostrich feathers and are determined to wave them again into the warp and woof of fashion, including trimmings for gowns.

The people who wake up to find themselves rich are usually boxers.

KAYE DON WRITES ON SPEED RISKS

Kaye Don, the famous motorist, who is now on his way to Daytona Beach, Florida, in his attempt to break the world's land record, writes for the Daily Mail, London, on "My Bid to Beat 231 Miles an Hour."

"I am, setting out," he writes, "on the greatest and most thrilling adventure of my life. This task of beating the world's land speed record of 231 miles an hour is the biggest I have ever undertaken or ever shall undertake. One cannot help realizing the many real dangers involved in this attempt, but the realisation of our object will justify the risks entailed.

At Wolverhampton now the finishing touches are being put to the Silver Bullet, the all-British 4,000 horsepower Sunbeam special in which I hope to create a new world's record for Britain. Mr. Louis Coatalen has designed for me a car which is an amazing example of British engineering skill. It can justly described as a mechanized bullet.

Car Costs $125,000

So far, the greatest sped I have ever attained on land is 152 miles an hour down the straight at Brooklands.

The Silver Bullet has been built at a cost of nearly 25,000 pounds, to travel at between 250 and 300 miles an hour. Anyone who has raced a motor car will be able to imagine the terrific wind velocity encountered at such a high speed.

If I were to expose my head at all while travelling at 250 miles an hour on Daytona Beach I should certainly be knocked unconscious and might conceivably lose my head altogether! To protect the driver, an exceptionally strong wind-screen composed of safety glass in a steel frame, is being fitted to the Silver Bullet, but even so, there is still a danger, in the event of any small object, such as a bird hitting the wind-screen, of its being shattered.

I remember on one occasion at Brooklands, while making a record attempt, my car struck a cat when travelling at about 120 miles an hour. Afterwards I found that a one-and-a-half-inches thick steel steering-track rod had been bent like a piece of wire. If a bird or any small object were to strike the wind-screen while I was moving at 200 miles an hour the result would be very unpleasant.

But that is a gloomy outlook. Every possible precaution has been taken to ensure an adequate margin of safety in the design of this new British car, which, it is hoped, will create a new speed record for Britain.

Special wind tunnel tests have been carried out with models to ensure that the best type of streamlining has been made. These tests have shown that the car should keep firmly on the ground despite the tremendous air pressure.

I think the danger from fire and the bursting of oil or petrol pipes had been eliminated. Despite every care, however, there is always a danger of something breaking or seizing. The fracture of a spring even would be extremely serious. Again, if the brakes or engine were to "seize," the car would, in all probability, get out of control.

Tremendous Strain

The tires will have to undergo a tremendous strain. At 200 miles an hour, the wheels will be doing something like 3,000 revolutions every minute. The centrifugal force thus set up would increase the normal diameter of the tires by one inch.

At the same speed, the tires would consume no less than 1,792,000 foot pounds of energy every minute. That is enough to lift an ordinary express passenger train right off the ground. The two engines of the Silver Bullet are rated at 4,000-h.p., and, of this total, the tires alone will consume 200 h.p., or 20 times that of some light motor-car engines.

One of the 2,000-h.p. engines stops, when firing, shakes the factory with its roar. When both engines are "revved" up it will be necessary to wear ear plugs to deaden the sound.

Added to this will be the noise of the other working parts of the car, which will all be moving at terrific speeds. The blower fans alone, which take the place of superchargers, will be turning at 30,000 revolutions a minute, or 500 revolutions a second, so you will realize that, to say the least of it, mine should be not only a very exciting, but also a very noisy adventure.

It was wartime. Seeing a khaki-clad figure passing, the private called out: "Hey, Buddie, gimme a light."

The other obligingly held out a burning match. The doughboy, looking up to thank his "buddie" discovered to his amazement the star of a brigadier.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said, "I didn't mean any disrespect. I didn't notice you were a general."

"That's all right, Buddie," said the general who apparently was a regular fellow—"but you should be thankful I'm not a second lieutenant."

A Simple Treatment For Children's Colds

Cold in the head is very common at this time of the year, especially in the very young. Neglect of a cold is prone to lead to serious consequences. To relieve all congestion of the system is the first step in treating a cold, whether in infants or adults. For the very young, Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal means of doing this. Containing no narcotics or other harmful drugs they soothe the child's fretfulness, relieve its suffering and ensure convalescence.

Baby's Own Tablets are without an equal for relieving indigestion, constipation and colic. They check diarrhoea; break up colds and simple fevers; promote health-giving sleep and make the dreaded teething period easy. The Tablets are the one medicine that a mother can give her little ones with perfect safety as they are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FIRST WHEAT SHIPPED BY HUDSON BAY ROUTE AT OTTAWA ARCHIVES

Lord Willingdon, Governor General of Canada, made a presentation last week to the Dominion Archives of a small bag of wheat, containing about a pound of excellent grain, which had been sent him by the Hudson Bay Company. The bag was marked No. 1, so it is judged that Lord Willingdon was the first to receive a sample of the wheat. At the same time the Dominion Archives received a sample pound marked 14.

The letter which accompanied the portion was sent the Dominion Archives is of interest to Canadians at the present time and will be interesting history for generations to come. The letter reads:

London, Jan. 3rd, 1930.

Dr. A. G. Doughty,
Dominion Archives, Ottawa.

Dear Sir: We have pleasure in sending for your acceptance a sample of Canadian wheat 1929 crop being part of the first shipment by the new route from the Prairies via Hudson Bay to the United Kingdom.

This shipment, prepared by Messrs. James Richardson and Sons, Ltd., of Winnipeg, was made possible by the courtesy of Hon. Charles Dunning, Canadian Minister of Railways, who kindly gave facilities for the use of the temporary rails as soon as they were laid to Churchill in the month of September. The permanent way, the terminal works, the docks and grain elevators are in course of construction and will all be ready for operation when the harbor works are completed in 1931.

This event will open a new chapter in the history of Churchill as named in 1688 in honor of John Churchill the first Duke of Marlborough and governor of Hudson Bay Company from 1685 to 1691. The selection of this port as the terminus of the railway adds interest to the following extracts from the Company's records:

London Minute Book, 18th October, 1686: "Captain Abrahall, late Governor at Port Nelson, came before ye committee acquainting yem of his proceedings yere & how he did ye last Spring sayle 50 leagues northward of Port Nelson & discovered there a faire river. Ordered he bring in writeing the said discovery."

London Minute, 8th February, 1688: "This committee does resolve and agree as followeth: That Churchill River bee settled this years with a good shippe a competent cargo for Trade and Materials for the Whale fishings."

Churchill Report of, Chief Factor, Thomas Staynes, 1797: "The harbor of Churchill is the finest in the bay, for the ship, and where her cargoes could be the most conveniently discharged."

Yours faithfully,
Charlei V. Sale, Governor.

The shipping tag which accompanied the bag contains an interesting note and reads: "For over 250 years the vessels of the Hudson Bay Company have made their annual voyages from Great Britain to the shores of the Hudson Bay."

The construction of a new railway to the interior opens a new era in transportation to and from the Prairie Provinces and to mark this event the Hudson Bay Company has transported the wheat from Winnipeg over the temporary rails of the Hudson Bay Company by courtesy of Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Railways to Churchill, thence overseas to Liverpool where it was landed by the company's steamship Nascopie on the 10th of October, 1929.

MENINGITIS TAKES MUCH BIGGER TOLL

During the past year there has been on this continent a more severe outbreak of epidemic cerebrospinal meningitis than at any time since the World War.

In general the condition has been more serious in the West than in the East and in fact in some western communities the prevalence of the disease has been alarming.

The age incidence, at least in some communities, has been somewhat higher than is ordinarily the case, though this is not an unique experience. There is no question that there have been outbreaks of very marked severity.

It appears to be not sufficiently recognized that cases may occur without characteristic symptoms referable to the central nervous system. Diagnosis in such cases perhaps can be established only by laboratory procedure, either the isolation of meningocci from the blood stream or the finding of the organism in smears or sections from the skin lesions.

Commercial serums and polyvalent serums are used to combat the disease. Medical journals advise complete isolation of the infected person until 14 days after the onset of the disease.

"Oh, James, dear," said Stella, "I can't understand why you lavish your affections on me above all the other girls in the world. Do tell me why it is."

"Hanged if I know," he replied, "and all my pals say they're blowed if they can make it out either!"

AGED COUNTY RESIDENT PASSES

Mr. Thomas Gurren, of South Fredericksburgh, whose death occurred on Monday was probably the oldest inhabitant of the County, having reached the age of 102 years one month and two days.

Mr. Gurren was born in County Longford, Ireland, 1828, and came out to this country, when he was just a boy of fifteen and when a trip across the ocean took two or three months—long before the days of the Berengarias and the Majestic.

He settled in Adolphustown, the historic Loyalist centre. Here he remained until he purchased the farm at Sandhurst.

He married Miss Liza Wiseman, of Howe, Ireland. To them were born eight children, three of whom survive, Mr. Thomas W. Gurren and Mrs. R. H. Robinston, of South Fredericksburgh, and Mr. Geo. H. Gurren, who resides on the old homestead.

Mr. Gurren was a conservative in politics and an Anglican in religion. For over a year he had been ailing and on Monday midnight, he slept quietly away.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Editor.—

Owing to the heavy demand on the ratepayers of the town of Napanee and apparent necessity to curtail expenses in order to save a further raise in taxes I would like as a heavy taxpayer to have the present council explain through the columns of your paper to the public just why they hire a teamster at $5.00 per day when the tender was put in to the council body for the same work at $4.00 per day or 40c per hour part day, the tender being the same teamster that gave perfect satisfaction last year.

I do not wish to be considered cheap by the public, but the above tender must have needed the work, and the job would not only have benefited the receiver, but a difference of $1.00 per day for the year is equal to a fat cheque, which will furnish the rate. I also realize that one man may be qualified for a job to the extent of $1.00 per day over the ability of another, but will leave the above job in question to the readers' personal opinion.

As chairman of the Streets Committee the past year, I am very glad to be able to bring this or any similar information in my possession to the attention of the ratepayers without fear of any criticism.

E. O. UNGAR.

STILL GOING STRONG
The Forum still holds the interest and attention of a large group of men. On Sunday afternoon nearly two hundred men were present at the meeting in Wonderland. An orchestra of nine pieces provided the music. A quartette of J. Caldwell, A. E. Smith, Ward Sexsmith and Crossman, and Selo by Lewis Lewis supplied the special musical attraction. The mass singing of old hymns continues to be an inspiring feature of these meetings.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

When Maurice Detlor leaves for Toronto to attend radio school, Napanee loses a mighty fine athlete.

* * *

For some years Bunny has been holding down the centre berth on the local puck-chasing squad and has been one of the stars. Besides playing hockey, he is a tennis player of the first water.

* * *

Bunny has made many friends while he has been working here and will be missed a great deal. However we wish him the best of luck in his new work.

* * *

In spite of the fact that some of the boys found it hard to get used to the lighting, there was some good pitching at the Horseshoe Tournament last week. Sand doesn't hold the shoes the same way clay does either.

* * *

Three of the fellows had hard luck in that at the last minute a hockey match was arranged with Picton and they had to default their games. Somebody had to go to defend the honor of the town, so they had to leave their buddies flat and administer a little soothing syrup to the Prince Edwarders. Perhaps it was harder on their partners because the lads who went to Picton had some good sport anyway.

* * *

The game the locals lost to Picton Kiwanis on Friday was a hard one to lose. Twice they were robbed of what looked like sure counters. And another one went in, but came out so fast that, although the goal ump signalled a goal, the ice referee didn't stop the play.

* * *

If Napanee had gone in the B. of Q. loop there is little doubt but that they would have come out on top.

* * *

Picton had a relief man for every position and used them to the best advantage. The visitors had but two subs., requiring two forwards and one defence man to go the full sixty minutes. Even at that, the Picton goalie had 5 times as many shots to handle as did Shorty Hayes, who, by the way, made quite a hit with the Pictonites.

* * *

It looked to me as though Napanee was the faster team on the night's play. They checked far better but lacked the combination Picton had. However when you consider the amount of hockey each team has played all winter, it isn't to be wondered at.

* * *

What would have happened if Eddie Watts and Tom Johnston had been there is hard to imagine. Picton would have likely been snowed under and it takes a real team to beat them in their own rink.

NAPANEE ROTARY CLUB LUNCHEON

The members of the Napanee Rotary Club, including a number of visiting Rotarians, heard a very sound and instructive address at the weekly luncheon at the Campbell House on Tuesday of last week, Rotarian D. M. Wilson, K.C., County Crown Attorney, speaking on the subject, "Canada Within the Empire." Although the time at Mr. Wilson's disposal was brief he marshalled his facts and covered considerable ground in the half hour which was allotted to him.

The speaker referred to the mighty leaders of the past who were endowed with political foresight and wisdom. Mr. Wilson referred to the year 1535, when Cartier set sail from St. Malo, and what he eventually found was entirely different to what he expected to find.

The speaker then touched upon the exploits of Champlain and the wonderful exertions put forth to establish colonies in an unknown world. The missionaries played a great part in the pioneer work of the colonies, both in church and state, which were linked together at that time.

Mr. Wilson then spoke of the great Hudson Bay Company, and the remarkable work which it has accomplished. A statement, unknown to his listeners, was that Sir Charles Sale, the head of the Hudson Bay Company, married a lady from Napanee, Maud Rose.

Mr. Wilson spoke of the loyalty of the French-Canadian people to the Empire and to the Constitution. Constitutional Act of 1791 the laws introduced in Canada were precisely the same that existed in England. After referring to the Rebellion of 1837 and the formation of Responsible Government, Mr. Wilson brought a very interesting address to a close by citing two or three very important statements of Lloyd George.

That the address was much appreciated was evidenced by the generous applause.

TELEPHONE INCREASE

The net gain in telephones for the past year was 47,211 as compared with 45,807 in 1928, according to the Bell Telephone Company's Annual Report. This increase involved the handling of more than 400,000 telephones, connecting 227,828 and disconnecting 180,617. The new telephones installed, 11.7 per cent. were extensions added by subscribers to increase the convenience of their service. At the close of 1929, 67.5 per cent. of the telephones in service were in residences.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Ira Alkenbrack

After an illness of lengthy duration there passed away at the home of her son, Mr. Bruce Alkenbrack, on Saturday, March 15th, 1930, one of the most highly esteemed residents of North Fredericksburgh, in the person of Mrs. Ira Alkenbrack, her husband predeceasing her many years ago. For the past nine months she had been confined to her bed, the result of an incurable malady. Her maiden name was Salisbury. She was born in Moscow district. Her married life was spent entirely in North Fredericksburgh, where she was exceptionally well known and beloved by a wide circle of friends. The funeral service was held on Monday afternoon from the residence of her son to Gretna United Church, of which she was for many years a true and faithful member. The service was largely attended and her minister, Rev. J. E. Beckel, in the course of an appropriate address referred to the exemplary christian character and the loss sustained by the family and friends in her passing. The remains were taken to Moscow cemetery for burial. The pallbearers were: William Joyce, Robt. Moore, Bismark Edgar, Chas. Mellow, William Goodman and William Hambly. Surviving are two sons, Elmer, with whom she resided, and Arthur.

Mrs. E. J. Bartle

The death of Ella Jane Bryers Bartle occurred at the General Hospital, Niagara Falls, Ont., on Friday, March 14th. She was a prominent and highly esteemed resident of that city. She was the widow of John C. Bartle, former Customs Inspector.

The news of Mrs. Bartle's death came as a great shock to her wide circle of friends in the city where she had resided for the past forty years. She had excellent health up to three weeks ago, when she underwent an operation for a mastoid. Later her condition changed and became critical during the past week. Of a loving and kindly disposition, she enjoyed the friendship of a great many in the community.

Mrs. Bartle was the oldest daughter of the late Rev. William and Mrs. Bryers, of Napanee, Ont., and came to Niagara Falls in 1890. She was a faithful and very active worker in Christ Church, River Road, where she held several offices in church organizations. She was also a member of the Travel Club and was a former president.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. David P. Rogers, Toronto, and one son, Clarence F. Bartle, manager of the Royal Bank, Windsor, Ont.; two sisters, Miss Antoinette Bryers, Napanee, Ont., Mrs. C. A. Robinson, Whitby, Ont., and two brothers, Dr. T. Bryers, Winnipeg, Man. One other son, the late Lieutenant Deane Bartle, was killed in action during the World War, and her husband died September 24th last.

A private funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon at 1.45 o'clock at the family home, 227 Morrison Street, and at 2 o'clock a public service in Christ Church, River Road. Interment in Fairview cemetery.

NAPANEE POULTRY ASSOCIATION

Mr. F. J. French, of Markham, Gave an Interesting Talk on the Raising of Poultry.

"During the past ten years greater strides have been made in the proper breeding of poultry than in many years previous," was one of the many important statements made by Mr. F. J. French, of Markham, in a very instructive and comprehensive address at the bi-monthly meeting of Napanee Poultry Association, which was held in the Agricultural Rooms on Monday evening of last week. The subject of Mr. French's address was of a three-fold character, he confining his remarks to the important points, "Breeding," "Feeding," and "Raising."

Mr. French holds the world's record in Barred Rock hens, the official record of "Lady Mary" at Kansas City for 1925-1926 being 323 eggs in 365 days. The speaker said that he had spent 20 years in poultry raising and was thoroughly conversant in the breed-to-lay poultry. At the outset Mr. French said that the breeding facilities had been greatly improved by the trap-nest, which registers an accurate performance, as it eliminates all possible chance work.

"The old hen," he said, "will return a dollar for dollar if given proper care." One of the many strong points brought out by the speaker was to the effect that, "judging of birds should be by external characteristics," and he cited a number of illustrations to prove his points. The speaker then gave several points which should be considered by every poultry raiser, which would give the best results, a few of them being good clear head, good red comb waddles, far apart big round eye, open keel, long back, and quality of flesh. In the speaker's long experience external characteristics have been adopted for the selection of hens for exhibition and contests. The second point, feeding, was also a very important matter. Well bred, well fed hens will produce eggs and beauty combined with utility, will produce an excellent exhibition bird. The speaker then said that there were many varieties of feed and the most common error on the part of poultry raisers is to change the feed too often. The birds, by natural instinct, will soon tell whether the feed is suitable or not. Uniform laying requires a balanced ration and the poultry raiser must study his birds. In his comment on the many feeds on the market, Mr. French said that "No reputable firm will produce anything but a good mash and it must be good or the firm could not remain in business. Two of the most vital points in the feeding of birds were cleanliness and regularity. The speaker then touched upon the feeding of baby chicks, which should be started not earlier than 48 hours.

The subject of care was then dealt with, the speaker saying that houses should be built in gravel sub-soil, not clay-ground, and that the "house" should be built according to location.

"Ventilation," said he, "is one of the greatest attributes in the matter of poultry houses, as the birds will withstand the cold weather much better than most poultry raisers have any idea."

In concluding his splendid address, Mr. French cited a number of diseases prevalent among poultry and the treatments for these diseases. Mr. French, by the use of chalk and blackboard, pictured an ideal poultry house.

A number of questions were then asked by several of the members, Mr. French giving the fullest information.

Mr. A. D. Runiona, the local representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, on behalf of the association, tendered a hearty vote of appreciation to the speaker for his clear and very instructive address.

The President, Mr. William Ballance, of Strathcona, presided, and there was a goodly attendance, including a number of ladies. Light refreshments were served at the close.

DEBATE IN HOUSE ON THE EGG SITUATION

The seriousness of the egg situation in Canada was emphasized this week when the parliament spent a whole day discussing the problems that beset the producer at the present time.

There is widespread dissatisfaction among the producers all over Canada at the recent slump in prices and at the wide difference between the amount which the producer receives and that which is charged to the consumer.

In the debate in the House of Commons only one of these factors was touched on, that of the low price received by the producer. The matter was introduced by Harry J. Barbour, of Fraser Valley, B.C., who exhibited a telegram he had received from the Canadian Poultry Pool, which represents forty thousand egg producers in the four Western Provinces. The telegram requested the government to take action at once towards stopping the dumping of eggs on the Canadian market by the American producers. About twenty members took part in the debate. Statistics were quoted to show that the importation from the United States had reached large proportions, and the necessity for immediate action if the Canadian farmer was to get a fair return from his eggs.

Hon. James Malcolm, speaking for the government, pointed out that Canada is the largest consumer of eggs per capita of any country in the world. Canada produces about three hundred million dozen eggs a year and consumes about the same number. The eggs imported from the States constitutes about one per cent. of this total. In February of this year farmers were in storage only two-hundred dozen eggs, the smallest amount that has ever been in storage since Canada began to store eggs. It is impossible for Canada to export, because eggs are selling cheaper in the United States and in Great Britain than they are in this country.

No decision was arrived at, but the fact that the parliament spent a whole day discussing the situation shows the widespread dissatisfaction. The farmers in this county are feeling keenly the low prices paid. If it is any satisfaction they may be assured that this county is suffering like the rest of Canada. It is to be hoped something may be done to not only raise the price to the producer, but to lower the spread between the producer and the consumer

NEW PLANT BRINGS NEW INDUSTRY

Canadian farmers are finding a new opportunity in the cultivation of the Soybean. During 1929 soybean oil and other products to a value of nearly $2,000,000 were imported by Canadian industries. Experimental work conducted by the Dominion Department of Agriculture shows that eighteen varieties can be successfully cultivated in Canada. It grows under essentially the same conditions as corn, and generally speaking, can be grown anywhere corn grows, and with about the same results.

DO YOU FEAR A HEARTY MEAL?

Dr. Williams Pink Pills Will Tone Up Your Stomach Making Mealtime a Pleasure.

Are you afraid of meal-time? Does eating distress you? Would you rather go without food. That is the condition of many, due entirely to indigestion. There can be no perfect digestion—hence no enjoyment of meal-time—unless you have rich, red blood. This pure blood is necessary to tone up your stomach and make it capable of properly digesting the food.

Many so-called stomach remedies merely try to digest your food for you. That is a mistake—nothing should be done and if nature does not do it serious results are bound to follow. Tone up your stomach by driving out the poisons that are in the blood. Make new rich blood and your appetite will soon be normal—meals will once more be a pleasure.

The one sure medicine to enrich the blood, restore strength and banish stomach trouble and indigestion is Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Concerning them Mrs. Wm. T. Thompson, Brussels, Ont., says:—"For years I suffered with indigestion, headaches and dizzy spells. I tried a great many so-called remedies without relief. As a farmer's wife, with three hired girls, it was almost impossible to be idle and I just dragged myself through my work. I suffered so I was fearfully afraid of meal-time. A friend advised the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills and although I had lost faith in ever being well again I purchased a supply and began taking them. Gradually the dizziness and headaches left me. My appetite improved and soon I was able to enjoy my meals. I gained in weight and my health in general is better than it has been for years. I feel I owe much to Dr. Williams Pink Pills for they relieved me of all my misery."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CAMDEN EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

A record number of members and visitors attended the February meeting of Camden East W. I., held at the home of Mrs. Black, when 17 members of Newburgh Branch visited us and provided an excellent program, consisting of instrumental and vocal solos, and sketches of the lives of several outstanding personages in history. These sketches were read without mentioning the names of the persons, leaving Camden East members to supply these, as in a contest.

Mrs. Huffman, District President, was present at this meeting, and favored us with a talk on Institute Work, mentioning the particular points stressed at the Federation convention.

The main business of the meeting was the making of plans for aiding (with food and clothing) a needy family.

Following the close of the meeting lunch was served by the hostess and committee.

We heartily extend our thanks to Newburgh W. I. for their excellent programme.

The March meeting of Camden East Branch of the Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. Alson on the 7th inst., was well attended by members and visitors.

Following the usual opening of meeting, roll call was answered by "A Bit o' the Blarney."

Correspondence was read and dealt with as follows:

1. Federation dues to be paid.

2. The invitation from Yarker-Colebrook Branch was accepted, and we expect to attend their meeting on May 21st, and provide the programme.

3. Thanks read from several who had received gifts of fruit or flowers.

The President thanked all who in any way helped to provide the gifts to the needy, and especially thanked Mr. Hinch, who so kindly took the gifts to the home of the unfortunate family.

Business was concluded by a motion to give a prize of a $2.00 bank account to the pupil who obtains the highest standing in marks and conduct in each of the following schools: Camden East, Bethel, Lapum's, Switzerville and Bicknell's Corners. The prizes will be given at the School Fair. Marks to be counted from September, 1929, to June, 1930.

Mrs. A. Robinson gave a report on the work completed during the past year along educational lines.

Miss M. MacDonald gave a full account of the relief work done to date.

Mrs. Black's paper on "Honesty" contained many splendid ideas and was read in her usual jolly manner.

Mrs. Jas. Hamilton read a concise sketch of the life of St. Patrick.

Mr. Frost, of the Bank of Commerce, spoke on "Banking." This was an excellent and interesting address, explaining clearly all the forms used in banking and the bank's service to the public. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Frost for his kindness.

The next number on the programme proved to be a very interesting contest, but put a hard task on the judges. This was the judging of the dresses in the "House Dress Parade." Mrs. A. Reid was the prize winner, her dress being judged the most simply made and, therefore, the most easily ironed—both important things to consider.

All enjoyed another contest, in which girls' names were the answers to questions. Miss M. MacDonald was the one making the highest number of correct answers.

The meeting was closed by singing the National Anthem, following which lunch was served.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Smedley, on the 4th at 2 p.m.

Roll Call: "Experience in Care and Feeding of Chickens."

A spelling match and tart contest will be two interesting items on the programme.

Several of the Heads of Committees will give papers or reports on the work done in their departments.

Members expected to attend and visitors always welcome.

APPLE TREES FOR PRAIRIE FARMS

After fifteen years of seed planting the experimental work of the Dominion Department of Agriculture has developed sixteen varieties of apple trees suited to the climatic conditions of the Prairie Provinces. Of these varieties two have been graded "very good" and four "good." Horticultural experts point out, however, that it will take several more tree generations to evolve the ideal species. Prairie farmers can help in this work by getting seed from the Experimental Station at Morden, Man., for planting in their own gardens.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Napanee, March 19th, 1930.

To the Editor of The Beaver:

Dear Sir,—The letter which appears in your paper of the 19th instant over the signature of E. O. Ungar, seems to call for some reply. Although I am against the exchange of public correspondence through the press on general principles, such a reply has been demanded and so it shall be given.

One would imagine that anyone possessing the knowledge of municipal affairs which Mr. Ungar should have after his experience on the Council, would have made his application for information directly to the Council in session.

May I say that in all my experience in the Town Council I have never seen a better business administration than sits as the 1930 Council. The committees seem to be tremendously interested in their work and have begun the year with a determination to do a good job, and to be wise and judicious spenders.

The matter concerning which Mr. Ungar asks, as he knows, has been a contentious matter for some time. The work which has been awarded to Mr. Chatterson has been done by Mr. Powell for the past two years at $5.00 per day, which in Napanee is considered the proper scale of pay for man and team. Mr. Chatterson is competent, keeps a good team, is experienced in town work, and pays substantial taxes to our treasury. For some reason Mr. Chatterson has been left out of municipal employment entirely for at least the past two years. Nothing was ever suggested about a lower rate of pay than $5.00 until after the Streets Committee had met, by a majority, and awarded this work to Mr. Chatterson, whereupon an application was received from Mr. Powell at $4.00 per day. I presume that he knows his own value as well as anyone else, and if he is only worth with his team $4.00 per day, then, as Chairman of Streets during 1929, Mr. Ungar has been guilty of extravagant waste, as have been his predecessors.

Since the committee has so voted I have been approached and reminded that the Council had employed a Liberal. I have Conservative connections myself, but I feel that I cannot let party politics influence what I do as Mayor of this town, and regardless of the cost to myself, I do not propose to do so.

The Streets Committee is a competent committee, and I cannot help but feel that this inquiry is in the nature of a personal attack upon the members of that committee and me. May I assure the ratepayers that they may have the most complete confidence in what that committee does, but if political patronage is expected from the 1930 Council there is a mistake somewhere.

Yours truly,
J. M. SIMPSON,
Mayor.

"The great art of diplomacy is patience, patience, and again patience."—Sir Esme Howard.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Editor,—

I have read the letter from ex-Councillor E.O. Ungar in reference to the tender received by the Town Council from James Powell, offering to do town teaming at $4.00 a day, or 40c. an hour.

This tender was referred to the Streets Committee to report, and up to the present time no report has been.

Mr. Powell has been doing teaming for the past two years, and to my personal knowledge his services were satisfactory in every way. If Mr. Powell is contents to accept 40c. an hour for this work I can see no reason why the Council should pay 50c., especially in view of the fact that it is very necessary to curtail all controllable expenditures in view of our high rate of taxation.

As a member of the 1930 Council I would like to place myself on record as being opposed to any unnecessary controllable expenditures.

ARTHUR S. KIMMERLY.

YARKER-COLEBROOK WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Yarker-Colebrook W. I. which was under the direction of Mrs. R. Holland, was held at the home of Mrs. T. Tomkins, on March 19th, at 2 p.m., with 48 members and 12 visitors attending.

The president, Mrs. N. Boyce, occupied the chair and after opening the meeting by the use of the Ode and Creed, welcomed all the visitors in her usual cordial manner.

The minutes were read and approved as was also the treasurer's report.

Roll call was well responded to by "A Verse of Prose and Poetry" and brought forth answers both amusing and interesting.

The regular business being attended to, Mrs. Leonard, made a motion, which was seconded by Mrs. Winters, that a committee be appointed to interview the Reeve of this Township regarding the care of some children. Mrs. C. Amey and Mrs A. D. Leonerd were selected as a committee. It was also decided to carry on certain relief work for another month, and Mrs. McFarlane, Mrs. R. Jackson, Mrs. F. Snyder and Mrs. S. Winter were appointed committees to attend to the same.

Mrs. A. D. Leonard reported the amount her group had made on their quilt as $53.20, and Mrs. F. Snyder reported $23.00 as the amount her group had realized from the play which they were sponsors for.

These amounts, with the sum of $55.20, which Mrs. Atcheson's group were responsible for, brings the total up to the neat sum of $131.50, with one group still to report.

We were very pleased to welcome Miss Fayder, President of the Rebecca Assembly of Ontario, who gave us a short, though interesting, talk on "Women's Work in Various Organizations."

A discussion of the subjects which are to be brought before the delegates at the Trustees' and Ratepayers' convention in Toronto in April occupied considerable time, so that the program which was shortened by omitting a Paper by Mrs. E. Boyce, and Current Events by Mrs. V. Atcheson, consisted of a vocal duet by Mrs. G. McFarlane and Miss Curl, and a reading by Mrs. Fardell.

The "Side," under the leadership of Mrs. Atcheson, having secured the most points, are to be feted at an early date by the losing side, under the direction of Mrs. H. Freeman. Mrs. A. Martin, Mrs. S. Winters, Mrs. C. Amey, Mrs. A. Cowdy and Mrs. R. Jackson are the committee to arrange the festivities.

The meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem, followed by a dainty lunch and a social chat, which was enjoyed by all.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. C. Amey on Wednesday, April 16th, when the roll call will be answered by "Hints for House Cleaning."

Presentation and Address

On Saturday evening, March 7th, a number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Love, Yarker South, and spent the evening before their departure to their new home in Colebrook. During the evening the following address was read by Mr. Cassen Davey:

To Mr. and Mrs. Love and Clarence.

Dear Friends,—We wish, by our gathering here to-night, to express to you our appreciation of your friendship and neighborliness during the years you have lived in this community. We are sorry to lose you from our midst, but we realize there comes a time in the affairs of men and women when they must lay down the heavier burdens and let the responsibilities rest upon younger shoulders. We, therefore, trust that in your new home you will find time for rest and enjoyment. In this little address we do not presume to enumerate all your good qualities, nor to detail all the good things you have done. That would take too long. But we do want to make it unmistakably plain that you will be missed, and that the community will be just so much the poorer through your moving out of it. Our best wishes go with you, and we trust that you will be happy in your new home, and that your new-found friends will be even more congenial than your old ones have been, and we would ask you to accept this chesterfield table, not for its value, but as a small token of the esteem in which you were all held.

Signed on behalf of your Yarker South friends, and others,

MRS. CASSEN DAVEY
MRS. HAROLD HUFF

DIRIGIBLES FIGHT FOR PLACE IN FOREGROUND OF AIR TRANSPORTS

Radical developments in air transportation are foreseen for the next development in air transportation are forecast for the next two years and in that period the dirigible is likely to establish its position as a factor in distance aviation for the next decade.

Two great British dirigibles—greater in size, speed and carrying capacity than the Graf Zeppelin—have completed their tests and announcement is awaited of the schedules for their respective flights to Canada and India. Both are intended for regular service between Canada and Great Britain and India and Great Britain and by their success or failure from utilitarian as well as commercial standpoints confidence in this type of air career will largely stand or fall.

Efforts will be made to have the machine routed to Canada continue west to the Pacific, though there is some difficulty over the lack of mooring masts.

While the British machines are demonstrating their efficiency, Germany has commenced the manufacture of another Zeppelin designed to outstrip them and dwarfing the Graf, which is thus far the most successful of lighter than air carriers. In the United States army dirigibles are being carefully studied so that during the next two years the practicality of the dirigible, or its handicaps, will pretty definitely establish its status under present engineering practice.

RUBBER DEMAND NEARS PRODUCTION

A general increase in world crude rubber consumption in 1930 and a decrease in world production is indicated in a concernsus of estimates by European and American authorities, according to an analysis of data by the rubber division of the Department of Commerce.

The estimates for world consumption average 840,570 tons as compared with the 1929 consumption of 780,000 tons. This expected increase anticipates a larger demand for crude in view of the constantly expanding new uses of rubber, as well as the projected increased demands by makers of tires, rubber footwear and mechanical rubber goods.

The average of estimates would show a general expectation that for the year as a whole production will actually exceed consumption only slightly, but there is also evident a general belief that actual production will be far below potential or capacity output.

U. S. QUOTA LAW REVISED FOR CANADIANS

Representative Johnson, Chairman of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturtization, has introduced a revision of his bill to place the countries of this hemisphere on a quota basis. The new bill provides in the case of Canada and Newfoundland, Mexico and Cuba, that the quotas shall be four times the number of American citizens departing thereto for permanent residence during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, and, in the case of Canada and Newfoundland, the number of immigration visas issued during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, to immigrants born in such country, with a minimum quota of 100 for each nationality.

The bill further provides that notwithstanding the provisions just quoted of 100 of each nationality.

The bill further provides that notwithstanding the provisions just quoted the quota for Mexico for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1930 shall be 11,021, and for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1931 the Mexican quota shall be 6,961.

"QUACK'S" CURE-ALL FAILS

The "quack" finds a new field of operation in connection with the control of stem rust in wheat. Many preparations are now advertised for the disinfection of the soil and for the treatment of seed to prevent rust. The Rust Research experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture find that the organism which produces rust does not develop in the soil, therefore, disinfection of the soil cannot destroy the organism. They also point out that rusted wheat kernels when sown do not develop into rusted wheat plants; and for this reason seed treatments are useless as a means of control of rust.

AGRICULTURE NEEDS INVENTOR

There is a real opportunity awaiting some enterprising genius who will evolve a machine which will effectively and economically dust wheat plants to prevent stem rust. The experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture find that the only effective method of controlling this parasitic organism which spreads with amazing rapidity is to apply finely powdered sulphur to the stem of the growing plant as a toxic agent. A considerable fortune awaits some lucky person who has "dust on the brain" well enough to design a new form of machine for this purpose.

Then why lament, for those who've gone;
If heaven is their gain.
If we're prepared to die, we'll meet
Those loved ones, all, again.

BASKETBALL

A very interesting basketball game was played in the N. C. I. gymnasium, Friday evening last, between Night School Seniors and Gibbard's Night School, Gibbard's winning by the score 40-27.

The game was fast from start to finish but Gibbard's could not seem to get going and the school team seemed to score whenever points were needed. The long shooting of Kinkley featured especially for the school and the ball handling of R. Wilson, for Gibbard's, was exceptionally good. He scored the majority of their points. Stewart played his usual, steady game and was always in position when wanted. Gibbard took the jump from Black but his forwards were slow in getting in and the result was the school forwards got the ball off the tip-off more often than Gibbard's.

The Bentley brothers played a steady game on defence for the factory and for newcomers to the cage game, these boys have made wonderful progress, and in another year will be real threats.

Night School—Guards, G. Reid, C. Nugent; forwards, MacDonald and Kinkley; centre, J. Black.

Gibbard's — Guards, F. Bentley and T. Bentley; forwards, R. Wilson and J. Stewart; centre, E. Gibbard.

Referee— Carson Graham.

Score-Keeper— Les. Richardson.

Score—Night School 40, Gibbard's 27.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Tennis and "Free Skate"

To the Editor of The Beaver:

Dear Sir,—I noticed in your issue of March 12th, under heading of Sports, a series of suggestions with respect to tennis in the town. I am glad that the sports' writer is sufficiently interested in this branch of sport to give his whole article to it in this issue.

In the course of the article he makes two suggestions that are worthy of consideration. In the first place he suggests more competitive tennis. I am sure that no one who is interested in sport has anything but the highest admiration for clean and vigorous competition. It is true that the present tennis club has not developed the interclub or inter-club aspect of tennis competition. At the same time there has been local competition. And it should not be difficult to get players who might make a fairly good showing in the larger field. Up to the present time the club has not felt that there were players sufficiently versed in the niceties of the game to make it worth while to enter such contests. May I say, though, that at every meeting of the tennis club since its formation this matter has been given very careful and serious consideration. And the decision not to push this phase of the sport was arrived at after the whole situation had been very carefully canvassed.

The second suggestion of the sports writer perhaps calls for more serious thought. He suggests that the tennis club should make an effort to have their courts built over on the golf grounds. There are certain advantages in the suggestion, which he has well pointed out. But may I state the other side of it.

In the first place the ideal which the tennis club has always held before itself has been to develop players; to make the membership fee so reasonable that everyone who was at all able might be permitted to play. There are three good clay courts. They are well kept and well fenced in. They are very popular, and one has to be around early during certain seasons, when the game is at its height, in order to get a game. The fee is very small, and most of the work is voluntary, and owing to the kindness and generosity of Mr. W. A. Grange, the overhead practically nothing, it is possible to provide these fine facilities for this popular game.

If the courts were to be removed to the golf grounds it is certain that a large number who now play would be debarred because of the distance and fees which would have to be charged.

One wonders if the next suggestion was serious, or whether it was merely a joke. The suggestion is made that the "gaufers" pick a tennis team as they now pick the golf team. If this is a serious "proposition" then I may comment that it is a preposterous one. Might as well suggest that a tennis team pick a group of golfers, or a badminton team pick a hockey team.

May I just add, Mr. Editor, that the tennis club is delighted that constructive suggestions are being made for the good of the sport. It is hoped that some will receive consideration. At the annual meeting of the club, which will be held in the near future, I am sure it will be gratifying to those who are trying to foster this sport in the secretary, Mrs. James Robertson, many others who, like him, have a lively interest in athletics, attend with their suggestions.

A. J. WILSON,
President of the Tennis Club.

BAY CIRCUIT WEST W. M. S.

The March meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. William Bell on Wednesday, March 12th, with an attendance of eighteen members and two visitors. The president, Mrs. A. C. Parks, presided over the meeting. The meeting opened by all singing the hymn "Far and Near" and was followed with prayer by Mrs. A. C. Parks. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Sherman. All joined in singing hymn "Jesus is Calling" after which the secretary, Mrs. James Robertson, read minutes of the last meeting. The corresponding secretary read a letter from Mrs. R. M. Seymour. This was followed by the roll call and a solo by Mrs. Ezra Hoffman. A motion was then passed that the mite boxes be distributed. Rev. J. E. Beckel explained a chapter in the Study Book. We were then favoured with a duet by Mrs. Miller and Miss Marion Miller, which was enjoyed by all. The Heralds for Africa, Japan, India and Home Work were reported and was followed by a piano duet by Mrs. Ratz and Mrs. Nolan. Mrs. F. Parks then read an article entitled "A General's Story," being followed with closing prayer. Refreshments were served and a vote of thanks was moved to the hostess for her hospitality.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. C. Parks.

DOES GRADING PAY? YES!

Canadian potatoes made a good start for 1930 by taking a premium in the Boston market over the State of Maine product. A report received by the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture from the United States market report service shows that P.E.I. potatoes selling in 80 pound lots got a price of from five to fifty cents more per unit than was paid for the same class of product from the State of Maine selling in a 100-pound bag. Every carload and cargo of potatoes shipped out of P.E.I. was government inspected and certified. Yes—grading does pay.

NOW IT'S APPLE SAUCE

"What we can't sell we can" will soon be the slogan of the apple grower. The Dominion Department of Agriculture is now developing ways and means of extending the market for apples and apple products. Much has been done by grading, dehydration has been developed, and there is a good trade in the canned apple; now it's apple sauce. Fresh from the orchard, cooked, sweetened and flavored with spice ready for the baky crust, it comes in cans. All ready it finds favor with the pie and baking trade and the housewife will find it handy.

OUR IMPORTATIONS

How, people ask, after five or six years of abundant crops and world-wide prosperity, is it that a single bad crop and the first show of general depression stands is plunged almost over night into the worst reaction since the war-time readjustment?

And it is a fair question. Five years of unprecedented natural bounty in crops and timber and mineral production should most certainly leave a nation able to withstand even a year of reverses. Why wasn't Canada able to do it without a complete economic upset?

The answer is clear and obvious. The surplus money which came in those years for our products did not stay in Canada. Under the fiscal policy of the King Government it was shipped out has year to buy nearly $1,000,000,000 of manufactured goods, more than half of which could and should have been made in Canada. The surplus we should have had for the rainy day had been spent to give employment to foreigners in foreign lands.

In 1929 we imported over $300,000,000 worth of agricultural, vegetable and animal products into Canada to help unfit the Canadian farmer to meet the crisis when it came.

These are the reasons the unparalleled bounty of nature through five years was unable to offset a reaction of a few months. It was squandered in foreign countries.

Scaks Right In And Limbers Up Stiff Joints

Nowadays people don't have to be tormented with inflamed, swollen, creaky joints.

If you want your bad aching joints to limber up and work with smoothness like nature intended she is to get something that is made for just that purpose.

It's up to you—just ask for a tube of Joint-Ease and give your troublesome joint a good rubbing to-night.

When you rub this magical yet scientific emollient on your sore, painful, stiff joint it has the uncanny power of penetration—it soaks right in and away it goes through the skin and flesh right down to the ligaments and tendons of the joint—right where the trouble starts.

Out comes the inflammation and down goes the swelling—a hard job is well and easily conquered—your joint is limber again—it works smoothly—you are thankful.

Joint-Ease is a product of Canada and every good drug store in the Dominion sells lots of it. Make a note of this also—for lumbago and lame aching back one good rubbing is usually enough—60 cents for a generous tube and it's guaranteed—you must get results or money back.

Tourist in rolling town: "Is this a good healthy place to settle in?"

Hotelkeeper: "It is, stranger. Fact is, we can't get away from here alive unless you do settle."

WHY SUFFER FROM YOUR LIVER?

Why be handicapped with unsightly blotches on the face, eyes with yellow tinge and that tired and languid feeling? This indicates a torpid liver.

Headache, Dizziness and Biliousness surely follow. You must stimulate your lazy liver, start the bile flowing with Carter's Little Liver Pills.

They also act as a mild laxative, purely vegetable, free from calomel and poisonous drugs, small, easy to swallow, and not habit forming. They are not a purgative that cramps or pains, unpleasant after effect following, on the contrary a good tonic. All Druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.

News and Information For the Farmer

To Advertise Ontario Apples

Full details will be worked out shortly on the project to advertise Ontario grown apples as extensively as those produced in British Columbia. It has already been suggested that a levy of a few cents per barrel of apples be made or a small tax on each acre of apple orchard. The funds thus obtained could be used to good advantage to "push" the sale of Ontario apples.

Research on Weeds

At the current session of Legislature Dr. G. I. Christie, President of the Ontario Agricultural College, announced that a campaign is being instituted to launch a new research program aiming at the elimination of those noxious weeds, the sow thistle in particular, with which the farmers' crops have to battle nowadays. Prof. J. E. Howitt will be placed at the head of the program.

Apples Injured

A. Pulton, special overseas representative of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, in his latest bulletin stated that the last consignment of Ontario apples received in Liverpool were in a wasty condition, caused by frost injury somewhere in transit. This was particularly unfortunate because demand and prices had taken a jump upward, and the result that Ontario prices remained low and other imported brands have been drawing good prices.

Pigs Need Care

Swine are profitable when given abundant sunshine and exercise, fed on well-selected feeds, gently handled and given proper sanitation and housing, kept free from worms and lice, and protected against cholera and other diseases. Quite a lot can happen to a pig between birth and maturity, but it is an easy animal to keep in the straight and narrow path leading to successful and profitable development if you go the right way about it. Pigs frequently suffer more from the heat of the sun during the summer than they do from the cold of the winter period. If possible, make full use of all available shade trees when making your plans for swine pastures, feed lots or colony house locations.

Dairying in North

The increased interest in dairy farming in Ontario is nowhere more in evidence than in Northern Ontario. In 1917 the New Liskeard creamery was the only one operating north of North Bay and had a total output of butter of 40,000 pounds per year. Last year five creameries in the district of Temiskaming alone had an output of 600,000 pounds of butter and some cheese as well. The Cochrane district creameries last year had an output estimated at between 200,000 and 300,000 pounds.

Lamb Prices

Sheep raisers are viewing with some concern the recent decline in lamb prices. Undoubtedly a contributing factor has been the heavy imports of lamb and mutton from other countries, principally New Zealand and Australia, and particularly at a time when our home-grown product is coming on the market. A practice of stamping high quality Canadian lambs similar to that followed in beef grading would go some distance in securing a suitable recognition for the home-grown product.

Tobacco Seed

Tobacco seed for the 1930 crop will be cleaned and tested, free of charge by the Dominion Experimental Station at Harrow. Tobacco seed as it is shelled out usually contains a considerable quantity of light and immature seed, chaff and other foreign matter. Such seed should be sifted through suitable screens to remove the chaff and put through a tobacco seed cleaning machine to remove the dust and the light seed. Well cleaned seed is also less likely to introduce certain diseases in the seed bed.

Free Material

The Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union is prepared this spring to distribute into every township and county of the province, material for experiments with grains, potatoes, roots, fodder crops, and fertilizers. The complete list of the material to be distributed will cover 38 distinct experiments and include practically all the cultivated field crops grown in Ontario. Only the best seed of outstanding varieties will be used in this seed distribution. Any farmer in Ontario is entitled to receive free of charge, material for conducting any one of these co-operative experiments in field husbandry and will get this in good time for spring seeding if he applies at an early date to the Secretary of the Experimental Union, O. A. C., Guelph.

The Value of Straw

The talk among farmers that there is no straw this year and that as a result feed is scarce, calls for a statement that it has not proven that straw has any value as a feed. It is good for bedding and this is all; the sooner farmers realize that they must depend upon alfalfa and corn, the better. Straw has no food value whatever.

No Let-Up on Corn Borer

A well-attended gathering of corn borer inspectors and agricultural representatives from all parts of Western Ontario was held in London on Friday, March 14th, with Prof. Caesar, Provincial Entymologist, in charge. It was emphasized during the session that the Corn Borer Act will be just as rigidly enforced during the coming summer as in former years. The fact that some improvement in conditions has been made does not mean that the fight can be abated in the least. Farmers should keep this fact in mind.

Bacon Exports Fall

Figures recently made public by the British Board of Trade show that in 1929 Canada's bacon export to Great Britain was but one-ninth of the quantity sent in 1905—25 years ago. In fact Canada was lowest on the list of countries shipping this commodity to Great Britain, Denmark having shipped nearly 25 times as much as this country, Netherlands was next, while the United States, although far down on the list, shipped three times as much as Canada did. This occurred in spite of an enormous increase in the amount of bacon consumed in that country in the past few years.

Current Crop Report

The crop report for the second week in March indicates a brisk demand for feed in Carleton County. Dundas and Dufferin are both apprehensive regarding the unusual weather conditions. Egg prices in Durham are at a very low level. Alfalfa and clover in Halton appear to be favorable at the present time, while in Hastings the reverse is true. A good supply of red clover seed obtains in Huron and will replace alfalfa in many cases. Plowing has already started in Lambton and a great interest in the better cleaning of seed grain is reported. No scarcity of hay exists in Lanark, with quantities moving at from $9 to $12 per ton. Fall wheat and clover are good in Lincoln and fruit trees have wintered well. Milk production in Middlesex is adequate to meet all demands. In Peel one farmer reports 150 of 200 trees so badly girdled by rabbits that bridge grafting is useless to save them. Fall wheat and clover look good in Ontario, Peterboro and Prince Edward. Conditions are not as good in South Simcoe, but feed is plentiful. In Waterloo fall wheat is in a precarious condition.

Selling Aborted Cows

No animal which has aborted should be sent to market or sold to another establishment until it has, under none the proper period of isolation and been disinfected, otherwise it may carry infection elsewhere. With some farmers it is customary to get rid of animals which have aborted. It should be particularly noted, however, that most animals which have suffered from an attack of the disease are usually more resistant to it than those which have not, and that by keeping animals which have aborted, one may be better enabled to get rid of recurring cases in infected herds, as immunized stock is much more useful for that purpose than new animals.

Shell Forming Material

More care should be taken to mix properly the meals which compose the mash, as there is no doubt that egg troubles in the way of shell-less eggs, etc., can at times be put down to the mash being properly mixed. Lack of lime and oyster shell grit and some grits make laying difficult. In a badly mixed mash a flux of meat or some other source of protein is often found, and that may easily account for shell-less eggs. There is another reason why one should mix the meals properly, and that is that the mash is made more palatable when mixed in a thorough manner.

SAYS SARGON WAS BLESSING IN HOME

"I'm so happy over the way Sargon restored my health and strength that I want to help others by telling them about this splendid new medicine.

MRS. GLADYS FROUT

"For three years, indigestion and biliousness kept me so sick and nervous I wouldn't sleep over two or three hours all night, and usually got up with such a headache I couldn't do my housework. A sluggish liver kept me badly constipated; I had to take laxatives all the time, and often had dizzy spells.

"Sargon has made me feel like a new woman! I can eat anything I please now without a trace of indigestion or biliousness, and my appetite couldn't be any better. The Sargon Pills, that go with this tonic, regulated me perfectly, and I no longer have headaches or dizzy spells. I'm not nervous any more, sleep fine all night and feel so much stronger my housework is a pleasure.

"My husband is also taking Sargon with splendid results and it has been a blessing to our home."—Mrs. Gladys Frout, 301 Galedonia Rd., Toronto.

Sargon may be obtained in Napanee at Hooper's Drug Store, who has been awarded the exclusive Sargon agency for this town.

THE RELATION OF SEED TO GOOD CROPS

The old saying "As a man soweth, so shall he reap," is as true to-day as it ever was. There is no more important step in the production of profitable crops than the use of good seed. Small, shrunken, shrivelled seed cannot, under average conditions, produce other than weak, unhealthy plants and a poor crop, no matter how well the crop is cared for otherwise. To produce healthy, vigorous crops seed must give a strong, vigorous germination. This means that the seed must be sound, healthy, plump and of good size for the variety it represents. A germination test, however, is the safest index to vitality and germination.

In farm practice weeds take a tremendous toll by reducing the yield of crops. This loss sometimes amounts to as much as fifty per cent. In the aggregate it amounts to hundreds and sometimes thousands of dollars per farm. One of the first and most important steps in controlling weeds is the use of seed free from weed seeds. Good seed free from weeds should be the aim of everyone seeking to produce at a profit.

MOVE MONUMENT AT SUMMIT OF ROCKIES

The movement at the summit of the Kick Horse pass, make the Great Divide of the Rockies, familiar to all travellers by the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway, has recently been taken down by the company and re-erected upon a new site several feet farther west. From early suveys it was believed that the previous site marked the actual height of land but during the detail re-survey of the boundary between Alberta and British Columbia, carried out by the Inter-provincial Boundary Commission, more accurate data were obtained which necessitated a number of changes in the delimitation of the watershed. Among these was the summit of the Kicking Horse pass.

The spot is of great interest to trans-continental travellers and for many years the C.P.R. has arranged that all through trains should stop here for a few minutes to allow passengers to alight and take photographs. The new Kicking Horse highway from Lake Louise to Field which links Banff and Yoho national parks also passes within a short distance of this point although at a higher level and the observation point on the highway, looking and cross to the Great Divide and down the Bow valley to the east, gives one of the finest views along the eastern section of this route.

The National Parks Branch of the Department of the Interior proposes to lay out a small landscape development adjacent to both highway and monument and to restore the natural character of the tiny stream which here divides, one branch taking its way to the waters of the Pacific ocean and the other to the Atlantic.

AIR MAIL SERVICE INTO FAR NORTH

Instructions issued this week by L. J. Gaboury, Deputy Postmaster-General regarding the Mackenzie River Air Mail Service are of interest. The instructions read:

Early break up conditions in the Mackenzie River area have made it necessary to advance the date of the last trip for the winter season from Fort McMurray to Aklavik and way points.

The planes will leave Fort McMurray on March 13th instead of March 25th as previously announced, and are due to arrive at Aklavik on March 18th. Returning they will leave Akavik on March 19th and reach Fort McMurray on March 23rd.

COLOR INDICATES GRADE

The maple sugar industry is one of the oldest known to this continent. It was brought to the early settler by the native Indian and to-day is of outstanding commercial interest. The Dominion Department of Agriculture finds that quality in maple sugar and syrup is clearly indicated by color. The grading rule is the lighter the product the better its quality. Grade 1 is very light in color, corresponding closely to clover honey in appearance. Grades 2 and 3 are perceptibly darker, while Grade 4 corresponds quite closely to the color of buckwheat honey. Quality counts in maple products as in everything else.

EVERY BELL TELEPHONE IS A LONG DISTANCE STATION

More Lines, Quicker, Better, Cheaper Service

Last year we added about 14,000 miles of talking channels to our long distance system.

Associated apparatus — switchboard, cable, amplifying equipment — has also been vastly extended and improved.

And lower rates on calls to points 75 to 800 miles distant are now in effect.

Long Distance now gives you quicker and better communication — with the next town, or across the continent. And it costs less than ever before.

"APPLES IS APPLES"

"Apples is Apples" but not when you know them. In a recent survey the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture secured some interesting information on this subject. The Dominion favorite is McIntosh, the survey shows. Then in order come the Spy, Gravenstein, the Delicious and the Baldwin. By provinces Ontario prefers its "Spy"; Nova Scotia and New Brunswick their "Gravenstein"; while Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia all vote "McIntosh" first. Other popular varieties are, Greening, Snow, Fameuse, Duchess, Winesap, Bow Sweet, Jonathan and Wealthy.

A TORRENT OF POWER AND SPEED

72 MILES AN HOUR
48 IN SECOND GEAR
65 HORSEPOWER
RICH BROADCLOTH UPHOLSTERY
INTERNAL 4-WHEEL BRAKES
HYDRAULIC SHOCK ABSORBERS

In creating the entirely new Willys Six, Willys-Overland brings a motor car of luxury and refinement, coupled with amazing power and speed, to the low-priced class.

Such a combination of features as the 65 horsepower motor, (72 miles an hour, 48 in second) rich upholstery fabrics, beautiful interior appointments and low-swung graceful bodies, finds no parallel except in cars of much higher price.

But these features by no means complete the Willys Six picture. Consummate driving ease and smoothness have been attained by rubber-insulating the engine against vibration. New hydraulic shock absorbers smooth out the ruttiest roads. Perfect control and relaxation are enjoyed at highest speeds. Gasoline and oil consumption are remarkably low.

Know at first hand this highest advancement in the low-cost field. See and drive the Willys Six. Your nearest Willys-Overland dealer will gladly arrange a demonstration.

FARMERS ARE URGED TO HAVE SEED TESTED

Ungraded Clover and Grain Usually Contains Amazing Amounts of Red Weed Seeds—Government Laboratories Test Seed Free.

With a considerable portion of last year's big red clover crop still in farmers' hands there is greater risk than usual of a serious weed spread this season, government observers and others being afraid that a large portion of this will find its way into seed drills without proper cleaning. The Dominion Government has gone to a good deal of trouble and not a little expense to protect the country from poor seed. Under the present law all seed sold in the regular way must come up to rigid Government standards of purity and germination. To bring it up to these standards country bought seed must pass through many cleaning machines, during which as much as fifteen to twenty-five per cent. of the original bulk is screened out. It is this heavy "dockage" which explains most of the spread between buying prices of clover seed in the fall and the selling prices in the spring. But all this cleaning and grading only applies to stock handled in the ordinary way; when one man buys from a neighbor there is no protection, finless a sample of the seed submitted is sent to the nearest Government Seed Laboratory for testing. It is a simple matter to send a sample of the seed offered, or a sample from one's own bin to the Government Analyst, and up to three samples will be analysed free of cost.

Weed seeds in a bin of clover or grain are not conspicuous and one can be easily fooled. Even seedsmen who have been buying for years are often badly mistaken, while the professional seed analyst, an expert who examines seed every day in the year, will not guess at the weed seeds, but will put the same under a microscope before giving an opinion.

That much of the locally grown seed is dirty has been proved beyond dispute. L. M. Ogilvie, Government Agricultural Representative at Cadillac, Saskatchewan, estimated that there were 23,000,000 Perennial Sow Thistle seeds not in the whole of Saskatchewan, which would be bad enough, but in just three cars of Oats which arrived at Cadillac some months ago Professor J. E. Howitt, of the Ontario Agricultural College, has actually counted in one ounce of alfalfa seed submitted for test, 77 seeds of Canada Thistle, 45 Curled Dock, 666 Sheep Sorrell, besides smaller quantities of seven other serious weeds. One seed buyer in Central Ontario tells the writer this week that he had removed 22 pounds of Buckhorn, or Ribgrass out of one bushel of red clover brought in to him for cleaning, and the owner of this seed thought that "there might be a little Buckhorn in it."

Where government graded seed is purchased the owner knows that the same has been examined and passed by officials appointed by the Federal authorities to protect the farms of this country, but when he used untested stock from his own farm or from a neighbor's, he is working in the dark, and all the elaborate machinery built under the Seeds Act is simply wasted. A few years after a "bargain" horse or motor has been bought the loss is forgotten, but when cheap seed turns out to be full of weed seeds the remembrance of the crop of Thistle, Buckhorn, Dodder and other pests each year is a constant reminder of a deal that at least should have been delayed until one had found out exactly what was being sown.

The Government Seed Laboratories at Quebec City, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Calgary are the proper places for testing seed, not the farms. At the Laboratories they make a business of testing and the weed seeds are carefully destroyed. Moreover, the cost is nothing at all for the first three samples, and merely nominal after that. On the farm the test is slower, as we must wait several weeks before we know how many weed seeds we have bought along with our clover and grain, and the cost is usually so heavy that we leave the job of getting rid of them to posterity.

TO DISPOSE OF PART OF BUFFALO SURPLUS

The department of the Interior has decided to reduce the surplus of the Government buffalo herd in Buffalo National Park at Wainwright, Alberta, this autumn by 500 animals and arrangements have been made for the slaughter of this number and the sale of the meat, hides, and heads. Buffalo furs and other buffalo products have also re-established themselves in popular favor that a market could readily be found for a much larger number. The thinning out of the herd in recent years in order to keep it within the grazing limitations of the park made it necessary to dispose annually of numbers of these animals and ship others north to Wood Buffalo park. The number usually disposed of by sale will this winter be reduced by half, but it is expected that after this year there will be an annual surplus of 1,000 or more animals for sale, in addition to any that may be sent north.

Meat from 100 carcasses of the older animals will be reserved by the Department for use in the Northwest Territories. The meat will be dried and utilized for the relief of the Indians and Eskimos in the far north who may be incapacitated by illness or accident. When prepared in form of pemmican, buffalo meat constitutes a concentrated and nutrious article of diet, very suitable for transporting and storing in the north country.

Recent cases of motor bandits seem to show that man's waywardness seems to run too much to highway-wardness.

INSECT WAR RESUMES

A mighty army of miles wages ceaseless warfare on all forms of plant life and just as ceaseless is the warfare waged by skilled entomologists to protect and preserve farm, field and garden crops. Experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have already planned intensive campaigns against field crop pests for 1930, including grasshoppers, the wheat stem sawfly, wireworms, the pale western cutworm and his ally the red-backed cutworm, the bertha armyworm, the early cutworm, the Colorado potato beetle, the imported cabbage butterfly, and the root maggot. They also have a watching brief against the forest pests, including the aphids on maple, willow and elm, the spruce epidermiit, the forest tent caterpillar and the box elder leaf roller and twig borer.

"Had a puncture, my friend," asked the cheerily inquisitive passer-by.

The weary motorist looked up. "No old man," he said as calmly as he could, "I'm just giving the tires a change of air."

CLOVER A HONEY MAKER

Clover and honey have always been intimately associated and with good reason. Figures supplied by the Lennoxville Experimental Station of the Dominion Department of Agriculture show that clover leads as a source of nectar supplying the honey flow during the year for 40 days; fruit blooms supply nectar 26 days of the year, the dandelion for 23 days, the raspberry and goldenrod each for 20 days, with pussy willow starting the season with a 13 day supply.

GRACE CHURCH W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society of Grace United Church held their sixth annual rally on Wednesday evening, March 14th. The school room was artistically decorated in spring colors, green and white.

The women of the congregation were well represented as about one hundred and fifty responded to the invitation. Mrs. E. N. Baker, the wife of a former pastor of the church, was the speaker for the evening. She gave a very interesting and inspiring talk on the work being done in different fields, and exhorting the women to be more earnest as the needs of evangelism are very great.

Other numbers on the programme were an instrumental duet by Mrs. Black and Mrs. Seymour, also a vocal solo entitled "I shall not pass again this way," by Mrs. Gerald Smith.

A pleasing feature of the rally was the attendance of some of the members of the executive of St. Andrew's and Trinity Church, and being called upon by the presiding officer, Mrs. Hooper. The Presbyterial officers present Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson, Mrs. George Switzer and Mrs. E. J. Corkill, made a few remarks.

Here is one of the few opportunities ever offered to make a real big saving on a genuine brand-new console model Rogers Batteryless Radio— the world's FIRST Batteryless radio—the ONLY electric radio with FIVE years of PROVEN PERFORMANCE behind it.

The recently announced plan of uniting the lines of the "Rogers" and "Majestic" under the one name of "Rogers - Majestic" has necessitated restriction of the variety of models in the new line. This model, a real walnut high-boy cabinet, will not be carried on in the unified name as the factory has offered us the opportunity of presenting these at this ridiculously low figure.

Never before has it been possible to secure a new model Console Rogers at such a saving price. It probably will not occur again. There are not many to be sold at this price. This is your one big chance. ACT NOW.

TELEPHONE INCREASE

The net gain in telephones for the past year was 47,211 as compared with 45,862 in 1928, according to the Bell Telephone Company's Annual Report. This increase involved the handling of more than 400,000 telephones, connecting 227,228 and disconnecting 180,617. Of the new telephones installed, 11.7 per cent. were extensions added by subscribers to increase the convenience of their service. At the close of 1929, 67.5 per cent. of the telephones in service were in residences.

TO THE DAIRYMEN OF LENNOX COUNTY

Gentlemen:—Elsewhere in this issue you will find an advertisement which we want you to read. We, with the officers of the Dairymen's organization, wish to announce to you that during the year of 1929 the Napanee District Dairymen's Association was organized and grew from a membership of 170. As you are aware, the county meeting, held on December 6th, in the Napanee town hall did not result in electing the organization. Winter and bad roads then followed quickly and continued so that further work to build up a membership has not proceeded. Spring is again here, roads are now open and just before the rush of seeding, let us come together and discuss ways and means of building up a real organization. If you believe in the principle of co-operation, attend.

THE LIGHTS WERE OUT

On Sunday afternoon there were a lot of disappointed people who gathered at Wonderland Theatre, to attend the Forum meeting. When they found the electric power off, Hydro had shut off the electricity. So that it was impossible to have the meeting. The committee in charge was disappointed that they were not able to carry out the plans they had a specially fine programme. But they were not responsible and knew nothing of the intention of the Hydro. Everybody realizes how difficult it is for the Hydro to get time to make repairs and on Sunday they were putting in another connection, so, if anything else goes wrong with the Hydro has an auxiliary main to draw on.

Next Sunday, the meeting will be held as usual, there will be the good music and Mr. Wilson will speak on the subject of "Safety First." There is no admission to these meetings. All men are welcome. They are held in Wonderland Theatre every Sunday from three o'clock until four.

JOHN Q. BRANDON SELLS REAL ESTATE BUSINESS

Mr. John Q. Brandon announces the sale of his real estate and land business in Humboldt, Sask., to Mr. Joe Blanch, who is now in possession, and will carry on the business as before. Mr. Brandon wishes to thank his many friends and business associates for their many favors and the pleasant business relations, and trusts the same generous patronage will be extended to Mr. Blanch.

The many friends of Mr. Brandon regret to learn that he is leaving Humboldt. He is one of the pioneers of the town. He came here in 1906, attached to the staff of the Dominion Bank as office of the opening of the local office. The following year he left the employ of the government and established an implement business, and in 1908 he opened up in the real estate and insurance business. Through extensive advertising the name of Jno. Q. Brandon, the land man, has become a by-word through the district. Always a booster, he was behind any movement that would help the interests of the town or district. Mr. Brandon established the original site of Humboldt beach at Waldon Lake. Humboldt's popular summer resort, and did a good deal to develop the same. He served in various positions on the Board of Trade, the High School Board and other organizations. He expects, after a two week-end for Vancouver to reside. Mrs. Brandon and family have been at the coast city for the past year.

The dining room of the Windsor Hotel was taxed to capacity on Thursday when a complimentary smoker was staged. The event was attended by a large number of old-time residents of the Humboldt district to bid farewell to Mr. Brandon.

R. Telfer, who presided, voiced the opinion of the whole community in regretting the departure of Mr. Brandon. Mr. Brandon has always been a leading figure in the district, and his great optimism, and enthusiasm for the development of the Humboldt district. In presenting Mr. Brandon with a fob watch inscribed with the Masonic emblem, and gold chain, Archie Power asked him, on behalf of his old friends to accept the gift as a token of the esteem in which he was held by the people of the Humboldt district. With a community singing, selections by a Humboldt orchestra and cards, a pleasant time was spent.

Mr. Brandon is a Lennox "Old Boy" and his many friends here will be pleased to learn of his success in his western home.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

The County Baseball League has been formed and four teams have entered so far.

* * *

Tamworth, Adolphustown, Gibbard's and either Marlbank or Forest Mills, have announced their intention to enter. There will be a meeting this Friday to make the final arrangements.

* * *

Napanee cannot play baseball again until they pay a fine to the O. B. A. A. of around $250. So the team, this year, will be under Gibbard management, although a few town men may be used.

* * *

Games will be played on Saturday afternoon. This day suits the outside teams better and for the past year the factory boys have been taking their holiday on Saturday.

* * *

A seven team league has been formed, west of here, between Trenton, Picton, Point Anne, Bellerille, etc. and the locals were invited to enter. But this loop would require two games a week occasionally and besides they had already decided to enter the County League.

* * *

It is several years since Gibbard's have knotted out a ball team, but some of the old gang are still around and they should give the rest of the entries a lot of trouble.

* * *

Chuck Cairns will likely do the catching. Charlie is one of the best back-stops around; he's played in Odessa ever since he was big enough to carry a decker.

* * *

Freddie Bentley will likely get a pretty steady job on the pitching staff unless his arm has gone to pieces playing basketball or something.

* * *

Then there is Jack Stewart, on third, Twin Johnson for second, or short, and Ray Huffman in the field and Jimmy Naphin, Ted Bentley, Roy Wilson, Bert Searfe, "Wag" Loucks, Arnold Rogers and many others to take up the other berths.

* * *

From the town, George Reid, Eddie Watts, Maurice Kinsley, Jimmy Fraser, Ross Lougks and others, will likely try out for a position.

* * *

Due to the fact that it is so long since baseball has been played here, there are doubtless many younger fellows who may earn a job, too. It may be that some of the old-timers will have to watch their step or they will find themselves warming the bench.

AUSTRALIAN APPLES ARE DRIVING CANADIAN OFF OLD COUNTRY MARKET

Australian and New Zealand apples are likely to edge out Canadian and American apples in European competition in 1930 as they did in 1928, since the foreign fruit arrives in Europe ahead of the shipments from Canada and the United States.

Total shipments of apples from Australia and New Zealand will probably be more than double those of last year and will likely exceed the record exports of 1928, when aggregate shipments reached nearly 5,000,000 boxes, according to reports of the Empire marketing board.

So far as competition with late shipments of Canadian and American cold storage apples is concerned, it appears that the situation this spring will be similar to that in 1928. In that season Australia and New Zealand apples arrived in Europe earlier than usual in larger quantities and left little room for North American apples after April 1st.

The exports from New Zealand are expected to be around 1,200,000 boxes or over twice as large as either of the past two seasons. In Australia the greatest increase is expected to be from Tasmania which is estimated to have an exportable surplus of 1,600,000 boxes or over 1,600,000 greater than last year. A bumper crop is expected from Victoria indicating that around 800,000 boxes of apples will be exported as compared with negligible exports last year.

In recent years shipments to the Continent from Australia and New Zealand have increased considerably. In 1928 the United Kingdom took about 80 per cent. of these apples as compared to 65 per cent. last year. This is accounted for to a considerable degree by the large crop last year in Western Australia which state usually sends the greater part of its exports to Europe.

Shipments of pears from Australia and New Zealand should reach 300,000 in 1930.
